MEXICO 'PEACE' COSTLY IN BOTH MONEY, LIVES

Estimate $100,000,000 as U. S. Bill to Date—Washington Hushes It.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—[Special.]—The ravages of "peace with Mexico" might be mistaken for the ravages of war by the undiscriminating, according to figures which in the course of a week's patient endeavor I have extracted from the war department.

The activity of the resurrected Villa, who now is threatening President Wilson's punitive expedition, indicates that the United States has barely made a start on its campaign "to take Villa, dead or alive," yet this initial effort already has cost the nation approximately $100,000,000, practically crippled the national guard, caused the death of sixty officers and privates, and the retirement on furlough of hundreds of others for disability.

TRY TO SUPPRESS FACTS.

I am making these facts public against the wishes of the administration, which is averse to subjecting the cost of "peace with Mexico" to that "pitiless publicity," once advocated by the president. The war department was particularly interested in suppressing the facts concerning the ravages of peace among the officers of the regular army.

When I inquired of the commanding officers having jurisdiction of the matter I was informed that "only two or three" army officers had been retired from the service because of physical disability originating in disease or injury while in Mexico with the Pershing expedition or on border duty.

TWENTY OFFICERS RETIRED.

After several days' investigation however, I am in possession of the names of twenty regular army officers retired from the service for disability between May 23 and Oct. 11.

Ten regular army officers have been killed in action or have died from wounds or disease in Mexico and on the border since May 14.

Leaves of absence for sickness or other disability were granted thirty-one regular army officers up to Nov. 21. Twelve leaves of absence were extended.

In the national guard 459 officers were allowed to resign for various causes after they reached the border. Of these 117 were physically disabled. The remainder were allowed to resign because they had families dependent upon them.

RESIGNATIONS BY STATES.

The states in which there were the greatest number of resignations were: New York, 85; Illinois, 26; Alabama, 26; Pennsylvania, 24; Iowa, 22; Texas, 19; Kentucky, 19; Georgia, 17; Michigan, 16; Connecticut, 15; Virginia, 14.

So many leaves of absence for sickness and other physical disability were granted to national guard officers that the war department has been unable to tabulate the figures. These leaves were several hundred in number.

These figures on physical disability in the border forces represent only the most serious cases among the officers. The number of enlisted men who were killed, who died of wounds or disease, and who were stricken with illness is several times greater than the number of officers.

WORSE THAN INDICATED.

Altogether the figures indicate that conditions affecting the health and welfare of the troops in Mexico and on the border were considerably worse than represented by the war department. Army officers say that the percentage of physical disability is "rather high" for troops not actually engaged in warfare.

The extraordinary expenditures on the Pershing expedition alone have now reached a total of $15,000,000.

More than $50,000,000 has been expended on the mobilization and equipment of the national guard and several large items of expense are still unaccounted $100,000,000 CONSERVATIVE.

Army officers say that $100,000,000 is a conservative estimate of the outlay on the punitive expedition and the defense of the border since the Columbus raid last March.

The Vera Cruz expedition, which failed to compel Huerta to salute the flag, cost $12,000,000, and after that the government spent several millions more in getting Americans out of Mexico.

One in New York, Other in Philadelphia; Men Are Seized and Held.

New York, Dec. 2.—Two men were arrested today for trying to see President Wilson. The avowed object of one was murder. The second man taken said he wanted to hand the president a letter.

The second arrest was made tonight in the Waldorf-Astoria, where the president was the guest of honor at a banquet in connection with the celebration of the Statue of Liberty illumination. The man said his name was Jacob Achs. He said he was an Austrian by birth, but had lived in America eighteen years. The man was seized as he was about to enter the banquet hall. When an explanation was demanded of him he would only say:

"I have a letter to deliver to the president."

One Assailant Has Knife.

The first arrest was made in the afternoon in the Reading terminal in Philadelphia.

The prisoner gave his name as Jonathan Kraus, no home.

The man appeared before the president's train arrived at 1:30 o'clock, but made a mistake in stations.

Matted hair fell over his shoulders and he continually muttered to himself. Suddenly he drew the knife, leaped upon a man leaving the station, and shouted:

"You're the president! I shall kill you!"

Police Chase Assailant.

Dropping baggage and hat, the stranger went down the steps three at a time, his assailant close behind. Women and children rushed in all directions, screaming for help.

Three reserve policemen leaped upon the man, but he fought for ten minutes before handcuffs could be adjusted.

"I prayed on the steps of this city hall," he said, "before I started out on my mission—to kill Wilson."

"I'll get him yet!" shouted Kraus as he was led to a cell, "and J. P. Morgan, Rockefeller, and all those fellows. They're keeping the cost of living high and the war going."

Victim of Drink, Lack of Food.

After a preliminary examination by police surgeons, Kraus, bound and handcuffed, was transferred to the Philadelphia hospital for observation. Physicians believe he had eaten no food for several days, and this, with drink, affected his mind.

President Wilson's train did not go within two miles of the Reading terminal.

NO PEACE TILL ALL ARE FREE, WILSON WARNS

Pleads for World Freedom—Speaks as Statue of Liberty Is Lighted.

New York, Dec. 2—President Wilson, speaking tonight at the banquet which was the culmination of the celebration in honor of the permanent illumination of the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor, declared that he had thought for the last two years that "peace is going to come to the world only with liberty."

"The peace of the world," Mr. Wilson added, "is not going to be secured by the compacts of nations, but by the sympathies of men."

The president declared that the United States has a community of ideas with France, whose people presented Bartholdi's statue to the United States, because "one republic must love another."

SAYS GROUP RULE FAILS.

The president spoke of the significance of the statue of liberty to the immigrants. He said he wondered whether the spirit typified by the statue is truly represented here. The president said he noticed that the source of light for the statue "comes from the outside."

"The only light," he added, "that we can contribute to the illumination of the world is the light that shines out of our own lives. We must illustrate liberty in our lives. With all due respect for those who represent other nations not governed as ours, I do not think that nations ruled by small groups of men can be successful.

"The world is enlightened by ideas and ideals and the sacrifice of men enable the world to go forward."

MUST ILLUSTRATE LIBERTY

"There are many moving circumstances connected with the ceremonies of this day, connected with the things it recalls, connected with the things it suggests," the president said. "I was reflecting, as we saw the light stream upon that beautiful statue, that its source was outside the statue, that it did not proceed from Liberty, but proceeded from the light we were throwing upon Liberty.

"It occurred to me that after all it was a proper symbol of our life, because we can take to ourselves the dignity of liberty only as we illustrate the fact and the true spirit of liberty, and the only light that we can contribute to the illumination of the world is the light that will shine out of our life as a nation upon that conception and upon that image.

"There is a great responsibility in having adopted liberty as our ideal, because we must illustrate it in what we do.

PEACE ONLY WITH LIBERTY.

"Throughout the last two years there has come more and more into my heart the conviction that peace is going to come to the world only with liberty.

"With all due and sincere respect for those who represent other forms of government than ours, perhaps I may be permitted to say that peace cannot come so long as the destinies of men are determined by small groups who make selfish choices of their own.

"Our long standing and delightful friendship with the people of France has come from a community of ideals and identity of purpose. One republic must love another republic, just as one body of human beings must understand and sympathize with another body of human beings. There is a common pulse in us all; there is a common contact with life; there is a common body of hope; there is a common stock of resolution.

NO PEACE BY COMPACTS.

"All the world over the life of the individual means the same thing to him. It means opportunity not only, but it also means his relationship to others, and he comes to his full dignity only when he stands upon the level with others, and looking in his neighbor's eye knows that he belongs with him to a common, free community of purpose and thought and action. The peace of the world is not going to be assured by the compacts of nations, but by the sympathies of men.

"When I see the statue of liberty and think of the thrill that must come into some hopeful heart as for the first time

CABINET CRISIS STIRS UP LONDON

Press Criticism of Unwieldy War Council to Bring Change—Asquith to Remain.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The political crisis, which is the newspaper sensation of the hour, is generally believed to mean the future control of all war measures, both military and economic, by a cabinet directorate of five, advised by Gen. Sir William R. Robertson, chief of the imperial staff, and Admiral Sir John R. Jellicoe, first sea lord.

The question of the resignation of Premier Asquith to give place for David Lloyd-George or Andrew Bonar Law, also is discussed, but that Mr. Asquith will resign appears improbable. The premier had a long audience with the king today, which furnishes a basis for the afternoon papers to predict his resignation. But he would consult with the king as a matter of course over any important government changes.

War Council Too Cumbersome.

A war council was formed in the cabinet last year but the minimum number of five, which Mr. Asquith then announced, has been exceeded and the popular impression is that the council has been largely a failure because all of its decisions were subject to debate and ratification by the full cabinet.

The forecast of the new war council —Premier Asquith, David Lloyd-George, Andrew Bonar Law, Arthur J. Balfour, and Sir Edward Carson—still stands, but doubts are expressed whether Sir Edward Carson, who resigned from the cabinet a year ago because he was dissatisfied with the government's policy in the Balkans, when Serbia was being hard pressed, will rejoin.

All Papers Are Critics.

While the Northcliffe press and the Morning Post have made the fiercest assaults, even such careful speaking journals as the Daily Chronicle, the Westminster Gazette, and the Manchester Guardian have recently become critical. The trend of discontent has been partly against the government system, partly against certain members of the cabinet.

Slowness in reaching decisions and inaction is the gist of the indictment. The principal counts of this are the man power and food questions, while recently dissatisfaction with what some considered a want of vigor in the management of the navy and weakness in the foreign office has been increasingly expressed.

Fight by Northcliffe Papers.

The part played by the Northcliffe papers in the crisis and the attitude assumed by other journals are summarized below:

In its first editorial the Times says:

"We have reached the turning point in this titanic struggle. Victory may still be remote, but it was never more absolutely within our power. Nothing can postpone it but a government which fails through sheer unwieldiness and irresolution to take advantage of its opportunities."

Attacks Cabinet Members.

The Daily Mail devotes a long editorial to an attack on Asquith, Grey, Lansdowne, Bonar Law, Runciman, and McKenna. Bonar Law, it says, is responsible for depriving the nation of its one constitutional safeguard—an alternative administration.

Good Fellows:—

When you read this letter you will know that Christmas is crowding the calendar, that Good Fellow time is here.

This is the eighth time this summons has been addressed to your ever increasing tribe, which has registered over 60,000 members in the last eight years.

You remember the first call came in December, 1909. The original Good Fellow came into The Tribune office that year and brought with him his letter and the Big Idea.

That idea jumped city, county, and state boundaries. It grew as it spread; it developed as it took hold; it kicked over creed, class, race, and color; it made brothers of overalls and silk hats. It proved that it was the Big Idea.

SEVEN CHAPTERS OF GOOD CHEER.

For seven years The Tribune has placed the original Good Fellow's suggestion before its readers and for seven years the annual responses have been receipted for in the big, round eyes of happy children, the joy tears of thankful parents, the cheer chapters of unfortunate lives, and, as much as anything else, in the heart glow that comes to the Good Fellows.

Now, then, is the proverbial fair weather that is the get-together time for all Good Fellows. Not with a stein on the "tay-bul," or "highballs rollin' on the ground," but with a name on the Good Fellow register, a bunch of needy, expectant kiddies in the poor people's homes, wondering what happiness you are going to bring into their lives this year.

SPEED BECOMES THE WATCHWORD.

But here's something startling. There are only three weeks left in which to do the work. So SPEED is the word. The Good Fellows of the last seven years have got to jump on the job in a jiffy. Grab the coupon on page 12 and fill it out.

If you can't find it take paper and pencil and write to the Good Fellow department in room 1106, The Tribune. If you are in a rush, grab a phone and do it now. The bureau will be opened at 8:30 tomorrow morning for business.

HERE IS OUTLINE OF BIG IDEA.

Here's the Big Idea just as the first Good Fellow put it over:

> Neither you nor I get anything out of this except the feeling that you have saved some child from sorrow on Christmas morning. If that is not enough for you, then you have wasted time in reading this—it is not intended for you, but for the Good Fellows of Chicago.
> Perhaps a 25 cent doll or a 10 cent toy wouldn't mean much to the children you know, but to the child who would find them in the otherwise empty stocking they mean much—the difference between utter disappointment and the joy that Santa Claus did not forget them.
> Here is where you and I get in. The charitable organizations attend to the bread and meat, the clothes, the necessaries; you and the rest of the Good Fellows furnish the toys, the nuts, the candies—the child's real Christmas.

YOUR REWARD IS SATISFACTION.

No charity about that. No publicity in it for you. It isn't that at all. You get something that you can't buy—it is that inside feeling of satisfaction, a million times greater than the delicious tingle you experience when you know that your friends all swear by you as a jolly good fellow.

Call personally, telephone, or write to the Good Fellow bureau of The Tribune for the names of kids. They will be furnished promptly. They will be deserving families whose needs have been investigated and are known to The Tribune. The kids will be listed on your card—with names and ages. After you get the names it's up to you. You do the selecting; you're the Santa Claus. You may spend as much or as little as you please; you are going to do something for somebody in the best old way in the world—your own way.

Do it your own way and do it NOW.

ARCHBOLD HAS RELAPSE; HIS CONDITION IS SERIOUS.

Orders Rushed to New York Chemists for Special Medicine to Build Up Constitution.

New York, Dec. 2.—[Special.]—John D. Archbold is very ill in his home at Tarrytown. This morning he had improved so greatly through the blood transfusion of the day before that his family believed him out of danger. Toward noon there came a relapse.

A consultation of physicians who are attending the Standard Oil magnate was called. Shortly thereafter a message was rushed to chemists in New York for special medicine.

Mr. Archbold's condition late tonight, according to the family, was "serious," but it was said he was "holding his own."

ROBBERS POUND HER COIF IN VAIN

Mrs. Douglas Routs Pair, Who Then Get Safely Past Patrolman.

Mrs. Pearl Douglas resides on the second floor of 63 East Twenty-second street. She stepped out into her hall yesterday afternoon to the speaking tube.

"Hello, John, is that you?" she said into the receiver.

"Well, how did you know?" inquired a voice in her ear. "John's my name, all right. And now, auntie dear, throw up your hands like a good old soul."

Mrs. Douglas turned to confront two young men who had slipped unheard up the carpeted stairs. They had guns.

"'Auntie!' 'old!'" screamed Mrs. Douglas. "I'll teach you to insult a young woman like me."

Clinches with Robbers.

And pushing aside the revolvers she flung 165 pounds of indignant femininity upon one of the astonished robbers and clasped him around the neck, while the other thief stood by too thrilled to shoot.

"Hit her on the nut," yelled the one upon whom she had fastened herself.

Now it happened that Mrs. Douglas' golden hair was done up in a sumptuous coil on the top of her head. Upon this shimmering cushion the thief rained his blows in vain. Mrs. Douglas didn't even feel the blows.

At least she said so afterward.

The commotion brought Lucile Brown, Grace Willard, and John Douglas from their apartments. The robber stopped wasting his energy upon the shining proof-armor of Mrs. Douglas' hair, and, at the point of his gun, backed the trio into a pantry and locked them in.

Roll Down Stairs.

At this juncture Mrs. Douglas and her burglar, still locked together, stumbled over the brink of the stairs and—thump-thump—step by step, fighting and clawing, rolled—bump-bump—to the bottom. The force with which they hit the ground floor jolted Mrs. Douglas loose from her prey. The thief broke away and dashed out upon the street almost into the arms of South Park Policeman John Parker.

"Hey, officer," cried the burglar, "they's a guy beatin' his wife up there."

So the policeman rushed upstairs on a false clew, as the other thief leaped from the back porch and escaped down an alley.

"And there wasn't," said Mrs. Douglas, adjusting her coiffure, slightly disarranged by the blows from the robber's revolver, "and there wasn't more than 30 cents in the place."

DEMANDS MONEY AT DOOR; KILLED BY HOUSEHOLDER.

Story of Extortion Attempt Told Police by Italian who Fired Fatal Shots.

A man whose name is believed to have been Frank Micotro, 35 years old, was shot and instantly killed early this morning by Joseph Crobeco, 624 South May street, when he appeared at the latter's home and demanded that Crobeco hand over $200.

Crebeco told the police the man visited his home several days ago and demanded the money, saying that refusal meant death. He was told to return this morning.

Shortly after midnight Micotro appeard at ethe front door of Crobeco's home. Instead of receiving the money which he had demanded he was met with the volley of shots which killed him.

BY ARTHUR S. DRAPER.
(Special Cable to The Tribune.)

LONDON, Dec. 2.—On three sides of Bucharest the battle is raging without pause, with the Roumanians successful at some points, the invaders at others.

West of Bucharest the defenders have been pressed back to the Argesu river, while to the northwest the Germanic forces have smashed through the Roumanian lines and are rapidly moving down the Argesu valley from Pitesci and down the Dombovitza from the Campulung region.

To the south of the capital, Ferdinand's troops delivered a powerful counter attack today that forced the Teutons back from the Argesu line and reclaimed the villages of Tzomana and Gostinari.

TWO GAINS BY RUSSIANS.

Meanwhile the great battle in the Carpathians is developing in favor of the Russians. They are reported to have gained a foothold in Kirlibaba, the key to the Rodna pass and the plains of Hungary, and to be attacking successfully at other points on the 250 mile front.

The Russians also have seized the western end of the Cernavoda bridge over the Danube, thus putting a check on any movement of Gen. Mackensen's troops across the river from Dobrudja. Gen. Sakharoff's forces continue their furious attacks along the entire line in the Dobrudja.

DRIVE CANNOT BE HELD.

The greatest reverse suffered by the Roumanians today was in the region northwest of Bucharest. On the roads from Pitesci and in the valley of the Argesu the assaults of the invaders were irresistible. Both Bucharest and Petrograd admit the retirement of Ferdinand's troops in this district.

The odds are greatly against the Roumanians making a successful stand for Bucharest. The recapture of the two villages to the south of the city today was probably due to the fact that they were intended to be lightly held until Gen. Mackensen could be supplied with sufficient big guns to begin the bombardment of Bucharest.

SEEKS TO FLANK ARMY.

BERLIN, via wireless to Tuckerton, N. J., Dec. 2.—The new Russian movement in the Carpathians, along a front of 186 miles is being carried on with great violence, according to the Overseas News Agency. The Russians are attempting to push back the army of Gen. von Arz by strong pressure in order to penetrate once more Transylvania and menace Gen. von Falkenhayn's army on the flank and rear. In accordance with this plan the Russian attacks are being directed principally against the passes leading from Moldavia to Transylvania.

In conjunction with this operation there have been attacks in the Zlota Lipa district and Narayuvka, which were repulsed.

CLYNE SENDS AID TO QUIZ MOTHER OF LOAN SHARK

Mrs. C. M. French's Wealth Believed Source of F. J. Mackey's Riches.

Preparing a federal explosion at the root of the loan shark business, District Attorney Clyne yesterday announced he would send a special agent to question Mrs. C. M. French, the 80 year old widow of Reedsburg, Wis., said to be the nominal head of an immense chain of loan shark offices.

Mrs. French is the mother of Frank J. Mackey, whose income from the scrapings of the poor to pay usurious interest on small loans has enabled him to caper in the society of two continents. Mrs. Mackey, who enjoyed an envious place in London society, died in 1912. Mackey now is around 60 years of age.

Mrs. French in Ignorance.

From Reedsburg last night came word that Mrs. French, because of her advanced age, cannot be questioned in relation to the business conducted with her money. It was said by her friends that she has always been in ignorance of the true state of affairs. Mrs. French is said to believe her money is being loaned in small amounts, but that there is no hint of usury in connection with it.

G. C. Morse, Mrs. French's nephew, who is vice president of a bank in Reedsburg, said Mackey always has been business manager for his mother and that little is known of the real state of the family's fortune. Mrs. French is said in Reedsburg to have been wealthy even before the loan business was started.

Frank Mackey is a frequent visitor at Reedsburg; he was there only a week ago. He is popular in the village, partly because he is a generous spender and also because of his unusual devotion to his mother. There are few of the villagers who are willing to admit that there can be anything improper in the way in which the family fortunes have been gathered.

Mrs. French lives with her chauffeur and maid, and, although feeble, rides through the country on pleasant days.

This never has been denied by Mackey. But Mackey in the past has referred to his mother's $100,000 as a "shoestring" upon which he founded a fortune of millions. It is said that Chicago alone contributes more than $1,000,000 annually to the coffers of the loan sharks in business in the city.

Mackey maintains a number of offices in Chicago, and these are only a part of the combination operating throughout the country. In Reedsburg there is a splendid mansion in which Mrs. French resides, but this is said to have been the choice of Mackey rather than of his mother, whose tastes are said to be extremely simple.

A Life of Ease.

In former years Mackey was an ardent polo player, the associate of social personages, and was even credited with being the companion of King Edward VII. on several social excursions. Mackey is declared to own residences in a half dozen cities, but recently he has been spending most of his time in California, where the climate is most grateful.

Mackey's last general public mention in connection with his business as loan shark was in 1912 when his company was sued by a woman whose piano had been taken from her because of a delinquent $50 payment. He explained that he came to Chicago to visit relatives, but it was notable that the woman was paid $110 in settlement of her suit.

"I don't make loans promiscuously," Mackey has been wont to explain. "I won't lend a man money unless his wife signs the mortgage. The interest is a little high but think of the risks I take."

A Deal in Mexico.

Sometimes the important as well as the lowly suffer. Mackey once loaned a Mexican mining company $250,000 at 10 per cent and took over a quarter interest in the mine as well. It was what Mackey called "the rub." District Attorney Clyne said last night he would try to learn if the interstate commerce laws or the postal laws are being violated in the conduct of Mackey's business. It is expected that Mrs. French will be interviewed by federal agents tomorrow.

Mrs. Mary Walker Sought.

Mrs. Mary Walker is asked to go to the Post Graduate hospital, where her sister, Mrs. Pauline Hill, of 1542 East Fifty-third street, is critically ill. Mrs. Hill is the only member of her family who knows Mrs. Walker's address and Mrs. Hill is reported unconscious.

CHILDREN HELPING CHILDREN

Youngsters in Convalescent Home Doing Needle Work.

Anna Marazak
Alka Kripelka

Youngsters in the Convalescent Children's home at Prince's Crossing are putting in their best licks with needles and sewing machines to turn out a store of needlework which will be offered on Dec. 6 in the Elizabethan room of the Congress hotel. The sale will be under charge of a bazaar organized by Mrs. William J. Chalmers and many patronesses. Each child will be paid a profit on the work done and thus earn pocket money for Christmas shopping. The success of a like enterprise last year has led Mrs. Chalmers to believe this year's sale will be even more profitable to the little ones.

ADAMS EXPRESS COLLECTOR REPORTED ON MISSING LIST.

Thomas McNulty Disappeared with Large Sum of Money, Police Are Told.

Ten persons were reported missing to the police yesterday. They were:

ELINA LAIN, 16 years old, Bloomington, Ill.

IVAN COLE, 18 years old, Bloomington, Ill.

SCARED OFF HIS STOOL? NO!

George Errington of 2438 West Jackson boulevard, night agent at the California avenue station of the west side elevated, fell off his stool when two robbers poked revolvers at him through the wire work of his cage last evening.

He landed on the electric alarm device. The lights in the station went out and an alarm bell jangled. The robbers fled.

"It was just a little trick of mine," Errington, who lives at 2438 West Jackson boulevard, told the police. "It worked. Frightened? No."

Thirty-eight new arc lights for bridge approaches and thirty-five red danger lights for municipal viaducts will be provided for in the 1917 city budget, if the plans of Commissioner of Public Works Moorhouse are adopted.

IT'S ARIZONA NOW; BUT—ARID ZONE AFTER MONDAY

Meanwhile Grand Rush Is On as the Boys Stock Up Against "Bone Dry" Days.

Phœnix, Ariz., Dec. 2.—Arizona's final rush to stock up with liquor before Gov Hunt issues his proclamation on Monday, making Arizona "bone dry," is causing the express companies to work day and night.

Liquor is arriving by the carload in some towns, and express invoice slips resemble city directories.

It is estimated that $100,000 worth of liquor was received in Phœnix alone today. Most of this is from Los Angeles. The new prohibition law does not prohibit the possession of liquor, but halts shipments into the state after Monday.

EXPECT DEATH ANY MOMENT

Miss Eberley's Physicians See No Chance to Save Teacher's Life.

Physicians at the county hospital momentarily expect the death of Miss Nellie Eberley, a teacher, who contracted spinal meningitis while at her duties among the crippled children of the Spalding school. She has showed insufficient strength to support hope of a rally.

SALESMAN ROBBED OF $200

Louis Mueller Victim of Auto Robbers as He Is Driving Home with Day's Receipts.

Louis Mueller, a tea and coffee salesman, was robbed of $200 last night by two automobile bandits at Chicago and Kenton avenues. The robbers drove alongside his wagon as he was going home with his day's receipts and one of them pointed a revolver at him and took the money.

SOL LEWINSOHN, BANK WRECKER, TAKEN IN EAST

New York Arrest May Bare Jack Johnson's U. S. Hiding Place and Air Scandal.

Sol Lewinsohn, Chicago bank wrecker, straw bondsman, and friend of Jack Johnson, Negro pugilist, was arrested in New York yesterday.

Jack Johnson is believed by government authorities to be in the United States. The colored fighter, it is thought, has slipped out of New York, where he is supposed to have landed, and is hiding in some inland city.

"We expect to have Johnson under arrest in a short time," said United States District Attorney Charles F. Clyne last night.

Under Prison Sentence.

The Negro who wrested the heavyweight championship from Tommy Burns in Australia and later beat James J. Jeffries at Reno is wanted in Chicago on a "white slave" charge. He jumped his bonds after being sentenced to Leavenworth penitentiary.

Lewinsohn's return will cause a panic, it is said, among certain persons in Chicago and elsewhere. He is said to have secrets in his keeping upon which the liberty of men once high in official life may depend.

"Sollie" Lewinsohn, a brother of Dave Lewinsohn, proprietor of the Congress café, arrived in this coutnry on Sept. 1. He had been in England for a year. Government agents have known of his presence in New York. They kept him under a constant "shadow," but did not arrest him because they hoped he would lead them to Johnson's hiding place.

Held on Fugitive Warrant.

Lewinsohn was arrested at Twenty-third street and Broadway by Special Agents Scully and Gregurevich of the department of justice on a fugitive warrant. He will be given a hearing tomorrow after which, it is expected, he will be returned to Chicago.

Lewinsohn fled from Chicago in November, 1913, after the Traders bank, Thirty-first street and Michigan avenue, of which he was founder and sole proprietor, had passed into bankruptcy. He went, it was thought, to Canada, and then to England, where, it is said, he had his residence in Stanley Gardens, London. He became a well known figure in The Strand.

In English Jail.

While in England he became involved with the authorities and was for a while in prison. He was acquitted of the charge, which, it is said, had to do with fraud in connection with bond sales.

Lewinsohn gained notoriety when the government began an investigation of professional bondsmen in the federal courts here. It was brought out that he was on a number of bonds that had been forfeited. Judge K. M. Landis ordered him barred from the federal building.

Lewinsohn offered himself as surety for Johnson, but Judge Landis would not accept him. He arranged the heavy bond which the pugilist subsequently jumped. Johnson also fled to England.

Flight Starts Scandal.

The flight of Johnson precipitated a scandal. Lewinsohn was shown to have scattered bank checks generously among federal officials. Some of these checks were to Commissioner Mark A. Foote, Harry A. Parkin, special assistant to the attorney general; Herbert Sims, brother of former District Attorney Edwin W. Sims, and Ben Davis, a former assistant district attorney; Charles F. DeWoody, former chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice here, also was mentioned in connection with transactions with Lewinsohn. The men who had received Lewinsohn's checks explained them by saying they had borrowed money from the private banker.

Tells of $30,000 Slush Fund.

Mrs. Rachael B. Lewisohn, wife of the fugitive, said that Johnson had given her husband $30,000 to be paid to government officials. Some of this money, she said, had been lost by Lewisohn in gambling operations in the bucket shop of Sid McHie.

When first arrested on the "white slave" charge Johnson was placed under $30,000 bond. This was reduced to $15,000. His bond was signed by Matthew Baldwin of Evanston.

Color is given to the report that Johnson is in this country by a recent press dispatch which said he had sailed from England to South America, planning to return to the United States.

Brother Not Surprised.

Dave Lewinsohn was not surprised when told that his relative had been arrested.

"Sol has been in New York for about a year," said Dave. "Chicago people who met him there told me he had made up his mind to come back. I know nothing about his wanderings and am not interested.

"Government officials have told me they had 'nothing on' Sol, and I don't expect he will be prosecuted.

"Several months ago I heard indirectly that Sol was trying to make a stake, so that he could settle with the depositors of his bank."

Archbishop Germanos, Metropolitan of Baalbec Syria

Germanos, metropolitan archbishop of Baalbec in Syria, yesterday told a group of Chicago business men, who had acted on the local committee for Armenian and Syrian relief, of his plans to found a great agricultural college in Syria at the close of the war. The meeting was held in the office of Rufus C. Cowes.

The archbishop will assist this morning in the dedication of the Church of Holy Mary, a Greek orthodox church in Chicago Heights. He represents the apostolic orthodox church of Antioch, having his cathedral in Jahley Levanos.

"We are to found an agricultural college which shall do much to bring the orient back into its own as a chief source of the food supply of Europe," said the archbishop. "There are untold riches in Syria, and through the work of spreading knowledge from this college we shall teach our people how to make them of great avail; America has all through this terrible strife been the bread of the world. We shall soon return to that task which it is fitting that we should undertake."

The machinery and equipment for the college are to be purchased in America, and the faculty will be composed of young Syrians who are studying in America, France, and Egypt.

OFFERS HIMSELF FOR ANTI-MEAT DIETING TESTS

Editor Watt of Music News Wants Vegetarian Squad Formed by Robertson.

Health Commissioner John Dill Robertson was asked yesterday to organize a vegetarian diet squad as soon as the present group finishes its tests. The man who made the request also volunteered to serve on the squad.

The volunteer vegetarian is Charles E. Watt, editor of the Music News. In his letter to the health commissioner, Mr. Watt said:

"I do not believe any test is complete unless it eliminates meat from the menu. Since meat is the most expensive of foods it should be possible to live on, possibly, 30 cents a day if this item is eliminated. I am willing to undertake such a test under your direction at any time."

The Day's Weight Record.

Dr. Robertson had not decided late last night whether he would accept this offer. Meanwhile he continued to simplify the menu of the present squad, and the scales continued to indicate gains in weight. Yesterday's weight record was:

State Inquiry Continues.

Investigators for the state public utilities commission continued their inquiry into foodstuffs held in cold storage warehouses. Chairman William L. O'Connell said the reports are not complete, but they show the quantities of poultry, butter, and eggs now on hand in Chicago are much less than at this time last year.

The reports are being handed over to the United States district attorney for use before the federal grand jury next week.

WARNS, PUT BY A NESTEGG! PRICES TO SOAR IN SPRING.

Michigan State Food Commissioner Says Cost of Living Now Is Not Marker to What Is on Way.

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 2.—Warning that the food cost skyrocketing is just starting was served today by State Dairy and Food Commissioner Helmer of Michigan.

"If you're in difficulties now, watch your step next spring," the commissioner said. "Feed is so high people cannot afford to keep their stock and they are throwing everything on the market now.

"Hens won't lay this time of year, and it's too costly an experiment to winter them. Next spring we'll not only have fewer eggs but fewer hens to lay 'em.

"Prices now aren't a marker to what they will be in the spring."

MOCK PLUM PUDDING.

1 cup grated raw carrot.	2 cup flour.
1 cup grated raw potatoes.	1 teaspoon nutmeg.
	1 teaspoon cinnamon.
	1 teaspoon salt.
½ cup melted butter.	1 teaspoon soda.
1 cup sugar.	2 cups raisins.

Mix carrots, potatoes, melted butter, and sugar, and then add flour, mixed and sifted with the other dry ingredients. Add the raisins that have been dredged with a little of the flour. Steam two and one-half hours, or less if small molds are used.

LYONNAISE POTATOES.

Cook five minutes three tablespoons of butter with one small onion, cut in thin slices; add three cold boiled potatoes in one-fourth inch slices and sprinkled with salt and pepper; stir until well mixed with onion and butter; let stand until potato is brown underneath, fold, and turn on a hot platter. This dish is much improved and potatoes brown better by the addition of two tablespoons of brown stock. Sprinkle with finely chopped parsley if desired.

SUGAR COOKIES.

¾ cup sugar.	2 cups flour.
1 egg.	¼ teaspoon salt.
2 tablespoons water.	¼ teaspoon soda.
½ cup butterine.	½ teaspoon vanilla.

Cream butter, add sugar, eggs, and water which have been beaten together. Mix and sift dry ingredients, and add to first mixture. Flavor, roll thin, sprinkle with granulated sugar. Cut and bake in a moderate oven.

BEGINS FIGHT IN NEW YORK AGAINST PRODUCE 'CHANGES

State Market Commissioner Announces Plans to Reduce High Cost of Food.

New York, Dec. 2.—A declaration of war on the butter and egg and mercantile exchanges was made today by John J. Dillon, state commissioner of foods and markets, in his efforts to cut the high cost of food.

Mr. Dillon said he would try to close these exchanges by obtaining legislation opening them to the public, annulling their charters or by establishing terminal markets to put them out of business. These methods would be tried successively, the commissioner said.

Mr. Dillon also announced that he will fight the system under which dealers give premiums to obtain food products from producers. He added that he would ship several carloads of eggs each week direct from producers to retail dealers, eliminating the middle men. Mr. Dillon is selling cold storage eggs at 35 cents a dozen, he said. The price of cold storage eggs was cut by retailers today to 39 cents a dozen, a reduction of 2 to 3 cents.

MARY HICKEY'S SANITY IS AGAIN PUT IN QUESTION

Prentiss Coonley Tells Why He Acts Against Aged Eccentric.

Mary Hickey, the quaint old woman of Lake Forest, with her goats and other live stock, is again to face trial. Again Prentiss Coonley, against his will, must appear against her.

It was Mr. Coonley some weeks ago who was annoyed by the strange and weird visits of a ghost in his residence. Members of his household found that beds had been occupied strangely, but no guest could be perceived. It was Mary Hickey who, through long acquaintance with the customs of the Lake Forest elite, was able to move about through the spacious Coonley chateau without discovery.

She was taken to court for an inquiry. There were many protests in behalf of the old woman. Mr. Coonley withdrew his complain and Mary was given a home by friends.

Sanity Petition Filed.

But, it is said, she is mostly in trouble. Her goats have been found in strange places and there have been new complaints. Finally yesterday Mr. Coonley, with Chief of Police McGuire and Policemen Sales and Doughan, signed a petition to the County court for an inquiry into her sanity.

"Mary Hickey has not made any personal visits to the homes where she has been forbidden to go," said Mr. Coonley. "But she has been very busy with the telephone. She has called my sister-in-law, Mrs. Edward Hassler, on the telephone several times in the evenings and harangued about her persecution at the hands of Mrs. Hassler and myself. She told Mrs. Hassler she has not been able to get work because of this persecution."

She Talked Incessantly.

"She tried to call Mrs. Coonley and I answered the telephone. I tried to ask her some questions, but she talked incessantly. The notoriety probably has made it hard for her to get work, but she has not worked for years and it is doubtful if she is able to do much work. She is not adequately clothed and fed, and I am afraid there is nothing to expect but death or some other violence unless something is done."

Mr. Coonley told Judge Parsons of Waukegan that he believes Mary will be benefited by a trip to a warmer climate and he offered to buy her a ticket and provide her with money for expenses until she gets work. It is expected the hearing will be called some day this week.

HERE'S CHANCE TO HEAR GOOD MUSIC AT DIME

First of American Symphony's School Concerts Given Today.

BY HENRY M. HYDE.

The Tribune announces a series of [illegible] Sunday afternoon concerts by the American Symphony orchestra, Glenn Dillard Gunn, conductor. They will be held in the auditoriums of schools in different parts of the city.

The concerts are given under the joint auspices of the Civic Music association, the board of education, and The Tribune. An admission charge of 10 cents will be charged, The Tribune making itself responsible for whatever deficit may result.

The first concert of the series will be given this afternoon at the Sabin school, 2216 Hirsch street. The American Symphony orchestra will be assisted by Elizabeth Andersen, soprano, as soloist.

The Program.

The program follows:

Overture, "Midsummer Night's Dream"............Mendelssohn
Pizzicato from the Fourth Symphony............Tschaikowsky
On Rosy Wings of Love (from "Il Trovatore")............Verdi
Elizabeth Andersen.
Suite, "Alice in Wonderland"............De Lamarter
Overture—Alice's Dream—Topsy-Turvy Land—A Quaint Tea Party—The Mock Turtle's Sad Story—The Court of the Knave of Hearts—A Fragment of the Overture.
Valse from "Faust"..........Gounod
"The Star Spangled Banner"............Francis Scott Key
(To be sung by the audience.)

The program will be presented twice during the afternoon, once at 3 p. m. and again at 4:15 p. m., and it is hoped that the auditorium, which seats 1,500 people, may be twice filled.

Close with National Hymn.

By the wish of The Tribune each afternoon's program will close with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by a chorus of school children, accompanied by the orchestra, in which the audience is invited to join.

One may reach the Sabin school by taking a Milwaukee avenue car to Fowler street and then walking three blocks west, or by way of the Metropolitan elevated to North Robey street station and then walking three blocks south and two west.

The second concert of the series will be given next Sunday afternoon, Dec. 10, at the Herzl school, 1433 South Ridgeway avenue, and the third at the Carter Harrison High school, Twenty-fourth street and Marshall boulevard, on Sunday, Dec. 17. The programs will be published later.

Music Throughout City.

In spite of grand opera, the Chicago Symphony concerts and the recitals by great artists, which make Chicago one of the musical centers of the world, it has long been felt that in a city of nearly 3,000,000 people, which covers more than 200 square miles of territory, there is room and need for good symphony concerts which people can attend without being forced to travel long distances from their homes. It is, in fact, estimated that the present great musical features of the season, all centered in the loop district, are supported by not more than 12,000 people.

The concerts arranged for by The Tribune and its associated agencies are intended to supply, to some extent, the evident need for a better distribution of musical opportunities at a nominal cost.

American Musicians.

The American Symphony orchestra is composed almost exclusively of native born musicians or of men who have received their entire musical education in the United States. It is the outgrowth of a campaign for the promotion and popularization of American music and musicians, in which Dr. Gunn, its conductor, has had the leading part. Through its instrumentality, more than fifty American composers have been presented, and some thirty young American singers, pianists, and violinists have been helped to metropolitan appearances.

The Civic Music association has given Sunday afternoon musicals in the school halls for some years and is now increasing the debt of gratitude which the community owes it by uniting with the board of education, the American Orchestra association, and The Tribune in presenting the series of symphony concerts which begins at the Sabin school this afternoon.

A Musical Neighborhood.

"The program of this Sunday's concert is wonderfully good," said Mary J. W. Boughan, principal of the Sabin school, "and it has been distributed through the neighborhood. I am sure the people will come to the concert because this is an extremely musical neighborhood. Our social center is unique in having a class in piano and one in violin. I believe the movement to give this exquisite music to the people of Chicago at such a nominal price is wonderful."

William M. Roberts, district superintendent in charge of night schools and social centers, said: "In many large and congested parts of the city there is no hall for a concert or lecture except the school hall. Such concerts as these would be out of the question in many localities if the board did not open its halls on Sunday afternoon. If it were a money making enterprise I would not be in favor of it, but these concerts are practically a gift to the people."

Loeb Wants More Music.

"I don't think we have paid enough attention to music in the public schools," said Jacob M. Loeb, president of the board of education. "Every schoolhouse should be open on Sunday for the free use of adults. I have said before that the schoolhouse should be the clubhouse of the neighborhood. The throwing open of the Sabin school Sunday afternoon for a concert will be an interesting experiment. To create a desire for good music and to furnish it at a nominal cost will add to the culture, education, and refinement of the people of Chicago."

Lipsky's Comment.

Harry A. Lipsky, chairman of the committee on social centers of the board of education, said: "These concerts are one of the finest activities that can be conducted in the schools and will do as much as or more than any other activity conducted in school buildings to put school extension work on a high plane, to get the confidence of the public in the work, and to secure its approval of the expenditure of money and energy for such purposes.

"Such an activity as singing together by an organized community in a school building is a power that is as great a leveler and democratizer as any that can possibly be found. The time ought not to be far distant when the municipality will endow musical activities to be carried on in school buildings and other public places and relieve private organizations of the necessity of appealing to the public for voluntary contributions."

Miss Norma Katherine Walsh Becomes Mrs. Chester Boyce Feeley at Church Wedding.

Three months ago Chester Boyce Feeley, former half back of the University of Minnesota, met Miss Norma Katherine Walsh at Foster beach. They were to be married on Dec. 15. On Thursday he grew restless. He bought a wedding ring and a marriage license and then tried to secure a dispensation from the archbishop. In his excitement, he left the license and ring where it came to the notice of his mother. Mother Feeley conferred with Mother Walsh.

"There must be a conventional wedding or none at all," said Mrs. Walsh. "Norma is old enough to think for herself, but I shan't stand for this sort of thing."

Yesterday the eager couple was married by Father Crowe at St. Ita's church. Marguerita Marie and Gladys Walsh were the bridesmaids and J. Beverly Kelly was the best man. The Feeleys left last night for Minneapolis, where they will make their home.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Walsh of 1013 Foster avenue. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Feeley of 5238 Winthrop avenue.

SEALED VERDICT RETURNED IN TRIAL OF DETECTIVES.

Jurors Take Only Half an Hour in Reaching Decision in Cases of Charles Gabel and E. Breitsman.

A sealed verdict was returned in the case of Emil Breitsman and Charles Gabel, detective sergeants, on trial before Judge Joseph Fitch on charges of conspiracy to extort money from Stanley Szydlowskis, 309 East Kensington avenue, a saloonkeeper, and William Zemeckis, 242 East One Hundred and Sixteenth street. The jury was out less than half an hour.

The saloonkeeper testified the policemen demanded $50 of him when they forced their way into a room at the rear of his saloon at midnight Sept. 3 and found him, his wife, Smeckis, and two other women. He said the policemen agreed not to arrest them if he would give them $50, and that he paid $30 and Zemeckis $12.

The detectives asserted an attempt was made to bribe them and that they did not accept the money.

BARS RECTOR AT WEDDING.

Dr. McKim's Fling at German Acts in Belgium Stirs Up Embassy at Schoen-Birney Marriage.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—The Rev. Dr. Randolph H. McKim of the Church of Epiphany did not officiate at the marriage today of the Baron von Schoen, secretary of the German embassy, and Miss Catherine Birney of this city because the German embassy decided he had disqualified himself by his Thanksgiving day sermon, in which he assailed Germany for deportation of Belgians. The Rev. C. Ernest Smith of St. Thomas' Episcopal church officiated.

In his sermon the doctor declared "to all their outrages against civilization the Teutonic powers have now added the infamous crime of enslaving a whole population."

The wedding was attended by Count von Bernstorff, Countess von Bernstorff, and members of the embassy staff. Baron von Schoen is about to be transferred to Mexico.

VILLA BEATEN IN 6 HOUR BATTLE, OBREGON SAYS

Reports Rebels Fled in Disorder After Clash South of Chihuahua City.

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 2.—A message received from Gen. Obregon at Mexico City late today gave details of a battle between Gen. Murginia's forces and the Villa troops about thirty miles south of Chihuahua City. The battle took place yesterday, starting at 10 o'clock in the morning and lasting six hours. The Villa men, the message said, were defeated.

The message said the bandit force fled in disorder, some toward Santa Ysabel and others toward Chihuahua City. The Carranza troops pursued them four hours, the message said, capturing three machine guns, many rifles, and some horses.

Many prisoners were taken, the message said, adding that they were executed. The dispatch said Villa's losses were heavy.

Col. Candelario Garza and several other officers were wounded, the message stated. The dispatch declared Villa had 2,500 men.

Three Americans in Chihuahua.

Three Americans were seen at the Mexican Central station in Chihuahua City when the last refugee train left that city for Saus Monday, United States military authorities announced today after interviewing refugees who were declared to be reliable. One of these Americans was said to have been George Brittingham.

The military authorities also announced that fully eighty Chinese were killed by the Villa bandits, according to these reliable refugees, many having had their heads crushed in by being struck with the butts of rifles.

Villa Defeat Confirmed.

Juarez, Mexico, Dec. 2.—An official dispatch from Mexico City that Gen. Murguia had defeated Villa troops that tried yesterday to block his advance and was moving on Chihuahua today, received confirmation here in a report by direct line from Sauz to the effect that Murguia and Trevino had joined forces and were attacking the city on the south today.

Gen. Ozuna is reported to be stationed to the north of Chihuahua City with a strong government force.

Trains, supposed to be filled with loot, were reported leaving Chihuahua west over the line of the Mexico Northwestern several days ago. No Villa bands have been reported north of Sauz, which is twenty-five miles north from Chihuahua City.

Latest Manifesto of Villa.

Laredo, Tex., Dec. 2.—Twenty-six persons, including two constitutionalist generals, Santos and Calzado, were killed by bandits, alleged adherents of Villa, in an attack on a train at Talia, between Torreon and Pareden, Nov. 28, according to reliable information received here tonight. The bandits were sixty in number, under command of Fortunato Salinas. Sixteen of the dead were said to have been acting as a guard for the train.

Salinas lined up and robbed every passenger on the train. He then read what purported to be the latest Villa "manifesto," as follows:

"First—All loyal Mexicans must join the Villa cause and those who refuse will be considered traitors and immediately shot.

"Second—Railroads are to be considered property of the Mexican people and all rights foreigners may heretofore have had are declared void.

"Third—Foreigners after twenty-five years' residence in Mexico must become citizens of the republic or be expelled.

"Fourth—No American citizen can acquire property rights or enjoy any privileges accruing to Mexican citizens."

The bandits then began a promiscuous firing. All the dead are understood to have been Mexicans.

Villa Sends Warning.

Columbus, N. M., Dec. 2.—Villa agents have warned the storekeepers and residents of the section of western Chihuahua occupied by American troops that they must leave the country or be killed and their property confiscated when Gen. Pershing withdraws his forces, civilian truck drivers reported upon their arrival from the field headquarters yesterday.

AVERS HUSBAND DANGLED CHILD OUTSIDE WINDOW

Mrs. B. J. Fitzgerald Also Charges Mate Choked Her—Asks He Be Barred from Selling of Property.

Mrs. Ethel M. Fitzgerald of 2740 Hampden court, filed suit for divorce against Burt J. Fitzgerald yesterday, charging cruelty and intoxication. She also asks that an injunction be issued restraining her husband from disposing of his real estate holdings in Cook county and a 400 acre farm near Gary, Ind.

Mrs. Fitzgerald alleges that at one time Fitzgerald seized their 3 months old son and held him out of the window, threatening to drop the child unless she relented. She also alleges that one time he choked her while they were living at the Plaza hotel, and some guests had to interfere. She further says that because of his conduct while they were living at the Moraine hotel the management requested them to leave.

The Fitzgeralds have two boys, 6 and 5 years old, and the mother asks for their custody.

SHOT POLICEMAN MAY DIE.

Physicians Fear Bruno Fredericks, West Side Gang's Victim, Cannot Live More than Few Hours.

Policeman Bruno H. Fredericks, who was shot five times and beaten Sunday morning at Grand avenue and Sangamon street by a band of thirty gangsters, is not expected to live twenty-four hours, physicians at St. Elizabeth's hospital said late last night. Fredericks had been detailed to keep order at an Italian dance and was beset when he stopped liquor sales at 1 a. m. Nine members of the band are held. One of them, Joseph Bousch, has confessed he fired the shots. He and two brothers were released yesterday on bonds of $48,000, but when Fredericks' condition became critical the bonds were nullified and the trio again locked up.

MRS. HEYWORTH, ICICLE BATHER

South Side Society Woman Snapped Taking a Wintry Dip Which, She Insists, Is a Recipe for Happiness and Beauty.

Mrs. Lawrence Heyworth

A recipe for happiness and beauty and the prevention of ills—a cold plunge in the lake.

Mrs. Lawrence Heyworth and her maid, Frieda, are demonstrating the benefits of winter swimming daily. And it is the ambition of the charming young wife of the south shore society man to continue doing so until the shore is ice bound.

Mrs. Heyworth in summer goes calling, when she chooses, by swimming. She has swum from her home, at 7716 Lake Park avenue, down to Seventy-eighth street to call on friends.

"The water is heavier now and I can't go so far as in October," she said. "I enjoy the exhilaration of a dip in the lake every day immensely, and there is nothing like it for reducing. Why, I've lost seven and one-half pounds without dieting, and I don't need nearly so much sleep. I used to need eight hours, with a nap in the afternoons, but now five hours is sufficient.

"And for ridding one's self of a cold I can recommend lake swimming, even when it snows. The sting of the water leaves nothing in the circulation to be desired."

With face and arms flushed, Mrs. Heyworth bounded away and called back: "We intend to go in until Christmas."

CARRANZA URGES BROAD REFORMS

First Chief Appears Before Mexican Congress Called to Amend Constitution.

Queretaro, Dec. 1, via Mexico City, Dec. 2.—In his address before the constitutional congress tonight Gen. Carranza outlined the reforms he hoped to see embodied in the constitution.

"I come to deliver into your hands reforms necessary for this country," he said. "I promise to conserve the liberal spirit of the old constitution so that the new reforms merely will eliminate the deadwood, throw light on obscure articles, and strike out articles put in by former governments for personal advantage.

"What is desired first of all is to establish the rights of the people to individual liberty. Human liberty must be guaranteed to prevent the government from taking advantage of the excuse of maintaining peace in order to commit crimes. The old constitution was not strong enough to do this, as the liberty of the individual was at the mercy of executives. I hope the new constitution will provide severe penalties for wrongdoing on the part of public officials and make them responsible for their acts.

Puts Judges Above Governors.

"Judges, heretofore only the tools of governors, should have the power to investigate and punish wrongdoing of governors. Guarantees for prisoners accused of crimes heretofore have been worthless. Prisoners have been at the mercy of judges and third degree methods. They should be allowed bonds, and a limit should be fixed to the time trials may be delayed. Good lawyers should be provided for the indigent, and no arrests should be made without evidence sufficient to justify them.

"The old constitution provided for the right of the government to occupy property for public benefit, without the consent of the owners, by paying an indemnity for the same. This is sufficient to allow the government to take large estates and distribute them among small owners, so that the only reform necessary in that part of the old law is to provide that condemnation may be only by executive authority and that judges may deal only with indemnity.

Urges Reforms to Aid Labor.

"One object of the new reforms is to assist labor, and we should set minimum wages and maximum hours.

"I advocate a divorce law which will place the family on the basis of love, not pecuniary interests. The nationality of children born in Mexico to foreigners should be clearly defined.

"You must consider whether the vote should be given to all or limited by educational or property qualifications. I think the vote should go to all, but that it should be taken from those making wrong use of it or those who look with indifference on the affairs of the republic.

"Public instruction must receive attention because knowledge ensures against either anarchy or dictatorship. On the organization of the executive power will depend that the legislative branch shall not become an instrument of the executive. Free discussion without following instructions of the executive or of governors must be assured the legislators, but they must not be given sufficient power to curb the executive in proper execution of his rights.

"A parliamentary régime in the which the executive is a figurehead and the cabinet is selected by congress is not good for Latin-American nations. Direct election of the president will give strength to the government and the nation and the president will not be at the mercy of the legislative power. The best argument against a parliamentary régime is the object lesson furnished by the United States."

Boy at Play Hurt by Auto.

Joseph Sramba, 8 years old, 1421 West Sixteenth street, was struck and slightly hurt by an automobile last night when playing in front of his home. Michael Habing, 1690 Blue Island avenue, driver of the car, carried [illegible] into his home.

YES, MAYBE THERE ARE; AND MAYBE THERE "AIN'T."

Anyway Sergt. Shannahan Certainly Has a Right to His Own Opinion in This Case.

Desk Sergt. Shannahan looked over his blotter in the Stanton avenue police station. The door had burst open and admitted Norman W. Cook of 1438 Rosemont avenue. Mr. Cook was agitated.

"I have been robbed and beaten by a gang of thugs," said Cook in an excited tone.

"Where?" inquired Shanahan, with vast poise and dignified deliberation.

"I had just come out of the Psi Kappa Sigma frat house in Michigan avenue," Mr. Cook pursued.

Sergt. Shannahan turned to a policeman.

"He's lyin'," the sergeant said with grim judicial mien. "There ain't no freight house in Michigan avenue!"

DROP IN CHICAGO CRIME.

Decrease of 22 Per Cent in Last Week Attributed to Police Flying Squads.

Crime decreased 22 per cent last week, according to a report given Acting Chief of Police Herman Schuettler by William Luthardt, his secretary, yesterday. The decrease in crime is due, the acting chief said, to the work of the various "flying squads" which have been arresting criminals on every pretext.

HUGHIE HUGHES ONE OF 2 DEAD IN AUTO RACE CRASH

Two Others at Uniontown, Pa., May Die—Twelve More Injured—Chevrolet Wins.

Uniontown, Pa., Dec. 2.—Hughie Hughes, one of the most prominent American automobile race drivers, and Gaston Weigle, Frank Galvin's mechanician, were killed during the Universal Trophy race on the new U. S. A. speedway here this afternoon.

Frank Galvin, whose machine ran wild, and Elmer Putnam of Uniontown, a spectator, were so badly hurt, it was stated at Uniontown hospital, where they were taken, that they probably will die.

Twelve other persons, among whom was J. E. Hoskins of Chicago, owner of Hughes' car, were hurt more or less seriously when Galvin's car crashed through the press stand at the finish line.

With the wounded taken to the hospital, the promoters started the Dealers' race. It was hardly well under way before a car owned by J. E. Conway blew up, set fire to and burned a small section of the track.

The race continued, the drivers having several narrow escapes as they sped through the thick smoke.

The Universal Trophy race was won by Louis Chevrolet. He negotiated the 112 miles in 1:14:12 2-5, for which he received $1,000. Dave Lewis was second ($700); Ralph De Palma, third ($500); Barney Newgard, fourth ($400), and Milt McBride, fifth ($300).

Press Stand Smashed.

The accident that cost the lives of Hughes and Weigle and which may prove fatal to Galvin and Putnam occurred on the sixty-second lap of the Universal Trophy race.

Hughes had run his car into the guard rail near the center of the speedway because of engine trouble, and had walked to the press stand when Galvin came tearing down the track.

When almost opposite the stand Galvin seemed to lose control of his car and it shot with lightning speed toward the stand which Hughes had reached scarcely a moment before. Hughes saw his danger, but had no chance to escape.

When the victims were picked up it was found that Hughes and Weigle had been killed instantly.

Blast Sets Fire to Track.

J. E. Hoskins, owner of car driven by Hughes, shortly after the accident, said:

"I owe my life to Hughie. Standing near the press box I was warmly grasping him by the hand when with a warning twitch of his wrist I glanced around and saw the Galvin car bearing down upon us. I threw myself flat on the ground and was struck by pieces of wreckage. After it was over I found myself twenty feet from the car. Hughes had been knocked fifteen feet past me and was breathing his last.

"Had it not been for the timely warning of Hughes I would have been a victim, as I was nearer the machine than he was."

CAREER OF HUGHES.

Hughie Hughes, who hailed from England, was known in automobile racing circles as "Lord Hughie," and was one of the veterans of the speed game. He made his debut in twenty-four races and hill climbs and later on campaigned on dirt tracks.

It was in 1911 that Hughes had his greatest racing success. During that year he took first place in races at Elgin, Savannah, and Fairmount park. He also competed in the Vanderbilt cup race, but failed to finish.

He finished third in the Indianapolis race of 1912 and in the same year ran second in the Vanderbilt and took the Aurora cup at Elgin.

In 1914 he won the Potlach trophy. Early this year he campaigned a twelve cylinder car on the Pacific coast, but failed to score any victories.

Galvin in Many Accidents.

Yesterday's accident was not the first in which Galvin had figured. In the 300 mile race at Indianapolis on Memorial day, 1915, Galvin's car turned over on one of the curves. He was kept out of competition for the balance of the year.

MOB TRIES TO LYNCH MAN ACCUSED OF ATTACKING GIRL

Charles Hughes, Saved by Police, Attempts to End Life by Hanging Himself in Cell.

Charles Hughes, 2136 Melrose street, was twice saved from death within a period of two hours last night by the police of the Hudson avenue station.

At 7:30 p. m. Patrolman John Horan heard cries for help on Division street, and found a crowd fighting to get at a man on a back porch. Hughes broke away from the crowd, which ran after him with shouts of "Lynch him! Lynch him!"

Horan caught Hughes and fought off the crowd. The man was taken to the Hudson avenue station and booked on a charge of attacking a 12 year old girl.

Police say he recently was released from Joliet, after serving time for a similar offense. In this case his wife, who later got a divorce, was complaining witness for the child.

Shortly after 9 p. m. Lockup Keeper Schildein found Hughes hanging from the bars of his cell by his suspenders. He was cut down at once, but his condition was so serious that he was sent to the Sceleth hospital at the bridewell.

Blaming loan sharks for his downfall, Frank H. Marsh, former employé of the Saino Fire Door company, 2940 Elston avenue, was arrested yesterday in Detroit on charges of forgery. The checks amount to $200 and all are said to be drawn on the door company.

$1,600 HAUL BY AUTO ROBBERS IN YARDS SALOON

Patrons Lined Up Along Wall and Pay Roll Cash Box Taken from Bar.

Automobile bandits, lured by the prospect of fat Saturday pay envelopes, swung their automatics in the faces of stockyards employés yesterday and whirled away with $1,600.

The robbery was committed in the saloon of Frank Gambala, 4300 South Honoré street. The money was in a cash box. It had been drawn from the bank by Gambala to be used in cashing the pay checks of stockyards employés.

Several employés of the yards were in the place when the robbery took place. Gambala and his assistants were behind the bar. The cash box was in charge of Gambala. The side and front doors opened simultaneously. Two masked men entered at each door. Each man carried an automatic pistol.

Patrons Lined Up Along Wall.

There were few words spoken. Two of the robbers lined up the patrons who stood along the side wall. The other two gave their attention to Gambala and his bartenders.

It became apparent the robbers knew the habits of Gambala in cashing checks of workmen, for there was no attempt indiscriminately to rob the patrons.

"Come across with that cash box," called the leader of the bandits.

Gambala, his hands in the air, instantly complied. He handed over the box. The robbers then ordered the men into a rear room and barricaded the door. Taking the box, they left the saloon, keeping their revolvers in their hands even after they were outside. Then a break was made for an automobile.

Flee in Waiting Auto.

The automobile had been driven up a short distance away. A fifth robber sat in this as chauffeur and kept his motor running. As his companions came out of the saloon he started the car up slowly. The bandits leaped in and before an alarm could be sounded the bandit car sped away and, turning several corners in its flight, was lost to view.

The stockyards station was called and a squad of detectives and reserves was sent out. It is declared that the robbers are men familiar with the locality and with the habits of the workmen in cashing their checks with Gambala.

A Highly Colored Tale of Launcelot, Bravest of Guinea Pigs, and His Untimely End.

O sorrow! O sad!

Launcelot was a guinea pig. Through the chill winters and the balmy summers he has been the guest of the National Pathological laboratories on the twentieth floor of the Mallers building. His sisters and brothers all have been sacrificed to science, but Launcelot's wistful smile and his ingenuous doings earned him life and all its joys. Yesterday Launcelot strayed from the home of the germs and the closets of the fever cultures. He visited the office of Mrs. V. Herrick, a real estate broker. Something frightened him and he ran. He dived into a can of paint. He drank some of it. A tremendous belleighache seized him. He died.

Alas and alack!

ASK REICHSTAG TO END SEIZURE OF THE BELGIANS

Socialists Denounce Action in Their Debate Against the "Man Power Bill."

AMSTERDAM, via London, Dec. 2.—The reichstag today adopted the compulsory civilian service bill, after the third reading, says a dispatch from Berlin. The vote was 235 to 19, and several members did not cast their ballots. The bill as passed, it is added, was not changed after the second reading.

The bill provides that all able bodied males between the ages of 18 and 60 not serving with the colors are liable to labor service in the interest of Germany

Raise Issue of Belgium.

The Socialists took advantage of the debate, the reports continue, to condemn the action of the government in deporting Belgian workers. Deputy Hugo Haase, a Socialist member, said the bill was detrimental to the interests of labor.

"Thousands of workers in occupied regions already have been subjected to compulsory labor," he is reported to have said. "We summon the government to restore freedom, especially to Belgian workers."

Deputy Haase said that neutral governments had protested against placing the Belgians under the provisions of the bill and he condemned the deportations as a violation of international law.

Fears Effect in U. S.

Deputy Wilhelm Dittman, another Socialist, said:

"When the Belgian workers returned from Holland to Belgium Gov. Gen. von Bissing assured those returning that under no circumstances would they be deported to Germany. This assurance has not been kept.

"The Frankfurter Zeitung published a report from Washington to the effect that the Belgian deportations had caused extreme unrest in the United States. That proves the extent of the difficulties which the German government would have to meet in taking such measures and how greatly the promotion of peace is prejudiced thereby."

Helfferich Defends Act.

Dr. Helfferich, in replying, declared that he deplored deeply that the discussion should have arisen, "thereby promoting the business of our enemies." Turning to Deputy Haase, the vice chancellor said:

"The setting of the unemployed Belgians to work is thoroughly consistent with international law. They are not given work which, according to internatonal law, they should not perform. We are only making use of our undoubted rights."

BELGIAN WORKERS APPEAL TO ENTENTE AND NEUTRALS.

Manifesto to Be Made Public Soon, Is Addressed to Laboring Class Outside Central Powers.

HAVRE, Dec. 2.—Belgian workers living in occupied territory have held a secret meeting, at which they drew up a manifesto destined to be brought to the attention of the laboring class in all the entente and neutral countries.

Delegates representing all the unions and the groups of Liberal Catholic socialists attended the meeting.

The text of the appeal has just reached the Belgian government here. H. Carton de Wiart, minister of justice; Emile Vanderveld, minister of munitions, and Paul Hymans of the Belgian government have attested its authenticity and the manifesto will soon be made public.

SIX MORE SHIPS REPORTED SUNK BY LLOYD'S AGENCY.

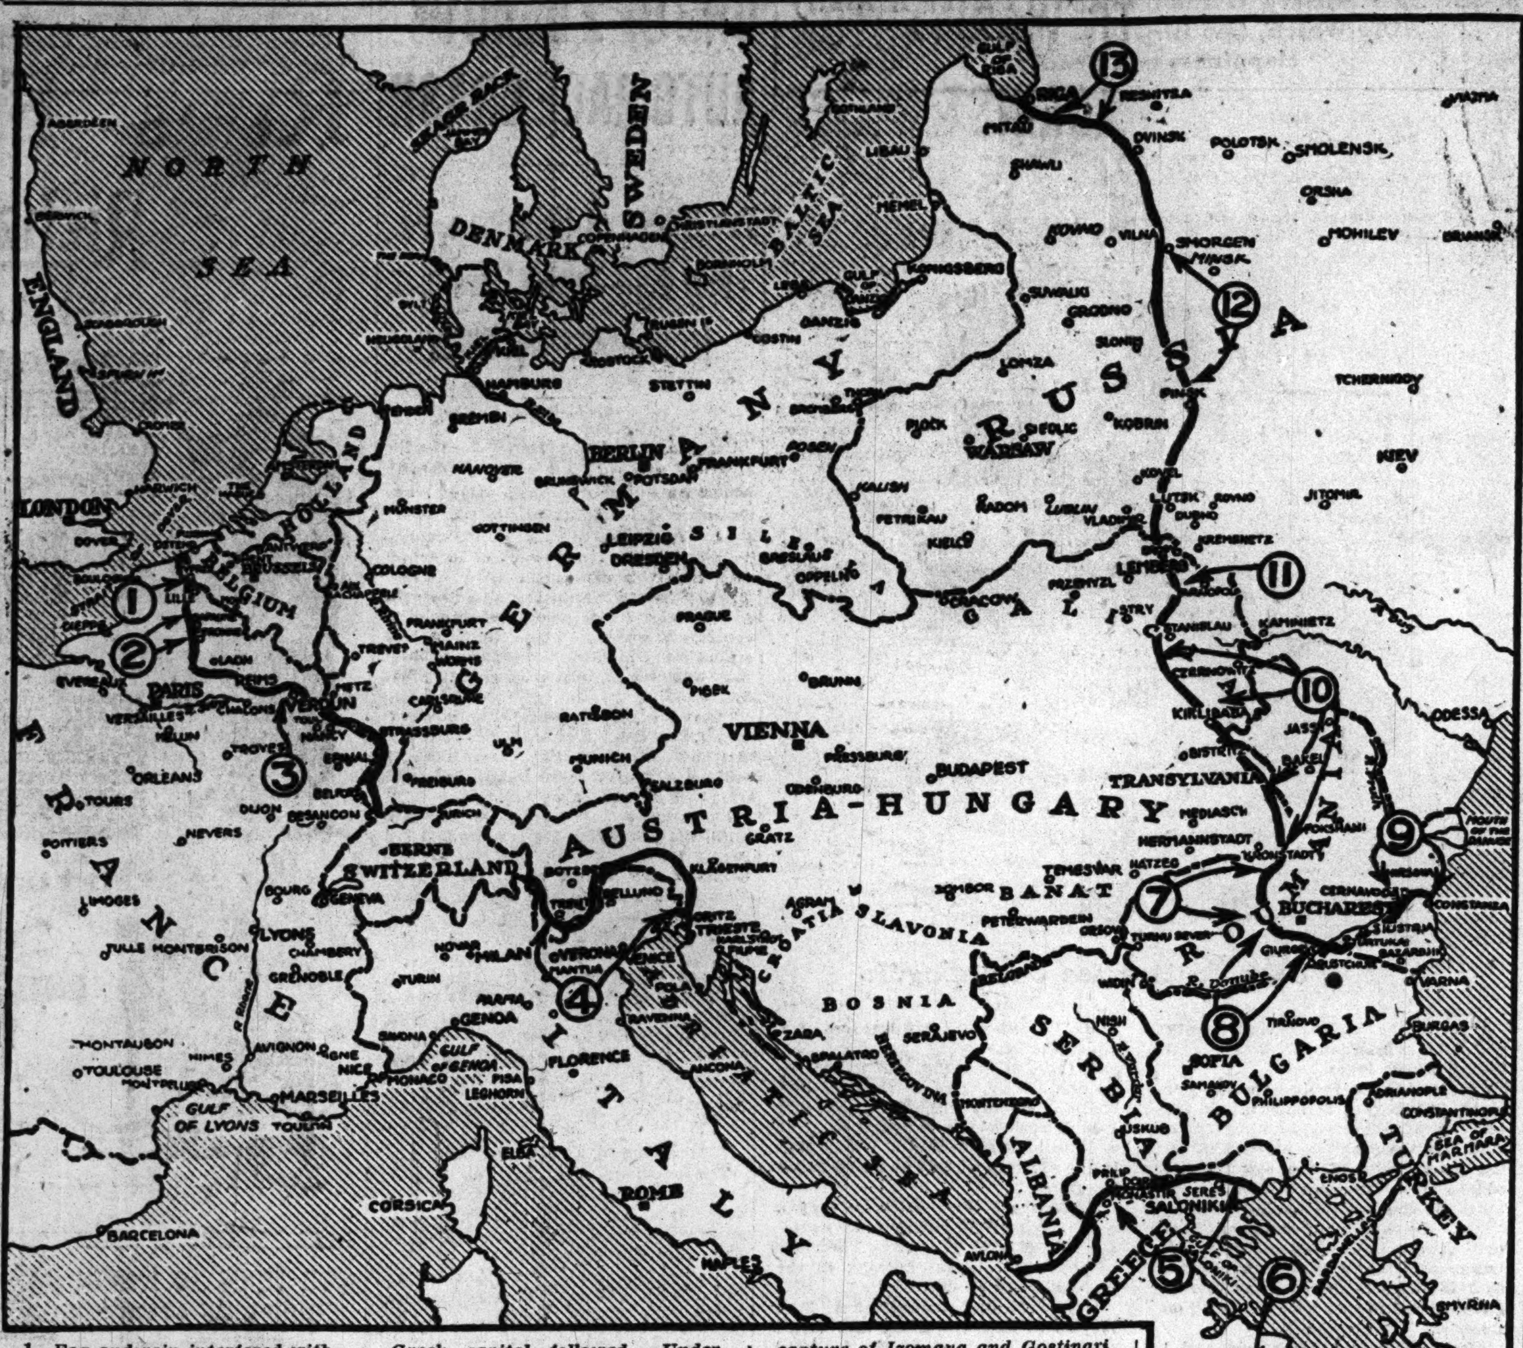
Two British Crews Landed—Fate of Others Unknown—One of Submarine Victims a Neutral Vessel.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Lloyd's today announced the sinking of the French brigantine Indiana, the French schooner St. Joseph, the Swedish steamer Douglas, the Japanese steamer Nagata, and the British steamers Eggsford and Briardene.

The crews of the Briardene and Eggsford have been landed.

The fate of the other crews is unknown.

DEVELOPMENTS OF WEEK ON EUROPEAN BATTLE FRONTS



1—Fog and rain interfered with operations on the west front at the beginning of the week. Later there was considerable activity at the northern end of the line in the vicinity of Ypres, La Basse, Arras, and other points. The British at Ypres attacked on a mile front, but made no gains.

2—On the Ancre and Somme fronts heavy artillery duels prevailed during the week, neither side using their infantry in operations of major importance.

3—There was considerable artillery activity on the Verdun front, with the Germans concentrating their fire in the vicinity of Fort Vaux, as if preparatory to an infantry advance. No infantry actions were reported.

4—Operations along the Italian fronts were confined for the most part to artillery duels, with unimportant infantry actions. Rome reported a repulse of an Austrian attack in the Falla valley Thursday. In the Adige valley and on the Asiago plateau heavy bombardments continued. On the Carso plateau and the Julian front no infantry fighting was reported.

5—Heavy fighting occurred on the Macedonian front, in the region of Monastir, during the early part of the week. Both the entente forces and the central powers made heavy attacks. On the left wing of the allies' line the Italians advanced northwest of Monastir. Serbian and French troops carried the strongly defended German positions on Hill 1050. Berlin reported that the entente offensive had failed.

6—Political developments in Greece led to fighting in the streets of Athens last week. The demands of the entente powers that King Constantine surrender guns and ammunition were refused, and the landing of marines at Piraeus and an advance on the Greek capital followed. Under this pressure the king surrendered to the first of the demands of Admiral Fournet, the surrender of mountain batteries, and the entente forces were withdrawn.

7—Continuing their advance toward Bucharest, the armies of Von Falkenhayn swept the Roumanians from all their Alt river positions early in the week. Outflanked to the south and east, the Roumanians were forced out of their positions at Campulung. Practically without opposition, the Austro-German forces swept through Rotenthurm pass and pushed further back their opponents from Torzburg pass. Southwest and west of Bucharest the Roumanians were forced to give ground in the region of the Arges river, bringing the invaders close to the outer defenses of the capital in this sector. The week closed with a violent combat continuing along this front, the defense of the Roumanians gradually stiffening.

8—Von Mackensen's forces operating along the Danube west of Rustchuk continued their advance on the left bank of the river until south of the capitol. Here, at the close of the week, they were checked by reinforcements of Russians. Petrograd reported the recapture of Izomana and Gostinari Saturday, two towns Von Mackensen had taken a few days ago.

9—The Russians and Roumanians also took the offensive along the Dobrudja front during the week, being aided by the Russian naval forces, which bombarded Constanza and the eastern end of Von Mackensen's line. Little progress was made until the close of the week, when Petrograd announced the recapture of the western part of the long Cernavoda bridge. Bucharest also reported that the Roumanians had penetrated the wire entanglements before the Bulgarian trenches on the Dobrudja front.

10—During the week the Russians developed an important offensive in the wooded Carpathians on a front of 186 miles, in an attempt to flank Von Falkenhayn's army closing in on Bucharest. This attack was launched from Bukowina and Moldavia with a view of forcing the Carpathian passes at Kirlibaba and to the south. The Roumanian armies coöperated in this offensive at Oituz and Buzeu passes, reporting gains. Further to the north the Russians also attacked in the Zlota Lipa district in Galicia.

Reports as to the result of this great offensive differ. Berlin stated only slight gains resulted from tremendous sacrifice of men and material. Petrograd reported the capture of Kirlibaba and a number of important mountain positions to the south. The loss of the strongly fortified positions at Kirlibaba will endanger Von Falkenhayn's left wing, which may be crumpled up and a series of retreats forced by pressure further south at Tolgyes, Bekas, Gyimes, and Oituz passes. Once through these passes, the invasion of Transylvania from the east by the Russians and Roumanians would force the shifting of the Austro-German forces and bring relief to the hard pressed armies defending Bucharest.

12—On the eastern front Russian attacks north of Smorgun nad south of Pinsk were stopped by the Germans.

EUROPEAN LAND NOT SOUGHT BY GERMANY, CLAIM

Cologne Papers Agree Colonial Extension Should Be Peace Price, However.

COLOGNE, via Berlin and London, Dec. 2.—Two of the leading newspapers of Cologne declare today against the policy of the annexation of European territory as peace terms of Germany.

The Koelnische Zeitung asserts that Germany will not annex lands of the people of Europe, but will seek to round out its colonial possessions. Nevertheless, the British evacuation of Calais and the French coast must precede the German evacuation of occupied French territory.

The Koelnische Volkszeitung says:

"France knows that it could recover the occupied territory without the price of blood, but only by renouncing the mirage of revenge and the hope of conquest."

The Volkszeitung, however, thinks Germany should retain a small strip embracing the Briey iron field. The paper says the Belgian problem is more difficult. It adds that Germany is not thinking of annexing Belgium, but the paper demands that upon the restoration of the Belgian monarchy, which will be perfectly free in internal affairs, substantial guarantees be given that the foreign policy shall not be used against German interests.

CRITICIZED; LOSES HIS JOB.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Maj. Gen. Sir Stanley von Donop was today replaced as master general of the ordnance in the British army by Maj. Gen. William T. Furse, a member of the general staff. Maj. Gen. von Donop was the subject of an acute controversy last year when the lack of guns and munitions was such a serious problem.

LONE SURVIVOR OF DEFENSE FOUND IN A POLICE COURT

Strange Story of Jutland Sea Battle Comes to Light in Westminster When Stoker's Trial Begins.

[Special Cable Service from London Times.]

LONDON, Dec. 2.—In the Westminster police court today, George Winterbourne, who wore the uniform of a stoker of the navy, was arraigned as a deserter. He appeared dazed, and there was a medical certificate from the Brixton prison physician to the effect he was suffering from shock.

The defendant declared he was a survivor of H. M. S. Defense, which was sunk in the battle of Jutland. The official report showed there were no survivors, but the defendant asserted that after the ship had been blown up he was in the water for hours supported by an air belt, and was picked up unconscious by a collier, which landed him at Newcastle.

The magistrate directed an inspector to take the defendant to the admiralty, where his story was investigated. There he stated that when he was in the sea after the explosion a midshipman with an arm blown off gave his name and this last message: "If you get through, Jack, tell father we are winning."

The authorities ascertained there was a midshipman on board with the name given and are satisfied the defendant told the truth.

SAY TURKISH ARMY LOSES 1,000 A DAY FROM TYPHUS.

American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief Reports Epidemic and Famine.

New York, Dec. 2.—Soldiers of the Turkish army in Syria are dying from typhus fever at the rate of 1,000 a day, according to a dispatch from that country forwarded through Port Said and given out today by the American committe for Armenian and Syrian relief.

In addition to the famine, from which the people of Syria are long reported to have been suffering, epidemics of both typhus fever and cholera are sweeping over the country, the dispatch says.

TURK BUDGET $220,000,000.

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 2.—A Constantinople dispatch says the Turkish chamber of deputies has accepted a proposal to increase this year's budget for the war ministry by 50,000,000 lira [approximately $220,000,000].

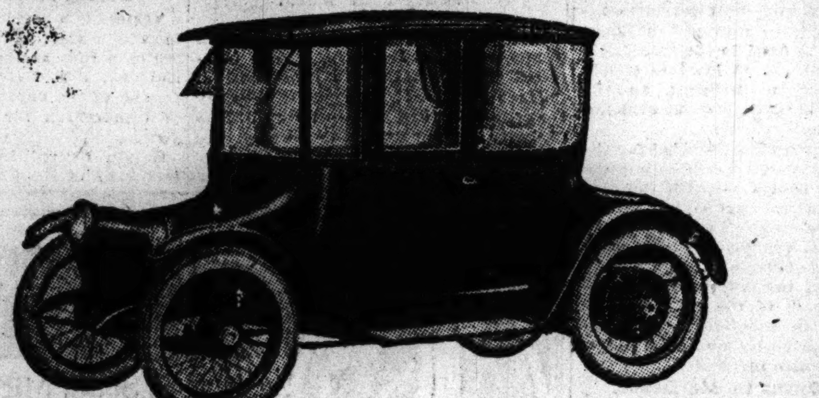
Detroit Electric



This is the $1775 Detroit Electric

You will find it the greatest enclosed car value on the market, at less than $2000.

It is a car worthy to the last detail of bearing the name Detroit Electric.

Its quickly and conveniently adjustable windows all around have a two-fold advantage:

1st—The clear vision on all sides that they afford makes motoring far safer and easier.

2nd—Lowered, they provide perfect ventilation and open car coolness. Raised, they surround you with all the luxury and privacy of the costly limousine.

The big 42 cell, 13 plate, batteries have been refined and developed until they get from 65 to 100 miles on a single charge. This is far more than you will ever use in an ordinary day's motoring.

There's plenty of power for steep hills and heavy going through mud and drifted snow.

Three people find ample space on the wide rear seat, and the restful, revolving chair in the front right corner provides for a fourth passenger. Also, an upholstered package box is placed in the left front corner and may be used as a seat.

Big tires—Goodrich Silvertown cord—33 in. x 4½ in.; deep upholstery; 100 in. wheelbase; and long, resilient springs unite to insure you smooth travel over every kind of road. An uncommonly fine quality of exclusive whipcord is employed in the upholstery which is of the Turkish type. All cushions are of genuine curled hair.

Equipment details include two head lamps, dome light shedding a soft lustre throughout the car, tail lamp, Klaxette horn, meter, hub odometer, Houk wire wheels, and a very complete equipment of tools.

ATHENS IS FREED OF ALLIES' MEN BY COMPROMISE

[SPECIAL CABLE TO CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The Greek crisis has passed, at least for the time being. The allied commanders have reached a compromise with King Constantine. He submitted to part of their demands and the others were waived and the allied troops have been withdrawn from Athens and Piraeus.

The compromise was reached after a day of fighting in which the royalist reserves battled with the entente troops and engaged in many clashes with the Venizelos followers. The casualties are placed at 200. The French, British, Russian, and Italian ministers in Athens made the following announcement:

"On the proposal of the ministers of the four powers, at the instance of the Admiral [Du Fournet] the Greek government was informed that the entente will accept six batteries of mountain artillery, instead of ten, the surrender of which was demanded by Dec. 1, waiving in their delivery all questions of the surrender of other armament.

"The Greek government accepted and agreed to proceed with the immediate delivery of the six batteries."

Landing of the Allies.

The time limit set in the entente ultimatum expired yesterday and Admiral du Fournet landed 400 marines at an early hour and marched toward Athens, seizing Philopappos hill overlooking the city.

Four hundred British marines reinforced the French force in the Zappeion, the famous industrial exhibition building which lies at the south side of the gardens of the royal palace. From the surrounding hills Greeks poured bullets into the Zappeion.

An Athens dispatch to the Star says that the fighting began when a French detachment attempted to seize arms in the engineers' barracks. The Greeks fired on the French, who replied, killing a Greek officer.

The fighting was severe, the dispatch continues. On Mars hill the Greeks attacked the French from the southern side of the Acropolis and Theseion slopes. There was a violent exchange of rifle and machine gun fire.

Fighting also took place between Italians and Greeks.

Fire of French Marines.

The French legation, which was guarded by French marines, was fired on. The Greek military authorities assert that the firing was done by rowdies. Secretary Bridgeman of the British legation was arrested in the streets by a Greek patrol and taken to a police station, where he was instantly released.

A dispatch to the Evening News says there was an attack on the British legation.

The Dutch and Spanish ministers intervened and brought about the conference at which the compromise was reached. While the conference was in progress guns continued to boom. Special dispatches from Athens say the French bombarded the hill behind the palace. Two shells fired from the entente allied warships fell near the center of the city.

Leave City Under Guard.

A Reuter dispatch from Athens timed 8:30 a. m. Saturday says:

"Anglo-French marines totaling 600 marched out of the Zappeion under a strong guard of Greeks with all their equipment en route for Piræus. All the streets in the neighborhood had previously been cleared and every precaution had been taken to avoid anti-entente demonstrations.

"A detachment of Italian marines which yesterday took refuge in the Italian Archæological school was permitted to depart under Greek escort."

Before quitting Athens Admiral du Fournet called on Gen. Callaris of the Greek forces and explained that the entente forces had no orders to fire on the Greeks. Gen. Callaris explained that the Greeks likewise were not ordered to fire on the allies and it was agreed on both sides that the affair was due to a misunderstanding.

Fight with the Bayonet.

ROYAL PALACE, Athens, Dec. 1.—[Via London, Dec. 2.]—Vice Admiral Du Fournet telephoned to Premier Lambros at 2 p. m. suggesting an armistice. Before word could reach all the Greek detachments posted on the hills fighting broke out again. A French effort to storm the wireless station on the observatory hill southwest of the city was repulsed at the point of the bayonet.

The French force in the Zappeion, consisting of 2,000 marines under personal charge of the vice admiral, fired on two passing Greek officers. The Greeks called their artillery into use. The king, who was watching the fight from the garden, immediately ordered that the firing cease. The Greek colonels, Dimitriopoulos and Delayanni, were killed.

At 5 o'clock the fleet began firing on the hills just back of the palace.

Greek Factions in Battle.

Barricading themselves in the offices of the Venizelos newspaper Hestia, a detachment of Venizelos troops kept up a fusillade of shots this evening against the government forces. Two marines were killed from the windows of the palace and a servant in the palace was shot by the police.

Following an exchange of shots between soldiers in the annex of the British legation and a force of Greeks in the square in front of the legation building, King Constantine sent a regiment of sailors to guard the British minister's house.

One of the British police agents in the legation annex was arrested by a Greek. Thirty Franco-Italian prisoners were brought into Athens this afternoon from [illegible], where fighting temporarily had ceased.

OFFICIAL REPORTS ON RESULTS OF EUROPEAN BATTLES

ROUMANIAN FRONT

GERMAN

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—The general army headquarters tonight issued the following report on operations in Roumania:

Front of Archduke Joseph—Russian and Roumanian attacks continue in the wooded Carpathians and along the mountains of the Transylvanian frontier. Yesterday they were directed especially against our position on the Babaladova and Ouraruçada and west of Dorna Watra, and in the Trotus and Oitos valleys. The attacks were unsuccessful, the enemy suffering heavy losses. German troops during an advance at one point in the wooded Carpathians took more than 1,000 prisoners.

Front of Field Marshal von Mackensen—The engagements in Wallachia are developing into a great battle. The army which left the mountains southeast of Campulung has gained ground in the wooded mountains on both sides of the Dambrovitza sector during engagements.

The Roumanian resistance in the Dumbovitza valley southeast of Campulung has been broken.

On the Argechu, southeast of Petechti, the first Roumanian army, which offered battle has been broken through and defeated, after a tenacious struggle by German and Austro-Hungarian troops. Already Bavarian reserve regiments No. 18, which has frequently distinguished itself, has pushed ahead to the division staff headquarters, where from imprisoned officers of the general staff were taken orders proving that in the position through which we had broken the first army should have fought to the last man. The menace of death was set forth, immediately to be executed upon cowards.

Farther down to near the Danube we have fought our way to the Argechu.

The number of prisoners taken on Dec. 1, as far as it is possible to enumerate them at present, was 51 officers and 6,115 of the rank and file, and the booty 49 cannon and 100 loaded ammunition carts, in addition to many hundred other military vehicles.

In Dobrudja, Bulgarian troops repulsed strong attacks by the Russians.

BULGARIAN

SOFIA, Dec. 2.—The official announcement from the war office today recounting the fighting on the Roumanian front says:

We closed the Tzomana-Branichtari-Singuerni line, 12 miles from the ring of forts around Bucharest, and broke the desperate resistance of the enemy, capturing two heavy mortars, six machine guns, four officers, and 200 men. The enemy left a number of killed and wounded on the field.

ROUMANIAN

BUCHAREST, Dec. 2.—The official report issued by the war office follows:

Northern and northwestern fronts—On the western frontier of northern Moldavia there were attacks and artillery bombardments. Bad weather is hindering operations.

In the Dumbovitza valley our troops retired toward the south.

Western front—In the region of Pitechti our troops have been attacked violently and have been obliged to retire slightly. The violent combat on the Glavatziotzu and Niaslov rivers continues.

Southern front—In Dobrudja we violently attacked enemy positions and reached their wire entanglements, which we passed at some points.

RUSSIAN

PETROGRAD, Dec. 2.—The official report regarding operations in the Roumanian campaign says:

In the region of Bubnova the enemy bombarded us with shells charged with asphyxiating gas and fired on our supports with flaming bombs.

In the wooded Carpathians the battles for the domination of the heights east of Kirlibaba are continuing.

Transylvania—In the valleys of the Trotus, Tcheboniach [Csobanyos?], and Usul rivers fighting continues. The enemy launched counter attacks against our detachments, which have occupied an entire range of heights in this region. In the Buzeu valley the Roumanians made further progress northward.

Danube front—On the roads from Pitechti to Bucharest, in the valley of the Argechu, the enemy conducted a series of fierce attacks and compelled a portion of the Roumanian troops north of the Argechu to retire slightly. All attacks south of this river were repulsed.

West of Bucharest, after persistent attacks, the enemy succeeded in pressing back the Roumanians toward the Argechu river.

South of Bucharest all enemy attack were repelled and the Germano-Bulgarian troops have been driven from the villages of Tzomana and Gostinari.

Dobrudja—Our troops have gained possession of the western part of Cernavoda bridge, and in the region of Kiakioisatiskioi we have compelled the enemy to retire to the south from several heights.

MACEDONIAN FRONT

BULGARIAN

SOFIA, Dec. 2.—The official report in regard to fighting in Macedonia says:

In the region of Monastir we repulsed attacks against the village of Tarnova. Hill 1248 and the summit of Hill 1050, east of the village of Paralova, were bombarded violently by our artillery.

SERBIAN

SALONIKI, Dec. 2.—The official statement issued from Serbian army headquarters today says:

Yesterday there were local actions at several points, especially at Kravitza and on the heights about Grunishte, where our troops advanced in spite of the enemy's strong resistance. We frustrated an enemy attempt to attack Hill 1050.

GERMAN

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—The army headquarters tonight issued the following report:

On the Macedonian front advances of the entente northwest of Monastir and near Grunishte again were without any success.

FRENCH

PARIS, Dec. 2.—The official announcement in regard to Macedonia follows:

At a point east of the River Cerna, Serbian troops on the first of December repulsed a violent attack of the enemy upon their positions to the north of Grunishte. There has been artillery fighting in the region of Monastir, where the bad weather continues.

FRENCH FRONT

FRENCH

PARIS, Dec. 2.—The bulletin issued by the war office tonight read:

The artillery was only feebly active today along the whole front, except on the right bank of the Meuse, where the enemy violently bombarded the neighborhood of Vaux. A German long range gun fired several shots in the direction of Nancy.

Artillery fighting occurred in the region of Dixmude. North of that town there was violent fighting with bombs.

One of our aviators threw down nine bombs upon the railroad station at Sprincourt and three others upon barracks of the enemy at Billy-Sur-Mangiennes.

BRITISH

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The official report regarding operations in France says:

During the day there was intermittent shelling against our front on both sides of the Ancre. A small party of the enemy entered our trenches north of Le Sars, but were rejected. In the neighborhood of Ypres, Armentieres, and Hohenzollern there was considerable trench mortar activity.

During the night hostile artillery was active north of Ypres and near Gueudecourt. Yesterday evening after a heavy trench mortar bombardment the enemy attempted two raids in the Souchez area. They were beaten off.

GERMAN

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—The official report regarding the western front follows:

Army group of Crown Prince Rupprech: On both banks of the Ancre and near St. Pierre Vaast wood, north of the Somme, and south of the Comme, near Chaulnes, heavy artillery duels prevailed.

ITALIAN FRONT

ITALIAN

ROME, Dec. 2.—The official report issued by the war office says:

In the Falla valley on Thursday afternoon the enemy, supported by artillery fire, attacked our positions on Monte Granuda. He was repulsed with losses.

Artillery activity continued yesterday on both sides along the whole front, particularly in the Adige valley, on the Asiago plateau, and on the Carso.

Enemy aircraft dropped bombs on Vicenza. There were no casualties, but some damage was done to the Church of St. Carona.

AUSTRIAN

VIENNA, Dec. 2.—The war office today made the following announcement:

The artillery duel southeast of Goritz and on the Carso plateau continued with varying intensity. Several ammunition depots were exploded by our fire. In various Carinthian and Tyrolean sectors violent artillery actions occurred.

Hostile airmen dropped bombs in the Adige valley without causing damage.

RUSSIAN FRONT

GERMAN

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—The official report on operations on the Russian front says:

Eastern front—Front of Prince Leopold: Russian attacks north of Smorgon and south of Pinsk failed with losses.

BORDEAUX, FRANCE, ACCEPTS U. S. LOAN OF $25,000,000.

City Council Agrees to Terms Offered by American Bankers—Pays Back in Three Years.

BORDEAUX, Dec. 2.—After hearing a report from Mayor Charles Gruet, the city council has decided to accept the offer of a group of American bankers of a loan of $25,000,000. The loan will run for three years.

GERMAN PRISON CAMPS GOOD

BERLIN, Dec. 2, via London.—Official statistics published here in regard to sanitary conditions in the war prisoners' camps in Germany state that there were 1,663,794 prisoners in the country on Aug. 1, 1916.

In the two years of war which had then elapsed 29,297 prisoners died. Of these 6,032 succumbed from tuberculosis, 4,201 to spotted fever, 6,270 to wounds, and 6,603 to other illnesses.

The statistics indicate that only .10 per thousand war prisoners committed suicide.

GREECE APPEALS TO WASHINGTON AGAINST ALLIES

Files Note of Protest on Seizure of Destroyer Fleet and Demand for Arms.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—The Greek government today presented to the American minister at Athens a note of protest against the "coercive" measures by the entente allies against Greek neutrality. It was cabled to the state department tonight. The note reviews Greece's efforts to remain neutral and of the allies' seizure of the Greek fleet. It adds that Greece must refuse the entente's demands for arms. The text of the note, translated from French, follows:

"From the beginning of the European war, the Greek government, conscious of its duties for the defense of the national interests and of its responsibility toward the country, had, after an exhaustive examination of the situation, come to the decision that Greece ought not to enter the bloody struggle in which almost all Europe was engaged.

"The Greek government, in holding to neutrality, had in mind all the time the abandonment of this policy if at any given moment it should come to the conviction that, however great were the sacrifices and dangers of a war, it would serve the national aspirations.

Fear National Destruction.

"Unfortunately, it has not been possible for us, up to this moment, to obtain the necessary guarantees that Greece, in entering into the European conflict, would not be going to inevitable destruction.

"In remaining neutral, the Greek government had in mind solely Greek interests, and not, as has been repeatedly insisted on, sympathy with one of the two groups of belligerents. A Greek government could only think of the interests of Greece.

"The geographical situation of Greece, which places it in very direct contact with one of the two groups of belligerent powers, makes the application of its policy of neutrality very difficult; it is for that reason that it has been forced to submit to the occupation by foreign arms of her Macedonian provinces and to permit the belligerents to dispose of her ports, public buildings, and works of art; that her highways and railroads have been forcibly occupied, while bridges and tunnels worth many millions have been completely destroyed.

Forced to Give Up Ships.

"At the moment when the present Greek government assumed power, an imposing fleet was blockading the entrance of the Strait of Salamine, the anchorage of the Greek fleet, and, in spite of our protests and our formal refusal, we were constrained to order our officers and sailors to abandon the vessels of the light fleet in order to spare them the grief of surrendering the vessels upon which not very long ago they had contributed to two victorious wars.

"For about a month the Greek people have seen, with a very real pain, the administration of foreign control of nearly all its public services, its land communications, its postal service, telegraph and telephone service.

"The Greek commercial fleet has seen its activity hampered by repeated inspections and by restrictions of every sort. For a long time Greece has been able to import from abroad only what is absolutely indispensable to feed and sustain the country, and to furnish for its commerce, both by land and sea, the necessary fuel.

Arms Are Now Demanded.

"And now the traditional hospitality of the Greek people has suffered an affront which has been profoundly painful. The will of the strong has been constantly placed in opposition to the legitimate protests of Greece; nevertheless, the latter has up to now endured everything with the patience and dignity which small nations possess in the highest degree.

"But the last demand of the admiral commanding the naval forces of the entente in the Mediterranean, in which he invites the Greek government to hand over the war material, acquired at the price of heavy sacrifices, and which from the nature of the Greek people can serve only for the defense of the national interests, that demand, I say, is one of those which the people, its constitutional leaders, the army, and the navy, are unanimous in refusing.

"The Greek government desires that the neutral nations understand that the spirit of conciliation and of equity of which it has given proof has been unable to save the Hellenic people from the grave vicissitudes through which the country is now passing.

Cannot Escape Position.

"We are not strong enough to escape them, for they are the unpleasant result of the geographical position of Greece and of the conflict of interests of the great belligerent powers. Nevertheless, strong in its right, Greece is not losing heart, but is confident that, despite all, it will come out of the present crisis weakened but intact, and ready to recuperate its strength for the accomplishment of its duties toward Hellenism.

"I do not doubt, Mr. Minister, that you will give me, in these painful circumstances, the support which I ask of you.

ZALOCOSTAS."

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY IN THE EUROPEAN WAR

United States asked recall of Capt. Boy-Ed and Capt. Von Papen, German attaches.

Serbians evacuated Monastir.

Germans concentrated at Rustchuk to meet reported Russian invasion of Bulgaria.

British fell back from advanced position near Bulgarian frontier.

TAKE ELEVATOR IN ARCADE

POLICE RULED BY VICE POWERS, WITNESSES SAY

Zealous Officers Transferred, Is Testimony Given at Trial of O'Brien.

That vice is czar in the Cottage Grove avenue district, dictating the transfer of police officers who are too officious, and even undertaking to silence private citizens who are active in making complaints, was the assertion of witnesses yesterday in the trial of Capt. William P. O'Brien, suspended commander of the district, before the civil service board.

Mrs. S. Vera L. Rodriguez, wife of Ald. William E. Rodriguez, described a tour of cabarets which she made in the company of Mrs. Charles E. Merriam. She said drinks were sold freely after closing hours in the Elite, Freiberg's, the Schiller, Friars, and Colosimo's.

Tells of Death Threats.

John Bates, an advertising solicitor who lives at Twenty-second street and South Wabash avenue, declared that death threats were made against him several times because he carried complaints of evil conditions to Arthur Burrage Farwell of the Law and Order league.

"During the shooting of Detective Sergeant Stanley Birns in Twenty-second street I was backed up against the wall by a gangster and would have been killed had it not been for the janitor of the building. Only a week ago I was tipped off that I was to be slugged by a gang of chauffeurs who hang out in that neighborhood."

Detective Sergeants Gustave Melcher and Albert K. Winge explained the sinister workings of the invisible vice government in the district. They told of cordial embraces between Capt. O'Brien and Eph Harding, the supposed gambling lieutenant of Mont Tennes, whose ring was exposed by Judge Landis.

Trouble with Fred Sells.

"Did you ever have any trouble with Fred Sells of 2227 Cottage Grove avenue?" Melcher was asked.

"I met Sells on the street last December," he replied, "and told him that Sergt. Albert Winge and myself were going to raid his handbook. He said: 'Hasn't the captain fixed you fellows up yet?' I told him the captain had said nothing to us. I told Capt. O'Brien what had taken place that night, and the following day Winge and I were transferred to another section of the district. The captain told us the north end of the district was clean, and said we should confine our efforts to the southern part."

Detective Sergeant Winge said he told Sells he was going to shut up his gambling place, and that Sells inquired in surprise: "Isn't the captain taking care of you?" Winge said Capt. O'Brien was actively interested in the prosecution of Negroes.

He was asked if his instructions differed regarding the treatment of white and Negro offenders.

"Well, if we raided Negro houses there was no comeback," he said. "But if we raided white houses we were transferred to other parts of the district."

Winge said he understood Irene Carruthers at 2428 South Park avenue was "immune." He said he and his partner kicked in the door of her place one night and found a couple of girls there. He said she sold nothing but champagne.

Winge Under Attack.

Attorney Dobyns in cross examining the police witnesses attempted to show that they were transferred by Capt. O'Brien for laxity in doing their duty and not because they were overzealous in arresting vice favorites.

"Haven't you had trouble with Capt. O'Brien?" asked Dobyns. "Did you not live with Pearl Dwyer and didn't she complain to the captain that you beat her?"

"I was not living with her and do not know if she complained to O'Brien," answered Winge. "But I can show that Pearl Morton was given immunity right in his office. Ask Capt. O'Brien about gambling. Eph Harding used to come to his office and when he entered Capt. O'Brien would greet him with extended arms and say, 'Hello, doctor, come in!'"

"Didn't you pay Pearl Dwyer's gas and electric light bills?" Attorney Dobyns asked.

"I might have paid them a few times as a favor," Winge responded.

BRUSH 'EM UP!

Dental Week Opens Tomorrow with Parade and Theater Meeting.

Chicago's dental week, proclaimed by Mayor Thompson, will open tomorrow with a parade of between 1,600 and 1,700 dental students and a "clean teeth" meeting at the Cort theater at noon, at which time Mayor Thompson, Dr. Truman W. Brophy, and Rev. John Timothy Stone will speak.

The parade will form at Ogden avenue and West Washington boulevard at 10:15 a. m. The line of march will be east to Clark street, north in Clark street to Randolph street, east to State street, south to Madison street, west to Dearborn street, and north to the Cort theater.

At 11:30 o'clock Mayor Thompson will present twenty-five school children with toothbrushes on the roof of the city hall, where the group will be photographed by moving picture cameras.

"I expect 25,000 toothbrushes will be presented to school children who are without brushes during the week," said Dr. Robertson.

RIDES INSTEAD OF WALKS.

"Lecturer," However, Is Conveyed from Grant Park in a Patrol Wagon.

A man who gave the name of William Brown and said he was a lecturer was arrested last night in Grant park for "star gazing," as policemen called it.

"Nice evening," said Brown to a South park policeman.

"Yes, a fine starry night for a ramble," was the reply.

"Let us go for a walk then," said Brown.

"No, we'll go for a ride," said the patrolman.

Brown, who is 50 years old, said he was en route from Hoboken, N. J., to a town in Illinois to deliver a lecture. He said he was staying at the Y. M. C. A. hotel, but the clerk said he was not there under that name. He had a key for his room at the hotel.

Held as Alleged Burglars.

John Casey of 3515 Arthington street, Andrew Steen of 2203 West Harrison street and Fred Schluter of 3250 West Madison street, who are alleged to have broken into the office of the Union Dairy company, were held to the grand jury by Judge Mahoney yesterday.

JURY HOLDS FATE OF MRS. STILES; VERDICT TODAY?

Woman Accused of Heading Auto Thieves Is Not Downcast.

With the prospect of a verdict this morning, Mrs. Elvina Stiles, tried as head of the "automobile thieves' trust," went to bed last night hopeful that the decision of the jury would be in her favor.

The jurors retired to deliberate late in the afternoon, and were still out at a late hour last night with every indication that no verdict would be returned before this morning.

Smiles at Accusation.

Mrs. Stiles was smiling broadly when the closing arguments for the prosecution were made by Assistant State's Attorney O'Brien.

"The automobile thieves of today are like the horse thieves of other days," said Mr. O'Brien. "Each member of the band has a particular function. Neither Mrs. Stiles nor Louis M. Erb, also a defendant, had anything to do with the stealing of the cars. Their business was to dispose of them."

Maintains Equanimity.

Mrs. Stiles did not appear to mind the flaying of the attorney, even when he said the plots of the thieves were hatched in the shadow of the county jail, which of itself should have been a deterrent.

PICKS BRIDE OF OWN NAME IN TELEPHONE DIRECTORY.

But Robert Magruder's Ways Don't Suit Pa-in-Law and He's Staying at Hotel Now.

Robert Telford Magruder's way of finding a bride is to look in the telephone directory under his own name. Magruder is the son of a hotel owner in Orlando, Fla., and he came to Chicago on a hunt for a wife.

His telephone quest brought him in contact with Miss Gladys Magruder, 5020 Ingleside avenue. They were married and Magruder moved in. Then he moved out. Pa Magruder helped him in this.

Last night Mrs. C. E. Hell, sister of the bride, asked the police of the Woodlawn station for a warrant for Magruder, charging he threatened to kill the whole family.

Magruder, who is accused of drinking considerably, packed his things in the Hayes hotel last night and said he was going home.

TRAIN KILLS WINNETKA MAN.

Carl Jansen Struck at Crossing When He Fails to See Approaching Express.

Carl Jansen, 903 Oak street, Winnetka, was instantly killed late yesterday by a Chicago and Northwestern railroad express suburban train at Eldorado street, Hubbard Woods. The body was carried on the pilot for two blocks before the train stopped. Jansen was crossing the tracks and failed to see the train.

FALL IN LOVE AGAIN WHEN THEY BREAK UP OLD HOME.

Divorced Couple Renew Courtship as They Divide Goods and Hunt Up Minister to Marry Them.

Mr. and Mrs. Anselm S. Burkart were divorced a month ago in South Bend, Ind. While they were dividing their respective belongings to break up housekeeping, Mr. Burkart began his courtship all over again.

"Is this yours, dear?" he said, exhibiting one of his old presents to her.

"Ye-ees, honey," she faltered.

And yesterday they were remarried in Chicago.

Mr. Burkart formerly was president of the Southern Michigan Baseball league and is now general manager of the Conservative Life Insurance company. The Burkart home is in South Bend. They were first married in Sandwich, Canada, May 10, 1910.

FEAR EPIDEMIC OF TYPHUS.

Health Authorities Find Mexican Laborer at Fort Madison, Ia., Started Disease.

The virulent progress of a typhus spread from one patient, a Mexican laborer, has been traced by representatives of the Illinois state board of health. It developed at Fort Madison, Ia., and at least one patient, also a Mexican laborer, has since immigrated to Illinois. He was discovered at Princeville. The original "typhus Mex" entered a hospital at Fort Madison. A physician who examined him, two nurses who cared for him, and two patients who were exposed contracted the disease.

SUES HIS LODGE BROTHER.

Tim Walsh of Downers Grove has another idea about lodge brotherhood. Yesterday he sued William Danner for $5,000. Walsh was sick in a hospital and he claims Danner in his capacity as clerk of the Woodmen lodge visited his home to render aid. Afterwards Mrs. Walsh left home and is now living in Highland Park.

WAGES TRYING TO OVERTAKE H. C. OF L.

Another advance in wages—the third since last July—was announced yesterday for the 500 employés of the Continental Bolt and Iron works, 2235 West Forty-third street. The latest increase amounts to about 5 per cent and goes into effect next Monday. One hundred of the employés are girls.

BANK EMPLOYES' BONUS.

Directors of the Live Stock Exchange National bank voted yesterday to give the employés of the bank bonuses amounting to 6 per cent of their yearly salaries. The employés will receive the gifts in gold pieces on Christmas eve.

MORE WAGE INCREASES.

DULUTH, Minn.—At least 2,700 miners employed by independent companies in the iron fields of Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan will receive a 10 per cent raise in their wages. The raise goes into effect Dec. 15.

PITTSBURGH.—Fifteen hundred workmen in the plants of the Allegheny Steel company and the West Penn Steel company have been notified of an increase of 10 per cent in wages. The new rate is effective Dec. 15.

PITTSBURGH.—The Marshall Foundry company announced a voluntary increase of 10 per cent in the wages of its employés. More than 1,000 men are affected.

DIVINE SARAH BECOMES ILL.

Suffers from Severe Cold and Is Forced to Cancel Engagement at Wilmington, Del.

Wilmington, Del., Dec. 2.—[Special.]—Mme. Sarah Bernhardt was taken ill at the Hotel Du Pont here late this afternoon, following her trip from Harrisburg, and was unable to appear at the Playhouse tonight. Mme. Bernhardt is suffering from a severe cold, which made it impossible for her to speak above a whisper, and her temperature is high.

ONE VISIT TO BRIDEWELL ENOUGH FOR THESE BOYS.

Morgan Ridge Youngsters Taken to Reformatory by Our Boys' Fathers' Club.

Twenty-two boys, sons of Morgan Ridge families, were locked in the bridewell yesterday. Some time later they were in the open again, and they were quite certain they would never enter there again.

It was an excursion of the Our Boys' Fathers' club, under the guidance of Edward Newman, William J. Kress, and William Hake. The club is a newly organized institution which has among its purposes the training of the boys to realize the vastness and importance of Chicago.

The eyes of the youngsters popped out like fifers' when they beheld the "Blackstone hotel," the west cell house, and they looked cautiously upon the prisoners in the furniture plant, where old school desks are made new. The "D. T." ward was too harrowing, and the boys wanted to get out.

"Come again," called the warden.

"Not for us!" said they.

ACCUSED OF GEM THEFT.

H. G. Prosser, Who Says He Is Chicago Newspaper Man, Arrested in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 2.—[Special.]—Harold G. Prosser, who says he is a Chicago newspaper man, is under arrest here at the request of the Chicago police, who charge him with the theft of $1,700 in gems. A Chicago woman is the complainant. According to the story Prosser and a companion accompanied two women to Wilson beach last summer. That evening one of the women declared her diamonds were gone and accused Prosser, who, in turn, accused the other man.

Presto! $5 Vanishes!

A $5 bill was missing from a roll of money Miss Irene Miller of 5716 West Huron street intrusted to Mary Johanewitch, a fortune teller, in the latter's place at 109 East Eleventh street, yesterday, according to the young woman's story to Judge Beckwith. The fortune teller was fined $25.

And Now, the Gasoline-Electric Car!

Woods Dual-Power

This wonderful two-power car offers advantages that cannot be duplicated in any other car—supreme advantages that no car owner, present or prospective, can afford to overlook. It harnesses two mighty forces into a powerful and obedient team controlled by the touch of your finger; combines the advantages of gasoline and electric power in one triumphant car. Thus one-power cars, however fine, must yield first place to this two-power conqueror—

—The triumphant car that by comparison makes one-power cars inadequate.

What it Means to Drive the Dual-Power

Owners accustomed to a one-power car undergo a new experience when they take the Dual-Power's wheel.

The gas car driver can forget his clutch pedal and gear shift lever. The movement of a finger lever on steering wheel releases and controls a steady stream of adequate power, transmitted direct to the wheels.

Instead of three or four speeds you command a thousand, all through this little lever. You can creep through traffic; then, at a touch, pick up to five, ten or fifteen miles and on up to the car's limit——Smoothly, evenly, practically without vibration.

Electric car users will find a new satisfaction in the Dual-Power's speed, the knowledge that mileage is unlimited, the elimination of the charging station.

The Dual-Power charges its own batteries, reducing operating expense to the minimum.

Power Sources

Power sources of the Dual-Power are a small gasoline motor, an electric motor-generator and a battery half the size usually required by electric cars, with the consequent reduction of weight.

The gasoline motor, while adding 40 per cent to speed, charges the battery as required, keeping it within the safety zone that greatly increases battery life.

You can run on gasoline power alone, you can run on electric power alone; you can use both together. In either case stalling is impossible.

No charging expense; and the maximum mileage per gallon of gasoline, an important item with scarcity and high prices in prospect.

Makes One-Power Cars Inadequate

The marvelous achievements of the Dual-Power place it beyond competition. No one-power car can combine the simple efficiency, reliability, ease of control, serviceability, economy of upkeep.

It is at once the car of luxury and the car of service; the car that is always ready—the dependable car. Yet, crowned with a most luxurious body, it costs no more than less efficient cars of similar design.

We suggest that you send for illustrated literature and arrange for a demonstration.

Prices Advance

JANUARY 1, 1917

Notice is hereby given that on account of the continued rise in price of steel and copper we will be compelled to increase the price of Berry Window Ventilators from 84c per lineal foot to 96c per lineal foot, or 1 cent per inch. This advance will affect the price of all ventilators not contracted for by Jan. 1, 1917. TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THE PRESENT LOW PRICES AT ONCE, FOR YOU NEED THE VENTILATORS NOW.

It's NOT the Cold That Keeps Hearses So Busy in Winter

—it is the fact that people lock themselves up in warm houses, stores, schools, factories, offices, etc., and breathe the poisons they themselves throw off instead of

FRESH AIR

Eight hundred and sixty-six (866) more Chicagoans died last January than last July. That is to say, there were 27.7% more deaths in this city in January than in July.

The spectacular lists of deaths from heat printed in the newspapers give some folks the idea that mortality is high in summer.

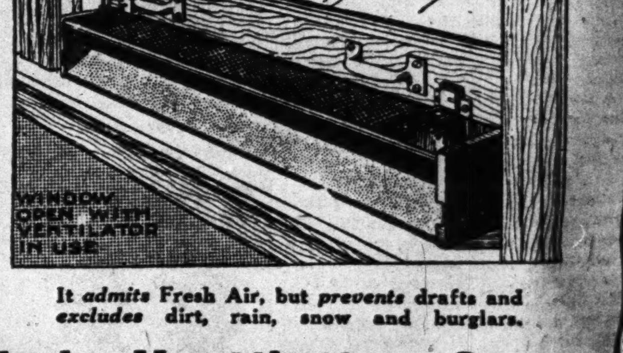
But the physicians, druggists and undertakers know that the bad air and chilling drafts of winter are the most deadly dangers.

And many July deaths are the result of tuberculosis contracted in stuffy homes and offices during the winter.

Insure YOUR health for the coming winter at once by installing the

BERRY WINDOW VENTILATOR

18 E. Jackson Blvd. Harrison 915



WINDOW OPEN WITH VENTILATOR IN USE

It admits Fresh Air, but prevents drafts and excludes dirt, rain, snow and burglars.

Whole Ventilating System

The Berry Ventilator forms a perfect ventilating system in itself. It admits an ample supply of fresh air while the impure air is forced out through the opening between the upper and lower sashes. It screens the air and assures perfect ventilation no matter what the weather.

The Berry Window Ventilator is collapsible, operating like an accordion. It opens and closes with the window. It does not interfere with the operation of the window, and when not in use lies flat on the inside of the sill—out of the way. The amount of air admitted is easily regulated by raising or lowering the window.

One can attach it to the window or detach it within a single second. When attached it positively locks the lower sash whether the window is open or closed.

The Berry Window Ventilator is indestructible, and cannot get out of order. It is made of non-rustable metal, heavily enameled and finished in oak or mahogany.

It can be quickly installed by any one with a screwdriver.

How to Take Measurements

Close window—measure on the inside sill from window stop to window stop, as close to window railing as possible. The "window stop" is the perpendicular strip that holds the window in place. Any of these sizes will fit window openings that are any part of three inches wider than the length of the ventilator.

JUDGE CARRIES ONUS OF DIVORCE INVESTIGATION

Must Persist in Inquiries to Decide Justly, but Needs a Proctor.

BY AUDRIE ALSPAUGH CHASE

"Why didn't his wife want to come to America?"

"Just how did you treat your husband?"

"What did she hit you with?"

Judge Foell yesterday, which was the regular default divorce day, had to ask these questions and many more in trying to untangle the knots in human affairs that had been wrought by young Cupid. Repeatedly he was obliged to cut through the legal verbiage of lawyers with incisive questions which brought out reasons or causes, or queries that made a vague situation vivid.

The incidents emphasized the judges' need of an assistant in the way of a proctor, who, representing the state, would investigate the conditions of the divorce seeker and would be able to set the case and circumstances clearly before the court.

Judge Foell has an old fashioned idea, too, that the complainant needs several witnesses adequately to corroborate his or her evidence. He has a judicial hesitation on granting a decree of divorce because one person saw the husband strike his wife once, or vice versa.

The Vice Versa Case.

The vice versa side isn't so absurd to mention, either, for that was a case that came up yesterday. Edwin F. Wilson of 1037 East Foryt-seventh street charged his wife, Dollie R., with cruelty.

"If anything didn't suit her, she simply got mad, used vile language, struck at me, and threatened to kill me," testified Mr. Wilson, a slender, white haired man, who had married Dollie in 1896. Mr. Wilson couldn't account for any causes for his wife's exhibition of temper, although the judge managed to discover that in December "She bought a hat, and I criticized it; said it didn't look well on her. She flew into a rage, struck me with a cane and tore off my collar."

"How much does she weigh?" probed Judge Foell.

"About 168 pounds," said Mr. Wilson.

"And how much do you weigh?"

"About 140. I don't weigh much with my overcoat off."

Which gave the judge food for thought. The one witness had only seen the wife strike her husband once, so the case was continued for further evidence, in these words:

In the case of Gasior vs. Gasior, Mary charged her husband, whom she had married in 1895, with desertion. They were married four years, then he came to America. Fourteen years later she came, with their son, lived with her husband four months, and then he departed for Pennsylvania. She had no idea why he left. He just packed up without a word and went, so she relayed through the interpreter.

"You know why he left, what the trouble was," insisted the judge.

No, she didn't.

"Tell her that I know she knows why he left. There's some reason, some other woman, or something. What did he say? What did you say?"

Still the woman produced no reason.

"She Knows."

"She knows in her own heart why that man left but she won't tell. When two people live together and he picks up and leaves there is some reason—some words or something. She knows."

But that the interpreter extracted from her the confession that her husband had been alone over here for fourteen years: that she came unexpectedly, and that he didn't like it, partly because times were hard, and he had never treated her right.

"Of course, you get to the bottom when you pry in," commented the judge, "but the court oughtn't to have to pry into it. The difficulty began in this instance when the man came to America alone fourteen years ago." Mrs. Gasior got her decree and the custody of her son.

Makes Wife Agree.

Georgiana Wallace of Blue Island, with a son of 21 in Tacoma, Wash., and one of 19 with her in court, charged her husband, Robert E., a locomotive engineer for the Rock Island, with cruelty. They were originally married in 1890, divorced in May, 1915, and remarried that July. The new combination did not work, and mother and son testified to acts of cruelty.

The halt in proceedings came up in the matter of financial settlement. Mrs. Wallace asked alimony of $37.50 a month, and she was to have clear title to the home, the husband to have complete ownership of an apartment building. There was a question about dower rights in this building.

"Make it clear, and I'll see whether the lady understands and the court approves," ordered the judge. "I want this woman to know absolutely what she is getting, so she will never come back to this court and say she didn't understand. If you are satisfied, madam, say yes; and if not, no, and don't say it unless you know your own mind. You'd better stand aside and think it over a bit."

The conclusion resulted in the wife's perfect understanding and the awarding of the decree.

HOSPITAL ROMANCE

Niece of Maurice Rothschild Meets Young Doctor and Will Marry Him.

Miss Florence Simon.
SWEET PHOTO

Ceaseless attention by Dr. Julius E. Lackner to Mrs. David Simon when she was seriously ill in the Michael Reese hospital two years ago won the heart of Mrs. Simon's daughter, Florence, and yesterday the engagement of Miss Simon to Dr. Lackner was announced.

Miss Simon is the niece of Maurice L Rothschild, head of the chain of stores which bears his name, and her father is president of the Rothschild store in Minneapolis.

Last night Mr. Rothschild told THE TRIBUNE of the romance which he helped to instigate in the Michael Reese hospital.

"I introduced Dr. Lackner to my niece, and it was love at first sight," he said. "Miss Simon had just graduated from Smith college and was at the bedside of her mother constantly. It was due to the skill and attention of Dr. Lackner that Mrs. Simon recovered. The date of the wedding has not been arranged as yet."

CHILDREN AND WOMEN INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Eight Are Hurt in Two Accidents in Sheridan Road—Taxi Hits "Island."

Three men, two women, and three children were injured in two automobile accidents on Sheridan road last night. All of them were taken to the Sheridan Park hospital in automobiles owned by persons who witnessed the accidents.

Hits Safety Island.

The men were hurt when a yellow taxicab, driven by Harry Kesnowitz, 1238 South Springfield avenue, collided with the "safety island" at Sheridan road and Melrose street.

The chauffeur and the two passengers, Harry Crane, 918 Lakeside place, and Albert De Freene, 821 Sunnyside avenue, were cut and bruised about the face and body. The taxicab was disabled and the men were taken to the hospital in a passing automobile.

Skids Into Lamp Post.

A short time later an automobile, owned and driven by Mrs. John Bezozian of 6213 Winthrop avenue, containing her three children and a friend, skidded and crashed into a concrete lamp post at Sheridan road and Barry avenue.

Mrs. Bezozian's leg was broken and she was bruised about the body. Her children, Roslyn, Harold, and Paul, were bruised about the body and Mrs. Katherine Pushman, 6158 Winthrop avenue, a friend, was cut about the face and hands.

D. C. Hughes, 1174 Leland avenue, was passing and saw the accident. He took them to the hospital in his automobile.

UNVEIL T. E. WILSON PAINTING

An oil painting of Thomas E. Wilson, president of Wilson & Co., was unveiled in the Saddle and Sirloin club at the Union stockyards yesterday. The painting was presented to the club by former business associates of Mr. Wilson when he was president of Morris & Co. All employés of the plant contributed, the amounts ranging from 10 cents to $5. A fourteen piece silver service was also presented to Mr. Wilson.

WOULDN'T THIS JAR YOU? BALKY SAFE FOILS ROBBERS.

Turns Over on Its Face in Ditch as Truck Breaks Down and $8,000 Is Saved to Bank.

Four cracksmen drove an automobile truck, which they had stolen in Champaign, into Mansfield, Ill., at 3 o'clock yesterday morning and stopped in front of the People's State bank. They jimmied through a rear window and from inside threw open the front door. Then they rolled the safe, which weighed 4,200 pounds and contained $8,000, out upon the sidewalk and slid it up a pair of skids on to the truck. The rest looked easy. They drove away, heading north. In some rural spot out of earshot of the marshal and his deputies they proposed to blow the safe and divide the loot at their leisure.

Then, just at the outskirts of the town, one of the front springs beneath the truck snapped, the bed of the vehicle sagged suddenly down, and the safe tumbled off into a ditch half full of water. The thieves doubtless would have blown the safe open anyway, but, as luck would have it, it had fallen on its face and the door was sunk in the mud.

There in the ditch the townspeople found the safe in the morning intact, and the $8,000 inside of it.

C. M. Schwab Buying Control of Pennsylvania Concern in Interest of Bethlehem Company.

Lebanon, Pa., Dec. 2.—Confirmation was had today of the recently reported purchase by Charles M. Schwab for the Bethlehem Steel company of the controlling interests in the American Iron and Steel Manufacturing company's Lebanon and Reading plants. Local holders of the preferred and common stock were asked to sign options for the sale of their holdings at figures which are being carefully guarded. Schwab is said to have fixed the amount of the capital stock, $5,500,000, as the purchase price of the entire holdings.

PERFECT DEVICE TO WARN DRIVERS OF AUTO'S SPEED

Young Men to Ask City to Adopt Colored Disk System for Safety.

Speed maniacs, joy riders, and drivers who don't think will have a check put on their recklessness if two young men, one of them the son of a Chicago pastor, succeed in getting the city or state authorities to adopt a speed signal which they have invented.

The young men are F. B. Blakemore, the son of the Rev. F. B. Blakemore, pastor last year of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, now pastor of the Congregational church, Gary, Ind., and H. J. McDonald, who has had some experience in running autos.

McDonald furnished the idea as a starter and Blakemore worked out the electrical appliance.

Colored Disks Show Speed.

The speed signal is a speedometer with a device which displays five glass disks of different colors the size of a half dollar placed at the front of the car and easily seen at the side. When the car is traveling ten miles an hour a yellow light is shown; at fifteen miles, a blue light; at twenty miles, a green light; at twenty-five miles, a white light, and at thirty miles an hour a red light appears.

The machine may be set at any required speed limit. If the speed limit is thirty-five miles an hour, when the car attains that speed the red light stays lit and cannot be put out simply by slowing down, but requires that the car be stopped and some one go to the rear and turn off the red light by moving a lever in the adjuster at the back of the car.

Convention Brings Idea.

"The idea came to me," said Mr. McDonald, "while I was reading in a SUNDAY TRIBUNE a report of a safety first convention held in Cincinnati. The resolutions at the convention called attention to the great number of accidents and deaths which resulted from speeding and suggested the need of some kind of signal which would enable policemen and drivers to know how fast the machine was moving."

Five Taken in Gaming Raid.

John Graham and four other men were arrested last evening in a raid on an alleged handbook in room 1220 Advertising building, 123 West Madison street.

ILLINOIS HEIRESS ARRESTED LIVING WITH MAN IN SLUMS.

Springfield Young Woman Found in Milwaukee Ghetto—Says She Gave Companion Part of Money.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 2.—[Special.]—Heiress to considerable real estate but living in squalor in the Ghetto region, Miss Margaret Gaynor of Springfield, Ill., was arrested today with John Wright, also of Springfield, on a statutory charge and is being held pending steps to name a guardian for her and her property.

The two came here in September after, she said, she had given Wright $2,000, which she had inherited in the last two years. When arrested the two had spent all their money and were living in a bare room in an old paint shop.

The court continued the case pending the receipt of advice from Springfield. Miss Gaynor said Wright had promised to marry her. When the court said she needed a guardian she fainted.

SALOONS PUT IN PERIL BY LICENSE DELAY.

Failure to Hand Over Money by Dec. 1 Means Offending Bars Must Close, Forsberg Rules.

Office and home telephones of City Collector Charles J. Forsberg were kept ringing yesterday afternoon and last night. The telephonic callers were belated saloon keepers and brewery agents who have violated the collector's order that all saloon licenses be paid for by Dec. 1.

"There are about thirty such saloons," Mr. Forsberg said. "If I would let them they would fool around about paying for their licenses to Jan. 1 or later. I have issued orders to the police to close all saloons which are licenseless."

Denies Delay on Subway Report.

Rumors that the report of the Chicago Traction and Subway commission is to be "delayed two weeks" were denied last night by Ald. Henry D. Capitain, chairman of the council committee on local transportation.

LOWDEN FACES EMPTY COFFERS OR BIG TAX RATE

Dunne Board May Fix 80 or 85 Cent Levy to Make Ends Meet.

The state of Illinois, as well as Chicago, is almost "broke." A checking up of the funds in the state treasury discloses a situation that is termed alarming by the incoming state officials.

The new state tax rate, about to be fixed by the outgoing state officials, will have to be made the highest in the history of the state if they are going to make both ends meet and carry on the work mapped for the first couple of years.

The rate may be placed as high as 80 or 85 cents on the $100. The state rate is fixed each year by the governor, state treasurer, and state auditor. Gov. Dunne and Auditor Brady are retiring from office. State Treasurer Russel has been elected auditor, and he will be the only Republican on the tax board when the rate for the first year of the Lowden administration is fixed.

Woes Loom for Lowden.

If they decide not to increase the rate over what it now is—55 cents—then the state faces a deficit of more than $3,000,000 in the first year or so of the new administration or a slashing of appropriations that will practically paralyze half the state's activities.

One of the "ironies" of the situation is the Mother Hubbard cupboard that faces the incoming general assembly. Unless some remedy is devised it is now probable that the new lawmakers, whose combined salaries total $715,000, will have to wait until April or May before getting any pay.

Heretofore they have been paid practically their entire salary at the beginning of the session. But since the Fergus suits and the Supreme court rulings the state treasurer is not taking any chances on advancing salaries of the legislators, and there is not enough money in the general fund now to run even the other state departments much beyond the first of January.

Condition of the Treasury.

It is probable that there will be a treasury deficit of $2,500,000 before the taxes from the new levy are available. There was in the treasury on Dec. 1, when the last balance was made, $214,634. Next week this amount will be augmented with $800,000 from the Illinois Central railroad, a payment on the state's share in the earnings of that road.

From other sources, receipts from fees collected by departments, payments on back taxes and the like, it is estimated receipts up to April 1 will total another $1,700,000. This will make the total receipts available about $2,500,000, but expenditures probably will double that amount before the new taxes come in. And it is the rate about to be fixed by Gov. Dunne, Auditor Brady, and Treasurer Russel that will determine how much is coming in then.

Dunne and Board Blamed.

Gov. Dunne and his board are blamed for the present "bankrupt" conditions. While increasing appropriations in the general assembly and incurring new obligations in the state's activities, the governor and his board established a rate last year of 55 cents. State Treasurer Russel refused to sign the warrant at the time, holding that the obligations incurred by the state would necessitate a much higher rate or they could expect just the conditions that prevail now.

Gov. Dunne complained of similar conditions when he came in. Former Gov. Deneen and his board the last year fixed a rate way below anything ever before attempted to apply to the revenues the first year of the Dunne administration.

The appropriations the first year set a new high mark and the Dunne administration, the first crack it got at it, in fixing the rate for the second year made it 70 cents. That was the high mark in the state's history up to that time. The next year the Dunne board put the rate down to 48 cents and last year boosted it again to 55 cents on which the 1916 revenues would be raised.

Appropriations Increase.

At the same time the appropriations increased again, and Treasurer Russel then protested against the governor signing appropriation bills for millions of dollars in excess of the estimated revenues if the state rate was to be only 55 cents.

Now the outgoing board has it in its power to further cripple the incoming administration or fix a rate high enough to meet the obligations.

Auditor Brady, it is reported, is inclined to agree with State Treasurer Russel that the obligations should be met and that the state rate should be placed high enough to give the new administration at least a working capital for the first year.

Gov. Dunne is reported as having said that he will not play politics in any way in voting on the new rate, and that he is ready to approve what he considers a reasonable rate.

Estimates already prepared by the state auditor's office show that the obligations already incured will necessitate at least a 70 cent rate for next year. Some of the administration leaders are demanding at least a rate of 80 cents in order to carry on the work advantageously and provide for the new centennial building and other expansions in most of the state charitable institutions.

BOOSTS WALES MINE WAGES.

Government Grants Demands for Fifteen Per Cent Increase in Pay to Workers.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The government today granted demands of South Wales miners for a 15 per cent increase in wages. The decision follows announcement of "nationalization" of the mines and operation by a government commission.

Girls' Screams Rout Negro.

Screams put the Negro assailant of Mary and Katherine Sweeney to flight Friday night after he had driven them into an alley at the point of a revolver. After the man had searched the girls for money he attempted to attack Mary Sweeney, the elder girl. Both girls screamed and residents near Eighty-sixth and South Morgan streets ran to their aid.

MORE ASSEMBLY MEMBERS FAVOR NEW BASIC LAW

Poll Now Stands 25 Senators and 66 Representatives for Convention Call.

Six more members of the state house of representatives have answered telegrams from THE TRIBUNE asking their positions on the proposed call for a constitutional convention and the regulation of private banks. All six, three Republicans and three Democrats, expressed willingness to submit the convention question to the voters. Five favored the regulation of private banks and the sixth declared in favor of the regulation of Chicago private banks.

The poll of members of both houses now stands:

	Senate.	House.
For call	25	66
Against call		1
Noncommittal	5	9
For regulation	23	67
Against regulation		1
Noncommittal		8

These Replies Received.

The six replies just received by THE TRIBUNE from representatives follow:

W. B. Holaday (Rep.), Georgetown—I have no objection to submitting the question of a new constitution to voters of Illinois, although there is no public demand for such action in this part of the state. I believe there should be legislation.

Joseph Petlak (Dem.), Chicago—I favor both propositions, the call for a constitutional convention and a state law regarding private banks.

William H. H. Miller (Rep.), Champaign—I am in favor of the submission of a call for a constitutional convention to a vote of the people. I believe Chicago needs legislation for private banks. However, I do not believe that the country private banks need such regulation. How to harmonize this condition is the question at issue.

Rene Havill (Dem.), Mount Carmel—Am in favor of constitutional convention. I believe we should have further legislation concerning private banks but would prefer to study and thoroughly understand bills affecting such legislation before pledging myself to vote for same.

J. W. Rentchler (Rep.), Belleville—Contemplate supporting measure for submission of call for constitutional convention. Private banks should have supervision by state or otherwise.

James H. Felts (Dem.), Marion—Am in favor of submission of call for constitutional convention to vote of the people and state supervision of private banks.

Additional replies will be printed as they are received.

Smith, head of the department of chemistry of Beloit college. The ceremony was at the bride's home. The Rev. W. A. Rowell officiated. Mr. Pellett and his bride are graduates of the college.

TEXAS PLANT FOR RABBIT SAUSAGE TO JOLT H. C. OF L.

State Department of Agriculture Boosts Game Bunny as Toothsome.

Old John Rabbit, the bane of the great west, the most useless, ornery animal that ever destroyed crops, has at last come into fame instead of notoriety. Dispatches from Austin, Tex., assert that the state department of agriculture is boosting John as a toothsome dish and also that a rabbit sausage plant is planned in west Texas.

Indeed, various parts of Texas vied with each other yesterday in sending out publicity matter lauding the accursed John as a real delicacy. The great drives which annually finish off tens of thousands of the jackrabbit tribe will furnish plenty of rabbit meat, and the celebrated high cost of living is threatened with an awful jolt if John is accepted as fit food for feasts.

Here's a Story.

They used to tell stories about John out there in the great west. Here's one of 'em, a real one told some two years ago to the person who writes these lines for you. That same person ate part of the animal—and it wasn't so bad. Well, this is the story, told by an ex-cow puncher:

"I was shootin' rabbits today, an' along came one of those great big jackrabbits, just kitin'. Bang! I blazed away. The bullet hit him all right, but he kept goin'. Bang! bang! bang! I just kept plugging' away at him, and finally he set down and stayed set.

"When I got to him he was lookin' around sort o' puzzled. He'd wiggle his legs, but he couldn't budge. Wal, I felt sorry for him an' whacked him on the head.

"You know them jackrabbits is just that tough you can't kill 'em with bullets. I'd hit him pretty near every time, but the bullets just stuck in his hide. He just got so full o' lead he couldn't run another step. They sure is ornery animules."

Maybe in Texas, Not Here.

Chicago's packers don't think much of rabbit meat as material for sausage. Oscar F. Mayer, pork packer, says it lacks "consistency and goes to pieces because it contains too much water." Edward Morris said he did not contemplate entering the rabbit sausage business.

Dispatches from Austin quote Fred W. Davis, commissioner of agriculture, as saying that in some cities rabbits are quoted higher than turkeys and chickens. Texas pays a bounty of 5 cents a head for John's destruction.

PLAN A 'WEIHNACHTSMARKT.'

The "high cost of Christmas" will be routed by the market which opens Tuesday at the North Side Turner hall, under the auspices of the German and Austro-Hungarian Aid society. Booths arranged to reproduce a "weihnachtsmarkt" in a Teuton village will be crammed with articles which will be sold directly to the consumer and with no middleman's profits. There will be original plays every evening, and Santa Claus will be accompanied by thirty barefoot dancers.

SUBURBAN JEWS ORGANIZE.

Plans have been perfected for a new Jewish center for Oak Park and other western suburbs. It is to be called Hosea community center. Until a permanent building is erected meetings will be held in Nakama hall, 725 Lake street, Oak Park. Rabbi Tobias Schanfarber will speak there on Friday.

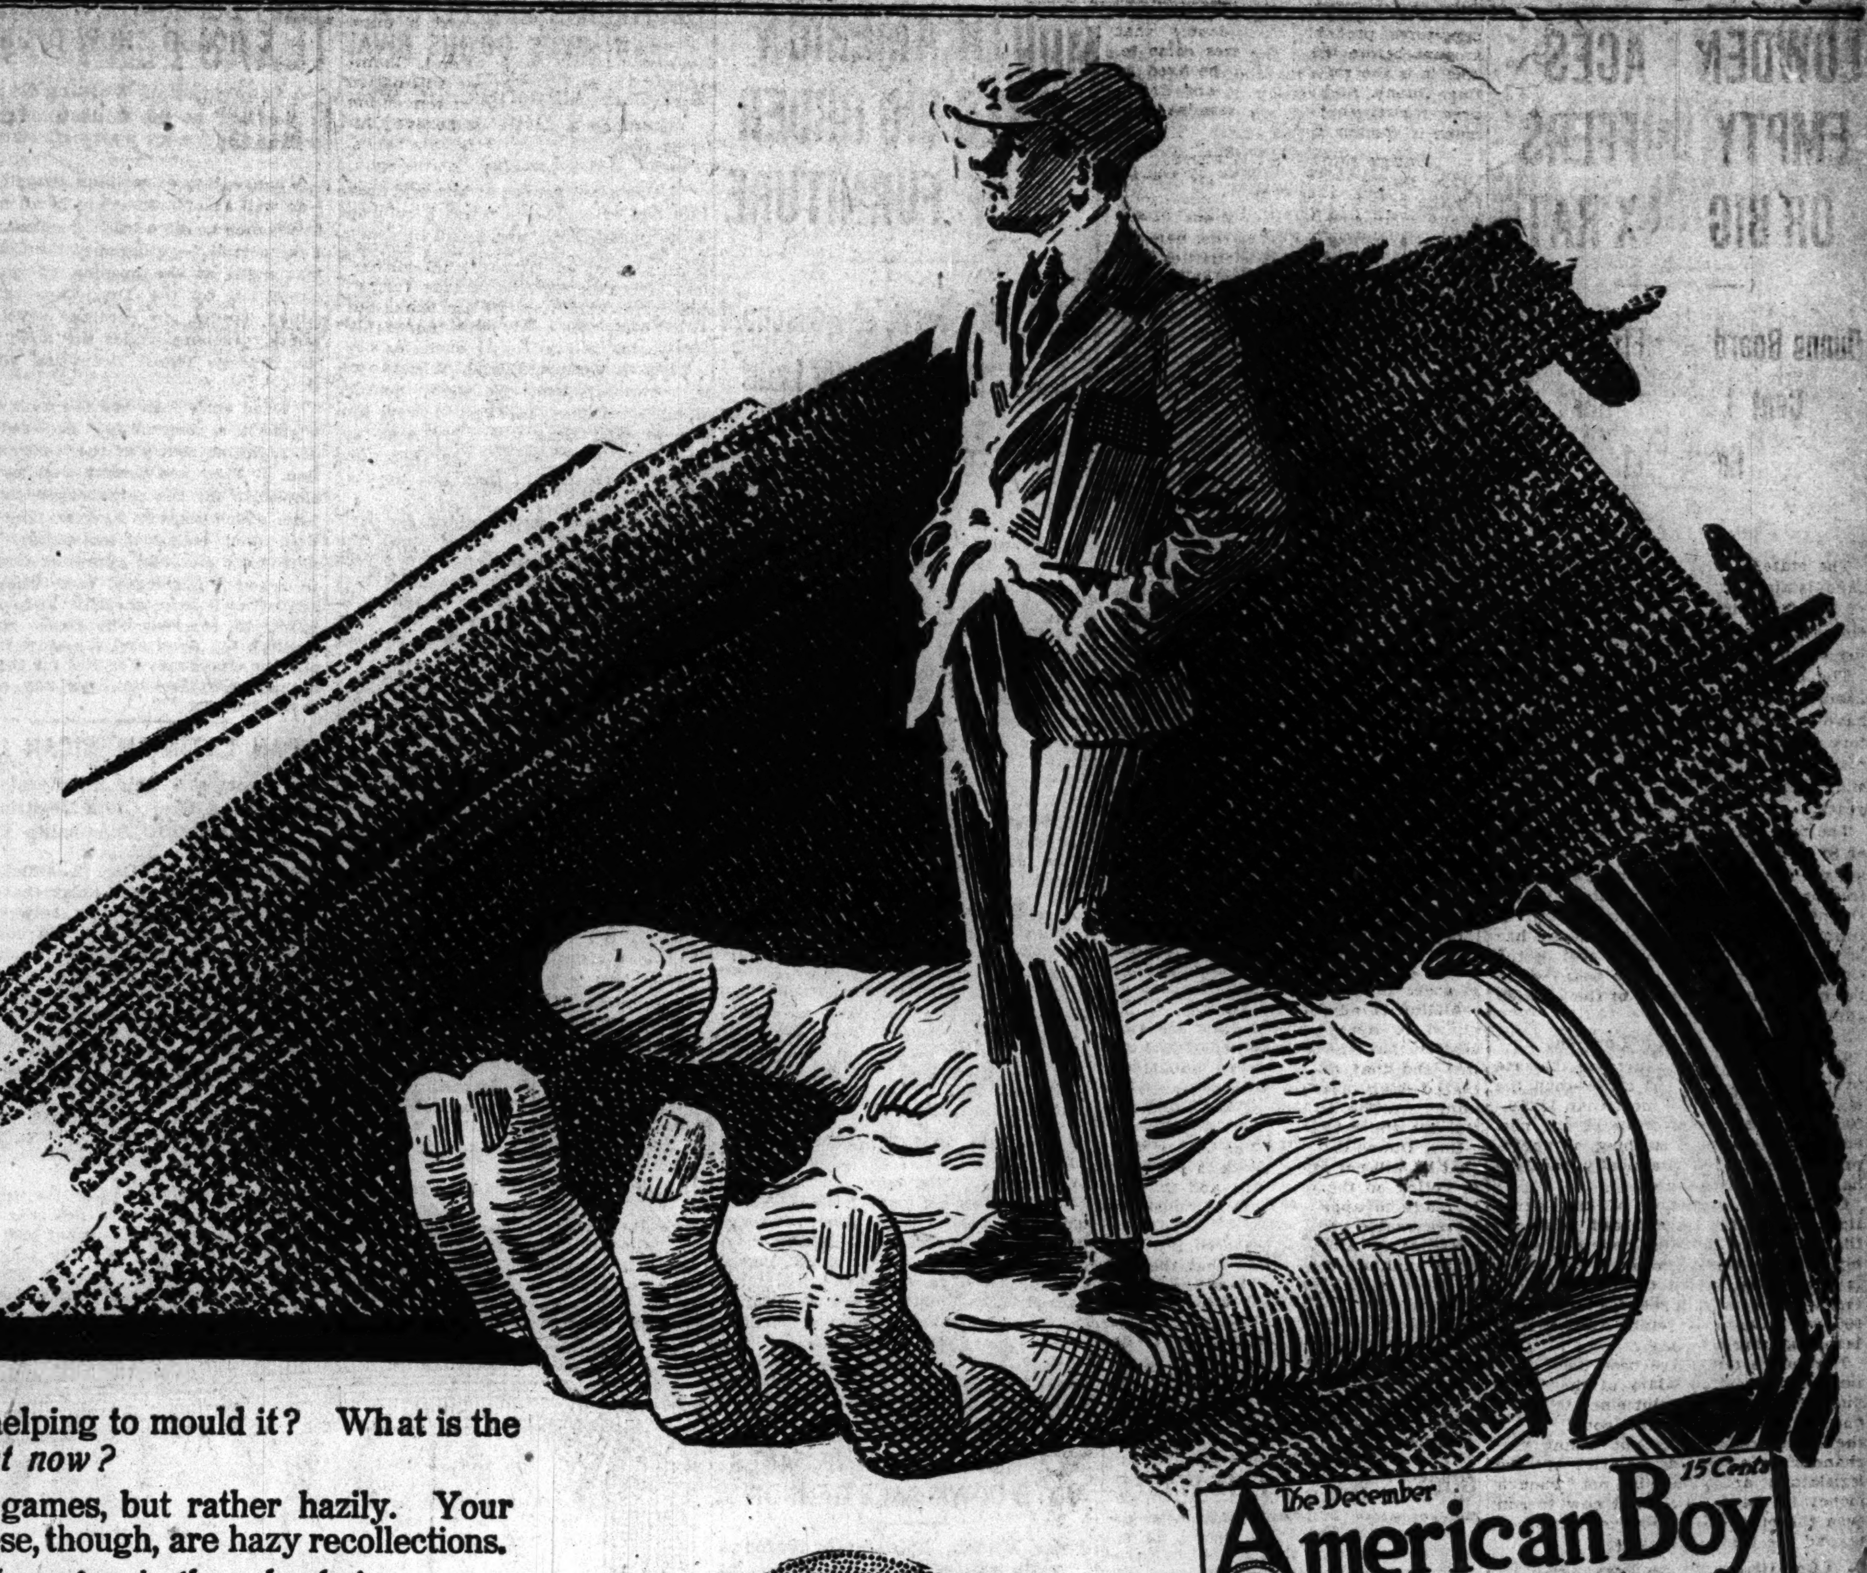
In the hollow of your hand



YOUR BOY— What will his future be? How are you helping to mould it? What is the most important influence in his life, right now?

Do you remember your boyhood days? What do you recall? A few games, but rather hazily. Your school work, more hazily. Possibly a few of your boyhood companions. All these, though, are hazy recollections.

But, strong and vivid, you recall many of the books you read, many of the characters in those books!

You can name a dozen of the books right this minute! You even remember the names of the authors. The mention of Huckleberry Finn still gives you the same thrills of admiration, pleasure and amusement that you first felt on making his acquaintance in Mark Twain's sparkling pages. That old book hero was mighty real to you years ago, and others are just as real to your boy today!

The mind of youth is quick to grasp impressions; imagination is strong in the boy. He must have an ideal—a hero—some goal to which he aspires. What he reads during these years is helping to mould his character, helping to decide what sort of man he will be in the years to come.

Do you realize that your boy's future is in the hollow of your hand?

You can guide him right, help him to choose the right sort of reading—reading that will give him high ideals and real inspiration.

And nothing you can do for your boy will be of so much benefit to him in after years as inspiring in him a love of good literature.

Boy or man, whoever loves to read, is never lonely. Every book shelf offers companionship; time never hangs heavy.

You may not have much time to devote to selecting the right literature for your boy to read; you may not even know just what will interest him. But there are those who do know. Men who have given years to studying boys—what they want—what they enjoy—what will be of most benefit to them—such men comprise the editorial staff of

THE AMERICAN BOY

"the biggest, brightest, best magazine for boys in all the world"

Every issue of this true-boy periodical is brimful of things that boys like—rattling good stories, clever pictures, sports news, handicraft suggestions, scientific information, and so on. There isn't a single field of activity which interests boys from 8 to 18 years of age that isn't interestingly covered in The American Boy.

That we have hit the mark of achieving the interest of our boy readers is proved by the fact that each month more than 500,000 boys eagerly await the arrival of The American Boy.

And that the contents of this magazine are right for boys is proved by the hearty endorsement we have received from thousands of Y. M. C. A. secretaries, librarians of public libraries, religious and public school teachers, parents and others interested in the welfare of boys.

Only $1.50 Will Make Your Boy Magazine-Happy For A Whole Year

Think of that for value! Can you picture any other investment so profitable? A present that not only means a merrier Christmas, but also means real pleasure for all twelve months of the year.

The American Boy is a clean, straight, strong boys' magazine. By supplying good, enjoyable literature, it instills a love of reading that is invaluable in after life. It encourages, inspires and instructs the boy the while it entertains him. Its influence for good is positive—direct. It makes for manliness and strength of character.

Give Your Boy This All-Year Treat

He's entitled to his own magazine—just as you and mother have your favorite! And you'll know he's well occupied if he's reading The American Boy.

The American Boy makes the dandiest kind of Christmas present. That son, or brother, or nephew, or grandson, or cousin, or the little fellow down the street or next door, will have twelve months of Christmas joy if you send $1.50 and tell us to send him The American Boy for a year—twelve big, bright, inspiring numbers—bigger, brighter than ever. U. S. MAY REVISE ANTI-TRUST LAW TO GAIN TRADE

Federal Body Urges Permitting American Exporting Concerns to Combine.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—[Special.]—Revision of the anti-trust laws so as to permit American firms to combine for the purpose of developing foreign trade was recommended in the report of the federal trade commission to the senate on the subject of foreign trade, which was made public today.

This report, on which the commission has been working for more than a year through its own and agents of the state department, contains the material on which was based the Webb bill, now pending before congress. The commission finds:

1. That other nations have marked advantages in foreign trade from superior facilities and more effective organisations.

2. That doubt and fear as to legal restrictions prevent Americans from developing equally effective organizations for overseas business and that the foreign trade of American manufacturers and producers, particularly the smaller concerns, suffers in consequence.

Decline in Exports.

The commission takes up the gradual comparative decline in American exports from the largest in the world to the third largest, Great Britain and Germany both having overtaken the United States between the years 1901 and 1913. During this period American trade gained enormously in volume, but the gain was not nearly so great as that of either Germany or Great Britain.

It is pointed out in the report that while the United States has been active in domestic expansion, it has permitted its foreign trade to shift for itself. No definite policy of foreign trade expansion has ever been formulated in the United States nor seriously thought of up until this time, the commission points out.

Neglect by the U. S.

As a means to increase their foreign trade, which they have realized must provide the field for any national development after international expansion has ceased, other nations have built up their ocean shipping, have combined their land and ocean transportation facilities to give shippers ready entrance to disputed markets overseas, and have in every other manner made it easy instead of hard for merchants and producers to market their wares in the four corners of the world.

During this time the United States has neglected its merchant marine so completely that today the nation is entirely dependent on foreign shipping, the commission states. This has resulted naturally in discrimination against American shippers by the foreign shipping interests.

Shows Aid Given by Banks.

The commission also shows how foreign nations have extended their credit facilities to all parts of the world by having banks with main offices in Berlin, London, Vienna, Paris, and Rome open branches all through South America, the orient, Australasia, the Levant, and all around the coast of Africa. This has been a powerful aid to merchants in the countries in which these banks are situated, the commission shows.

In the meantime, efforts have been made recently by certain American banks to extend their foreign business, but these efforts have been too recent to begin to show their effects on the world's commerce. The commission encourages what steps have been taken to extend American credit facilities to nations which must buy a great many of their necessities here.

The commission shows how immense foreign syndicates, controlling practically the whole product of their nations in certain industries, have been able to compete successfully against American concerns which must enter the foreign field individually.

Cites Foreign Combines.

The report takes up the subject of foreign buying combinations, such as the Coöperative Wholesale society in London, which has one buyer in New York whose purchases annually run into millions. It points to the Metalbank and Metallurgische Gesellschaft, which for years has controlled the copper trade of the world by reason of its immense buying facilities, as an example of the advantage of coöperative buying.

"If Americans are to enter the markets of the world on more nearly equal terms with their organized competitors and their organized customers, and if small American manufacturers and producers are to engage in export trade on profitable terms, they must be free to unite their efforts," the commission asserts.

"Without any export organization, foodstuffs and raw materials can readily be sold at some price, but to avoid needless expense in distribution, to meet formidable foreign buying organizations and to insure profitable export prices, coöperation among American producers of such commodities is desirable."

Other Measures Needed.

The commission also asserts that coöperation alone will not insure successful entry into foreign markets. Shipping facilities, agencies for financing transactions, all under American control and training for the production and sale of goods in foreign commerce, are recommended by the board as coordinate measures that should be taken along with coöperation for foreign selling.

The commission's report is a bulky one, covering 978 pages in two volumes. The report will be submitted to congress immediately when it convenes on Monday, and it is the prediction of many congressmen and senators that the recommendations of the commission will be followed and permission granted for American selling combinations in foreign trade.

SOUTH AMERICA BUYS BIG ORDER OF FURNITURE

$750,000 Worth of Household Goods Opens Door for Latin Export Trade.

A group of American furniture manufacturers have broken into the South American market with a cash order for $750,000 worth of household goods. It is the first break from the European monopoly.

The Chicago, Rockford, and Grand Rapids part of the consignment, a matter of twenty-five railroad carloads, is already on its way east under "red ticket" instructions that give the right of way en route. Another thirty-five cars will be assembled in the east for sailings in January. The Chicago goods, addressed to Buenos Aires, will leave New York about the middle of this month.

Hard Deal to Conclude.

"It was as hard to put over this deal as it ever was to start something new," Secretary Sherrard of the Baldwin Shipping company, the Chicago export firm back of the transaction, said last night. "But we have our foot in the door now and we will open it wider from now on. The next thing is a $1,000,000 order for American made phonographs, talking machines, and pianos."

Sold on Cash Terms.

The South American order was on cash terms. Not only did American manufacturers get away from extending long-time credit South Americans are used to, but succeeded in getting them to stand expenses of careful packing of the goods. Even with these "extras" figured in, the South Americans claimed the bill was less than they had been paying in Europe before the war.

W. G. McNair, a salesman who went down to South America when the war first began, is given credit for working up the order.

HE THROWS RED PEPPER IN EYES OF HIS RIVAL

And Then All Go to Court, Where There Is a Little Argument and Drama.

"I threw red pepper at him and drove him out of my home when I returned home unexpectedly and found him making love to my wife," testified Rudolph Pries of 1838 Lincoln avenue, when he appeared against Albert Scott, 3249 Broadway before Municipal Judge Sullivan.

"I have a crippled hand. I had to resort to the pepper. He was a boarder in my home four years ago. I drove him out at that time, too. My wife arranged to have him live near her. She thinks more of him than she does of me."

"My husband cares nothing for me," testified Mrs. Pries. "I divorced him three years ago. I remarried him a year ago for the sake of the two children, a girl 14 years old and a boy 16 years old, that we adopted soon after our marriage. I know that he has been running around with other women.

"Scott and some other friends were merely visiting me Sunday night. My daughter, my adopted daughter, was home. There was nothing wrong."

Judge Sullivan continued further hearing until Dec. 9. Pries is head waiter in the Red Star Inn.

JUDGES PICK NEW MASTERS.

Circuit Bench Appoints W. H. Dellenback, Henry Utpatel, and N. H. Welch.

At a meeting of the Circuit court judges yesterday three new masters in chancery were appointed—William H. Dellenback, Henry Utpatel, and Ninian H. Welch—by Judges Pinckney, Crowe, and Arnold.

Two masters were dropped from the list—Ralph W. Condee, because of the retirement of Judge Petit, and Charles H. Harvard, on account of the death of Judge Baker.

All the other masters were reappointed, with the exception of Granville W. Browning, whose sponsor, Judge Honoré, failed to attend the meeting.

Hereafter the appointment of masters will be made by all or a majority of the judges.

MANY DRUGGISTS ATTEND CHICAGO SHOW OPENING.

"A Convention of Walking Encyclopædias" at the Coliseum for Big Exhibit.

A convention of walking encyclopædias—as well as of first aiders in all human emergencies, domestic, medical, and "cosmetical"—gathered at the Coliseum last night at the opening of the first exposition of the Drug-Chemical and Allied Trades, to continue until next Sunday evening, under the direction of the Chicago Retail Druggists' association.

"Drug store men are the most useful people in a community," declared Isam M. Light, secretary of the local association. "They are perfect walking encyclopædias for the neighborhood on subjects which seem to have no connection with their technical knowledge. They must have a legally approved certificate to practice pharmacy, too. They give advice and help cheerily and gratuitously to any one who comes running through the door, and the store is usually the emergency hospital for the community—all this with little pay coming to the druggist."

PLAN LATIN-AMERICAN LINE.

Baltimore and Ohio Road and South American Capitalists Negotiating $15,000,000 Steamship Co.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 2.—Official announcement was made today that negotiations were under way between the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company and a group of South American capitalists for the formation of a $15,000,000 steamship company whose vessels will ply between Baltimore and South American ports.

VACANT HOUSE FIRE INQUIRY.

Authorities to Investigate Blaze Which Occurred in Unoccupied Dwelling.

Fire department authorities are preparing to investigate a fire that broke out in an unoccupied house at 4008 South St. Louis avenue yesterday and damaged two adjoining houses. The loss has been estimated at $6,000. It was declared the odor of oil was prominent.

PROMINENT CHICAGO MEN SUPPORT ENFORCED DRILL.

J. Ogden Armour, Cyrus H. McCormick, and R. T. Crane Jr. Join Universal Training League.

J. Ogden Armour, Cyrus H. McCormick, and R. T. Crane Jr. have come into the Universal Military Training league as founders, according to the announcement of Howard H. Gross, president of the organization, yesterday. The other founders of the league are well known Chicago and New York men who have interested themselves in the campaign to accomplish federal legislation for military training.

The list of Chicago founders now consists of Victor F. Lawson, Frank G. Logan, Henry M. Byllesby, H. S. Vail, William Wrigley Jr., Julius Rosenwald, Edward L. Ryerson, E. P. Ripley, C. H. McCormick, R. T. Crane Jr., and J. Ogden Armour.

The New York members are H. Walters, Charles G. Curtis, John T. Pratt, Arthur C. James, William H. Childs, J. P. Morgan, George W. Perkins, Oliver H. Paine, Robert Bacon, and Horace S. Wilkinson.

ALDERMAN NANCE FINDS FUZZY BUG IN HIS PIE

Whereupon He Folds His Napkin and Plans Council Investigation Into Inhumanity of Bakeries.

Ald. Willis O. Nance found a little stranger in his mince pie yesterday and suddenly lost interest in all food. Dr. Nance was having luncheon in a restaurant near the city hall.

"It is outrageous that pie of that kind should be served in Chicago," declared Ald. Nance. "I am going to introduce an order at the next council meeting for an investigation by the health committee and the health department of all bakeries in the city. I intend to find out how conditions can exist that will permit baking bugs in pies."

Cadillac Custom Finished Bodies Done in Distinctive Colors and Rarest Fabrics

Fashion is a factor to be considered when you choose a car today. Not only tomorrow's fashions, but those of years to come, must be foreseen—and bizarre effects must be avoided.

For fine cars are now bought for service as well as for looks. And what pleases the eye today must still satisfy tomorrow or the enjoyment of a fine car will quickly vanish.

Good style—inherently artistic—is always the fashion. And you see true style at its best in these new Cadillac body types. They are superb—inside and out.

You sense in their stately lines the subtle art of their designers. In their so comfortable arrangement you recognize that ripe experience dictated each detail.

Fine workmanship is evidenced by their silent comfort on the road, by the smooth action of windows and doors, by perfect joining of every part. And utter restfulness was never so complete as on these softly yielding, downy cushions.

Fabrics fabulously priced are lavishly employed for rich interiors. Their soft colors and rich tones in overshot silks are offered for your selection in patterns from the quietly modest to the most extreme. Each day sees a new creation on exhibition on our floor. The effect you have hoped for can now be had.

If you want a fine car of any type, you know the Cadillac supplies it. And, if, in that car you want expressed your own ideas of a distinguished equipage, the Cadillac today, with our especial custom service, gives all your fondest hopes could wish.

Twelve body types from $2105 to $4000.

CONGRESS FACES PRESS OF BILLS AND BRIEF TIME

Session Begins Tomorrow—Rail Situation and Cost of Living Uppermost.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—[Special.]—Confronted by the old problem of passing a large amount of legislation in a limited time, the Sixty-fourth congress will convene on Monday for its final session.

The president will lay down a proposed program of legislation, probably on Tuesday. Time will be the chief obstacle in carrying this out, for the present congress expires on March 4 and, in addition to the proposed legislation, it must pass the usual supply bills.

The two subjects of chief importance with which congress is called upon to deal are the railroad question and the matter of the food supply. In connection with the former there looms a struggle between capital and labor which may make the session an eventful one. The brotherhood chiefs, now in alliance with Samuel Gompers and the American Federation of Labor, comprising upward of 2,500,000 workers, are preparing to fight any legislation that will take away from them the privilege of striking when they see fit in labor disputes.

Fight Compulsory Arbitration.

The labor leaders are opposed to the president's plan for compulsory investigation of railroad disputes, during which they would be forbidden to call a strike, and also to any legislation calling for compulsory arbitration.

Members of the joint committee now investigating the matter have about come to the conclusion that they cannot complete their work in time for recommendations to be made during the coming session, and may ask for an extension of time until the next regular session in December. They believe they will have to sit all summer to get the needed information on which to base legislation.

The president is likely, however, to press at least some of the features of his proposed railroad legislation in spite of the action of the joint committee. It is believed that he will be insistent on congress passing the compulsory investigation features and has made up his mind that the interests of the country demand this at once.

High Prices Another Factor.

The present high cost of living is casting another shadow over the deliberations of the forthcoming session. Representative Fitzgerald will introduce an embargo resolution which will find many supporters. Resolutions providing for a federal investigation of the food situation also will be offered. No hint has been forthcoming from the administration on the subject for the guidance of the legislators.

An effort will also be made to induce congress to destroy the supply of drink as well as conserve the supply of food. Representative Webb, chairman of the judiciary committee of the house, will renew the fight for prohibition by urging the adoption of his resolution for a constitutional amendment prohibiting the manufacture or importation of alcoholic liquor for beverage purposes.

At present the prohibition resolution is tied to the suffrage resolution and both sleep in the pigeon hole of the house judiciary committee. The suffragists do not intend to permit the suffrage resolution to go unnoticed while attention is being given to prohibition. They will resume their siege of congress.

JOINT ACTION BY ROADS IN ADAMSON LAW FIGHT.

General Committee of Counsel Will Intervene in Test Suit on Behalf of M., O. & G.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—The general committee of counsel for the railroads of the country will intervene in behalf of the Missouri, Oklahoma and Gulf railroad, in the Adamson law test suit before the Supreme court, it became known at the department of justice today.

The committee will file briefs, contesting the constitutionality of the Adamson eight hour law, after hearings have been assigned by the court.

No railroad, individually, will become a party to the suit, so far as the department knows, it was stated.

"CHICKEN JOE" REPRIEVED

Negro Sentenced for Murdering Joliet Warden's Wife Gets Fourth Stay.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 2.—Gov. Dunne today reprieved Joe Campbell, Negro, sentenced to hang in Joliet for the murder of Mrs. E. M. Allen, wife of the former warden of Joliet penitentiary. Campbell has been reprieved four times to permit the Supreme court to pass on his case. The latest stay sets the execution on March 16.

Gov. Dunne announced that in the cases of "honor convicts" at Joliet he will commute their sentences at the ratio of one day of "good time" for each day of labor performed. The board of pardons will compute the amount of time to be thus deducted from their sentences.

END TAKING OF TESTIMONY IN M'DANIEL MURDER CASE.

Both Sides Complete Evidence in Trial of Missouri Prosecutor Accused of Killing His Wife.

St. Joseph, Mo., Dec. 2.—Introduction of testimony in the trial of Oscar D. McDaniel, public prosecutor, who is charged with having murdered Mrs. Harriet Moss McDaniel, his wife, ended in the Criminal court here late today. Arguments and instructions will be delivered Monday and the fate of the accused man probably will be in the hands of the jury before the day ends.

Completion of the testimony came at the close of the trial's third week.

Judge Thomas F. Ryan tonight gave out copies of the instructions he said he would present to the jury Monday. Under these the conviction either of first or second degree murder is asked by the state, the former, it was explained, if the jury decided McDaniel had "premeditated" the murder and the latter if it had not been planned.

PYTHIAN HOME ORDERED TO GIVE MOTHER CHILDREN.

Supt. Hatch Explains Order Merely Had Interest of Ziccarelli Daughters at Heart.

Judge David yesterday ordered that Clifton Hatch, superintendent of the Pythian home in Decatur, Ill., return to Mrs. Teresa Ziccarelli of Kenosha, Wis., her two daughters, Margarette and Eva, who were placed in the home in 1915.

Mrs. Ziccarelli charged that Hatch refused to return the children to her when she went to him, and stated that she had saved up $2,000 and was earning enough money to keep them comfortably.

"We wished merely to be certain that he could take care of the children," explained Mr. Hatch. "Mrs. Ziccarelli states she is willing to pay whatever is due for the care of the children. We do not wish to demand any payment."

"Every one acted in good faith, I think," said Judge David.

SUPREME COURT TO HEAR INDIAN CLAIM TO I. C.

Pottawattomies Assert City, Park Boards, Steel Company, and Railroad Lands Are Really Theirs.

Attempts of the Pottawattomie Indians to oust the Illinois Central railroad, the Illinois Steel company, the city of Chicago, and various park boards from the lake front will reach a climax next week when J. G. Grossberg, counsel for the Indians, appears before the United States Supreme court to argue an appeal from the adverse decision rendered some time ago by Judge Carpenter in the United States District court.

It is claimed by the Pottawattomies that when they ceded to the United States the land on which Chicago stands they ceded it "to the shore line only," in every sense of the phrase.

The bulk of the land now occupied by Grant park and the Illinois Central, say the Indians, was then under water and was never ceded.

HOW LONG'S A KISS? WELL, HERE'S WHAT STATUTES SAY

Eight Feet in Pennsylvania, Ten in Ohio—Of Course This Means Film Length.

New York, Dec. 2.—State statutes regulatory of osculatory demonstrations have been added to the fund of knowledge being gathered by the Equal Suffrage league. Huh sure, that's what it means.

The ladies have learned how long is a legal kiss. They know it is eight feet, no more, in Pennsylvania; ten feet in Ohio and Kansas. In most other states, with no statutes made and provided, the common law determines.

These important facts were obtained from W. O. Stephen Bush, who lectured to the ladies on movie censorships. Personally Bush believed the regulations are too strict.

Discuss Fraternal Risk Bills.

Proposed legislation affecting fraternal insurance societies and plans for the annual meeting of the Fraternal Congress of America were discussed at a meeting of the executive committee in the Hotel Sherman yesterday.

EIGHT "GUNMEN" BOOKED; ONE PETER GENTLEMAN.

Police Arrests in Hogarty Case Made Without Co-operation with Hoyne's Office, Duval Says.

Eight alleged gunmen, including Peter Gentleman, arrested by a flying squad from the detective bureau on Friday night were booked for disorderly conduct yesterday. James Futrell was accused of carrying a revolver.

The arrests, which were made as the outcome of the killing of Joe Hogarty a week ago, were made by the police and without the knowledge of the state's attorney's office, according to Assistant State's Attorney Duval, who is handling the prosecution.

"The police are not coöperating with our office," said Mr. Duval. "If the police fail to notify us of arrests, there never will be a prosecution."

Jacob Fined as Hotel "Beat."

Jacob I. Segal of Milwaukee, a solicitor for the North American Accident Insurance company, yesterday was fined $100 by Judge Mahoney on a charge that he failed to pay a bill of $10 at the Hotel Sherman.

Ask him how he was treated at our store, how he was waited on, how his interests and wishes were cared for, and whether we exhibited an equal interest after, long after, the date of his purchase, or whether we simply dropped him from sight and from our memory the minute we had taken his money. ASK HIM.

That broadcast challenge of "Ask the Man Who Wears One," is the one great pleasure we take out of our business. We love to know, we can safely guarantee every Suit and Overcoat we sell to be all wool material, of fast color dyes, of perfect fitting and wearing quality. We like to know that we can be doubly sure of all these things, because a member of our firm in person is always present and sees that every detail of the transaction is carried out in the customer's interest. It's a pleasure to know that no matter when you come, or who comes, you will all find us ready to offer and sell you

FAHERTY JOINS PAVING FIRMS IN FIGHT ON BAKER

Merit Board and Association of Commerce Are Asked to Investigate.

President Michael J. Faherty of the board of local improvements and officials of nineteen paving companies yesterday declared war on Ald. C. E. Merriam, Prof. Ira O. Baker, and their associates who have been investigating Chicago paving.

An indignation meeting was held in the rooms of the local board, with the result that three counter drives against the investigators were set in motion.

The common purpose of the board and the contractors, as expressed by the speakers, is to discredit the investigators and disprove the charge that property owners are being cheated out of $400,000 annually.

Writes Merit Board.

Mr. Faherty at once sat down and wrote a letter to the civil service commission requesting that body to conduct an immediate investigation, especially of the inspection service, which was made the subject of some sweeping criticism by Prof. Baker.

The contractors appointed a committee of three with authority to "go the limit" in an attempt to upset Prof. Baker's report. This committee was especially instructed to attempt to enlist the aid of the Association of Commerce and also to employ expert engineers to analyze and disprove Prof. Baker's charges.

Not only the contractors but also the civil service commission, it developed later, will seek to have the Association of Commerce undertake an inquiry.

Put Up to Commerce Men.

President Coffin announced the commission is too busy with other matters to give the investigation attention at the present time, and he will request President O'Leary of the Association of Commerce to appoint a committee to act for the merit board.

The contractors' committee is comprised of V. A. Wright of the Standard Paving company, John A. McGarry of McGarry & Co., and William Rigney of James A. Sackley & Co.

The conference in the board rooms was characterized by much angry invective against Ald. Merriam, Prof. Baker, et al. P. J. Moynihan, president of the Paving Contractors' association and president of the Calumet Coal and Teaming company, presided.

Don't Like Merriam.

"Ald. Merriam is the pest of city governments," he said. "He has been carrying on these investigations for years, and there is not a fund he has not dipped into for this purpose. He has spent $100,000 without accomplishing a thing."

"We've got to make an investigation so as to put a stop to these reformers and fake reformers," said Mr. Faherty.

"I'm the man that will go all the way with you. I'm with the public, but I'm with the contractors, too, when you prove you're right. It's up to you to clear your skirts.

"Merriam and his crowd are always criticizing, nagging, and faultfinding. I don't know how we can remedy conditions unless we elect him mayor. He put Dunne, Busse, and Harrison on the bum, and now he is trying to put us on the bum.

"This Baker is only a professor, like Merriam, and doesn't know anything about practical paving. He's a book-learned fellow."

Chemist Invites Inquiry.

L. Kirschbaum, chemist and engineer for the White company, the administration concern in which "Billy" Cooke, the mayor's "pal," is interested, asserted his company invited the "fullest investigation." Several contractors asserted specifications in Chicago are more rigid than anywhere else.

At the conclusion of the first meeting the members of the board of local improvements withdrew and the contractors held another council of war.

"We're the easy marks," asserted Mr. Moynihan. "We're assailed on all sides. Wherever we go the property owners look out the window and say, 'Here come a bunch of thieves.' The work done in Chicago is far beter than elsewhere, and we invite Prof. Baker and Prof. Merriam to tear up the pavement and find out. If there's skimping we'll replace it, and if it is all right, we'll expect them to foot the bill."

Faherty Defends Work.

In his letter to the civil service commission Mr. Faherty complains that the investigators did not immediately turn over their complaints to the board, instead of holding them for several months and turning them over to the press. He says he believes this shows they were not unbiased and unprejudiced.

"During the year," he continues, "the board has established an unprecedented record. Its employés have accomplished efficiently and well 33 1-3 per cent more work than was ever performed by the same number of employés during any former year. . . . I certainly feel that the fiercer the searchlight is turned upon them the greater will their efficiency be shown."

Mr. Faherty asserts that two engineers employed by the Association of Commerce conducted an investigation, made a report, which was turned over to him, and he thereupon remedied conditions complained of.

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER.

Indiana Jury Convicts William Troschier in Connection with Death of Charles Harris.

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 2.—William Troschier today was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter in connection with the killing of Charles Harris. The jury had been deliberating since 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Harris was found dead in his room on July 31. Troschier, who occupied a room in the same building, was arrested in Fort Wayne.

FEDERAL JUDGE IS LENIENT IN ANTI-TRUST LAW TRIAL.

Holds Plumbers at Des Moines Not Criminals, but Come Within Scope of Regulator Act.

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 2.—Declaring to the prosecutor that "these men are in no sense any more criminals than you or I, but merely come within the scope of a regulatory law," Judge William H. Pollock in federal court here today disposed of thirty plumbers found guilty of fixing prices in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law by imposing nominal fines of from $25 to $150 and costs.

"The longer I sit on this bench," Judge Pollock said, "the more lenient I grow, and I realize that these people are a part of the business of the country and that to take them away from their business would be to take away something from the country that it vastly needs."

Four other defendents failed to have Judge Pollock reduce their fines of $1,000 each, imposed last summer.

NO PEACE TILL ALL ARE FREE, WILSON WARNS

an immigrant sees that statue and thinks that he knows what it means, I wonder if after he lands he finds the spirit of liberty truly represented by us? I wonder if we are worthy of that symbol?

Urges New Consecration.

"I wonder if we are sufficiently stirred by the history of this symbol, by the history of what it means; I wonder if we remember the sacrifices, the mutual concessions, the righteous yielding of selfish right that is signified by the word and the conception of Liberty?

"I wonder if we all wish to accord equal rights to all men, and so it is profitable that occasions like this should be frequently repeated and that we should remind ourselves of what sort of image we have promised to be; for the world is enlightened, my fellow citizens, by ideals, by ideas. The spirit of the world rises with the sacrifices of men, the spirit of the world rises as men forget to be selfish and unite to be great.

"This, to repeat that beautiful phrase of Lincoln in his Gettysburg address, is not a time of self-adulation, but a time of rededication. Let us determine that the light that shines out of our lives upon the uplifted image of liberty shall be a light pure and without reproach."

Wilson Lights Statue.

President Wilson gave the wireless flash which bathed in light the statue of liberty at 6 o'clock tonight. Funds to install the permanent lighting system for the statue, the gift to the United States of 400,000 citizens of France, were provided by public subscription.

Grouped around the president on the deck of the yacht Mayflower, anchored off Bedloe island, as he flashed the signal which turned on the lights, were Mrs. Wilson, Jules J. Jusserand, ambassador of France, Mme. Jusserand, high officers of the army and navy, and representatives of several nations.

Guns of Fleet Salute.

"I light this statue," the president said, "with the thought that it may always stand as a symbol of our purpose to throw upon liberty, out of our own life as a nation, a light which shall reveal its dignity, its serene power, its benignant hope and spirit of guidance."

The great guns of a division of the Atlantic fleet anchored in the harbor as a guard of honor boomed a salute as the statue flashed into view. The whistles of countless harbor craft shrieked in unison, and flares of red light blazed up along the New York and New Jersey shores.

There was a flash of flame high above the statue, and Miss Ruth Law, in her airplane, added a spectacular touch to the ceremonies of illumination. Spouting sparks and fire from her machine, she circled the lower end of Manhattan island.

Motor Parade Follows.

The course of the Mayflower was marked by the rays of the most powerful searchlight in the world as the yacht's anchor was hoisted and the presidential party headed for the Battery to disembark for the motor car parade which preceded the banquet.

The parade passed into lower Broadway, across the plaza of City Hall park, where the Stars and Stripes, outlined in red, white, and blue electric lights, gleamed on the front of the city hall and on through Washington square, into Fifth avenue. The avenue had been converted into a "golden way." Long ribbons of specially erected lights gleamed on either side of the thoroughfare as far north as Thirty-third street.

PUBLIC TO GET EXTRA GUARANTEE OF 1500 MILES

On All Makes of Tires With No Advance in Price

If old guarantee is for 6,000 miles --- the new guarantee gives you 7,500 miles
If old guarantee is for 3,500 miles --- the new guarantee gives you 5,000 miles

A TREMENDOUS SAVING IN DOLLARS AND CENTS TO THE MOTOR USING PUBLIC

HERETOFORE tires have been called upon to do not only their OWN work but the WORK OF THE SPRINGS ALSO. This, naturally, has shortened the life of tires. Tire manufacturers, therefore, have been compelled to accept conditions as they have found them and limit their mileage responsibility. There has been more mileage in the tires, but nobody has known how to get it out of them.

We have found a way to get that mileage out of tires. Records of tests made by manufacturers and car owners show that the insertion of an anti-frictional, self-lubricating bronze bearing between all the leaves of all the springs, from end to end, gives free, smooth, uninterrupted spring action. This enables the springs to absorb their proportion of the road shocks, and makes possible this sensational tire guarantee.

Buy Your Tires Where You Please

We, or any of the dealers named below, will give you this extra written guarantee of 1500 miles. Just register your new tires with any of us and have Dann Insert between the leaves of the springs of your car.

THIS WONDERFUL GUARANTEE IS MADE POSSIBLE BY

DANN INSERT
"The Lubricated Spring-Leaf Bearing"

Dann Insert is a SELF-LUBRICATING BRONZE BEARING that fits between the leaves of the springs in your car from end to end. It is packed with a special graphite compound which will not flow liquid and which insures maximum efficiency at all times. This BRONZE BEARING allows spring leaves to slide freely over each other — to do the work they are expected to do. Keeps the springs continuously, permanently lubricated — eliminates rust — makes springs act freely, flexibly, easily. Your car will ride as easily as though it were floating on air.

Dann Insert comes packed in boxes for all makes and models of cars. You put Dann Insert in your present springs. You do not have to buy new springs.

The saving on two tires will more than pay for the cost of Dann Insert

FIRST VICTORY AT HORSE SHOW TO THOMPSON BAY

Brilliant Audience Sees Nancy Walker Take the Opening Event at Amphitheater.

BY HERBERT J. KRUM.

Nancy Walker, the handsome bay saddle mare owned by John R. Thompson of Chicago, won the opening event of the International Horse show at the International amphitheater in the stockyards last night. Driven by Manager Ed White in the harness part of the class, which was a combination event, and ridden by Holgar Rasmussen when the saddles were put on, the beautiful Kentucky mare, which was a winner at the National show in New York a couple of weeks ago, scored over a strong field of nine competitors.

Entries were confined to locally owned horses, which made up the bill for the first night's program.

Mrs. J. M. Harris was second with her new purchase, Golden Lady, and made a beautiful appearance on her mount, also a former Madison Square garden winner. Mrs. Harris was really represented twice in these awards, as the third prize was awarded to Lady Fascination, a breezy looking gray which she had recently sold to Mrs. Francis C. Peabody of Hinsdale, who is a newcomer to the show horse game.

The fourth ribbon went to Mrs. Katharine Farwell, who showed her many time winner, Betty Custer.

Brilliant Audience Present.

Chicago returned to the horse show last night after an absence of two years with every manifestation of enthusiasm, a brilliant audience which filled the building giving every evidence of appreciation of the equine beauties which have been entered from all parts of the county. Judging for the evening was in the hands of W. L. Roberts of Lexington, Ky., who is identified with the fame of such notable tanbark champions as Poetry of Motion and Gallant Lad.

Rivalry of the keenest kind was shown in the second event, as it involved the horses and riders at the stockyards, the requirements calling for the horse most suitable for stockyard work. The facile manner in which the horses performed the various stunts required kept the audience in constant cheers. Ossie Hasselbacher was pronounced the winner, with the redoubtable Billy Daniel getting the second ribbon.

Symon P. Rappel had two entries and the mount on Jewell, which got third, and A. Pfaelzer was fourth.

Thompson Scores Again.

John R. Thompson scored again in the class for saddle horses, lady to ride, Nancy Walker being ridden this time by Miss Grace Brunk of Springfield. Twelve entries had been made and all were shown.

Mrs. Harris was again winner of the red ribbon, third being awarded to Miss Katherine Farwell's Chestnut.

Fifteen saddle horses were shown in the five gaited class, which was the feature of the evening and proved most popular with the audience.

Willie McDonald, a Kentucky mare recently purchased by Thomas Cross, and which has been winning all over the country this year, wore the blue, shown by Robert McCray of North Middletown, Ky.

Second went to a 3 year old son of the famous My Major Dare, owned by Miss Loula Long of Kansas City and shown by Lonnie Hayden.

Third fell to the lot of Emerald Bay, a former champion in Kentucky and now owned by E. V. Maltby of this city, who has a stock farm at Mokena, Ill.

E. R. Shaw, secretary of the Riding and Driving club, was fourth with his brown gelding, Lord Roberts.

Women at the Reins.

Driving horses brought out a strong field, with several women handling the reins. It proved another score for the Thompson stable, which was a double winner. Miss Ruth Thompson, daughter of the restauranteur, won third with Ebony Girl, the class being won by Lord Brilliant, driven by Edward White. Second was won by Mrs. Peabody's Lady Tuck and fourth went to Rose Marie, driven by Billy Watson, for Mrs. Vira W. Jones.

For the first time in several years Mrs. Prentiss L. Coonley was an exhibiter, showing her flashily marked gelding Arion.

Pairs of saddle horses, one ridden by a lady, the other by a gentleman, proved another very popular class, with five pairs being shown. O. J. Mooers of Columbia, Mo., and Mrs. J. F. Ward rode Lady of Fashion and Anne Pennington, but they could not quite get the blue, which was awarded to Miss Farwell's chestnut pair, Betty Custer and Brilliant, beautifully ridden by Miss Helen Morton and Miss FitzHugh. Third went to Prentiss L. Coonley's pair, shown in nice form by Mr. and Mrs. Holgar Rasmussen of Lake Forest.

Hunters Close Program.

Hunters brought the program to a close, the audience seeming loath to leave their seats when the last horse had gone over the bars. Capt. Valerio of the Royal Horse artillery of Milan, Italy, judged this class. Eleven entries were shown and they proved an unusually good lot.

Mrs. J. F. Ward captured the audience with the whip from the Woodin farm. Her mount cleared the bars with a couple of feet to spare, and Mrs. Ward would throw her hand up with a peculiar gesture as she glanced behind to see that her mount had not touched the hurdle.

PLAN GAS COUNTER OFFER.

Company Officials and Engineers Refuse to Accede to Bemis 50 Cent Figure.

Officials of the gas company and members of the engineering firm of Sanderson & Porter conferred yesterday with a view to preparing a counter proposal to that of E. W. Bemis, the city's expert, who recommended 50 cent gas.

Although no announcement was made, it is understood the gas company will refuse to accede to Mr. Bemis' figures.

TEACHER LEAGUE PRAISES LOEB AND HIS POLICIES

Rival of Federation Says President Has Fought for Interests of the Children.

Officers of the Chicago Teachers' league yesterday sent a letter to Jacob M. Loeb, president of the board of education, indorsing his policies and announcing their confidence in his sincerity. In the letter there were several veiled references to the Chicago Teachers' federation, the rival organization to the Teachers' league.

The letter follows:

"The executive committee of the Chicago Teachers' league, representing several thousand members of all departments of the public school teaching force, disclaiming the assertion of any right to interference or meddle in the administration of the school system, desire at this time to express their appreciation of the service which you have rendered to the public schools and their confidence in the sincerity of your motives.

Approve Loeb Rules.

"It is your view, frequently and publicly announced, that the schools should be operated primarily and always in the interests of the school children. With this view the Chicago Teachers' league is heartily in accord. You have been vigorous and persistent in your opposition to individuals and groups of individuals within and without the schools who have sought to use them for their own selfish ends. For this you deserve the gratitude and thanks of the entire community.

"It is common knowledge that for some years past a growing spirit of indifference and insubordination has characterized a faction of the teaching force, seriously impairing its discipline and efficiency. The league believes it to be fundamental that the schools are maintained by the public, at public expense, for the benefit of the school children; that the members of the board of education are the public's trustees, and that open and persistent insurbordination by teachers towards those trustees in the rightful discharge of their duties may be more harmful to the schools than mere inefficiency, and therefore should be ample ground for elimination from the service.

For Merit Rule.

"The league stands for a fair merit rule which will protect the tenure in office of all teachers who give to the public schools loyal and efficient service, and which, in simple justice to the loyal and efficient, as well as to the rights of the public, shall eliminate from the service the insubordinate, disloyal, and inefficient.

"We believe, Mr. Loeb, you have recognized and courageously grappled with very difficult problems, and that the policies you have inaugurated and supported will, if carried to conclusion, be of great benefit to the public schools of Chicago."

The communication was signed by Eva Griswold, president of the league, and Eleanor M. Mahany, secretary.

DIVORCE FOR MRS. BARNET?

Referee Recommends Decree for Daughter of Vice President Daly of New York Central Lines.

New York, Dec. 2.—[Special.]—If the recommendations of William R. Maloney, the referee, be adopted by the Supreme court, Mrs. Charline Daly Barnet, daughter of Charles F. Daly, vice president of the New York Central railroad company, will soon get a divorce from Willard R. Barnet, former assistant general passenger agent of the same company. The suit brought by Mr. Barnet against his father-in-law and Mr. Daly's private secretary, Herman Miller, asking for $500,000 for the alleged alienation of the affections of Mrs. Barnet is still pending in the Supreme court.

MAYOR COMPARES PRIVATE BRIDGE TYPES WITH CITY'S.

Will Determine if Spans Designed by Companies Are Cheaper than Those Planned by Municipality.

Mayor Thompson has ordered an investigation to determine whether bridges designed by private bridge companies can be constructed more economically and with better results than those designed by the city engineering bureau.

In the meantime, under instruction from Deputy Commissioner of Public Works Burkhardt, City Engineer Ericson has halted the work of his bureau in drafting bridge plans. He told the finance committee that the administration's order would hold up bridge work for six months, and certain members of the committee expressed apprehension that private companies would be allowed to "break in" with patented designs.

For some years the custom has been for the city to make the designs and then contract with private companies for the construction of the bridges.

The bridge companies have contended they will save the city money not only in actual drafting of plans but also in the subsequent construction if they are allowed to do all the work.

Mr. Ericson, however, asserts his plans are better than anything on the market.

CONTROL OF JOBS STARTS NEW ROW IN COUNTY G. O. P.

Deneen and Sergel-Merriam Forces Split on Eve of Taking Offices.

With the inauguration of the new Cook county Republican officials tomorrow a three cornered factional row in the Republican family will break out afresh, precipitated by former Gov. Deneen, who has his eye on the United States senate. The first explosion came with the open break between Deneen forces and Sergel-Merriam followers.

At a conference in the office of Roy O. West last week Mr. Deneen was charged with demanding control of all patronage in several large county offices and with having opposed putting the jobs into a jackpot and recognizing all party factions.

Sergel and Ringer.

Mr. Sergel and Charles H. Ringer, the new assessor-elect, openly bolted the Deneen plan. Since then the Sergel-Ringer combination has gone into a "new deal" with the Ickes-Merriam faction of former Progressives.

Their tentative program includes Merriam for mayor to succeed Mayor Thompson, John Siman, present city clerk, for renomination and reëlection, and the opposing of Deneen for senator.

Mr. Sergel last night admitted the conference was held and that he and Mr. Ringer refused to agree to Deneen's plan. Beyond that he would not discuss the meeting, except to declare himself for Merriam for mayor.

Sergel Backs Merriam for Mayor.

"I believe Merriam is the best equipped man we have for mayor, and I should like to see him placed in that office," he said. "I have not been a candidate for mayor, and am not. I will have my hands full attending to the sanitary district job, and I want to do the best I can in that position."

Behind the Merriam candidacy also is said to be a plan to give women voters added recognition by backing several of them for seats in the city council.

At the conference in Mr. West's office Sergel is reported to have charged Deneen with backing Wallace G. Clark's fight on him over sanitary district patronage. Mr. Sergel admitted something was said about it, but he refused to discuss details.

How the Factions Fared.

In the coalition that backed Hull against Lowden former Gov. Deneen landed two men on the county pay roll—Haas, for recorder, and Litzinger, for the board of review. The Progressives landed two—Sergel, for sanitary district head, and Ringer, for assessor.

The Thompson forces got Miller for Circuit court clerk and the Brundage neutrals landed John Kjellander for Superior court clerk and George K. Schmidt for long term assessor.

Brundage and Thompson are said to be willing to put the jobs in one pot and divide them pro rata among all factions, but Deneen's demand for control of all patronage in offices to which his men were elected upset that plan, and now it is reported Brundage neutrals will deal with other factions.

Deneen Ally to Get Berth.

Haas and Litzinger are expected to go with Deneen and give all their patronage to Deneen men in aiding the former governor in his senatorial battle. Haas will name John F. Devine chief deputy recorder.

John C. Cannon of the Twenty-sixth ward, who has been a Deneen ally for a quarter of a century, is slated to cast his fortunes with the Brundage group on the north side, preferring to remain in the Lincoln park service. He is said to have been offered a good position by the Deneen forces, but has his eye on the superintendency of Lincoln park. He is now in charge of civil service organization for the park.

These to be Inaugurated.

The new officials to be inaugurated tomorrow are:

Joseph F. Haas, Republican, recorder.

Maclay Hoyne, Democrat, state's attorney.

August W. Miller, Republican, Circuit court clerk.

John Kjellander, Republican, Superior court clerk.

Peter M. Hoffman, Republican, coroner.

Charles Ringer, Republican, assessor.

Robert E. Crowe, Republican, Circuit court judge.

Joseph Sabath, Democrat, Superior court judge.

George K. Schmidt, long term assessor, and Litzinger, board of review, both Republicans, do not take office until Jan. 1.

Mr. Sergel will be inaugurated Tuesday afternoon.

The new Municipal court judges will be installed tomorrow. Caverly and Dolan are the only Democrats. They were reëlected. The other judges in this court to get certificates are Hosea W. Wells, John R. Newcomer, Wells M. Cook, John A. Swanson, Hugh R. Stewart, John F. Haas, Howard Hayes, and Bernard P. Barasa.

The Superior court judges elected last June also will be installed, including John J. Sullivan, who steps from the Municipal bench to the higher court.

Elaborate ceremonies are to mark the inauguration of Judge Sullivan, a brother of William L. Sullivan, private secretary to Gov. Dunne. The ceremonies will take place in room 1122 at the county building at 10 o'clock in the morning.

A 1917 PORTIA

Clara Ruth Mozzor, Recently Named Assistant Attorney General of Colorado, Is First Woman in U. S. to Hold That Position.

Clara Ruth Mozzor, young Denver attorney and former newspaper girl, recently appointed assistant attorney general in Colorado, is the first woman in the country to hold that position.

Miss Mozzor's appointment by the attorney general elect, Leslie E. Hubbard, is the result of a campaign on the part of Colorado women to obtain for the state the distinction of having the first woman assistant attorney general. It is looked upon as a victory for the women of Colorado.

In her campaign Miss Mozzor obtained even the indorsement of Mrs. Hubbard, the wife of the appointing officer.

Miss Mozzor, when she passed her legal examination in 1915, was the youngest woman ever admitted to the bar in Colorado.

When only 13 she sold signed articles to the Sunday magazine section of the Springfield, Mass., Republican. At the age of '15, when a junior in high school, she attracted attention by organizing settlement work in the Jewish settlement of West Denver. She was graduated from the East Denver High school, took her bachelor of arts degree at Denver university, and graduated in law from the University of Colorado.

SERGEL RESIGNS TO ASSIST CITY OUT OF MUDDLE

Treasurer Quits to Serve Drainage Board—Funds Will Be Released.

Charles H. Sergel yesterday "did his bit" in assisting the city administration out of its financial muddle. He handed his resignation as city treasurer to Mayor Thompson, to take effect next Tuesday.

Although Mr. Sergel denied he was consulting any interest but his own, his resignation paved the way for Mayor Thompson to appoint a treasurer who will recognize Corporation Counsel Ettelson's opinion releasing $1,300,000 for the use of department heads. Mr. Ettelson held the 10 per cent restriction in the budget was illegal. The mayor indicated he would name a man who would take Mr. Ettelson's view.

There were rumors last night that the mayor might appoint Charles A. McCulloch, general manager of the Parmelee company, to finish out Mr. Sergel's unexpired term. The name of Nelson Lampert of the Fort Dearborn bank was also mentioned.

Goes to Mayor's Office.

Mr. Sergel went to the mayor's office and remained in conference for half an hour. Then City Clerk John Siman was called in. A few minutes later the mayor issued a call through the city clerk for a special council meeting to be held at 2 o'clock next Tuesday afternoon, at which time the mayor will appoint Mr. Sergel's successor.

Under the council rules, the aldermen may not confirm the appointment until the next regular meeting of the city council which will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, so the new city treasurer probably will take office late next Thursday afternoon.

The Official Reason.

After resigning verbally in the mayor's office, Mr. Sergel went to his own office to prepare his written resignation.

"I have decided that owing to the important matters now pending in both the board of sanitary district trustees and the city treasurer's office it would be better if I did not try to handle both offices at once," Mr. Sergel said on his way to his own office.

Later Mr. Sergel sent the following letter to Mayor Thompson:

"I hereby resign the office of city treasurer of the city of Chicago to take effect at once or upon the appointment and qualification of my successor. I do this for the reason that I have been elected president of the sanitary district of Chicago and must assume my new duties Dec. 5, 1916."

Of Financial Moment.

The financial importance of the resignation was considered great, inasmuch as Mayor Thompson's appointee to the treasurer's office will be governed by Mr. Ettelson's opinion that the 10 per cent reduction in the 1916 appropriation bill made by the city council is illegal. This, it is believed, will clear up many of the financial difficulties under which half a dozen of the departments of the municipal government are now laboring.

Mr. Sergel has insisted he be compelled by a court decision to honor vouchers for money included in the 10 per cent reduction, but his successor will not insist upon this, the mayor said.

MAYOR WILL NOT SIT IN AT BUDGET DELIBERATIONS.

"I Am Disposed to Keep My Hands Off the Finance Committee," He Announces.

Mayor Thompson indicated yesterday he will not sit with the city council finance committee in making up the 1917 budget.

"I am disposed to keep my hands off the finance committee," he said.

Controller Pike said he would have the estimates of twenty departments ready to submit tomorrow. It is probable he will not attend the session, but will send a representative.

During the day he discovered a chance to roast Chairman Henry D. Capitain of the local transportation committee. According to Mr. Pike, Ald. Capitain has failed as yet to submit his estimate of the money needed by the committee.

"And yet," continued Mr. Pike, "Ald. Capitain was one of those who sat in the finance committee yesterday and attacked me for failing to send down my budget estimates for 1917 by Oct. 1."

MISS MARTIN FIGURES IT AS WOMAN'S PARTY VICTORY.

National Chairman Takes Credit for Hughes Sweep of Illinois Suffragists.

Miss Anne Martin, national chairman of the Woman's party, which carried on a "vote against Wilson" campaign in the twelve suffrage states, was able to analyze the result of the election as a victory for the Woman's party. She was the principal speaker yesterday at a luncheon of suffragists at the Auditorium hotel.

"It was agreed by Republicans and Democrats alike," she said, "that the woman's vote in Illinois would go to Wilson. Months of work by the Woman's party told, however, and the expected landslide to Wilson was averted by the knowledge that we had spread that he 'kept us out of suffrage.' The Woman's party was able to carry Oregon as well as Illinois against President Wilson by an appeal to women to hold him responsible for his hostile suffrage record."

THOMPSON HAS HIGH VOTE.

Restaurant Man Tops the List in Ballots Cast for Republican Electors.

John R. Thompson, the restaurant man and former county treasurer, landed the highest vote given for a Hughes elector in Illinois. Tabulation of the complete official returns in the secretary of state's office at Springfield yesterday showed he rolled up a total of 1,152,549 votes. Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch led the Democratic electors with a total vote of 950,229.

WARMTH

SHIVERING in open cars on wintry days has gone out of fashion. Warmth and quiet ease are now yours—at moderate cost, in the Jeffery Sedan. No one who has experienced the luxury of winter driving in a Jeffery Sedan will ever return to a touring car during bad weather.

When warm Spring days herald Summer, however, the Jeffery owner by removing his Sedan top provides himself with a perfect touring car.

The extra-wide three-sixteenth inch French crystal plate windows, equipped with roller curtains—the long, low, flat straight lines of the body—and swift, silent speed—distinguish the Jeffery Sedan from less favored cars.

Buy Your Eggs and Poultry Fresh by Mail

Direct from the Farmer

There's a big profit somewhere between the farmer who produces eggs and poultry, and the city merchant, who sells these products to you. The farmer gets none of it, but you pay it just the same. If the farmer could deal direct with you, you not only would get poultry and eggs fresh from the farm, where cold storage is unknown, but cut down your costs.

Let Us Introduce You to a Farmer

We publish a magazine devoted to the interests of the poultry and egg farmer, and have evolved a plan to help both you and him, and, at the same time, break the backbone of the cold storage trust.

We'll Give You the Name of a Farmer

Send us a two-cent stamp, your name and address, how many eggs and how much poultry you will want weekly and we will send you the names and addresses of [illegible] our subscribers, who are poultry raisers, who reside within 100 miles of you, and who will send by parcel post, in special mailing cartons, just what you want, fresh and direct from the farm.

ADDRESS T O 294 TRIBUNE

CZAR'S SISTER QUITS PRINCE TO WED CAPTAIN

Grand Duchess Olga, Exponent of Simplicity, Tires of Formal Mate.

BY BYRON LOMAX.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 20.—Nicholas the Second's clever, amiable, and wildly original sister, Grand Duchess Olga, has divorced her husband, Prince Peter of Oldenburg, and will marry plain Capt. Drozdoff.

The divorce has been decreed by the Orthodox Consistory and been published in the "Ecclesiastical Gazette," and at the same time Lieut. Drozdoff has been advanced in rank and is now a captain.

This is the most unequal and romantic marriage in Romanoff family history, but it has the full support of Czar Nicholas, of the czarina, of the divorced husband himself, and of every one except the Dowager Empress Marie.

Passion to Be Simple.

Grand Duchess Olga has divorced Prince Peter because of her overmastering passion to be simple. This is the comedy and tragedy of her fifteen years of life with Prince Peter, who had every merit and talent as a husband except that he abhorred simplicity.

The real arranger of the divorce is Grand Duke Michael, the czar's only living brother, who himself took to the simple life when he married plain Madame Brassoff, born Scheremetievsky, and retired from court to a small estate in Orel province, where he insists so rigidly on being simple that he himself currycombs his favorite horse and sees no society except small farmers. Grand Duke Michael and Grand Duchess Olga have always been close friends.

When Nicholas II. punished Michael for the Brassoff marriage by appointing a curator over his estates, Grand Duchess Olga interceded, and now when Grand Duchess Olga declared she would marry a plain army officer Grand Duke Michael came from Orel, begged Nicholas II. and the czarina to give their consent, and pacified the dowager czarina, who at first threatened to leave Russia forever if the remarriage took place.

"The Eternal Furse."

Prince Peter of Oldenburg's incorrigible complexity caused all the trouble. Prince Peter is son of the czar's kinsman, Duke Alexander of Oldenburg. Duke Alexander is the msot respected man at Russia's court; he directs the Red Cross, wars against drink and crime, and gives away vast sums of money to charity. Petrograd calls him "vetchni Koseliok," which means "the eternal purse."

Duke Alexander is one of Europe's richest men; he has no poor relations to support and no children except Prince Peter. When Grand Duchess Olga was a child her mother, Dowager Empress Marie, decided that she should marry Peter.

Apart from Peter's wealth there was the dowager's desire that her daughter should not marry and live abroad. Peter was a promising husband. He gave Grand Duchess Olga a pearl necklace for which the Petrograd jeweler, Labergé, charged $600,000.

After that for fifteen years went on a struggle between his complexity and her simplicity which at last led to divorce.

Czar Hates Show.

Grand Duchess Olga's simplicity is a marked Russian, also a marked Romanoff, trait. It is shown in mystical inclinations towards plain Spartan living and religious renunciation and general reaction against the pomps and vanities of the world. Only in Russia do princes give away their estates and set out on pilgrimages with beggars.

Czar Nicholas' family in the present generation has a strong leaning towards simplification. Czar Nicholas hats show, and in peace time lives as plainly as a country gentleman. His elder sister, Grand Duchess Xenia, is the worst dressed woman in Petrograd.

Peter refuses to be simple, and could not be simple if he would. He was brought up in the German court tradition of stiffness and dignity; and his mother, born Duchess of Leuchtenberg, is the stiffest woman in Europe.

In that way Prince Peter was brought up. He is not clever or energetic or amusing, but only slow, ponderous, formal, and complicated. E

RULE ON RED CROSS SEALS.

In order to facilitate the handling and delivery of mail during the Christmas holidays, Postmaster General A. S. Burleson yesterday issued a general order suspending the postoffice rule against handling mail which bears Red Cross seals and other stamps than lawful postage. The suspension will remain in effect until Jan. 1, but postmasters are ordered to inform their patrons that such seals and stamps must not be placed on the address side of the mail.

HENRY B. KEEP TAKES A BRIDE IN NEW ORLEANS

Brilliant Wedding Marks Union of Chicagoan and Miss Katherine Legendre.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 2.—[Special.]—One of the season's most fashionable weddings was that of Miss Katherine Jennings Legendre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Legendre, and Henry Blair Keep, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Keep of Chicago, which was celebrated tonight at Trinity church in the presence of a large assembly of the social world of New Orleans.

The church was gorgeously decorated with palms, ferns, and flowers. The Lohengrin wedding march was played as the bridal party passed to the altar led by the ushers and groomsmen, Hennen Legendre and Armant Legendre, brothers of the bride; Robert Gardner of Chicago; Arthur Tuttle of Lake Forest, Ill.; A. B. Dick Jr. of Chicago, T. Tompkins of New York, John Wesley Castles of New York, Melville Truesdale of New York, James Hutchins Jr. of Chicago, Carter Phelps of New York, and Ronald McDonald of New York.

Chicagoans Among Bridesmaids.

The bridesmaids were Miss Ethelyn Legendre, Miss Aimee Jennings, Miss Mary Jennings, and Miss Jean Morris, all of New York, cousins of the bride; Miss Mildred Curtis of New York, Miss Sadie Downman, Mrs. Robert Gardner of Chicago, the bridegroom's sister, and Mrs. Mason Phelps, also of Chicago. Their gowns were of pink tulle over pink satin in the latest style, with full skirts and pink silk and lace trimmings on the corsage. They carried clusters of roses tied with loops and bows of pink tulle. The maid of honor, who immediately preceded the bride, was her sister, Miss Edith Legendre. She wore yellow tulle over yellow satin and carried Ward roses tied with tulle of the same hue.

The best man was Nat Wheeler of Chicago. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Robert Coupland. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played as a recessional.

Couple to Live in Chicago.

The bride, who entered with her father, wore white satin with trimmings of rare old family point lace. The long court train of satin fell from the shoulders. The veil of illusion was caught with orange blossoms. The nuptial bouquet was of valley lilies and ferns. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's father in Audubon place.

Mr. and Mrs. Keep, who were the recipients of numerous handsome presents, departed later in the evening on a bridal tour before going to Chicago, where they will reside. Among the out of town guests were the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Keep, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hutchins Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Adams Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Mason Phelps, and M. A. B. Dick Jr. and Arthur Tuttle, all of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hennen Morris, Mrs. Cass Ledyard, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hennen Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Hennen Jennings of Washington, D. C., and Miss Octavia Robinson, also of Washington.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM N. COTTRELL, former judge of the Municipal court, died yesterday at his residence, 4929 Lake Park avenue. The body will be taken to Mason City for burial. He was born in Mason City, Ill., in 1870. He was educated in the public schools of Mason City, Wesleyan university, Harvard college, and Harvard law school. He was elected associate justice of the Municipal court in November, 1906, and served until 1912. After his retirement he entered the law firm of Beckman, Cottrell & Phillips, at 60 West Washington street. Mr. Cottrell was a member of the University and Kenwood clubs and the Exmoor, and South Shore Country clubs. He leaves a widow and two children. Funeral services will be held at the residence at 3 p. m. today.

CHARLES POMERY PARKER, professor of Greek and Latin at Harvard university, died yesterday in Cambridge, Mass., after a brief illness with pneumonia. He was born in Boston in 1852 and was a graduate of St. Paul's school, and Oxford university.

JOHN L. PAIGE, former mayor of Joliet, died at his home there of infirmities due to old age. He was 79 years old. Mr. Paige in the course of his career was fire marshal and chief of police, and had held office continuously since 1877.

GIRLS SUE LOOP STORE.

Three Say They Were Falsely Arrested by Siegel, Cooper & Co.

Three suits charging false arrest were filed against Siegel, Cooper & Co. yesterday by Attorney Edwin K. Walker, acting for Mary Rowe, Florence Powers, and the latter's sister, Helen. The suits are each for $10,000.

The three women, according to Mr. Walker, were shopping in the department store Dec. 4, 1914, when they were taken to the superintendent's office and there accused of shoplifting

Helen Powers was locked up at the South Clark street station, while the other two were detained, but not arrested, the bill recites. When Miss Powers was tried the charge against her was dismissed.

Drive Your Car All Winter Long

YOUR car represents an investment of from $500 to $5000—an investment which should yield you returns in service an enjoyment the year round. Yet, because of your previous experience with the intractability of motors in cold weather, and the difficulty of driving through snow and slush, you may be thinking "of putting your car away for the winter."

There is a way out of the situation—a way recently opened through the achievements of modern science in motor car construction. Buy a car which performs as well in winter as in summer—buy an eight-cylinder, light weight, Model 44, Oldsmobile.

The Oldsmobile Eight motor, with its persistent, bull dog strength, carries the light weight of the car through all obstacles, conquering snow and mud—this with minimum gear shifting.

The car starts unfailingly, invariably, in coldest weather, with a mere pressure of the foot on the starting button. The intake and exhaust manifolds, cast integrally, warm the fuel, so that the motor runs as sweetly in January as in July.

If you have never handled an Oldsmobile Eight, you have yet to witness a revelation in cold weather performance.

May we have the opportunity to demonstrate? Call or write.

"No more Hot Irons can Press my Trousers"

"No, Sir! Never again will I go back to the old time, expensive, unsanitary, slow plan of having the tailor do my trouser pressing with a hot iron that scorches and hot steam that rots the very life out of the fibres of the cloth." You can now put on a new looking pair of trousers every morning of your life, with a Michigan Avenue finish (that by the old hot-iron method would cost you $2.00 a month), for less than 1c a month by just handing out a dollar for

Leahey's HEATLESS Trouser Press

(PROTECTED BY U. S. LETTERS PATENT)

It's the simplest, cleverest, and most efficient men's appliance that has ever been invented. There is no operating expense whatsoever. You just put your trousers in the press at night, hang the press over the back of the chair, or in the closet. Wake up next morning and get into your spick and span trousers, thoroughly pressed, thoroughly stretched, smooth and snappy, with a knife-like crease from belt to boot. One pair of trousers can always look as well (if you use a Leahey Heatless Trousers Press) as the millionaire with fifty pairs.

RESOLVE NOW to be the best groomed man in your set. It's only a dollar for this Wonderful Presser. Made of toughest fibre board, thoroughly waterproof—no wood to warp, check, crack, or splinter. Fitted with 4 heavily nickel-plated clamps of finest spring steel. Folds up—if you want—with the trousers in it, and takes up no more room than a shirt.

A Personal Valet for Everybody

Hire your Personal Valet for $1.00 a Lifetime. Never wears out—always ready—and, best of all, there's no operating expense—THE FIRST COST IS THE LAST COST.

Cut Tailor Bills to Nothing

You won't have to buy half as many new trousers — and you will never again have to throw away a pair that repeated pressing with the old-fashioned hot iron have put out of business. Adopt the Heatless method now. West Point cadets do it—and they are the best turned out men in the world.

DEALERS—One dealer alone has a record of 35,000 Heatless Pressers sold. It is a presser, creaser, stretcher, and a hanger all combined in one, to sell for only $1.00. The greatest seller since the safety razor. Stores all over the country are ordering and reordering. Write, phone or wire now for dealer discounts and complete selling plans.

ECKERSALL PICKS ALL-WESTERN TEAM

PURPLE GIVEN COLD SHOULDER BY "BIG FOUR"

Ohio Also Refused Late Football Dates with Recognized Leaders.

Ohio State, winner of the Western conference football championship, and Northwestern, the runner-up, were given the cold shoulder yesterday at the meeting of athletic directors and coaches at the Auditorium hotel. That the "Big Four" of the conference still has the idea it can rule was shown when Stagg of Chicago, Williams of Minnesota, Zuppke of Illinois, and Tom Jones, representing Dr. Withington of Wisconsin, got together and made tentative arrangements for next year's schedule.

Williams, Stagg, and Jones tried to outguess each other in the selection of dates. They argued back and forth and after a wrangle which lasted at least two hours Wisconsin agreed to play Minnesota at Madison on Nov. 3. Realizing his team would have a hard game, Coach Williams of Minnesota took an open date on Nov. 10 to prepare for the Chicago game on Nov. 17 and the Illinois struggle on the following Saturday at Urbana.

Stagg After Early Games.

Stagg wanted an early date with any of the conference elevens. He held out for it and as a result left his early dates open and will schedule games later in the season with teams which he hopes will be stepping stones in the development of his eleven for the games to be played later in the year.

The schedule of the "Big Four" follows:

CHICAGO.

Oct. 20—Purdue at Chicago.
Oct. 27—Northwestern at Evanston.
Nov. 3—Illinois at Chicago.
Nov. 17—Minnesota at Minnesota.
Nov. 24—Wisconsin at Chicago.

WISCONSIN.

Oct. 20—Illinois at Illinois.
Nov. 3—Minnesota at Wisconsin.
Nov. 17—Ohio at Wisconsin (tentative).
Nov. 24—Chicago at Chicago.

ILLINOIS.

Oct. 20—Wisconsin at Illinois.
Oct. 27—Purdue at Illinois.
Nov. 3—Illinois at Chicago.
Nov. 24—Minnesota at Illinois.

MINNESOTA.

Nov. 3—Wisconsin at Wisconsin.
Nov. 17—Chicago at Minnesota.
Nov. 24—Illinois at Illinois.

Purple Gets Indoor Meet.

It was agreed to hold the indoor conference track and field meet under the auspices of Northwestern university at Patten gymnasium on March 24. An effort to stage it on March 16 and 17 was voted down.

The outdoor track and field meet was given to Chicago and will be held at Stagg field on June 2. Director Huff of Illinois wanted the meet held earlier, on account of examinations, and Jones of Wisconsin wanted it later for the same reason. After considerable argument, it finally was put to a vote by George Huff, the chairman, and June 2 was selected.

Harry Gill, track coach at the University of Illinois, was a busy person. He has arranged an indoor invitation relay carnival and special events for the new Illinois armory on March 3. After he had told his plans, coaches of the other teams fell in line and agreed to help in every way possible a new event in the west.

Gill Plans Relay Card.

Gill plans to stage a one and two mile relay, four men on each team, and a mile relay for minor colleges. In addition there will be the following special events, open to any member of any university or college in the country: 75 yard dash, 75 yard high hurdles, shot put, running high and broad jump, and pole vault. Winners of the first three places will receive prizes.

An intercollegiate all around championship will be another feature of the carnival. Contestants will be compelled to take part in the seventy-five yard dash, seventy-five yard high hurdles, running high and broad jumps, shotput, and half mile. The winner will be determined on the A. A. U. percentage basis. A handsome prize will be donated by one of Illinois alumni for the winner.

Officials at Meeting.

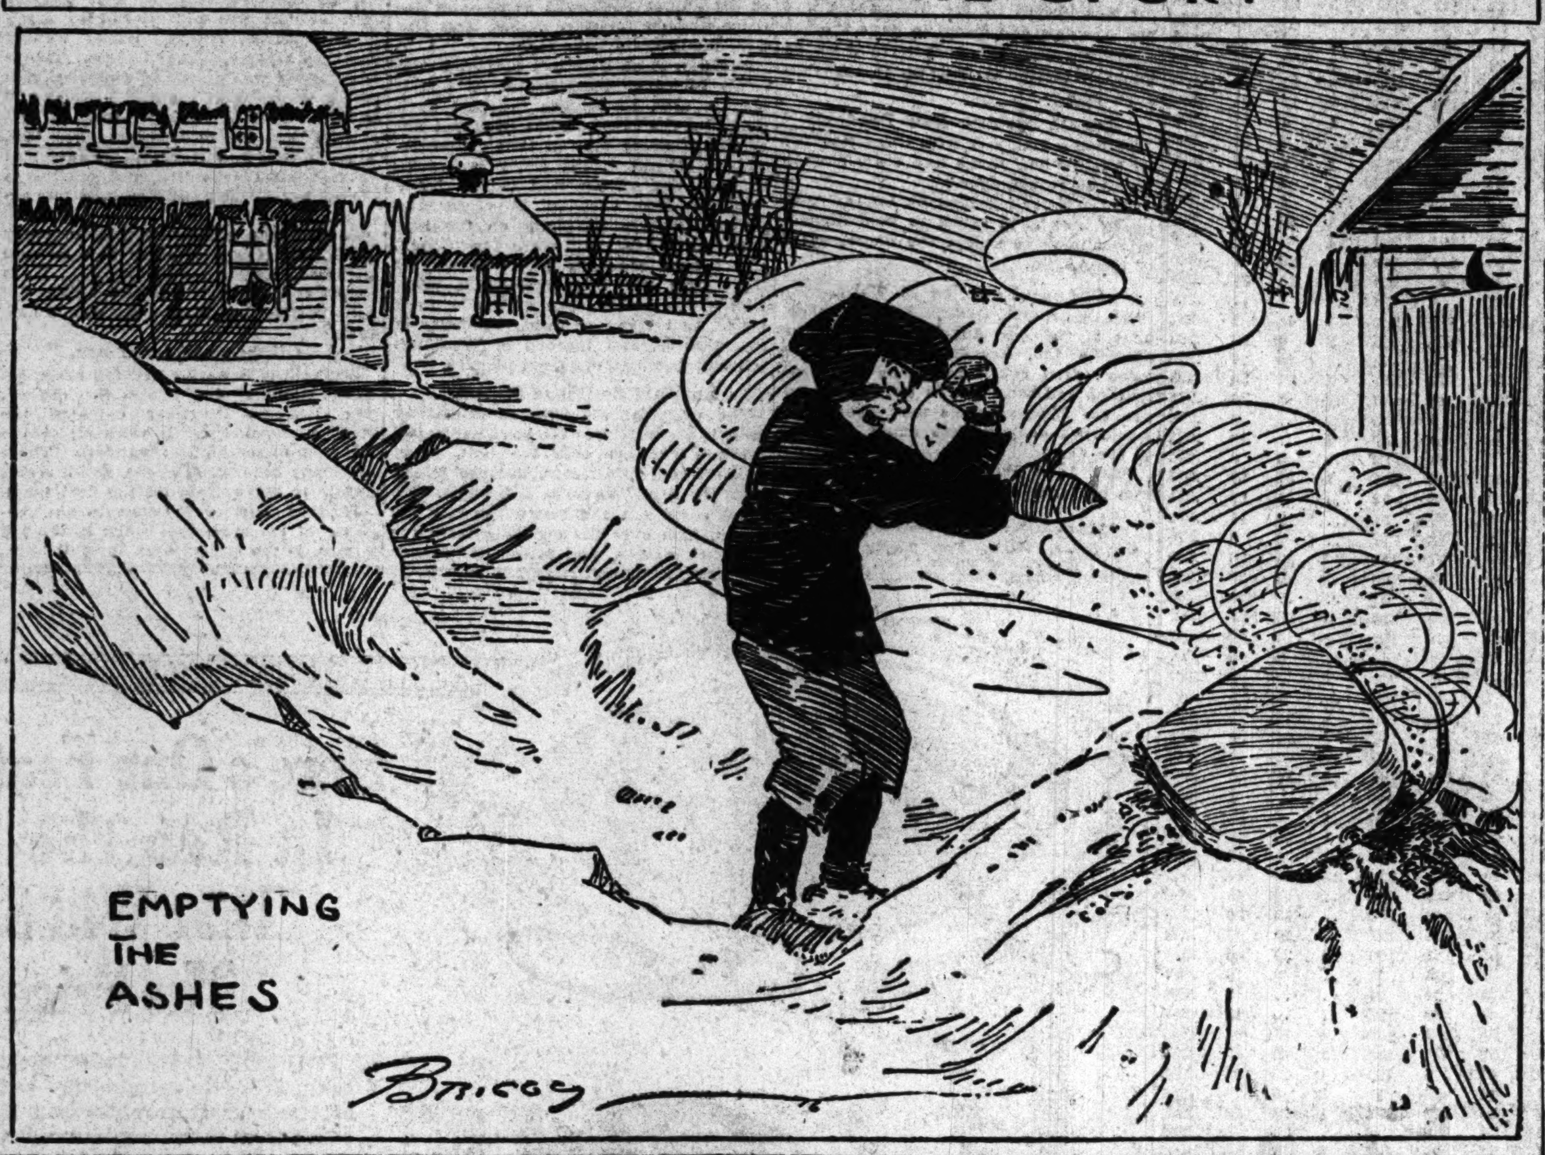
THE DAYS OF REAL SPORT



In the Wake of the News

By RING W. LARDNER

THE DIARY OF A SIREN

November 29.

TODAY I came to an understanding with Mr. Cooley, and I will receive no more invitations to go to lunch with him, or elsewhere, but if I do receive them I will refuse, and he cannot help from knowing why after our plain talk of today. It nearly broke my heart to talk to him as I did, not only because I saw I was wounding him deeply, but also because I have grown fond of him, rather too fond for my own peace of mind. But a girl's lot in life is always to be making sacrifices and I would rather have a clear conscience and know that I had not been unfair to Miss Walters than to permit his attentions to me, though it meant a life of happiness to me at some one's else expense.

CUPID'S ARROW

As usual, he caught up with me when I left the house this morning, and we went down town together. No sooner had we gotten seated on the elevated when he said:

"Howabout a little lunch together today?"

"No, Mr. Cooley," I replied softly.

"Why not?" he said.

"I think it is about time to speak plain," was my reply. "I do not believe it fair to your fiancé to make engagements with you."

"What she don't know won't hurt her," was his reply.

"But she works downtown, too," I said. "What if she were to see us together."

"I will take you where she would not ever think of going," was his reply.

"No, Mr. Cooley," I replied firmly. "I am afraid fate might arrange for she seeing us, and, besides, I am not the kind of a girl to do these things behind a person's back."

"I wish you would change your mind," he said. "I am not married yet, and it will be time enough for me to give up my freedom after the preacher has done his worst."

I could not help from laughing at the comical way he put it, though I tried hard not to, and tried to give him a severe look.

"When a gentleman is engaged I consider him as good as married," I said. "So you will have to stop thinking about me as anything but a mere acquaintance, or else I will have to leave my boarding house and find other quarters."

"I can't stop thinking about you," he replied, and there was such tenderness in his voice that it went straight to my heart. "But I don't want to drive you out of the house, and if there is any danger of that I will stop annoying you with my attentions."

"Mr. Cooley," was my reply, "under different circumstances your attentions would be anything but annoying, but as it is I think it better for you to forget all about me."

That ended our conversation, and I guess it will not be necessary for me to refuse any more of his invitations, as he will not persist in inviting me against my wishes. But, O Diary, how it hurt me to wound him, and especially when I was wounding myself with the same sharp arrow.

November 30.

There was no work today on account of Thanksgiving. I rose late, as breakfast was later than usual, and expected to find Miss Walters at table, but she was not there, but Mr. Cooley was. Most of the others finished their breakfast before I was through, and they all left the table except only Mr. Cooley.

"How can we celebrate today?" he said, when we were alone. "Will you go to a show with me?"

"Mr. Cooley," I replied, "we talked that over yesterday, and I told you I could not accept no further attentions from you. It is your duty to entertain Miss Walters."

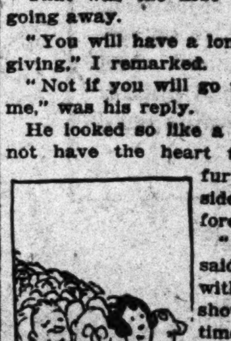
"But I cannot do that," was his reply. "She went to Milwaukee last night to spend Thanksgiving with her mother."

That was the first I knew of her going away.

"You will have a lonesome Thanksgiving," I remarked.

"Not if you will go to a show with me," was his reply.

He looked so like a boy that I did not have the heart to wound him further, and, besides, I spoke before I thought.



"Mr. Cooley," I said, "I will go with you to a show this one time, but, remember, it is the last time, and do not ask me again."

"I cannot make any rash promises," he replied, and I could not help from smiling at the way he put it.

So after dinner we went together to the Palace, and after the show he insisted on me staying downtown with him for supper, and, O Diary, what a wonderful time we had! But it is the last time we can ever be together, for I will not yield to his pleadings again, and when Miss Walters returns from Milwaukee tomorrow I will remove myself out of his life and we will be as strangers, merely speaking to one another when politeness demands, like at table, etc.

ALL-AMERICAN ELEVEN

Walter H. Eckersall's Selections for the All-American First and Second Elevens Will Appear in Next Sunday's Tribune.

PARKER DOWNS SENN MIDGETS FOR TITLE, 14-0

BY OTTO A. ENGEL.

Parker High school will have a Chicago league lightweight football championship banner for the first time when the board of control makes the formal award at its next meeting. Parker gridders, battling like demons through the sixty minutes of play, toppled Senn High, 14 to 0, in the titular combat at Stagg field yesterday before a crowd of 5,000.

Parker won because it played alert football; because its line was superior to the north siders, and because it possessed the necessary punch. Fully three quarters of the contest was played in Senn territory, and only once did the losers have a good chance to score. That opportunity came late in the fourth period when Coach Crooks' youngsters opened a bunch of forward passes and swept down the field for fifty yards.

Parker Gains Most Ground.

Ground gained by the two teams showed that Parker was the better team, 3 to 1. On returning punts, the south siders led by as wide a margin, but in the execution of the forward pass there was little difference. Parker, however, intercepted half a dozen Senn heaves, two or three of them at moments when it looked as if the north siders had a clear field for a touchdown.

Senn failed to live up to its reputation gained by scoring four victories in preliminary games, most of them by decisive scores. The aggressive type of play shown in the Crane game of a week ago was lacking and only infrequently was there a continuity of progress. Senn found the Parker line too powerful, and whenever first down was gained it was made after four desperate efforts which left only a yard or two at the finish.

First Half Hard Fought.

Play in the first half was as fierce and as hard as seen in any heavyweight game this season. The youngsters put everything they possessed in every attempt to advance or check the ball, and when the third quarter started it was quite noticeable that such speedy tactics could not continue much longer. The last period was decidedly slow, compared with the earlier part of the game.

Abele of Senn, regarded as one of the best punters among the lightweights, was away off form in kicking. Out of fifteen boots, only four or five went the distance of forty or fifty yards. Several just passed the line of scrimmage. In a way, he could not be held to blame for all of his failure to get distance from

BOGGS CAMPBELL, 20 years old, bank clerk; died from injuries sustained in game of Nov. 30, when thrown while making end run; died Dec. 1 at Pittsburgh.

Francis B. Moriarity, 14 years old, Detroit; died from internal injuries.

"B. L. T."—THAT MEANS A TRICK PLAY

"B. L. T.—77—65—44—1—2—4—14," called the quarter back of the Marigolds, the Morris packing team, on which Edward and Nelson Morris played Thanksgiving day against an eleven from their St. Louis branch.

The spectators, who heard the call distinctly uttered, immediately scanned the "column" of players and prepared to be amused, as is their wont. That THE TRIBUNE is well known in St. Louis was shown when the visitors looked up and indulged in a little chuckle.

St. Louis' appreciation of the joke was rudely shattered, for a trick play, eminently fitting after such a signal, followed, and a Chicago back in some manner slipped through the right side of their "line" for fifteen yards and a first down.

The next time the signal "B. L. T." was called one of the St. Louis contingent shouted, "Etaoin!" and the plunge was checked.

Driscoll and Jackson Get Berths—Four Gophers Are Honored.

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

[Copyright: 1916: By Walter H. Eckersall.]

After picking an honorary all-conference eleven, a task comparatively easy this season, the work of selecting an all-star western eleven is much harder because of the many star back field players. The linemen are the same as those selected for the all-conference eleven with the exception of McInerney of Notre Dame, who is placed at left guard.

Taking the back field material into consideration, a coach never would overlook Harley of Ohio State, Driscoll of Northwestern, Maulbetsch of Michigan, Macomber of Illinois, and Wyman of Minnesota. With such star performers, a coach would have to place them in positions where their ability would show to the best advantage.

Pattie Driscoll at End.

For this reason Pattie Driscoll of Northwestern is taken from his natural position at half back and placed at end because he is the best player to fit into that position. Driscoll is a smart football player and certainly would play the position better than any of the other four selected as backs.

The players named for this all-western eleven have played hard and consistent football all year. They have met the open and close attack with equal success, while their defensive qualities hardly could be improved upon. Each has been a factor in deciding the issue of hard fought struggles.

Football Sense Needed.

It is well known in football that certain teams win against some teams with formations which would not gain against others. This was shown in the Illinois-Minnesota game, when Zuppke's eleven won from the Gophers. Chicago then defeated Illinois but, in turn, was beaten by the Minneapolis eleven. So a team must be composed of players with football sense who can adapt themselves to situations as they arise.

Bart Macomber of Illinois, who piloted his eleven through a season featured by upsets in which his own eleven won and lost when least expected, is selected to play quarter back and is made captain. The Illini warrior is the most natural player on the team, and for this reason is placed to direct the attack and general defense.

Macomber Good Kicker.

Macomber not only is a great runner to advance the ball, but he is one of the best kickers in the conference colleges. He can boot the ball for an average of forty and fifty yards, while his ability to kick goals from the field, either by drop or place kicks, is too well known for comment. He has been a power on Illinois' defense, seldom failing to size up a play quickly and moving to the point of attack with a speed which checked the play without gain.

Pattie Driscoll of Northwestern is placed at right end. The Purple leader's right to a position cannot be disputed. He is a punter and field goal kicker. He can play the wing position as successfully as the back field berth. Driscoll beat Chicago in a game which marked the first upset of the conference season. His powerful line plunging and drives off tackles resulted in Northwestern's touchdown, his goal from the field netted the other marker. Defensively, he has been reliable all season.

Place for Chick Harley.

Chick Harley of Ohio State is selected to play right half back. He scored all Ohio's points against Illinois and Wisconsin and sixteen of the twenty-three points rolled up against Northwestern.

The Buckeye, who weighs only 153 pounds, is an ideal back. What he lacks in weight he more than makes up in speed and ability to pick openings when running from punt formations. He uses the fadeaway dodge once he gets loose, and is a hard man to knock off his feet. He is a punter and field goal kicker of the first water and a grand defensive man.

Michigan Star Chosen.

Maulbetsch of Michigan is selected to play the other half. Mauley can hit the line or drive off tackles with equal success. He is not heavy, but his playing has been a factor in every game the Wolverines have engaged in this season.

He did Michigan's heavy work against Cornell and Pennsylvania in the two big games on Michigan's schedule and he also was a power offensively and defensively against Syracuse and the Michigan Aggies.

Davis of Iowa, Cofall of Notre Dame, Sprafka of Minnesota, Cigrand of Northwestern, and Simpson of Wisconsin deserve mention.

Wyman Powerful Player.

Wyman of Minnesota is placed at full back. It is hard to figure a stronger and more powerful man. He is the best leader of an interference in the country, while the Wyman-to-Baston pass is about as familiar to baseball fans as the Evers-to-Tinker-to-Chance combination was a few years ago.

The Gopher full back holds up the line on defense in a manner which hardly could be improved upon. Quick to solve plays, he moves to the point with speed because of his weight, and he generally stops plays before the run-

GRIDIRON SPORT COSTS 18 LIVES IN 1916 SEASON

Football, the most strenuous of American outdoor sports, exacted a toll of eighteen victims this fall, the number being two larger than the total of 1915. There is a bit of consolation for the sport in the fact that 15 per cent more players engaged in the gridiron game than a year ago, thus reducing the percentage of deaths.

Again the defenders of the popular college sport point out that nine victims were members of amateur and semi-pro teams, five were high schoolers, one a member of a grammar school, and three with college affiliations, but of the latter group only one could be recognized as a real varsity player. Where the game was conducted under expert physical direction, not a single death was reported, or even a real serious injury.

Victims Vary in Age.

According to ages, where reports carried that fact, three players of 21 years and as many of 17 years met their death directly or indirectly through the misfortunes of the game; two were 18 years old and two 19. The youngest player was 9 years old, a Chicago victim, and the oldest 26 years old.

Three deaths should not be placed to the discredit of the sport. One developed into a case of heart disease after the player had overexerted himself in a game; the second victim died from tetanus developing from a cut in the left hand received in a prairie contest, and the third player came to his death after falling over a water bucket. He injured his intestines and died later from peritonitis.

Ignorance Causes Accidents.

Ninety per cent of the cases showed that the players entered the game lacking the proper knowledge of the game and physical condition for so rough a sport. Several instances are cited where the player came to his death through ignorance of the rules, such as piling on the carrier of the ball, tripping, assisting the runner, illegal interference with a forward pass, and roughing the punter.

Special emphasis was made by the rules committee, demanding that no player should be permitted upon the field who hadn't undergone a competent medical examination; who hadn't digested the rules before he took a ball in his hand, and wouldn't give his word to play the game cleanly.

Every precaution to make the game as clean as it possibly could be was made by the rule makers. Several players were injured in 1915 when crashed into as they were receiving forward passes. To remedy the situation the committee put a fifteen yard penalty clause in the code to check a defensive player, who was not permitted to touch the man receiving a pass until that player had the ball.

Local School Boys Play Sane Game.

Chicago high schools passed through another season without a mark against their wonderful record for sane football. There were several injuries, such as broken legs, ribs, and collar bones, but in no case was the player disabled permanently. Chicago has had a rule for physical examination and this has been adhered to religiously since the formation of the league twelve years ago. The same conditions exist in the suburban organization.

Football among the western conference schools again was a clean game. It has been years since a contestant went to his grave, carrying the curse of the game with him. Coaches have made it their business to play the game sanely and safely and the spirit of dirty tactics of other days—when five yards was the necessary distance to be gained in three downs—has been entirely eliminated. Nevertheless the game is played with as much vim and zest as it was ten years ago.

'SMALL' ELEVENS GET NINE PLACES ON ALL-EASTERN

R. W. (Bob) Maxwell, former University of Chicago player and Swarthmore player and coach, probably saw more of the eastern teams in action than any other critic in connection with his duties as an official in many big games and as sporting editor of the Philadelphia Evening Ledger.

BY ROBERT W. MAXWELL.

The unexpected strength shown by the so-called "small" eastern colleges on the football field this year, coupled with the slipping, sliding, and skidding of "big" teams like Harvard, Princeton, Yale, Cornell, Dartmouth, and Michigan, take many of the all eastern honors away from the select circle.

For the first time in years neither Harvard nor Princeton seems to have a man worthy of the first eleven, although a few have crept into the second team. Most of the glory goes to colleges not included in the select circle, Pittsburgh, Brown, Colgate, and the Army being most prominent. The University of Pennsylvania, too, produced a trio of stars, all of whom showed up well in the later games.

The outstanding feature of the season, however, is the work of Pittsburgh, Brown, Colgate, and the Army. The first three are good enough to battle any teams in the country, as can be proved by their records. Colgate jumped to the front through its victory over Brown last Thursday, Brown took its place in the limelight by defeating both Yale and Harvard, and Pittsburgh deserves the title of monarch of all it surveys by going through two seasons without a defeat. These outside colleges—colleges with no recognized standing in the east—are slowly but surely forcing the older institutions to sit up and take notice.

Herron and Mosley at Ends.

For ends, Herron of the University of Pittsburgh and Mosley of Yale have done the best work of the year. Herron in particular has been the star in every game he has played. He is fast, knows football, diagnoses the plays quickly, is a sure tackler, and catches the forward pass well—in fact, is a finished player. Walter Camp, who witnessed the Pitt-Syracuse game, said afterward that Herron's play was the feature.

George Mosley of Yale also was a bright shining light. He outplayed all of his opponents both on the offense and defense, was a wonderful open field tackler, caught forward passes like a big league ball player, and few yards were gained through him. He used his head all the time, as was shown in the Princeton game, when he picked up the ball on the kickoff after the Tigers allowed it to roll around.

Little and West as Tackles.

Lew Little of Pennsylvania is the best tackle of the year. He plays low and hard, always gets the charge on his opponent, and has stopped most of the plays that came near him. He was a power in the Penn line, as he tackled well, and often broke through the line and hurried the opposing backs. West of Colgate, one of the most versatile players in the game, gets the other position. He, too, has outplayed his opponents, especially against Yale and Brown. West does the punting and is an excellent place kicker.

"Ti" Gates of Yale recovered a fumble in the Harvard game and placed the ball in position for a touchdown, but that is not the only thing that gets him a place on the second eleven. He played consistently throughout the season and next year should be one of the stars.

Black and Henning for Guards.

It is an easy matter to select the guards, as Cupid Black of Yale and Charlie Henning of Pennsylvania stand out prominently. Black played wonderfully against Princeton and Harvard, not only in breaking up plays but in leading his team as well. He was the most conspicuous figure in these battles and a recognized star.

Henning was taken down with appendicitis early in the season and did not get back into the game until Oct. 2 against Pitt. He forgot all about the operation that had been performed on him and went into the game on his nerve. He played a great game and kept it up in ter advances any considerable distance. He can throw the ball on forward passes half the length of the field and with speed and accuracy.

Kohler of Northwestern, Capt. Sorensen of Ohio State, and Capt. McIntosh of Indiana also played good football. Sorensen and McIntosh have been hurt most of the season and, therefore, can not be figured in this selection.

Baston of Minnesota is placed at left end. There is little about end play which this player does not know. He is a sure receiver of forward passes and squirms his way into the open in a manner which even scouts for other teams have been unable to figure. He is a great defensive player, always bearing in mind to turn the play inside when smashing and to drive the catcher of punts down the middle of the field.

Meyers of Wisconsin, Flynn of Minnesota, Van Aken of Purdue, and Dunne of Michigan were other good wing men.

Jackson and Mayer Tackles.

Jackson of Chicago and Mayer of Minnesota are placed at tackles. Both are heavy and strong, know plenty of football and fight from start to finish. The Maroon was unfortunate to lead a losing team, but his work was a feature of every game that Chicago played. The Gopher was just as effective offensively and defensively.

Eklund of Minnesota and McInerney of Notre Dame are placed at guards. The Gopher, according to Bromley, a former Minnesota guard, is considered one of the strongest forwards who ever wore the old gold and maroon.

McInerney is a powerful and active guard. He is the type of player who reminds one of Benbrook or Heffelfinger. No matter where the play is sent, the Notre Dame player never fails to mix in the play. He gets down the field under kicks and forward passes and is one of the most reliable players on the team. Towney of Minnesota, although he has been shifted from tackle to guard and then to center, is a forward who would fit in at any place. Higgins of Chicago is another good lineman.

Hawkeye Given Berth.

Becker of Iowa is selected to play center because of the consistent football he has played all year. Early in the season he played the pivot position, but later was shifted to right tackle. While playing center his work was enough to convince any one that he was a center who brought back to the minds of those who ever had seen Michigan play the work of Germany Schulz. Carpenter of Wisconsin, Smith of Northwestern, and Holtkamp of Ohio State ranked well.

This team, as selected and properly coached, could play any kind of football. If a strong defensive eleven was met, Harley, Driscoll, or Macomber could be called into service to make attempts at field goals. Each is dangerous any place inside the forty yard line. With Wyman to head the interference and fleet runners like Harley and Maulbetsch to carry the ball, the end running game could be used.

Team Best That Could Be Named.

If it came to a test of line plunging, especially on a wet day, Wyman and Maulbetsch would be hard to stop. Wyman could be used to throw forward passes to either Baston or Driscoll, two good receivers.

Considering every angle of play, offensively and defensively, this eleven would be hard to beat. Its defensive strength speaks for itself, and anyone who has followed football this season can readily realize its offensive power.

BOSTON, 17; HOLY CROSS, 14

Boston, Mass., Dec. 2.—Boston college today won the Catholic college football championship of New England by defeating Holy Cross, 17 to 14. The teams were tied after two periods. Touchdowns by Lowney and Tierney with consequent goals gave Boston fourteen points in the first period. Zimmerman's touchdown after a blocked punt and [illegible] fifty yard run from a forward pass, with two goals, gave Holy Cross its tallies in the second period. Fitzpatrick's field goal from the thirty-four yard line gave Boston the winning score soon after the fourth period started.

NEW CONTRACT OF MAJORS HAS TEN DAY CLAUSE

BY I. E. SANBORN

With the aid of two attorneys well versed in baseball the national commission in special session here yesterday put the finishing touches on a complete revision of the major league players' contract which has been under consideration since the close of the late war with the Federal league.

Restoration of the ten days' release clause which was omitted from the ironclad war contracts, rewording of the reserve clause, and the framing of a personal injury clause that can be understood by any player were the features of the new contract as exposed by Chairman Herrmann of the commission at the conclusion of their all day session in the offices of President Johnson of the American league.

Disabled Players Get Full Pay.

By the new contract it is provided that a club owner shall pay the salary in full of a player who may be disabled in the service of the club until the termination of the contractual period. This applies, of course, to players so severely injured that they do not recover their athletic ability before the expiration of their contracts. A player who is injured in May and returns to active duty in any succeeding month of the playing season is then subject to ten days' notice of release, just like his fellow players.

President Fultz of the Players' fraternity recently made objections to some major league contracts on the ground that efforts had been made to retain claim to athletes who were disabled without paying them. Chairman Herrmann stated positively that no such contract ever had been approved by the national commission.

Claim No Fear of Fraternity.

The revised document is more favorable to the player in that respect than any previous form of contract in use. In that respect it may be considered a sop to the players' union, although that was denied by the commissioners, who pointed to the fact the business of drafting a new players' contract was commenced months ago, long before the threats of a strike began to be heard.

All existing wartime contracts, from which the ten days' release clause was omitted, will be lived up to, but the players who sign new contracts for 1917 will be subject to the same provisions in general as existed before the late war. New wording has been given practically every clause in the old documents under legal advice and the reserve clause, otherwise known as the "option" on a player's services, has been given particular attention with a view to making it more simple and at the same time more equable to player and club owner alike.

Attorneys Assist in Work.

In the final drafting of the new contract Messrs. Herrmann, Johnson, and Tener were assisted yesterday by Attorneys Kincaid and Eldridge. Previous to the special session the advice of other scintillating legal minds had been obtained by President Johnson of the American league, and the new document represents the composite results of several months of labor by all parties concerned.

Morning and afternoon sessions were held by the commissioners yesterday and the fruit of their efforts will be submitted to the major leagues for their approval at their respective annual meetings next week.

The new contract has no effect on the minor leagues, over whose internal affairs the commission has no power, consequently will not remove the cause of friction which has arisen between the players' union and the smaller leagues over the provision of the contracts in use in the smaller leagues.

Make Visit to Cub Office.

During the intermission for lunch President Tener and Chairman Herrmann paid a visit to President Weeghman of the Cubs to confer over matters likely to come up at the National league meeting in New York Dec. 12. The Cub president did not discuss the managerial problem with his colleagues, it was declared. President Tener left last night for Pittsburgh to visit President Dreyfuss of the Pirates before returning to New York.

Before adjourning the national commission denied that there had been incorporated into the new contract any provision for "compulsory arbitration" in case President Fultz should press war on the major leagues in an effort to compel concessions from the minors.

ILLINOIS PLANS RELAY CARNIVAL

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 2.—[Special.]—An impetus to relay races in western track affairs will be given by the University of Illinois indoor relay carnival planned for next February. Following the decision this week to hold the big meet, elaborate preparations were begun at once, and it is hoped to make the event an annual western classic.

It is planned to hold one, two, and four mile relays for universities, and similar events for colleges. Following the example of the Penn relay races, a number of special events for individual entrants will also be held—dashes, hurdles, shotput, broad jump, and pole vault.

Coach Gill also plans a unique event—an all around conference championship. Every institution will select its best all around men, who will compete in a series of contests, and the championship will go to the man who wins the most points. This is expected to be a popular event, as nothing like it ever has been held in the conference.

The Illini believe the establishment of the indoor relay carnival will be a big boost for relay races in the conference. The meet, however, will not be limited to Big Nine institutions, but will be open to all.

College Soccer Results.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 2.—University of Pennsylvania defeated Cornell in an intercollegiate league soccer game, 3 to 1. Haverford college soccer team defeated Yale, 3 to 1, in a league game at Haverford.

POWERS AFFIRMS CUBS ARE SEEKING CHANCE AS LEADER

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 2.—Confronted with the denial of President Weeghman of the Chicago Cubs that Frank Chance had been asked to manage the Cubs in 1917, John F. Powers, Los Angeles owner, today reiterated his statement that he was acting as intermediary for the Chicago club.

"I telegraphed Chance's terms as Weeghman requested when I was in Chicago two weeks ago," said Powers. "I was visited by Mr. Weeghman and Mr. Armour, and asked to have Chance name his best terms. I have done so and the matter is now up to the Chicago club.

Angels Seeking New Leader.

"I had a long talk with Chance before he left for Tia Juana and I am looking for another manager."

George Stovall, former St. Louis Brown leader, has been asked to hold himself in readiness to accept the management of the Angels.

Chance Declines to Talk.

San Diego, Cal., Dec. 2.—Frank Chance, pilot of the Los Angeles Coast league baseball club, was exceedingly reticent today when asked regarding a report that he had been offered terms to manage the Chicago Cubs next year. He would not deny he has made his offer to the Cubs.

"Let John Powers do the talking," was his only comment.

Harvard, 2; Dartmouth, 1.

MAXWELL PICKS EASTERN ELEVENS

the other combats. His work really is the feature of the year. Seidel of Pitt, Nourse of Princeton, Dadmun of Harvard, White and Schlachter of Syracuse, Barton of Colgate, and Mehor of Michigan also played well.

McEwan Easily Tricked.

There is likely to be some dispute over the center position, as both Peck of Pittsburgh and McEwan of the Army are two of the best players in the country. Peck, however, deserves the place, to my way of thinking. He plays well on the offense and defense, opens up holes in the line for his backs to slide through, and is a sure tackler. In many of the games Peck was Pitt's only defense against forward passes, and few were made against the team.

McEwan is an excellent player, but is easily fooled on cross bucks. If a split play is used he follows the first back that hits the line and has been put out of almost every play of that character. This is his one failing, but it is enough to keep him off the first team. However, he is an excellent interferer and always preceded Oliphant on the half back's runs. Oliphant waits for "Mac," and I have seen the center knock off three men, one after the other, while Elmer was making one of his brilliant runs. Lud Wray of Penn, Donnelly of Swarthmore, and Pierotti of Washington and Lee also are good players.

De Hart Switches Signals.

The principal requisite of a quarter back is generalship. We have had many brilliant runners with the ball, great tacklers and interferers, but the "man with the head" is most important. He must carry out the instructions of his coach, look over the opposing team for any weaknesses, and select the proper plays. To my mind, the greatest field general we have had for some time is Jimmy De Hart of Pittsburgh. He is slated as half back on the team, but as Warner uses three half backs and no quarter back he can be played in that position.

De Hart calls the signals and uses excellent judgment in selecting plays. Several times I have seen him change a signal when he noticed an opposing tackle or end move out of his position. In addition, he runs well with the ball and is a good man at catching punts in the back field.

Rough Time for Pollard.

After the Colgate game it is possible that Pollard will be left out of many all-star teams, but the dusky wonder deserves a place, just the same. Thursday's game was played in a driving rain storm, which made the field slippery and muddy. Pollard was unable to get started, and his effectiveness was lost. Against Yale and Harvard, however, he showed his true worth, not only as a player but in his ability to take punishment.

Pollard was a marked man in every game, and it is a mystery how he ever withstood the knocks he received. He is only 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 154 pounds. He first played football in Chicago.

Oliphant Given Place.

Oliphant is Pollard's running mate, his work standing out above the others. The Hoosier Howitzer defeated the Navy unaided, and his work all season has been of the highest standard. There are many other good backs, and it seems unfair to leave them off the first team.

Howard Berry of Pennsylvania, because of his individual work in the big games, is the logical man for full back.

PULLMAN TO TACKLE JOLIET SOCCER MEN IN CLOSING COMBAT

Enjoying thirteen weeks of fine playing conditions clubs in the Chicago District Soccer league have not had to postpone a single match on account of the weather. This good fortune has enabled the teams to keep up with their schedule and games carded for this afternoon will wind up the fall series.

The biggest match will be the meeting of Joliet and Pullman at Joliet. The steel players lead by two points and a victory for the carbuilders will put them on even terms. Joliet likely will be without Gomorra, who recently underwent an operation, while Vincent Osborne, the outside left of Pullman, strained his shoulder on Thanksgiving afternoon.

First Division Games.

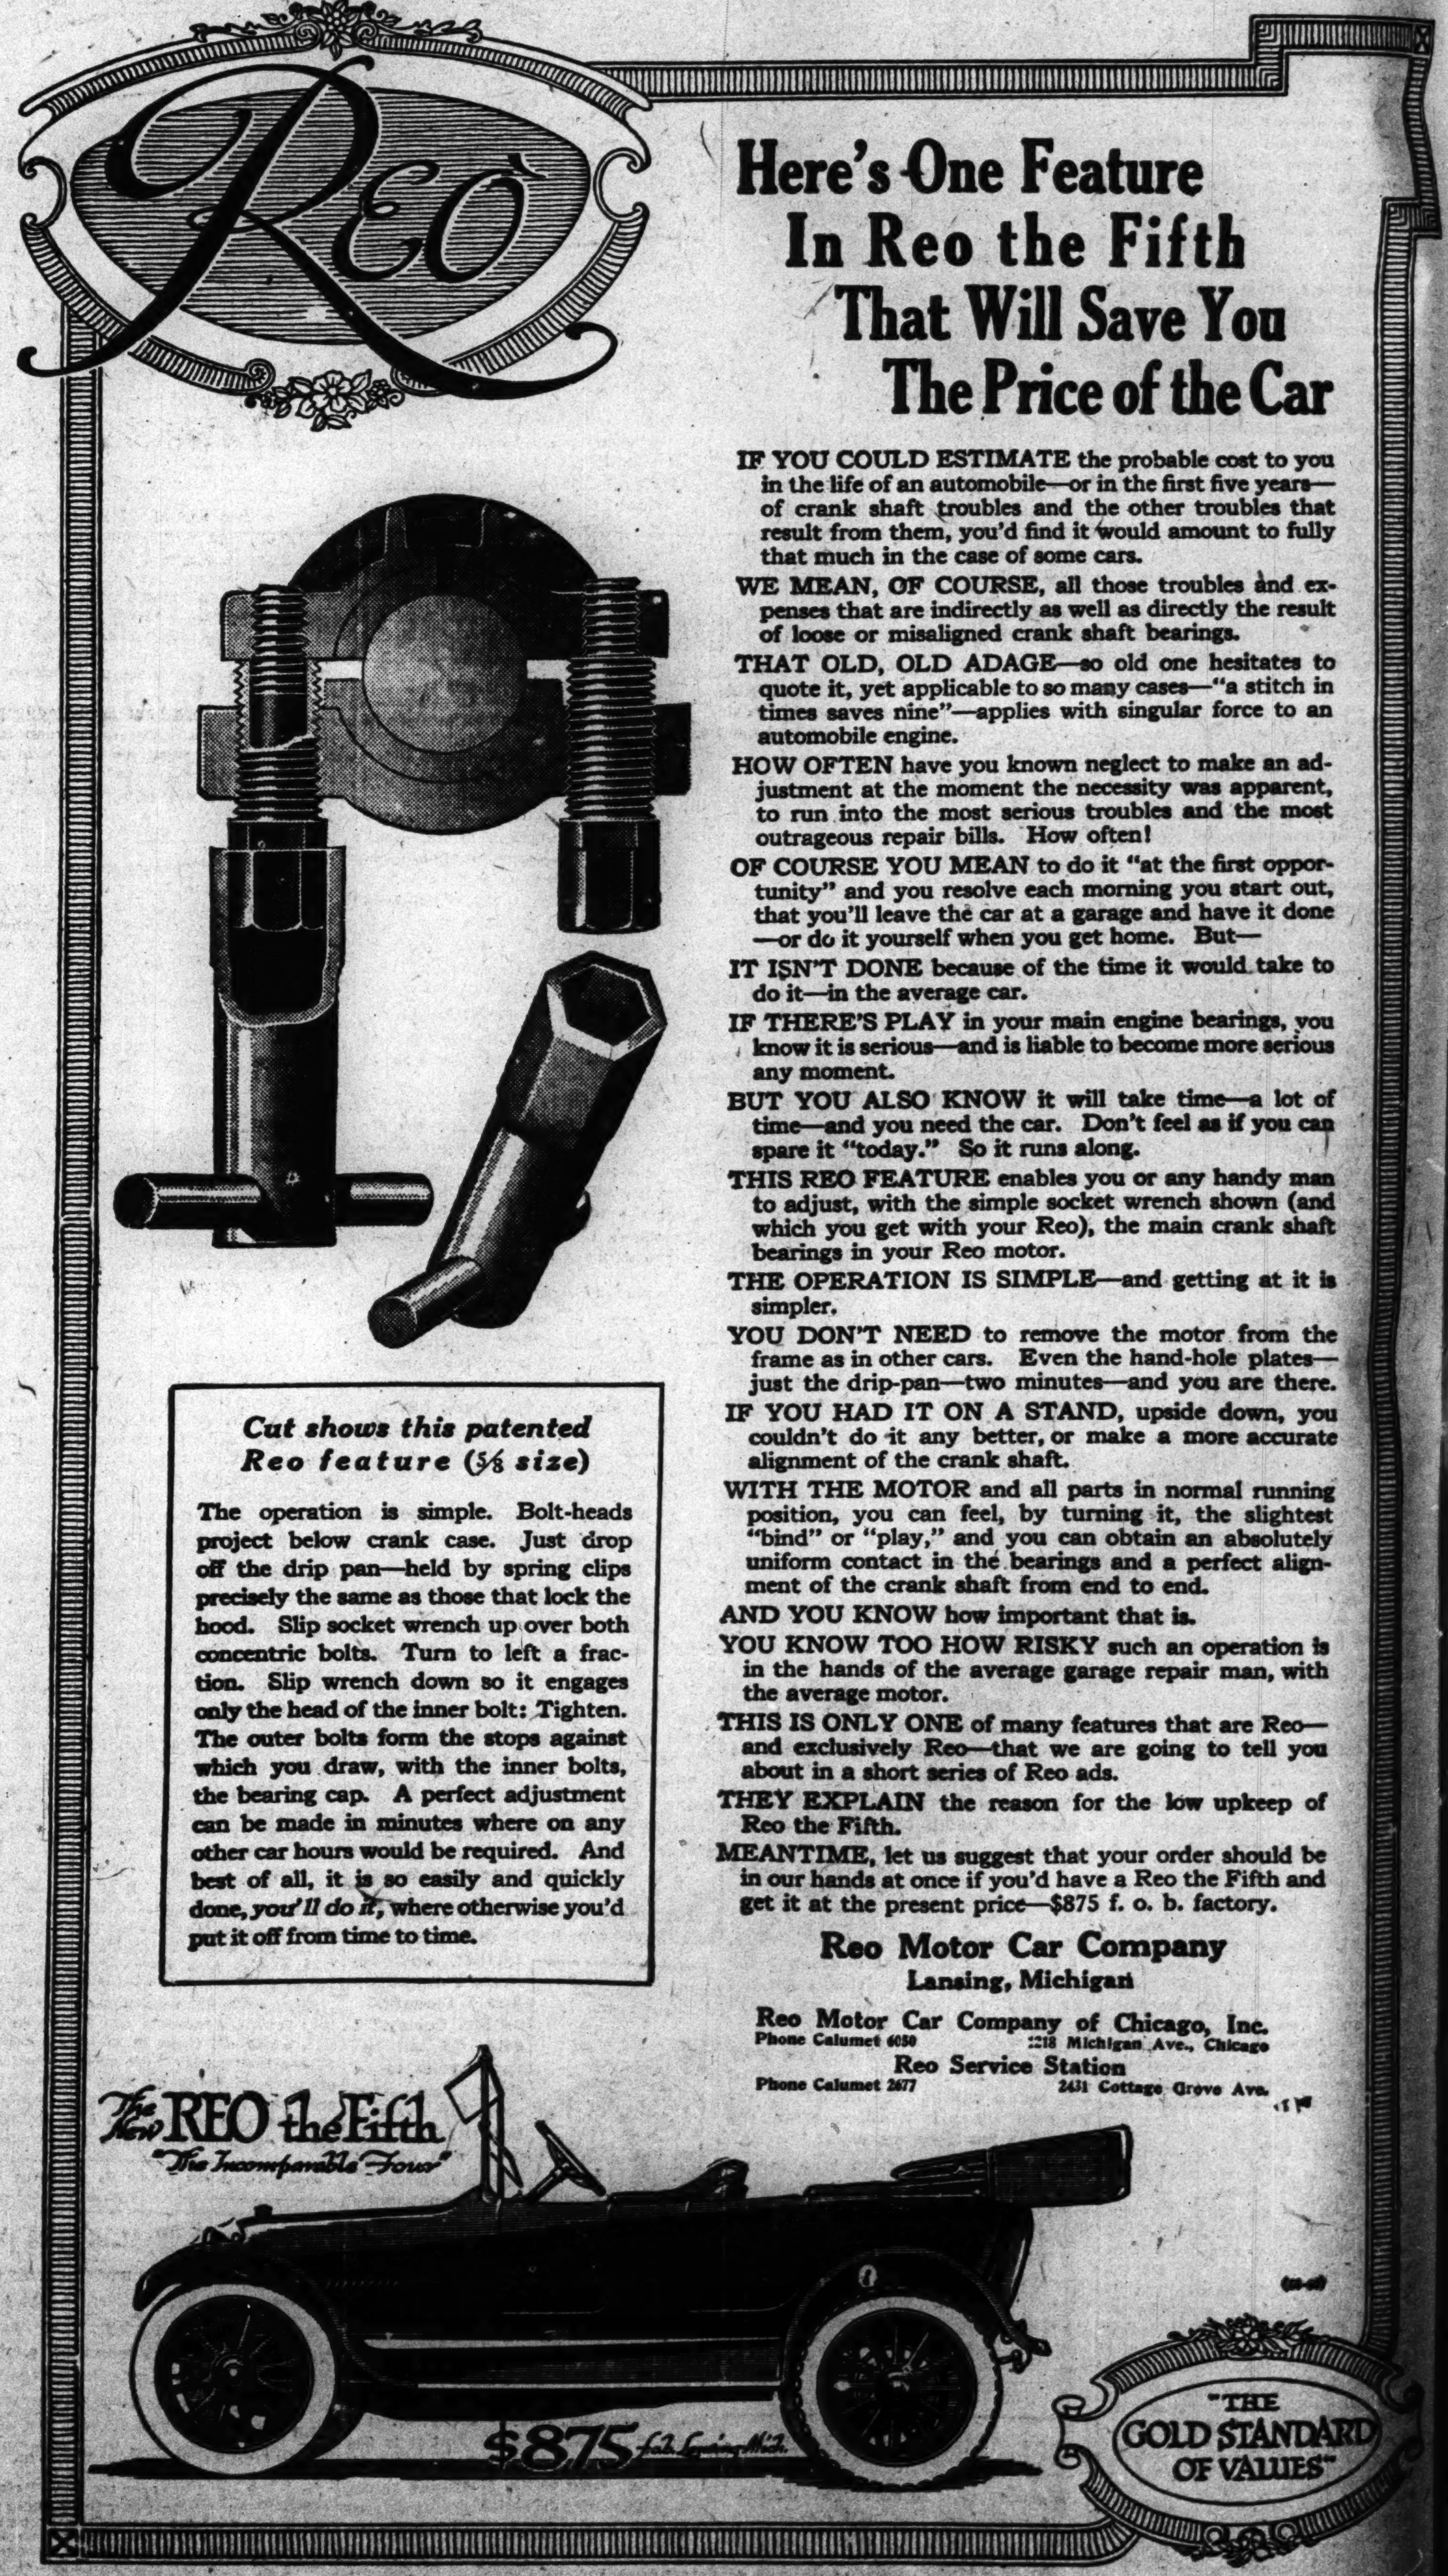
Other games in the first division are McDuffs and Swedish-Americans at Winnemac and Robey street and Bricklayers and Slavia at Thirty-fifth street and Wentworth avenue. Other games are:

Second division—Fram and International Harvesters at Forty-sixth and Fullerton avenues, Lincoln Park and Caledonians at Forty-sixth street and Kedzie avenue; Columbus and Harvey at Forty-eighth avenue and Sixteenth street; St. George's at Washington park.

Third division—Mohawks at Lake Forest.

Bethlehems Here Dec. 23.

The famous Bethlehem team, which last year won the national championship, has been booked by the Chicago District league for a match here on Dec. 23 at Bricklayers' field. The Chicago officials will pick the local team next Wednesday night and every effort will be made to get the best eleven men.



The New REO the Fifth
"The Incomparable Four"
$875 f.o.b. Lansing Mich.
"THE GOLD STANDARD OF VALUES"

Here's One Feature In Reo the Fifth That Will Save You The Price of the Car

IF YOU COULD ESTIMATE the probable cost to you in the life of an automobile—or in the first five years—of crank shaft troubles and the other troubles that result from them, you'd find it would amount to fully that much in the case of some cars.

WE MEAN, OF COURSE, all those troubles and expenses that are indirectly as well as directly the result of loose or misaligned crank shaft bearings.

THAT OLD, OLD ADAGE—so old one hesitates to quote it, yet applicable to so many cases—"a stitch in times saves nine"—applies with singular force to an automobile engine.

HOW OFTEN have you known neglect to make an adjustment at the moment the necessity was apparent, to run into the most serious troubles and the most outrageous repair bills. How often!

OF COURSE YOU MEAN to do it "at the first opportunity" and you resolve each morning you start out, that you'll leave the car at a garage and have it done—or do it yourself when you get home. But—

IT ISN'T DONE because of the time it would take to do it—in the average car.

IF THERE'S PLAY in your main engine bearings, you know it is serious—and is liable to become more serious any moment.

BUT YOU ALSO KNOW it will take time—a lot of time—and you need the car. Don't feel as if you can spare it "today." So it runs along.

THIS REO FEATURE enables you or any handy man to adjust, with the simple socket wrench shown (and which you get with your Reo), the main crank shaft bearings in your Reo motor.

THE OPERATION IS SIMPLE—and getting at it is simpler.

YOU DON'T NEED to remove the motor from the frame as in other cars. Even the hand-hole plates—just the drip-pan—two minutes—and you are there.

IF YOU HAD IT ON A STAND, upside down, you couldn't do it any better, or make a more accurate alignment of the crank shaft.

WITH THE MOTOR and all parts in normal running position, you can feel, by turning it, the slightest "bind" or "play," and you can obtain an absolutely uniform contact in the bearings and a perfect alignment of the crank shaft from end to end.

AND YOU KNOW how important that is.

YOU KNOW TOO HOW RISKY such an operation is in the hands of the average garage repair man, with the average motor.

THIS IS ONLY ONE of many features that are Reo—and exclusively Reo—that we are going to tell you about in a short series of Reo ads.

THEY EXPLAIN the reason for the low upkeep of Reo the Fifth.

MEANTIME, let us suggest that your order should be in our hands at once if you'd have a Reo the Fifth and get it at the present price—$875 f. o. b. factory.

Cut shows this patented Reo feature (5/8 size)

The operation is simple. Bolt-heads project below crank case. Just drop off the drip pan—held by spring clips precisely the same as those that lock the hood. Slip socket wrench up over both concentric bolts. Turn to left a fraction. Slip wrench down so it engages only the head of the inner bolt: Tighten. The outer bolts form the stops against which you draw, with the inner bolts, the bearing cap. A perfect adjustment can be made in minutes where on any other car hours would be required. And best of all, it is so easily and quickly done, you'll do it, where otherwise you'd put it off from time to time.

BERKLAND SETS OPENING MARK IN PIN MEET

Buckett Expert Gets Total of 616 in City Bowling Tourney.

For the first time in the history of big bowling tournaments a 600 total showed up on the opening day when Harry Berkland, one of Buckett's experts, shot 616 in the singles of the Chicago Bowling association tournament, which opened at the Randolph alleys yesterday. Two marks over the 1,100 line showed up in the doubles, with W. Wattling and W. Murrey from the Auto Supply league posting the top figure of 1,107. Bork's Trotters shot high mark in the fives with 2,540 and will not land in the money.

The opening squad was held for thirty minutes while President Frank Pasdeloup gave the big crowd of spectators present a short talk. The ten officials then rolled the first balls down the polished drives, with Secretary Jake Mueller establishing a new record by "poodling," his shot threatening the pins on the adjoining alley more than on the one he rolled on.

PURPLE SIGNS COACH MURPHY

Fred J. Murphy will coach the football team at Northwestern university for three more years. Announcement was made yesterday by a committee of the trustees that Murphy had signed a contract which does not expire until July, 1920.

This board, consisting of George P. Merrick, Phillip R. Shumway, and William S Mason, lauded the work of the former Yale player in putting the Evanston school back on the football map. They pointed out that the excellent showing made by the Purple this season has brought about a splendid spirit among students and faculty members, and they believe under Murphy's regime such a feeling will be continued.

Murphy came to Northwestern in July of 1913, but faced a difficult problem, as Northwestern was in an athletic slough. He announced at the time that it would take at least three years to put the Purple in the race. He made good in the football season which closed two weeks ago by winning six of seven games.

PURPLE AND WISCONSIN TEAMS IN SOLDIERS' MEET

Northwestern university will enter a full team for the indoor track and field meet in the Second Regiment armory Jan. 25 and 26. Word to this effect has been received by Lieut. Dwight L. Loughborough, athletic director of the regiment, from Lewis Omer. The Northwestern athletic director also stated a number of freshmen will enter unattached in the open events. From Madison comes word that Wisconsin university will enter a four mile relay team and also will be represented in other events. Martin Delaney of the Chicago Athletic association has assured the management of the meet that his club will be represented by a team.

BADGERS WIN PIN CONTEST

University of Wisconsin bowlers defeated a University of Chicago five at the Midway last night, 2,459 to 2,328. The Badgers proved more adept at the game than the home boys, with Hartman putting up a 218 finish that made him high man of the series. The match is the first of a series that may lead to an intercollegiate league.

ROSS AND EVANS GET EVEN BREAK AT BOB-O'-LINK

BY J. G. DAVIS.

On May 20 the ground of the Bob O'Link Golf club at Highland Park was pasture. By Aug. 31 the course practically was completed, preserving, as any kingly critic might remark, the glorious tradition of Chicago speed.

To the members and friends of the club who yesterday followed the four ball match in which President Walter Ross and Champion Charles Evans Jr. broke even with William S. Mason and Professional Jim Donaldson of Glen View the work accomplished by the grounds committee, headed by William A. Alexander, honorary chairman, was wonderful. A championship course was built inside of four months, and even with the winter conditions which prevailed yesterday it was easy to see that by next June the members will be playing over excellent fairways and greens of wonderful texture.

Frequently Pass Flag.

With a little frost in the ground playing conditions would have been better, but the surface was soft enough to place a premium on long carries, and it was a case of "lay on McDuff."

Evans and Donaldson broke about even on distance, and several times were so anxious to get up to the flag they went past it. Their partners had to be content with lesser smites. As the greens had not been rolled, it generally was a case of putting with niblick or mashie.

Evans had a card of 42—40—82, Ross getting 52—51—103, Donaldson having 40—41—81, and Mason, 48—47—95. The Glen View pair won the first and fourth holes, but dropped the fifth and seventh. A fine four on the tenth hole, 435 yards, gave Donaldson that hole and his side turned, 1 up.

Rabbit Adds Interest.

As the gallery followed down the tenth fairway a scared rabbit tried an end run. Edward P. Bartlett, who was playing right end, essayed a diving tackle, but it was first down and one rabbit yet to gain. It was a timely escape for bunnie, as later two young nimrods with rifles joined the gallery.

Donaldson put his side two up with a 4 on the thirteenth hole, 421 yards, but a three by "Chick" at the short thirteenth and a long putt, which netted a four on the sixteenth hole, squared the match. Evans and Donaldson both had chances for fours on the home green, "Chick" missing by four inches. The best ball card was as follows:

Ross-Evans	6	3	4	6	3	5	4	5	5—41
Mason-Don's'n	5	3	4	5	4	5	5	5	4—40
Ross-Evans	5	4	5	5	3	5	4	4	5—40	—81
Mason-Don's'n	5	4	5	5	4	4	5	4	5—41	—81

BOB GARDNER AND PHELPS WIN GOLF MATCH IN SOUTH.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 2.—[Special.]—Nelson M. Whitney, three times holder of the southern amateur golf title, and Reuben G. Bush Jr., present champion, went down to defeat today before Robert A. Gardner of Chicago, 1915 amateur golf champion, and Mason Phelps of New York. Gardner and Phelps won, 1 up, in an eighteen hole match. The course followed was at Audubon park.

CENTRAL X-COUNTRY RUN AT DOUGLAS PARK DEC. 16.

The senior cross country championship race of the Central A. A. U. will be held at Douglas park on Dec. 16, under the auspices of the Illinois Athletic club. The distance will be about six miles, over a winding trail. The tricolor club is expected to have the best chance for team prize, as its harriers have been practicing diligently all fall.

The race is open to all A. A. U. athletes. The University of Chicago has a good squad this year and also stands a chance for honors. The team prize will be awarded the squad aggregating the lowest number of points. Medals will be given for first, second, and third. Team entries are limited to eight men, only the first five to count.

Entries close Dec. 13 with Frank W. Blankley, Illinois A. C., or Charles A. Dean, chairman of Central A. A. U. championship committee, 14 East Jackson boulevard.

FOOTBALL STILL WITH US.

The Igorrotes and Kenmore heavies will battle this afternoon on De Paul field. Neither eleven has been beaten this season. The Igorrotes are made up of former high school players, and Manager Bill Harley, brother to the Ohio State star, figures that the team will be strong enough to put across a win.

Eight universities and academies will be represented in the Merrimac football team's lineup as revised for today's game with the Opal A. A. at Garden City park at 2:30 p. m.

The Cornell A. C. eleven, champions of the Chicago Independent Football league, will play its final game of the season at Schorling's park, meeting St. Lawrence A. C., another south side team that has made a great record this fall.

The Alvernos will meet the fast Albany Park eleven at Forty-fourth and Grand avenues at 2:30. The Alvernos have already registered ten victories.

Father Perez to Meet Leo.

Father Perez indoor nine will play Leo council today at Central hall, Twenty-second and Wabash avenue. A hotly contested game is looked for. Game called at 3 p. m.

MOORE UPSETS DOPE BY BEATING JACKSON IN CUE MATCH, 50-31

John Moore demonstrated the old adage about the lane and its turning by defeating Clarence Jackson, 50 to 31, in their Interstate Three Cushion league match at Flenner's last night. Coming from Rockford, where he defeated Kieckhefer, who had won nine straight games, Jackson was outplayed by the local man, who had lost eight straight.

Moore had a shade on the breaks in the earlier stages and seemed to have recovered his freedom of stroke. The Detroit player's defense was not as good as usual and in the latter half of the game he missed a number of shots by small margins.

Gradually Increases Lead.

Moore led, 13 to 11, at the twentieth inning, but soon began to pull away and at the fiftieth inning was in front, 33 to 21. Jackson never threatened after this and Moore went out in the seventy-sixth inning.

MOORE — 1 2 1 0 3 0 1 0 1 0 0 0 1

Maupome Leads Cueists.

After five weeks of play Pierre Maupome, representing Smith's room of Cleveland, is leading the Interstate Three Cushion league with four straight wins. Until last Friday night Kieckhefer of Rockford headed the list with nine straight wins, but a one point defeat by Clarence Jackson forced him into second place.

Kieckhefer holds his position by virtue of his fine trip around the eastern end of the circuit, on which he won six straight games. In his game against Reiselt at Pittsburgh, the Rockford player set a new league record high run of fourteen, and it seems hardly possible this will be beaten.

Although the season is young a majority of the class players are all well up in the race. Bob Cannefax of St. Louis has low game to date of forty-two. Standing:

Chicagoans Play Detroit.

Facing a deficit of 90 points, incurred in the first half of their inter-city balkline series with Detroit, the Chicago billiardists will invade the Sweeney-Huston room this week to finish the second half of 1,600 points. Those picked to make the trip are R. I. McGinnis, Tom Nolan, Robert Lord, Wilson Henderson, Harley Parker, Fred Conklin, and Welker Cochran. The amateurs are to be given a chance to put Chicago back into first place, the opening game being between McGinnis and Arthur Seymour.

On the second night Nolan or Lord will play one of the Huston brothers, and on Wednesday night Fred Conklin will tackle Charles Heddon, who was mainly responsible for Chicago's defeat at home. Henderson or Parker will play the remaining Huston, and it is planned to have Cochran cross cues with Clarence Jackson the final night. The winning team will get possession of the trophy donated by the Brunswick company.

THREE CUSHION LEAGUE.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 2.—[Special.]—Charles McCourt of Cleveland defeated Harry Cooler of Indianapolis, 50 to 46, tonight in their interstate three cushion billiard match. The match went ninety-two innings. McCourt had high runs of 5 and 4, and Cooler had one of 4.

TEAMS TIE IN MAT MATCH.

Gary, Ind., Dec. 2.—[Special.]—Gary Y. M. C. A. wrestling team, without Borsits and Kuenert, light and heavy champions, respectively, tied the Chicago Hebrew institute squad tonight in six bouts. Summaries:

125 pounds—Hayman beat Spiegels, 4:52 1-5.
135 pounds—Netropolus won from M. Myer, 10:00, decision; Schollsberg beat Netropolus, 8:24; Michken beat Knibbs, 15:00, decision.
158 pounds—McCormick beat Cohn, 15:00.
In exhibitions Brown beat Gordon, 6:27; McLennon beat Brandies, 10:00, and Boshich beat Myers, 3:00.

PULLEN GETS SECOND PLACE

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 2.—A recheck on the time of the "championship sweepstakes award," the 150 mile automobile race held at Ascot Speedway Thanksgiving day, showed Eddie Pullen, should have been second in place of Earl Cooper, according to George R. Bentel, promoter of the race, in a statement made here today. Mr. Bentel said the revised check showed Pullen made 151 miles, or an extra lap. The prize money was paid off yesterday, Cooper being allowed $1,000 for second and Pullen $500 for third.

Yacht Club Dinner Friday.

The annual yachtsmen's dinner of the Jackson Park Yacht club will be held Friday night at the Grand Pacific hotel. Special entertainment features and presentation of all prizes for the year are on the program.

CADDOCK PINS FOES IN FEATURE BOUTS AT TWO MAT SHOWS

BY HAMMERLOCK.

Lively mat bouts were in order at the Chicago Athletic association show last night. Five matches were decided, most of them grudge battles, and as a result there was plenty of rough stuff, such as gouging eyes and noses, elbow jabs, and even biting. None of the rough stuff was allowed to continue to the danger point.

In the feature bout Earl Caddock, the corn fed Iowan, tossed his man in 7:20 and five minutes later was in street clothes to appear at the I. A. C. show. His C. A. A. opponent was to have been Gardini, who claims to be champion of Italy, but Gardini didn't appear, and Mr. Henderson, from somewhere, took his place. The substitute got all he wanted in the 7:20, for the Iowa man, who has only been thrown once in his life, and that time by Joe Stecher, obtained a head scissors and bar arm hold, which ended things.

Wins I. A. C. Feature Also.

Caddock then hustled to the Illinois Athletic club and won his second bout of the night by beating John Freiberg in the windup with a scissors on the head and wrist lock in 33:14. It was a scrappy bout. Both men broke several holds when they seemed on the verge of being pinned.

Herman Koch displayed such a strong scissors lock that he beat two men, first putting Andy Kandrat down in 14:40 and hurting him so badly that in a prelim at the C. A. A. Andy wouldn't come back for the second fall. Instead Rough House Wallace appeared and was pinned in 9:20.

Chris Sorenson, who has challenged Stecher, had to labor long to beat Jack Savage, who says he's Irish. Chris won the first fall in 35:31 and the second in 4:33. The other two bouts were lightning affairs, Joe Smith flopping Kid Benjamin in impressive fashion in 3:54 and 4:36, while Ben Reuben, the middleweight champion, took a lively one fall battle from Young Beall, a local Turner expert, in 21:00.

Kartje Beats Zbyszko.

Before Caddock appeared at the I. A. C. Ernest Kartje of Chicago won in straight falls from Young Zbyszko at 175 pounds. Kartje gained his first fall in 15:52 with a head scissors hold and in side crotch, after the Pole showed lots of scrappy opposition. In the second go they tumbled and pitched each other over the ring like a couple of acrobats. Zbyszko showed less experience and slipped his grip when he seemed to have a good hold, Kartje pinning him the second time in 4:13 with a double wristlock. Referee Charley Cutler announced Zbyszko sustained a temporary paralysis of one arm.

Johnny Billiter of Toledo, O., lightweight champion, and Henry Wirth of Chicago wrestled 50:00 to a draw. The second fall was called off, as both men were tired.

Hussane Flops Geshtowt.

Yussif Hussane flopped Joe Geshtowt of Chicago twice in their heavyweight encounter. The first fall was in 26:25, with a half-nelson and leg grapevine. The second came with a body scissors and arm lock.

Geshtowt clung to the ropes and tried rubbing Hussane's ears at every chance, and the crowd was pulling for the foreigher, who kept the offensive in a hard scrap.

BETHLEHEM QUINTET COPS

Bethlehem Blue Boys defeated the Tabor team, 18 to 8, in the first game of the Concordia association at the former's gymnasium. Lineup:

Tabor [8].		Bethlehem B. B. [18].

Ball Players to Get Prizes.

A smoker to be put on in Washington hall, 19 West Adams street, Tuesday night under the auspices of the Amateur Baseball Managers and the City league will have as one of its features the presentation of the Robert M. Sweitzer trophy to the Romeo club, the Tearney medals to the Ciceros, and the City league flag to the Normals.

MARSHALL TOSSERS DROP 22 TO 19 GAME TO HINSDALE PREPS

Coming with a rush in the second half, Hinsdale High schoolers defeated the Marshall heavyweights of the Chicago league, last season's runnerup, 22 to 19, in the victors' gymnasium last night. At half time Marshall led, 11 to 8. Dixon was the whole works for the visitors, scoring thirteen points. E. McCartney featured for the home team by shooting four ringers. The Marshall players roughed it a bit, making fourteen fouls, and from these N. McCartney shot six free throws. Lineup:

GAMES TO WHITING TEAMS.

Whiting, Ind., Dec. 2.—Whiting Owls defeated the Quadrangles of Wilson Avenue Y. M. C. A. of Chicago, 56 to 30. Whiting Polarines also triumphed in their clash with the Christ Church Comets of Chicago, 34 to 19. In the Owls-Quadrangles game Devirtz featured with ten baskets and one free throw. Girard tossed seven baskets for the locals. Lineup:

Owls [56].		Quadrangles [30].
Bartuska	R. F.	Pelama, Gabel
Devirtz	L. F.	Jaenicke
Girard, Vater	C.	Hausen

Baskets—Garcinetl [9], Escalona [2], O'Rourke [8], Armandi [3], Moran [3], Miller [4], Goldberg. Free throws—Grisway [3], Iyrs [2].

OTHER BASKETBALL GAMES.

St. Paul Universalists defeated the Wilmette M. E. church five in the St. Paul gym, 39 to 30.

Hamlin Dodgers beat the Christopher house basket team, 32 to 11.

The Ravenswood Congregational church basketball five defeated the Bethany Lutherans at the Western Avenue Y. M. C. A., 10 to 8.

Seward Park Bears defeated the Pulaski park team, 52 to 22, in the former's gymnasium, the score at half time being 22 to 6. Philbin with ten baskets, Vanderhagen with nine, and Fields with six starred.

The Mystic A. C. won its opening game by defeating Julia Gay Memorials at the Carter Practice school, 19 to 9. Bauer, Foster, and Churchill led in scoring for the Mystics.

OTTER TAKES SHOOT EVENT.

H. Otter won the feature event at the Lincoln park traps yesterday afternoon. The high scores at each distance was as follows: P. Petersen [16], 96; L. O. Smith [17], 69; Dr. J. L. Hooper [18], 80; Dr. T. H. Lewis [20], 82; H. Otter [22], 88. In the shootoff they made the following: P. Petersen [20], 20; L. O. Smith [18], 20; Dr. Hooper [20], 20; Dr. Lewis [20], 22; H. Otter [22], 23.

South Ends vs. Tornadoes.

South Ends of Englewood will play their tenth game of the season today. The Tornadoes are the opposition, at the Roseland Eclipse park, One Hundred and Seventh street and Indiana avenue. The game is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock.

PREP KICKERS DEFEAT ALUMNI

The Chicago high school all star soccer team gained a 2 to 0 victory over the prep-alumni team at Bricklayers' field yesterday. It was a fast game, with the schoolboys showing a trifle better combination. No score was made in the first half.

Carlson, former Lane player, caged the ball early in the second half, but was ruled offside. Rieger later shot the ball at Ferguson, who was charged by Phillips and Willis, the ball going into the net. Referee Elmsley would not allow the goal on account of Willis leaping at Ferguson. Near the end of the half Mooney scored for the school players and before the whistle blew added another. Lineup:

High School Stars [2].		Prep Alumni [0].
Michels	Goal	Ferguson
Dodge	Rt. back	Kohout
Hardesty	Left back	G. Olson
Kopp	R. halfback	Murphy
Briggs	C. halfback	Golinken
Kuhl	L. halfback	Gafvart
Wellman	Outside right	Rosback
Rieger	Inside right	Jorgensen
Mooney	Center	G. E. Olson
Phillips	Inside left	Carlson

Goals—Mooney, 2. Referee—Elmsley.

Yankee Runners Show Speed in Old Swedish City, Malmo

BY ANDREW E. WARD.

[Chicago Athletic Association.]

MALMO, Oct. 29.—[Special correspondence.]—We arrived in Malmo, a very pretty town, a day before the races. The weather the night before was mild and clear compared to other places in which we had competed, but the day of the races arrived with the wind strong and cold, and a downpour of rain. Notwithstanding the adverse weather, a good crowd came to witness the track events of the Americans opposing picked Scandinavian performers.

A.E.WARD

The first event was the 100 meter dash, which Jo Loomis won by a yard in slow time. The track was the softest one of all on our Scandinavian tour, and a powerful leg drive, can find a solid footing beneath the surface cinders. Fred Murray came through on the outside lane with a wonderful finish.

Kullerstrand Wins Leap.

The high jump was won by Kullerstrand, Loomis being second and Murray fourth. The soft condition of the jumping place affords no resistance to get the spring required, and this is Jo's biggest asset in jumping. We have competed so much—twelve days in all—that a lot of spring is lost in tiring leg muscles also.

The present crop of shot putters over here was quite a big surprise. We know the Scandinavians as big, brawny men, but their ability in this direction was disappointing, for they cannot put the leaden ball over forty-three feet. Murray was against a man twice his size, using his head and every ounce of strength, while the Swedish competitor depended entirely upon bulgy muscle and brute strength.

The high hurdles brought Murray another victory. Fred had been off form in all his races and was a length behind when Simpson tripped with a hurdle to go, and Murray closed the gap. Simpson has evidently been working too hard in the various events, for the same thing happened in the 220 low hurdles when he fell and Loomis, although far behind, won by a foot when Bob sprawled in the cinders.

Swedes Take Long Runs.

Ahman, a Swede, won the 3,000 meter race and also the 10,000 meter run in good time, despite the soft track. Bolin and Ted Meredith ran a match race at 800 meters a yard apart. Bolin ran his usual steady race, setting the pace from the start. Ted stayed with him all the way and both finished strong in 1:57. The tracks everywhere have been crude, due to inexperience in correct methods of preparation. Meredith can easily defeat Bolin in the 400 meter event, but the longer distance is the better for the Swede.

The 200 meter dash went in 2:28 after a series of false starts, just as the 100. The longer run makes it easier to catch the men who steal on the gun, and to a certain extent relieves the strain of the start. I won from Simpson, Murray, and Olson, the Swede who was supposed to win as a fresh man. Bob Simpson won the broad jump, Olson being second and Loomis third.

Relay Easy by Yankees.

The 1,000 meter relay gave the Swedes new hope, as they like the longer distances much better than the shorter. Meredith turned over a nice lead to Murray, who ran 300 meter. He picked up a lead on his man that gave me a beautiful start on Olson. I was able to add a little, and Loomis breezed in many yards ahead. We had won the 400 meter relay the day before, so that the Swedes have lost eight relay races since our competition began.

The American consul here, Mr. Westerborg, presented the trophies after the last day. He made us guests in his home on two occasions and his hospitality was so cordial that we were mighty sorry to leave. He was formerly a resident of Chicago, having resided there over thirty years.

We sail on the eighth for home on the Stockholm.

Del-Mur Wins Frat Game.

Del-Mur triumphed over Phi Kappa Gamma fraternity, 14 to 6, at Jackson park. Berg and French starred for the winners and Putman for the losers. A thirty yard forward pass, French to Berg, resulted in the first touchdown for Del-Mur.

JORDAN
The Luxury Car

Few producers build Sport Models. The big demand is either for greater or for less passenger carrying capacity. Sport Models appeal only to the class of buyer who wants the unusual—

Sport Models of the Jordan type have cost not less than $2500.

We ask your comparison of the Jordan four-passenger Sport Model with all others of similar type.

After the Jordan has won your favor in a comparison for style—for finish—for performance—your appreciation of the car will be accentuated by the price—$1750 complete, including wire wheels.

Permit us to show you the Jordan Sport Model and demonstrate it.

BALL OWNERS TODAY MUST BE BUSINESS MEN

Cubs' Growth Shows Club Has to Be Run as Commercial Project.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

[Facts and Figures by James A. Hart.]

There is a perfectly natural reason, but no visible remedy, for the commercial spirit which has invaded professional baseball in recent years and threatens to change the very spelling of the word sport to "$port."

It is due to the tremendous increase in the quantity of capital necessary to finance the game. In the old days, when a plot of ground big enough for a ball yard could be rented for $1,000 or $2,000 a year, and equipped with adequate stands at a cost of from $25,000 to $50,000, club owners could afford to be good sportsmen first and business men afterward. Today, when an investment of $1,000,000 "and up" is required to finance a major league club, the owners simply have to be business men first and sportsmen afterward or they will quickly regret it.

Growth of Chicago Cubs.

No better illustration of the tremendous increment of baseball business can be given in concrete form than the tale of the development of the Chicago National league club from a $20,000 to a $1,000,000 proposition in a comparatively few years, as it was related to me by James A. Hart, for more than a dozen years president of the club. Sounds like a fairy tale, but he has the old books and records to prove it.

Back in the "good old days" when the National league team played on the grounds at Throop and Loomis streets—for which it paid an annual rental of only $1,200—it was capitalized for $20,000, and that was the same club, remember, for 53 per cent of which Charles W. Murphy received $500,000 last winter.

Capacity of Park 4,000.

In those days the crowds at the Loomis street grounds seldom were more than 4,000, the seating capacity of the stands. An outpouring of 12,000 people on a Fourth of July when the team was fighting for the pennant stood as high water mark in attendance for many years. But previous to 1890 the total salaries of the team usually were kept under $30,000 a year. Cap Anson's salary as manager was only $2,700 and 10 per cent of the net profits annually, under a ten year contract which he signed in 1888. So the club was in a fairly prosperous condition.

The Brotherhood war in 1890 brought many troubles in its wake. In the first place, it raised the rent of the Loomis street grounds to $7,500 a year because agents of the Brotherhood tried to lease them. The National league club had purchased in 1887 the land now known as the west side ball park at Lincoln and Polk streets, but had not paid for it. There was only a crude stand seating 1,000 people or so and used by the old City league. So the club had to pay the Loomis street rent until it could equip its new park.

Inherit Present Sox Site.

The war with the Brotherhood was disastrous financially, and at its close, in the winter of 1890-'91, the National league club inherited the brotherhood grounds at Wentworth avenue and Thirty-fifth street, now owned by Charles A. Comiskey. The war with the American association in 1891 was costly, too, and at its conclusion the condition of the National league club's finances was deplorable. It owed $120,000, with no assets except title to a plot of land, unpaid for and unimproved, and two grandstands, with rent to pay on two ball parks and fixed charges on a third.

That was the condition of the organization, then incorporated as the Chicago Ball club, when Mr. Hart assumed the presidency in 1891.

Consequently, early in 1893 the Chicago League Ball club was incorporated with a capital stock of $100,000. This was made "fully paid" by putting a paper value of $67,000 on the franchise of the National league and of $20,000 on the improvements at the south side park. (These improvements were sold a few years later for $700.) The apparent cash capital of the new club was therefore, $13,000. But Cap Anson, holding $13,000 of stock in the insolvent organization, was entitled to subscribe for the same amount of stock in the new club by paying $2,000 for it. This sum was voted to Anson as a gift, so the actual cash capital of the Chicago League Ball club when it was launched was $10,400.

Walsh Lends Money.

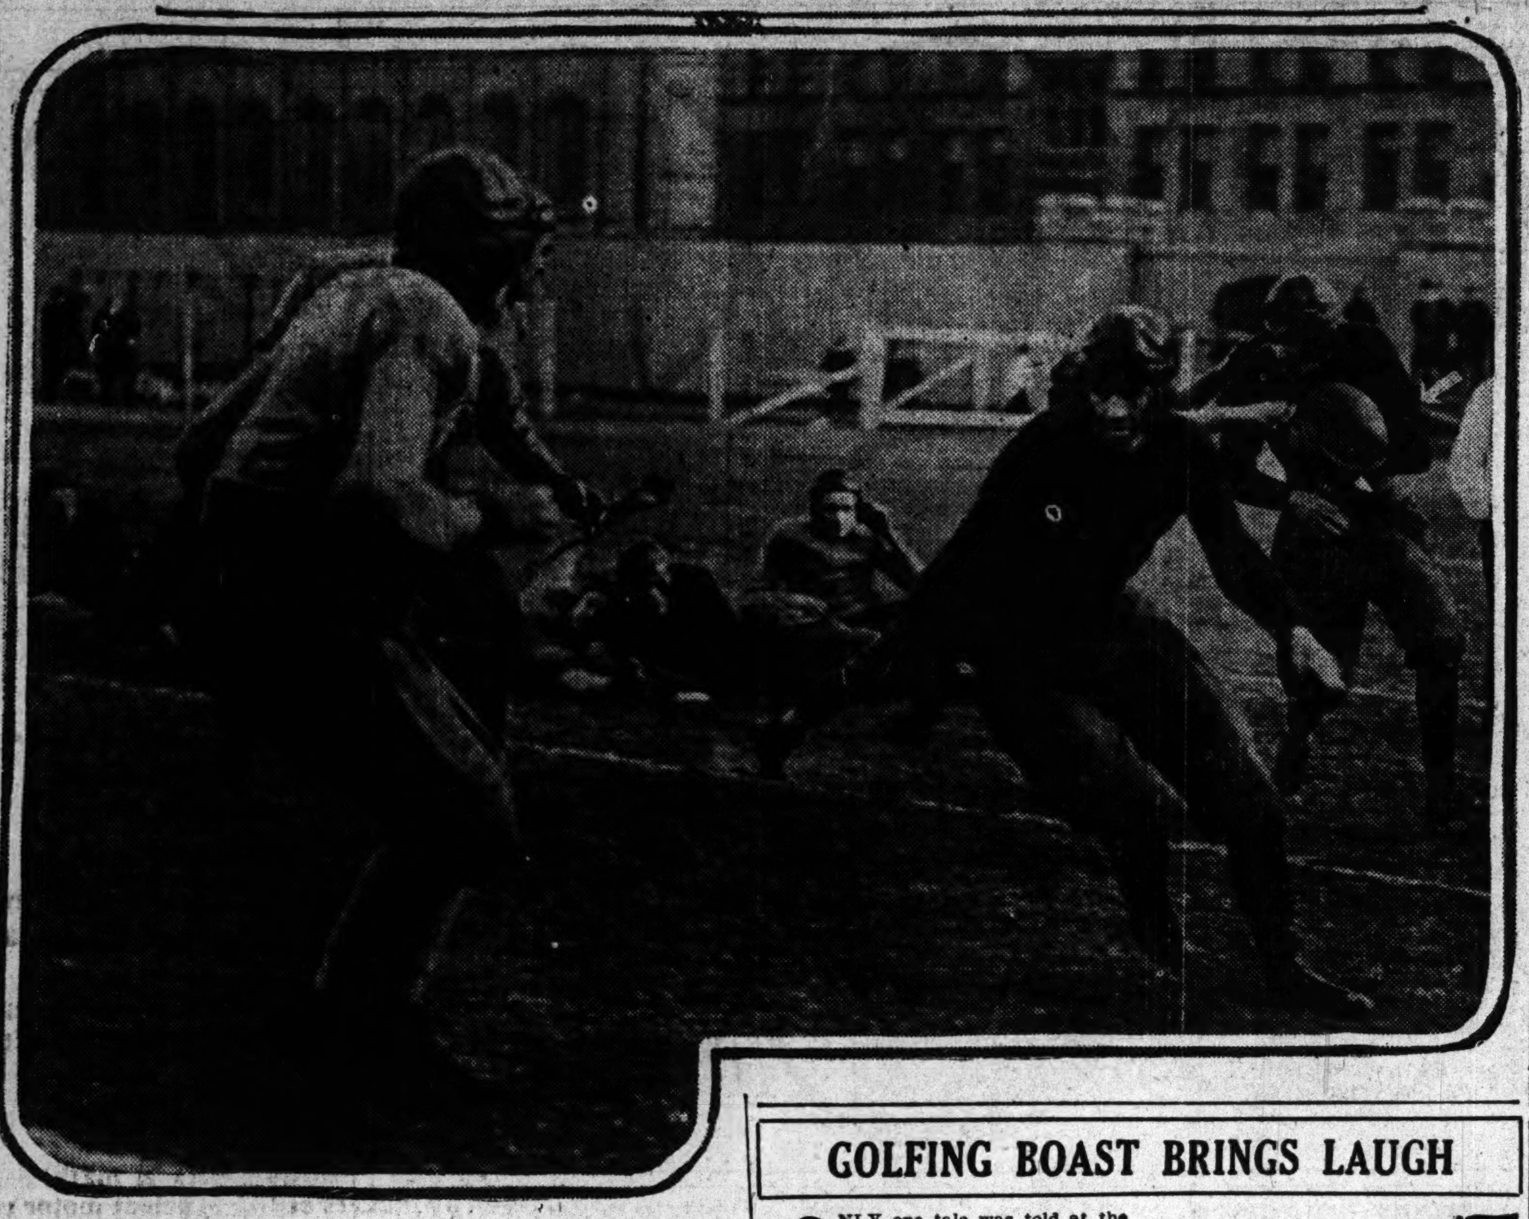
With that sum, which would not finance a modern spring training trip the Chicago League Ball club proceeded to equip the park at Lincoln and Polk streets with stands, fences, sod, and drainage at a cost of about $55,000. The money used to improve the west side park was borrowed from John R. Walsh, the banker, who was one of the principal stockholders.

The next few years were anything but rosy. Fire destroyed part of the stands, and while new ones were being built another fire wrecked what had been left by the first one.

Then came the war with the American league, which cost the Chicago club $54,000 in three years. Consequently the sale of the west side club in 1905 for $100,000, the par value of the stock, which had represented a little over $10,000 in cash a dozen years before, was proof of the fast reviving rapid growth of baseball's popularity and a matter of great personal satisfaction to the man who had struggled so long to keep the cost side of the ledger down to the receipts.

Mr. Hart explained the mistaken impression that he sold the club for $105,000 instead of at par. The additional $5,000 was paid by Charles W. Murphy for the privilege of being vice president of the club during the latter half of the season of 1905, giving him the right to "sit in" and learn from Mr. Hart how to conduct the business end of the club.

CAMERA SHOWS FUMBLE IN PARKER-SENN TITLE GAME



SELDOM caught by a photographer is a picture of a play showing a fumble, although there are frequent slips in a game. The accompanying reproduction is a remarkable "snap," showing the ball slipping from the arms of Half Back Conklin of the Parker team. Just a few inches from the ball can be seen the hand of a Senn player, which may or may not have been responsible for the slip. The referee could not see the play, as the runner's back is toward him and therefore could not rule whether the Senn man intentionally or otherwise caused the Parker star to lose the ball, which was recovered immediately by a Parker player.

BY KEENE GARDINER.

Play in the first rounds of the winter singles tennis tournament began on the municipal pier indoor courts yesterday with such enthusiasm that a couple of matches which started on cement courts in afternoon daylight had to be finished under entirely different conditions on the wooden floor of the pier auditorium by electric light.

Fifty entered the singles play. Marasigan, a Filipino player from Rush Medical college, showed the local talent some fast tennis, defeating Rea in a one sided match, 6—0, 6—1. The Chicago stars are regarding the island crack with real apprehension. The two matches which tested the varsatility of the contestants by switching from day to night conditions were won by Adams and Wolf. The former defeated Tannenbaum, 6—4, 6—4, and the latter downed Mertz by stopping a rally by his rival in a long fought second set, 6—2, 8—6.

Kenfield and Oelsner Win.

Kenfield and Oelsner reached the semi-final round in the doubles meet by beating Spencer and Ferris, 2—6, 8—6, 6—3. Kenfield was hurt in a football game at Waukegan last Sunday and had to play hindered by bandages over a sprained right shoulder and a bandaged knee. He left most of the work to his partner, being unable to serve or smash overhead. The semi-final contest of this pair against Wylie and Carver was scheduled today, but will be held over until Saturday on account of Kenfield's injuries. The other semi-final, with Hubbell and Miller opposing Rose and Segal, will be played this afternoon.

Three courts will be open for the public today on cement courts of the pier sheds. Eight are reserved for the singles and doubles tournament players, two on the wood floor of the auditorium and six in the sheds.

Summary of Matches.

Results of yesterday's play:

SINGLES.

First round—Crowley defeated Thompson, 7—5, 6—3; Nattinger defeated Bonscaion, 6—3, 6—2; Marasigan defeated Rea, 6—0, 6—1; Adams defeated Tannenbaum, 6—4, 6—4; Jackson defeated La Zoris, 8—6, 6—2; Wolf defeated Mertz, 6—2, 8—6; Beasley defeated Antolini, 6—3, 6—4.

Doubles—Fourth round—Kenfield and Oelsner defeated Spencer and Ferris, 2—6, 8—6, 6—3.

Matches scheduled today:

Doubles—Semi-final—Hubbell and Miller vs. Rose and Segal, this afternoon.

SINAI NATATORS DEFEAT HEBREW INSTITUTE TEAM.

Sinai Social center swimmers, Amateur Athletic federation champions, defeated the Chicago Hebrew institute team, 47 to 24, in the opening meet at the institute last night. Of the nine events, the visitors won seven, although given real opposition in most of the contests. The 200 yard breast stroke was won by Rosen of the institute by forty yards. Individual honors went to Rayfield, who scored two firsts and a second. Summaries:

220 yard breast stroke—Won by Rosen, C.; Rayfield, S., second; Perland, C., third. Time, 3:17.

100 yard breast stroke—Won by Green, S.; Baum, C., second; Rosenzweig, C., third. Time, 1:31.

100 yard swim—Won by Levy, S.; Chadkin, S., second; Cohen, C., third. Time, 1:12 4-5.

Fancy diving—Won by Chadkin, S.; Spiegler, C., second; Levin, C., third.

Plunge for distance—Won by Simon, C.; Bycraft, S., second; Blumenthal, S., third. Distance, 57 ft.

220 yard swim—Won by Rayfield, S.; Chadkin, S., second; Levin, C., third. Time, 3:13 4-5.

40 yard swim—Won by Levy, S.; Greenberg, S., second; Spiegler, C., third. Time, :23 3-5.

40 yard back stroke—Won by Rayfield, S.; Rosen, C., second; Bycraft, S., third. Time, :32.

Relay race—Won by Sinai. Time, 2:02 3-5.

H. S. HONORS FOR PARKER ELEVEN

the kicks, as the entire Parker line was smashing through, giving him little time to get off the kicks.

Senn Rooters Lively Lot.

There was a regular college spirit shown by the crowds. Senn rooters outnumbered the south siders, probably 3,000 to 2,000 of the latter. Senn had a jass band and a cheer leader who was as good as anything seen around the high schools this season and banners galore announcing the presence of the north siders. Parker acted quite modestly, singing songs and giving their yells in subdued tones. If volume of noise had figured in the final result, Senn would have carried off the championship by a city block.

Parker got the jump in the opening period when handed the ball on downs. A march down the field of thirty-five yards placed the ball on the thirty-two yard mark. Here Quarter Back Clark pulled a trick play in which Right Half Back Conklin carried an imaginary ball around end. With the line wide open, Hurley shot off guard and with little opposition went straight for the goal post, being tackled from behind, but when the whistle blew the ball was on the line. Conklin shot goal.

Fumble Leads to Touchdown.

The other touchdown came in the third period when Placka attempted a wide end run, but ran back to his own line. Thornton of Parker made a dive at the Senn player, knocking the oval from his hand. Kilburn then pounced upon the ball behind the goal line. Lineup:

Parker [14].		Senn [0].

GOLFING BOAST BRINGS LAUGH

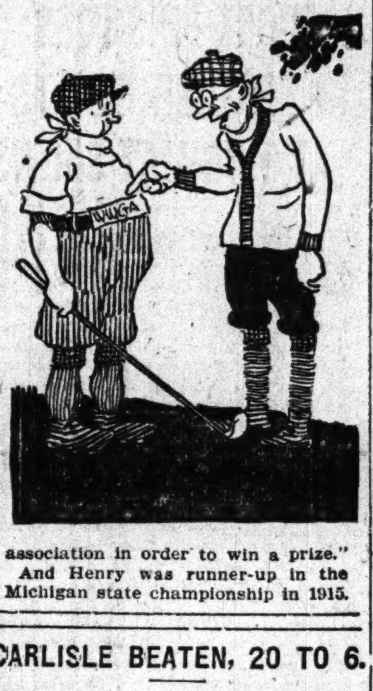
ONLY one tale was told at the recent annual session of the Women's Western Golf association, held in Chicago, and it concerns Henry Grinnell, champion of Grand Rapids.

At the women's western championship, held at the Kent Country club of Grand Rapids, Mr. Grinnell and Miss Elaine Rosenthal of Chicago won the prizes for low gross score in the mixed foursome. He received a belt with a silver buckle and, true to the cavalier instinct for which the men of the Furniture City are noted, he had the initials W. W. G. A. engraved on the buckle.

Shortly after this, Grinnell competed in an event at a Detroit club and his partners in the foursome could not quite understand the reason for the strange initials and asked for an explanation.

"The letters stand for Women's Western Golf association," replied Henry, "and I won the belt at its tournament."

"Too bad, old chap," said his friends, "that your game is now so poor you have to join the women's association in order to win a prize."



And Henry was runner-up in the Michigan state championship in 1915.

S. S. TENNIS CLUB PLANS EXPANSION FOR COMING SEASON

Six new clay courts are to be built on the South Park Tennis club's grounds, Sixty-second street and Calumet avenue, making a total of nine for the club. The construction of the courts is to be only one feature of a program of enlargement before the start of the 1917 outdoor tennis season. The club is arranging the outright purchase of the grounds, which are now leased, and the building of a clubhouse with lockers, showers, parlor, and other features.

The membership of the club now is limited to forty, this having been almost the maximum for the three stone dust courts on which the club played last season, but the roll is expected to total 150 before spring. Women will be admitted as members after the formal change in the by-laws is made to permit it. The waiting list now includes many applications.

The South Park club won the championship of the Chicago Associated Tennis clubs last summer without losing a team match. Only one individual match was dropped by a South Park player during the season, that being in the final championship dual contests against the Sherwood club. The plan for making the club a permanent center for tennis players of the south side will be voted on at a meeting Friday night. Fred G. Wilber, 1402 Hartford building, is president, and J. M. Robb, 354 East Fifty-eighth street, is secretary.

Clabby A. C. Plays Cincy Celts.

The Clabby A. C. eleven of Hammond will battle the Cincinnati Celts at Hammond today. Next Sunday the Clabbys will close their season with a game against Pine Village at Lafayette, Ind.

CARLISLE BEATEN, 20 TO 6.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 2.—[Special.]—The Carlisle Indians met defeat at the hands of the Winchester A. A. eleven at Yale field, 20 to 6, today. The touchdowns were scored by Reilly, Stanwood, and Gould for the winners, and Tibbets for the losers. The redskins' score came after a twenty-six yard run. The defeat of the Indians mainly was due to costly fumbles.

MAROON BASKET FIVE WILL MAKE PRACTICE TOUR

BY MAROON.

University of Chicago basketball players will have to give up turkey dinners with the home folks on Christmas and New Year's day, for Pat Page plans to take his squad on a trip to Cleveland, Detroit, and Buffalo and possibly another junket into Iowa during the holiday vacation. The schedule is not yet complete, but Pat expects to have at least half a dozen games on foreign floors before the 1917 conference schedule opens on Jan. 6.

The prospects for the Maroons indicate that Chicago will have a much stronger team than represented the Midway last winter, if for no other reason than that it would be hard to have another five so weak as the 1916 team. Last year's squad was the worst that has represented Chicago since the winter game was recognized as a major sport in the conference. Chicago lost all of its games except two pairs of battles with Minnesota, including a couple of one point defeats at the hands of Iowa, a team which lost all of its remaining games.

One Veteran Is Lost.

Capt. Roland George, an all-conference guard, was the only regular lost by graduation, and while his loss will be a big one there are more good men on the squad than turned out last season. Schafer, Parker, Rothermel, and Capt. Elect Townley are all back, and Norgren, Clark, and Bent, substitutes, are on the squad.

Townley and Rothermel form a good pair of defensive guards. Walter Schafer was just behind Levis of Wisconsin for leadership in points scored for the season, and is sure of his position. He had the best free throw average of any penalty tosser in the big nine. Parker played the other forward position and will have to step lively to hold his berth. Norgren and Clark, substitutes from last year, may crowd some of the veterans to the bench.

Gorgas Likely to Be Star.

The freshman team of last year turned out several average players and one recognized star in "Dutch" Gorgas, who played some on the football team this year. He is a giant in stature, weighing over 200 pounds and standing 6 feet 3 inches in height. He was captain and center on the championship Hyde Park team two years ago, and looks like a sure bet for the center berth on the varsity. Clark, who played in several confeence games last year, is a rival. Other centers are Orr, who played two years on the Lake Forest team, and Fluegal of the football team. The latter played two years on Kalamazoo Normal.

Evans, Setzer, and Gentles are three freshmen with possibilities, but all need seasoning. Roddy, who played on the Wisconsin freshman team two years ago, is a candidate.

Stayms Club Five Wins.

Stayms club tossers won the opening basketball game from Harrison Tigers, 42 to 19, at Brown's hall, Kilbourn avenue and Harrison street, last night. Both fives displayed good team work, but the Stayms boys proved better shooters.

Turners vs. Marquettes Today.

Central Turners and Anderson and Lind Marquettes will meet in an indoor game this afternoon at the Turners' gym.

COULON TURNS BIG DEALS.

Johnny Coulon, former king of the bantam fighters, put over a couple of good sized real estate deals yesterday. For a consideration of $67,500, Johnny turned over his twenty-four apartment building at 3559 West Van Buren street to Thomas H. Humphreys. As part payment, Coulon acquired the Humphreys home at 3909 Gladys avenue. Johnny also disposed of his mother's home at 2622 Emmet avenue and purchased a new one for her at 2548 Kedzie boulevard. There have been rumors that Coulon considered quitting Chicago to take up his residence in California, but the former champion denies the reports.

PURPLE TUTORS MAP PLANS FOR INDOOR SPORTS

BY EVAN STONE.

With football shelved for the season, Northwestern coaches and students have turned their attention to basketball, track, and swimming. The Purple last year was runner up for the basketball championship, Wisconsin downing Murphy's quintet in the final game for the bunting.

With the loss of "Red" Whittle, Patterson, Ellis, and Kincaid, the rooters are doubtful of the caliber of the team that Coach Murphy can get together. Kincaid was elected captain at the close of last season, and was counted on as a bright star for this year, but he elected to quit college and go into business. A wedding announcement last spring was taken as an explanation.

Veteran candidates are Capt. Underhill and Pattie Driscoll, but the latter has not yet decided whether he will play. Northwestern's two sport regulation is in effect this year, and Pattie may elect to play baseball instead of holding down a guard position on the basketball team.

Recruits from Football.

Coach Murphy probably will recruit Cigrand, Bennett, Kohler, and Ellingwood from the football squad. Ellingwood was a star on the Evanston High school team, and should make a position on the varsity. Practice will start this week in the Patten gymnasium.

In swimming the Purple expects to win another conference and perhaps national championship. Coach Robinson is even more optimistic than he has been for the last three years, during which time his teams have won the conference buntings and defeated Yale in the only meet for the national title. The success of the swimming teams has made aquatics a popular sport at Northwestern, crowds being turned away from the pool at every match for want of seating space.

Fortified by such veteran stars as Johnson, Simonson, Vitack, West, and Raymond, Coach Robinson will have the aid of several sophomores who promise well. The weak spot of the Purple team will be in the breast stroke, as no one has been found to measure up to the standard set by Don Scholes, last year's captain, who was graduated in June.

Looks for Breast Stroke Man.

In Gerding, Shogren, Folse, Martin, Bacon, and Schwartz, Coach Robinson hopes to find a frog style swimmer strong enough to win points in the dual meets. The dashes will be taken care of by Johnson, West, Vitack, Gerding, Groves, and Bacon. Raymond and Martin are going well in the back stroke, while Simonson is improving his time in the longer swims. Simonson, Loth, Hall, and West will be the candidates in the plunge.

POOR PADDING NEARLY CAUSES RING FATALITY

Rivers Will Be Careful After His Scare Over Thomas Knockout.

BY RAY C. PEARSON.

There's one boxer who will exercise a lot of care the next time, and for a considerable number of times after the next, that he climbs through the ropes to do battle. And for this same reason other scrappers should do the same as this article explains.

The first thing a boxer does, according to ordinary custom, is to gaze across the ring at his opponent to see whether his hands are incased in hard or soft bandages, and his manager and seconds usually are on the job to take a peek before the upholstered kids are slipped on the mitts.

But it won't be that way with Joe Rivers, the Californian, when he goes into the ring again. Rivers will put the business of investigating the tape up to his manager and seconds completely, while he will attend to the business of investigating the padding under the canvas on the floor of the ring.

A "Safety First" Measure.

Chances are Joe will get down on his hands and knees a couple of times to probe around the edges of the canvas to make sure that there's enough felt there to prevent his opponent from suffering concussion of the brain or other serious injury in case of a knockout.

Rivers' experience of a few days ago in New Orleans, when he knocked out Joe Thomas, a Crescent City scrapper, in the third round, has taught him a lesson he will not soon forget, hence his desire to find out how much padding there is on the floor of the ring in the future. When Rivers landed the blow, a right cross to the jaw, which sent Thomas flying clear across the ring, the latter's head collided with the floor with a dull thud. His right leg went flying up in the air in weird fashion, and as he lay on the canvas he shook from stem to stern.

Physicians worked on the prostrate form of Thomas for half an hour with no success and then hurriedly sent a call for an ambulance, and the boxer was carted off to a hospital, where he was unconscious for two hours. Rivers and his manager, Bob Laga, were scared stiff, and they admit they believed they were mixed up in a ring fatality.

Visits Foe at Hospital.

In the meantime a couple of officers took Rivers into custody, which didn't help his peace of mind a bit. He finally asked the officers to take him to the hospital to see Thomas. When they arrived there the southern boxer was just beginning to show signs of life, and Joe was tickled half to death. He sat at Thomas' bedside silently rooting for the boy he had knocked out, and when Thomas opened his eyes and seemed to have recovered his senses Joe extended a hand and told him how sorry he was that he had been hurt, to which he got the surprising answer:

"Let's fight some more."

Thomas didn't even know he had been knocked out and thought they still were in the ring instead of in the hospital. It was not Rivers' punch on the jaw that did the nearly serious damage to Thomas. It was the lack of padding under the canvas, for when Thomas' head hit the floor there wasn't enough felt there to prevent his suffering severe damage.

The police authorities of New Orleans quickly realized this, too, after an investigation, for they have issued an edict that every ring in the Crescent City must be supplied with an extra padding of felt, or no licenses will be granted.

Near Fatality at Kenosha.

The need of care in ring bouts never was more clearly shown than recently when the knockout of a young fellow in a Kenosha ring threatened for a time to cast the "big dark cloud" over the boxing game in Wisconsin, a state in which the sport is legalized. Joe Geary and Jimmy Gates, a couple of preliminary scrappers of Chicago, were the boys engaged in this bout.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the time of weighing in for the contests, Gates and Geary were among the others to be examined by the commission's physician. Geary's heart test did not suit the physician and he ruled Geary could not meet Gates. But Geary was determined he would fight, and three hours later he looked up the commission representatives and demanded another examination, declaring he was in shape to enter the ring.

He got what he demanded, and this time he was passed as up to the standard. It took Gates just half a round to land a hard right over Geary's heart, and he crumpled up on the floor, where he remained for nearly fifteen minutes, while they worked on him to bring him to. He had to be carried to his dressing room.

Just why Geary should have been allowed to box after being turned down at the weighing-in examination never has been fully explained, but those responsible for his fighting certainly took a big chance.

RICKARD WANTS TO LEASE GARDEN FOR WILLARD GO.

New York, Dec. 2.—[Special.]—Tex Rickard has ready a new bid for a lease of Madison Square garden, which he will submit after the famous building is sold at auction next week. Rickard is negotiating with Willard for a match he intends to stage in the garden in February or March, and is understood to have practically obtained the champion's consent to be one of the principals. Rickard will bid for a lease of five or ten years. Speculation is rife as to who Willard's opponent in the proposed match will be.

KANSAN SETS RUN RECORD

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 2.—Ernest [illegible], representing the University of Kansas, won the annual five mile race of the Kansas City Athletic club today. His time was 25:00, bettering the record made by Rodkey of Kansas by fifty-[illegible] seconds. Floyd Walsh and Clyde [illegible], also Kansas men, finished second [illegible]

WHIST GOSSIP—BY A. R. METCALFE

A CURIOUS play occurred at Lake Forest last week, a grand slam being secured against what would seem to be impossible conditions. The hands:

West secured a grand slam.

Although west might have made a much higher bid, he purposely refrained from doing so in order to conceal his great strength, as there appeared to be little likelihood that either north or south would bid on the second round. This helped his subsequent play, as his opponents thought he had taken his partner out with a weak hand.

Although south lost a trick by his play in the club suit at tricks two and four, he was not guilty of bad play. At trick two there were not enough clubs in sight to warrant south in playing the ace. The usual result of such a play is to allow the declarer to make both the king and queen instead of one of them.

In the beginning west was merely trying to establish a club trick before he lost the ace of hearts, in order to make a small slam certain. After the second trick, however, he perceived an unusual opportunity, provided south did not hold both the ace and knave of clubs.

At trick four south naturally felt that west was trying to steal a trick with the knave of clubs, and the play of the ace made the rest of the tricks easy for the declarer.

In auction bridge a player should try to locate as many cards as possible from the bidding. Inferences are the very soul of the game.

Last week the following deal occurred: North bid one no trump, east passed, south passed, holding the following cards: Spades, K, Q, J, 7; hearts, K, J, 8, 5, 3; clubs, K, 8, 6, 2; west bid two diamonds, north passed, east passed, south bid two hearts, west passed, north bid two no-trump, east passed. What should the cumulative reasoning of south be at that time, and what should he bid, if anything?

South did reason as follows: When North failed to bid 2 no-trump after the two diamonds, south reasoned that either north could not stop diamonds or had but one trick in that suit and a no-trump of no great strength. When north took away the two heart bid with two no-trump, south reasoned that north was weak in hearts and had but one trick in diamonds and was particularly strong in the black suits. Therefore, south went to three spades and won the game.

Suppose south bid one heart and west one spade and the other three passed. North opens the hand with the king of hearts; if the ace of diamonds is neither in the dummy nor the west hand it must be held by south, as north would have supported his partner with the king of trumps and another sure trick.

A little practice in drawing such inferences will greatly improve the play of a beginner.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

Chicago.—My partner bid two spades and everybody passed. I was called to the telephone, asking the courtesies of the table, and did not return until the deal was nearly finished. Three players had two cards each and one opponent only one. We found five cards, all diamonds, in one trick, but one of the opponents said he saw my partner play two cards to that trick. What should be done? M. C.

Answer—The card in question must be given to the player who is short. It would make no difference at that stage of the game if your partner had played all five cards to the trick in question. The opponent who observed the misplay should have corrected it at the time. Also, the player who was short was responsible for any revokes which might have been made owing to the absence of that card in the hand.

JOE WELLING READY TO TACKLE WHITNEY IN KENOSHA BATTLE

BY KNOCKOUT.

Joe Welling, whose recent triumph over Ever Hammer made him a big favorite with Chicago fistic fans, is ready for his engagement at Kenosha tomorrow night with Frankie Whitney, the fighting carpenter from Cedar Rapids, Ia. They have contracted to battle for ten rounds, with 138 pounds ring side as the stipulated weight.

The boxers put the finishing touches to their training yesterday. "Bohemian Joe," who really isn't a Bohemian, utilized the paraphernalia at Bernstein's loop gymnasium, and when he quit for the day he pronounced himself fit from tip to tip. Whitney did his work at the Arcade gymnasium. His ante-bellum remarks covered just about what Welling said.

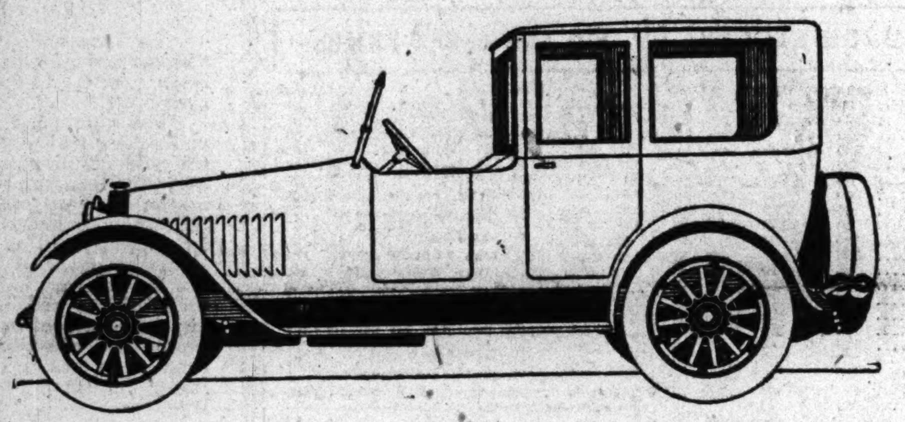
Special Trains to Kenosha.

Chicago seems to look favorably on the match, for there has been better than a fair advance sale here. As usual, a special has been chartered to carry the local delegation to and from the scene of action. Quite a few private parties, composed usually of five or ten fans, have arranged for accommodations on the special.

After concluding two real estate transactions involving more money than most people believe there is Johnny Coulon, former bantam champion, last night announced plans for a strenuous campaign in eastern rings. John will put in some light training licks around town until Dec. 15, when he will start for Philadelphia. Promoter Adam Ryan of the City of Sleep has arranged two bouts for Johnny.

Fights Wagner Jan. 1.

From Philly, Coulon will move to New York, where he has been booked for a ten round clash with Joe Wagner on New Year's day. Johnny also is promised a mixup with Young Solsburg after the Wagner melee. Nate Lewis, who has taken over the management of Coulon, dug up the eastern business for his charge.



There are only 55 cars just like this in America. Only a very few cars in this city. Probably the most distinctive car that Chalmers ever built. A town car with a wide range of practicability. $2550

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Touring Car $360
f. o. b. Detroit.

At twice its price, the performance and upkeep economy of a Ford would make it a value still much above the usual.

FORD performance is traditional. Ford owners know a road-fearlessness that laughs at "rough going." The all-efficiency construction, the rugged, really remarkable power of this universal car surmount bigger obstacles than mere mud or sand or snow or any hill can put before it.

AND Ford economy of upkeep and operation, sets a mark designated "an unattainable ideal" by makers of less efficient motor cars. Few, indeed, are the motorists, present and prospective, who need feel that the expense of running a Ford is beyond them. And few, indeed, the Ford buyers who are not pleasantly surprised at the actual upkeep-operation-cost, however modestly they had calculated.

AT the new Ford prices the pleasure and profit of motoring are yours for less than ever. New models were announced with the new prices; handsomer body-lines, more attractively finished; improved in several details. The enclosed types are particularly desirable for Winter driving; this type is the ideal every-season car.

WITH the substantial reductions in the prices of Ford cars there has been no slighting of the materials entering into their construction, no compromise with the established Ford standard of quality. They represent "efficiency savings," the savings which come with production on the scale which Ford cars are built and marketed, refinements in construction, new methods of distribution. It is all contained in the policy of the Ford Motor Company—to build "a better car at a lower price."

Here are new Ford low prices for 1916-1917. Models now being shown by dealers listed below.

Ford Chassis...$325
Ford Runabout..$345
Ford Touring Car, $360
Ford Coupelet..$505
Ford Town Car..$595
Ford Sedan.......$645

WHEAT IS LOWER BUT ENJOYS GOOD CLOSING RALLY

Reports of Big Export Sales and Free Short Covering Turn Prices Upward.

Wheat sustained further sharp price losses yesterday, but in a late rally most of the lost ground was recovered. Resting spots were ¾@1c lower than previous closing figures. Reports that a leading export concern was trying to resell a large quantity of wheat because tonnage was not available brought on the liquidation and stop-loss selling. The trade was in a recipient mood at the time, still feeling the depression from peace rumors and railroad embargoes, and prices broke rapidly, May at one time being 4c lower. Later it developed that the reselling had amounted to only a few hundred thousand bushels and also that there was a good export inquiry, and the market rallied.

Best buying was by shorts, who were cashing in profits, but there was also a little outside buying stimulated by the reported big export sales. It was understood that the Greek government had taken 1,250,000 bu durum and Manitoba wheat, while about 1,000,000 bu hard winter wheat was purchased by Holland late yesterday and today. Local shipping sales were 15,000 bu.

Foreign Advices Bullish.

Foreign advices were again bullish. Liverpool spot wheat was 1d higher in face of sharp declines on this side Friday, while the cargo market there was much stronger. World's shipments of wheat this week will again be under weekly foreign requirements and demand abroad is reported as good. Broomhall's agent reports that wheat harvesting in Argentina is extending southward and that yields are disappointing. The day's clearances from the seaboard were moderate at 342,000 bu and compare with 941,000 bu a year ago.

The movement of wheat in the northwest continues to run much under that of a year ago, but there was an increase of 200,000 bu for one day in Minneapolis stocks. Primary receipts totaled 1,629,000 bu, compared with 2,955,000 bu a year ago. Winnipeg received 933 cars wheat yesterday, against 1,543 a year ago. Local receipts for the week were 990,000 bu, while 925,000 bu were shipped.

Corn Strong at Finish.

Corn made a strong finish after ruling lower at one time. Closing prices were unchanged to ⅛c lower. A lot of liquidation was encouraged by the break in wheat and by the congested shipping situation. Cash and elevator people sold corn early, and there also was considerable pressure from shorts. Later, when it developed that the B. & O. embargo did not include corn, there was much short covering. Cash corn interests were reported to be looking for vessel room and charters for 500,000 bu were confirmed.

Cash corn was 2@2½c lower, with local shipping sales 25,000 bu. Receipts are expected to increase as western cars now in the east are ordered released, and country elevators are reported as filled to capacity. Receipts of corn here this week totaled 2,537,000 bu, while only 987,000 bu were shipped. Liverpool spot corn was unchanged. Seaboard clearances were nil. Primary receipts totaled 1,327,000 bu, compared with 952,000 bu a year ago.

Oats Recovery Complete.

Oats were under heavy pressure from longs during the forenoon and ruled much lower, but rallied later and closed around the best figures of the day. May closed ⅛c lower, while other months were ⅛@¾c higher. Cash people sold oats early, while later there was good buying by houses with export connections. Local receipts this week totaled 2,470,000 bu, while 1,650,000 bu were shipped. Seaboard clearances were only 7,000 bu. Primary receipts totaled 1,021,000 bu, against 858,000 bu a year ago.

Hog product closed irregular. The market displayed much firmness early, partly in sympathy with higher values for hogs at the yards, but mainly due to outside buying stimulated by reports that the Belgian relief committee had taken large quantities of product here over night. The market developed a nervous tone later, being more or less affected by the weakness in grains. Liverpool spot lard was 1s lower. Western markets received 734,000 hogs for the week, against 755,000 a year ago. Local meat shipments this week totaled 17,790,000 lbs, compared with 18,429,000 lbs a year ago. Lard shipments were 6,700,000 lbs, against 8,083,000 lbs last year.

Rye Dull and Easy.

Rye was easy with No. 2 quoted $1.49 nominal. Receipts were 6 cars.

Barley ruled easy to 1c lower. Malting was quoted $1.05@1.25 and sold $1.05@1.20; feed and mixing quotable 90c@$1.03 and sold at latter figure; screenings were quoted 50@90c, and skimmings, 65@70c. Receipts, 7 cars.

Timothy seed was quiet, with March $5.75 bid and $6.10 asked; cash lots quoted $3.00@5.50. Cloverseed ruled unchanged, with cash lots $12.00@17.50 nominal.

Flax closed unchanged, with cash quoted $2.77¼@2.81½. Minneapolis was steady and Duluth 1@1¾c lower. Winnipeg closed irregular.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE

There were indications of a broader export demand for wheat at the seaboard. The Greek government was said to be in the market for 2,500,000 bu wheat, and it was thought the business would go through. On Friday there was considerable wheat taken by the Dutch government, and there was more inquiry from other governments. Reports that the Hudson Bay company had been trying to cancel or resell wheat bought proved to be unfounded in the main, although some wheat was resold that was not in position to be moved out as expected. With the break in prices it is expected there will be a fair business. Late reports said total sales were about 2,250,000 bu, including about 1,000,000 bu Manitobas and durums to Greece.

Several of the leading shorts covered their wheat yesterday. John Barrett, who has been a leading seller from $1.95 down, was credited with buying wheat yesterday, and other local shorts were buyers. There was some local pressure during the day, but commission houses absorbed a good deal of wheat on the decline, giving the market the late rally. Without more bearish developments some of the conservatives in the trade were disposed to regard the decline as having gone far enough for the present at least. The weakness in coarse grains helped create some selling pressure early. The bulls were helped by reports of a broader export inquiry at the seaboard.

Liverpool cabled that the milling demand for wheat in the United Kingdom was good. Native wheat offers at country points were reported light, with country markets 1s per quarter higher. There is a fair demand for American corn, with Plate offerings practically nothing. Corn stocks are decreasing. Reduced consumption of provisions was reported, with liberal arrivals. Foreign flour arrivals were said to be inadequate, with millers' supplies moderate.

Sincere & Co. had the following from a representative covering the entire corn territory: "There is an immense amount of corn to be marketed this year. The farmers are cleaning up on their live stock in order to take advantage of present prices, and they feel that they cannot afford to take the chance of a big decline. I never knew of so few cattle on feed as this fall. I look for a large and long movement, beginning now."

Minneapolis wired: "No change in wheat situation. Millers best buyers and are picking up cars that can be shipped east. Does not look as if much wheat would be delivered. Cash wheat premiums are unchanged."

Cash wheat prices were relatively steady, but there was a light trade. Sales were 15,000 bu. Corn sales were 25,000 bu, and oats sales 50,000 bu. The shipping conditions do not show any material improvement and shipping business is slow. Cash prices for corn were 2@2½c lower and oats were 2c off. Country offerings of corn were only fair.

Primary receipts of wheat for the week were nearly 10,000,000 bu less than for the corresponding week last year, 9,427,000 bu, compared to 19,081,000 bu. Corn receipts west for the week were 7,270,000 bu, against 5,496,000 bu, and oats 5,651,000 bu, against 5,479,000 bu a year ago.

"Hogs, although cheaper, still look high priced," said W. L. Gregson. "It will not be surprising to see the last three-quarters of the winter's packing sell much lower than the first quarter. Cut meat stocks at Chicago are almost double what they were a year ago."

Broomhall cabled: "World's shipments will be light. American shipments for the week were disappointing, and India, Australia, and Argentina are shipping moderate quantities, the scarcity of tonnage being felt in all directions."

Mark Bates, George H. Lowitz, and George A. Aylsworth made application for memberships on the board of trade, while memberships were posted for transfer by John R. Tomlin and George E. Root.

Receipts inspected Saturday: Wheat, 42 cars; corn, 325 cars; oats, 136 cars; rye, 6 cars; barley, 78 cars. Hogs estimated for Monday, 65,000 head, and for all next week, 270,000 head.

An Argentine cable said the weather was clear and hot. Locusts continue to damage corn. Wheat harvest is extending southward and yields are disappointing.

Douglas I. Van Ness, formerly with Lamson Bros., has become floor manager for E. W. Wagner & Co.

A New York message said the French government had bought 100,000 brls of flour the last week.

It is understood the Baltimore and Ohio embargo on grain shipments does not include corn.

Minneapolis wheat stocks increased 200,000 bu for one day.

Generally fair weather was forecast for over Sunday.

Hog receipts of 14,000 head at Chicago yesterday sold at steady to 10c higher prices. The arrivals disappointed buyers, but there was little demand for underweight light hogs and extremely heavy offerings and these sold barely steady. The intermediate grades were in active demand and mostly 10c higher than on Friday. Top sales were made at $10.00 and the bulk at $9.25@9.90.

Final prices made hogs 5@15c lower than a week ago, but the average price for total receipts this week was advanced 5c to $9.55. Pigs were steady for the day and unchanged for the week.

With the raising of all embargoes against the shipment of stock and feeding cattle and sheep, there was considerable activity in that line yesterday, many consignments of both cattle and sheep bought earlier in the week being shipped out.

CATTLE.

Record prices were made in the beef cattle trade at Chicago this week and the market closed at net gains of 25c to 50c from last week's final figures. Receipts were greatly reduced, largely due to the midweek holiday, while the quality was improved, many steers originally intended for the fat stock show finding their way to the open market. Top beeves reached $13.25, an unprecedented price, and the bulk of the fair to choice killers cleared at $7.65@10.75. Fat cows and heifers gained as much as steers and the cheap cows advanced 25@35c. Calves made an advance of 25@50c for the week.

Cattle at seven western markets for the week, 161,900, against 278,800 the preceding week, 194,700 a year ago, and 166,600 two years ago. Total for 1916 to date, 8,532,000, against 7,351,000 the same period in 1915.

SHEEP.

Sheep and yearlings sold at a net gain of 25@50c for the week, while lambs finished at an advance of 40@50c and established new high records for the yards. Receipts for the week were smaller, while the demand, especially from local packers, showed unusual aggressiveness. Shipping demand was curtailed by an embargo on outgoing feeding stock due to the fear of a return of the dreaded foot and mouth disease. Lambs topped the week at $12.70 for natives and $12.65 for westerns, both record prices. Sheep sold up to $9.00. The average price of lambs this week was $12.15, the highest on record by a wide margin.

Booms Do Not Last Always.

The inexperienced investor is prone to take the enthusiasm and excitement of a business boom or the depression and gloom of hard times too seriously. Neither condition is permanent. Each lasts for a longer or shorter period and then gives place to the other.

Companies that earn large dividends in times of prosperity often earn little or nothing in dull years. Large investors, sometimes called the "big interests," buy lines of investment stocks when earnings are small and prices are low. Then when good times have swelled earnings to a degree previously unknown and prices of stocks are high, they gradually sell their holdings and invest the proceeds in bonds that are too well secured to be affected seriously by any depression. When the depression comes they clip their coupons till it has nearly run its course. Then they sell some of their good bonds and buy investment stocks again.

The inexperienced investor can draw a valuable lesson from the big interests. He may not have the necessary information and skill to select good investment stocks when a boom is due, but he can at least invest his funds in safe securities while the boom is in progress. He can bear in mind the fact that companies promoted when buildings, tools, and supplies are costly, begin life under a handicap. It is possible, of course, that such undertakings may earn enough before the boom ends to write off high costs and put themselves on a sound basis, but the reverse is more often what happens. If there are large earnings they are either paid out in dividends or used to extend the business, and when the boom ends such a company finds itself "overcapitalized."

The small investor has more surplus to invest now than ever before. Let him use the utmost care in placing it.

American Locomotive.

M. P. K.: The American Locomotive company is subject to extremely wide fluctuations of earnings. It has always paid the 7 per cent dividend on its $25,000,000 of preferred stock, though sometimes not earning it. On the $25,000,000 of common nothing was paid from 1908 till this year. In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1915, gross earnings were only $9,303,298, and the company did not pay operating expenses. In the year ended last June gross was almost $60,000,000 and net over $11,000,000, figuring out at 36 per cent on common stock. Part of this big profit came from shrapnel contracts. In September a quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent was paid on common stock and a similar payment will be made in December.

Commonwealth Power.

B. S. T.: Your Commonwealth Power Railway and Light bond is convertible at any time before its maturity into 6 per cent preferred stock at par, with a bonus of 30 per cent of common. The bond is, more properly speaking, a debenture, not being secured by mortgage. The company has paid all dividends on preferred stock and for the last three years has been paying 1 per cent quarterly on common. The bonds are quoted at about 102½, the preferred stock at 85, and the common at 62. Earnings are now showing a large increase and any further advance in the market price of the stock will cause a corresponding advance in the bond.

United States Industrial Alcohol.

C. J. V.: United States Industrial Alcohol is making phenomenal earnings on sales of alcohol to manufacturers of explosives. When the war ends its profits probably will drop back to normal. In 1915 the company earned about 33 per cent on $12,000,000 of common stock, including its shares in subsidiary companies' profits. This year it is expected to earn 46 per cent. Before the war it usually earned about 2 per cent on common. The 7 per cent dividends on $6,000,000 of preferred stock have all been paid but nothing on common. The value of the common stock depends on how long the war lasts.

Brief Answers.

E. R. H.: The Illinois Northern Utilities company earned $882,554 gross in 1915 and $382,142 net. Interest and rental charges were $216,954, leaving $165,188. This is slightly more than 9 per cent on the preferred stock, which is entitled to 6 per cent dividends. Most of the balance was paid out in a 1 per cent dividend on common stock.

T. K., Fort Dodge, Ia.: The Ohio Farmers Insurance company is a mutual concern. It has been operating sixty-eight years. It writes only nonassessable policies for cash premium, using the regular stock rates. Its loss ratio is normal and its expense ratio rather low. Its last annual statement showed a net surplus of $1,226,482.

M. A. W., Fort Dodge, Ia.: The Lee Rubber and Tire company is paying quarterly dividends at the rate of $3 a share a year. Earnings are said to be at the rate of nearly $10 a share. There are 100,000 shares of no par value.

COTTON.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—A further decline at the opening of the cotton market this morning was followed by rallies on covering for over the week end, but the tone was unsettled and prices eased again in the late trading, with the close steady, net unchanged to 5 points lower. After selling at 20.46c early, May contracts advanced to 20.63c and closed at 20.53c, compared with 20.56c, the final quotation of the day. The market opened steady at an advance of 6 points on December, but was generally 4@6 points lower under a renewal of yesterday's selling movement. Prices were steadied by covering. Some fresh buying may also have been induced by reports of a strong goods situation, yesterday's large spot sales at sustained prices in New Orleans, and reports that the average estimate of the crop by members of the Memphis cotton exchange placed the yield at 11,111,065 bales, excluding linters. Liverpool was closed, as usual, on Saturday, so that there were no cables to influence sentiment either way. A good part of the early selling here was believed to be for southern long account, while later in the morning there was considerable pressure from local and Wall street sources. Local spot people said their advices from the south indicated no change in the interior markets. Port receipts today, 50,988 bales; for the season, 4,105,343. Exports today, 22,269 bales; for the season, 2,499,550. Stock, 1,448,118 bales. Futures:

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 2.—There was considerable evening up of commitments on both sides in the local cotton market today. Early in the session the selling movement of yesterday still was in evidence, but later there was a steadier feeling and a net advance was established on moderate fresh buying. The drop of 37 points in local spot quotations was viewed unfavorably and the close was at a net loss of 3@3 points. Futures:

SUGAR.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2. — SUGAR—Following prices were quoted by the wholesale dealers per 100 lbs: Cut loaf, H. & E., $9.18; powdered, standard, $8.26; standard cane granulated, $7.98; beet granulated, $7.58; extra C, $7.98; canary, $7.88.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—There was no change in the raw sugar situation today and no further business was reported. The undertone was steady, as offerings were not as aggressive as on previous days of the week, although it was thought possible that some small lots might still be available at present prices. Closing quotations were 4⅝c for Cubas cost and freight, equal to 5.64c for centrifugal and 4.77c for molasses. Refined sugar was dull and unchanged with buyers holding off. Prices were listed at 7.50c for fine granulated, although second hand sugars were available at concessions. Futures were steadier again on a continuation of yesterday's buying movement and closing prices were unchanged to 7 points net higher on covering for over the week end. Sales were 2,750 tons. January sold from 4.34@4.35c; closing, 4.35c; March, 4.03@4.06c; closing, 4.03c; May, 4.11c; closing, 4.10c; July, 4.14c; closing, 4.13c.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—COFFEE—The market for coffee futures opened steady at an advance of 1 point on further scattered covering, with May selling at 8.50c on the call. The demand was very light, however, and prices later eased off, with May selling down to 8.45c under realizing, while there also seemed to be a little trade selling, particularly of March, which was said to be on about a parity with cost and freight offers. The close was 3 to 5 points net lower. Sales, 13,750 bags. December, 8.06c; January, 8.14c; February, 8.22c; March, 8.29c; April, 8.37c; May, 8.44c; June, 8.51c; July, 8.57c; August, 8.62c; September, 8.66c; October, 8.71c; November, 8.76c. Spot coffee dull; Rio 7s, 9¼c; Santos 4s, 10⅝c. No fresh offers had been received in the cost and freight market up to the close. Early estimates suggest an increase of between 400,000 and 500,000 bags in the world's visible, comparing with a decrease of 32,319 bags during November last year. The official cables reported no change in the Brazilian markets, while there was an advance of 1-32d in Rio exchange on London. Brazilian port receipts 59,000 bags; Jundiahy, 36,000 bags.

METALS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The copper market has shown continued firmness during the last week. Very little electrolytic is now offered for delivery during the first quarter and the quotation for that position was practically nominal at $34.00 today. Leading agencies are quoting from $32.50 to $33.50 for deliveries during the second and third quarters. Iron was firmer; No. 1 foundry northern, $29.00@29.50; No. 2 northern, [illegible]; No. 1 southern, $28.50@29.00; No. 2 southern, $28.00@28.50.

MONEY TO LOAN ON REAL ESTATE

We have unlimited funds to loan on desirable real estate in Chicago and suburbs, in sums from Two Thousand to One Million Dollars, at 4½ to 6% interest, according to the merits of the security, etc.

We want good loans. We do not make what we consider undesirable loans, but we will be glad to examine your property and will do so promptly. If we cannot meet your views and make the loan you wish, we will decline it with the best of feeling on our part (without expense to you) and we will be thankful to you for giving us a chance to do the business, and ask you to come back to us the next time you have a loan to offer and let us try again.

If your loan is accepted we have every facility for closing it up promptly, and our title experts will aid you to quickly cure any little defects in your title, if there be any. We realize that promptness of action in deciding and closing real estate loans has often been lacking in the Chicago market, and we are endeavoring to furnish the quick, business-like service borrowers are entitled to.

NEW YORK BANKS' EXCESS RESERVE AT LOWEST MARK

Bullish Stock Market Ignores the Figures, Which Show Heavy Decrease.

The New York bank statement showed a decrease of $17,645,000 in the excess reserve, bringing that item down to $41,000,000, a new low record.

The stock market ignored the bank figures. While the statement did not appear until after the close, its general trend was known by bankers.

The fact that the reserve has reached such a low point without causing unfavorable sentiment among bankers or the public at large indicates the bullish situation now obtaining. The figures follow:

ACTUAL CONDITION.

Chicago Curb Active.

The local unlisted securities market continues active, especially in the motor and public utility stocks. The higher grade motor stocks traded on the curb have not shown the declining tendency exhibited by those listed on the exchanges. They have become quite popular both from an investment and speculative standpoint. Continental Motors improved about 4 points to sales as high as 44½. Reo Motor Car has shown a steady advance to sales at 47, due largely to its excellent statement and in anticipation of a possible stock dividend. Paige-Detroit common improved to 39.

W. K. Prudden has been quite active, advancing some 5 points to 52 bid, offered at 55. American Hominy preferred sold between 70 and 75. American Fork and Hoe common was in good demand, changing hands as high as 118¾. Avery company common was wanted around 92, with light offerings at 95.

Butler Brothers Stock Firm.

Butler Bros. was firm, with sales at 290@292. Consumers company preferred advanced to 82 and the common to 25½. Deere & Co. preferred improved to sales at 97. Emerson Brantingham preferred has been rather neglected, closing at 89@90. Moline Plow preferred sold at 95. United States Gypsum common showed some improvement, closing at 46¼ bid, offered at 46½. The preferred was wanted at 100.

Wilson & Co. common sold at 58½, but closed easier at 56½ bid, offered at 57½. The preferred was steady at 103¼ bid, offered at 104½. The sugar stocks have been firm and fairly active. The bid price of German-American advanced about 3 points to 29½. Holland-St. Louis was wanted at 11¾, with offerings at 12½. Michigan Sugar was quoted 104 bid, offered at 106. Great Lakes Dredge and Dock was quiet at 119@120. Kellogg Switchboard and Supply remains unchanged at 370 bid, offered at 375.

Inland Steel Is Inactive.

Inland Steel was inactive at 455@465. Oxweld Acetylene reacted to sales at 170, market closing 167 bid, offered at 170. Linde Air Products sold at 305, closing 300@305. Cities Service common changed hands around 330, and the preferred at 92¾.

Standard Gas and Electric preferred showed some advance on the increase in the dividend from 4 to 6 per cent, changing hands between 43½ and 45½, and closing at 43½@44½, ex-dividend. The common was traded in at 15½@16¼. Northern States Power common was wanted at slightly higher prices, selling at 104. Republic Railway and Light common advanced from sales at 51½@[illegible] preferred was quoted 77 bid, 79 asked. American Water Works and Electric common sold from 10 to 14½. United Light common was traded in at [illegible] preferred 70½. Middle West Utilities common was in good demand from 63 to 66. The preferred sold at 82. Illinois Northern Utilities sold at 82½.

Chicago Bank Clearings.

Chicago bank clearings for the week ended Dec. 2 were $428,335,054, representing a gain of $53,661,147, or 14.3 per cent over the corresponding period last year. The figures:

Call Japanese Loan Logical.

Among Chicago bankers the cabled report that Japan will negotiate a loan of $50,000,000 in the United States for the [illegible] of Great Britain was regarded as a logical move.

Before the war such a proposal would have been regarded as an impossible absurdity. But the war has brought great prosperity to Japan, without corresponding military expenditures.

"If the report is correct," remarked a banker, "it shows that Japan is taking a broad gauged view of its duties to its allies. For Japan $50,000,000 represents as much of a financial effort as a [illegible] dollars to the United States."

South Side State Bank.

The South Side State bank, Cottage Grove avenue and Forty-third street, will move into its new quarters, on the [illegible] corner, Monday. The interior decorations of the new building, which have been completed, are done in [illegible] marble and bronze. The addition to the business section will be thrown open for inspection Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings of this week.

NEWS OF THE FINANCIAL WORLD

The Ohio Fuel Supply company has notified its shareholders that they are now entitled to subscribe to 62 per cent of their present holdings for new stock at par, or $25 a share. The Ohio Public utilities commission has authorized the sale of $7,582,760. This new stock will be used to retire $6,115,125 of 6 per cent debentures and for the purchase of additional properties.

The Julius Kayser company in the eight months ended Aug. 31, 1916, showed a surplus of $1,029,000 after all dividends. This compares with a similar surplus of $455,000 in the full twelve months of the year ended Dec. 31, 1915.

The Pittsburgh Coal company has closed a contract of considerable size for 1917. The new quotations call for an advance of $3 over 1916 prices. It is expected in Pittsburgh that all other contracts will be at advanced level.

Specialists in Wall street report considerable accumulation of Atchison stock. It is earning about twice its dividend but has had no upward movement of consequence in the general market advance.

It is announced that the Lewisohns, with Boston and New York interests, have purchased the Seneca Oil property and a new company will be formed with 200,000 shares, the subscription price being $15 a share.

Based on the nine months' statement, it is estimated that the Pierce Oil company is earning between $3 and $4 a share on its 720,00 shares of stock.

The November output of the Hancock Mining company was about 400,000 pounds of copper. The cost ranged around 12 cents a pound.

The November output of the Butte and Superior company is estimated at 15,000,000 pounds of zinc and 310,000 ounces of silver.

All of the Byllesby electric properties, reporting for the week ended Nov. 25, show in their net collected load gains of 654 customers.

The Columbia Gas and Electric company has made a new high day's record with a production of 52,000 gallons of gasoline.

Subscription books for the new American Telephone and Telegraph company 5 per cent bonds will open on next Tuesday.

Dec. 4 will be the last day on which to deposit Tennessee Cooper stock in accordance with the reorganization plan.

LOW PRICED RAILS GO UP.

New York, Dec. 2.—Extension of the recent inquiry for minor or low priced rails, embracing those whose immediate future is viewed with increasing confidence, was the most noteworthy feature of today's short but active session. Advances ranging from 1 to 3 points were registered by Rock Island, Missouri Pacific, Wabash, Kansas and Texas, and Western Maryland issues, with further improvement in Erie and Southern railway.

Other conspicuous features included Ohio Gas, which made an extreme gain of 6½ points to 124, an advance of more than 25 points for the week and a new high record. Columbia Gas, also at the new record of 51⅞, with new maximums for Pittsburgh Coal common and preferred and American Hide and Leather preferred, the latter gaining 6⅛ to 84½.

Brisk Rise in Metals.

The last half of the session was enlivened by a brisk rise in metals, Utah Coppers making a gain of 4 points, with 1 to 2½ in Chile, Anaconda, Kennecott, Inspiration, Miami, and American Smelting. There were substantial gains in specialties, notably sugars and paper issues, with recoveries from recent low levels in shipping shares.

Leaders moved rather narrowly, United States Steel manifesting some heaviness, but closing at a slight net gain. Investment rails were in only moderate demand, with some strength in Reading and affiliated coalers.

The bond market was stronger today in consequence of the improvement shown by international issues. United States coupon 4s were 4½ per cent lower on call during the week.

IN FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The provisional settlement of the Greek crisis had a good effect on the stock exchange today and the market was further cheered by the Russian attacks in Roumania. The withdrawal of treasury notes from America had little effect on exchange, which was steady around 476⅝ for cable transfers after temporarily easing yesterday. Home funds hardened on the above news, but the dealings were small, as dividend moneys have not yet appeared in the market. Shipping and diamond shares were strong and Peruvian and Brazilian tractions advanced. American securities were generally firm with steel issues the feature. Money was plentiful and discount rates were quiet.

Bar silver, 36d per ounce. Money, 4¾ per cent. Discount rates, short bills, 5½@5⅝ per cent. Three months, 5½@5⅝ per cent.

PARIS, Dec. 2.—Trading was quiet on the bourse today. Rentes, 61 francs 10 centimes. Exchange on London, 27 francs 81 centimes. Five per cent loan, 87 francs 90 centimes.

City to Appeal Merit Cases.

Corporation Counsel Ettelson said yesterday the city will appeal the decision of the Appellate court which ordered the reinstatement of J. L. Jacobs, former city efficiency expert; Clarence D. Blachly, former superintendent of social surveys, and J. Norman Jensen, former city architectural engineer.

GETTING AHEAD

¶ To successfully fulfill the meaning of these words it is necessary to perfect some sort of a system whereby one can not only save, but also invest his savings, so as to insure the maximum income yield commensurate of principal.

¶ A ready-made combination system is within your grasp in "The Twenty Payment Plan" and

"Investment Opportunities"

¶ The one provides a convenient way of accumulating dividend-paying securities of undoubted merit, and the other suggests which issues represent the best purchases.

¶ [illegible] who are interested in getting the most out of their surplus funds should not fail to regularly receive "Investment Opportunities." It will be sent, without charge, beginning with the present issue, upon request for 35-CT, including booklet explaining "The Twenty Payment Plan."

WOMAN OF MANY TROUBLES FINDS HAVEN IN ASYLUM

Mrs. Phillips, Whose Son Says He Can't Care for Her, Goes to Dunning.

Mrs. Valeria Phillips, the little old woman of many troubles, daughter of a Hungarian count, went to Dunning yesterday. William A. Hubbard, her son, from Lake City, Minn., had told the court he couldn't provide $20 a month longer for her support, as he was already caring for his father, C. A. Hubbard, 72 years old, suffering from palsy. So she was committed to the psychopathic hospital by court order, and then sent to the insane hospital.

A nephew, Fred Peterson of 601 West One Hundred and Twelfth street, New York, came to Chicago yesterday, and said he would have taken his aged Aunt Valeria home with him if he could, according to him.

William A. Hubbard of Lake City, Minn., isn't the overburdened son he has been represented. While it is true the father is afflicted with palsy, Peterson said, he is president of a bank in Lake City and isn't dependent upon his son for support. Letters the son had written to "darling mother" long after he had been abandoned by her—even during his college days—were produced. The nephew took the letters and the old album home with him last night.

That his mother had deserted him when he was 9 years old, was one of Hubbard's pleas for release from the burden of caring for his parent. Friends of Mrs. Phillips contend she should not be sent to an insane asylum.

AMERICAN BROTHERHOOD, PATRIOTIC BODY, FORMED.

Ritual of New Order Founded to Promote U. S. First Idea to Be Based on History.

Inspired by patriotic editorials in THE TRIBUNE and the words of Theodore Roosevelt, the American Brotherhood, U. S. A., came into existence yesterday at a meeting in the Masonic temple. It is to be a patriotic fraternal organization, whose ritual will be based on American history. Meetings will be held in New York, Philadelphia, and other cities in a few days to establish lodges in those cities.

Men who have been active in fraternal work are at the head of the new organization. Lewis M. Jones was elected supreme supervisor and Charles B. Pavlicek first supreme governor. John B. Price was chairman of the meeting.

The objects of the organization are "to create an unconquerable American spirit; a fraternity that will stand for America first; one that will encourage a genuine, unselfish, and imperishable citizenship; one that declares for the protection of our citizens at home and abroad; a brotherhood that favors adequate preparation for national defense and that will encourage the American youth to enlist in organizations for voluntary training for a future safeguard for our national and civil rights."

BANK CLERK CALLED CRUEL.

Mrs. Ruth Forsyth Jones Says William Blacked Her Eye.

Mrs. Ruth B. Jones yesterday filed suit for divorce against David H. Jones, a clerk in the trust department of the First Trust and Savings bank. Mrs. Jones, whose maiden name was Forsyth, says she had to use some of her own means to support herself, although her husband receives a salary of $100 per month. Three weeks after their marriage, she says, her husband gave her a black eye, and at another time broke off one of her teeth.

Mrs. Myrtle E. Donley filed suit against William. She names a Mrs. Luce of Maywood.

ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE FAILS.

Axel Hill, Accused of Murder of Wealthy Woman, Caught in Time.

Axel Hill, one of the five men accused of the murder of Mrs. Elizabeth Nichols and the theft of $17,000 worth of her jewels in her New York home, nearly made good his boast that he never will be tried, when he was caught in an attempt to escape yesterday.

Hill was arrested in Salt Lake and on the way to New York was left in the detective bureau between trains. He climbed over the top of a cage in the bureau, but was caught just in time.

Arthur Woeltson and Joseph Mulholland, his accomplices, are in custody. Edward Ledite, another, is at large. Mrs. Nichols' butler is in prison.

ALL WISH 'EM "GOOD LUCK."

C. A. Reinwald, Lawyer, Gets Crown Point License to Wed Miss Agnes Garrity.

Charles A. Reinwald of Chicago Heights journeyed to Crown Point yesterday and with Miss Agnes E. Garrity took out a marriage license. Mr. Reinwald is a lawyer with Glennon, Cary, Walker & Howe, counsel for the New York Central.

"Think of it!" exclaimed Edward T. Glennon. "A Reinwald and a Garrity! Good luck to him."

There were good wishes also at the Reinwald home in Chicago Heights. Father was well pleased. Son and his bride, however, had not appeared, and their whereabouts was unknown.

BUSY BEAUTY

Lady Mayoress of London Occupied by Onerous Duties Despite War.

Mrs. Philip Law Smith

LONDON, England. — London's new lady mayoress, Mrs. Philip Law Smith, is not, as usual, the wife, but the daughter of the new lord mayor.

Lady Dunn, whose husband, Col. Sir William Dunn, has just entered upon his year of office as titular, though not real, chief executive of this metropolis, is, unfortunately, too great an invalid to play the part she would like in the hospitalities of the Mansion house, the lord mayor's official residence.

Accordingly she has asked that her daughter, Mrs. Philip Law Smith, may be regarded as official lady mayoress, and it is the latter who will discharge the duties of that position, duties that are onerous enough, even in this war time.

GARAGE OWNERS PICK HEAD.

At the annual meeting of the American Association of Garage Owners, which has just adjourned, E. A. De Laurelle of Milwaukee was elected president. The Ferris general leasing bill passed by the house of representatives and now in the senate at Washington was indorsed as a part of a plan to increase the gasoline supply of the nation. The membership was urged to secure the passing of state lien laws after the New Jersey model.

ATTORNEY EHLE SUES PACKERS FOR $250,000

Mystery Surrounds Basis of Action for Damages Begun by Lawyer.

The præcipe of a $250,000 suit for damages was entered yesterday against Armour & Co., Swift & Co., and Morris & Co. by Attorney Louis C. Ehle, formerly a business associate of Carlton Hudson, "Count of Coxsackie" and alleged "dummy" in a huge cottonseed mill deal conducted by Chicago interests.

Ehle refused to discuss the suit, and attorneys for the packers said they are mystified as to grounds on which he could be seeking such a huge sum.

"You may be assured that Mr. Ehle hasn't the shadow of a claim against the packers," said Attorney Silas H. Strawn. "I can't imagine what basis he thinks he has."

Attorney Ehle was accused of conspiracy to defraud the Armour, Swift, and Morris packing companies nearly two years ago. It was charged he attempted to blackmail the packers into the payment of $90,000 on a threat of prosecution under the anti-trust law. In December, 1915, he was convicted and sentenced on a charge of mishandling $625 belonging to Mrs. Sarah Burns of 2209 Indiana avenue. He was saved from going to Joliet by a writ of supersedeas, which gave him liberty until the Supreme court could consider his case. He also was involved in the troubles of former Judge Arba N. Waterman.

"THE TRIBUNE" HOLDS $5.

Amitie Club Girls Turn Money Over for Fund for Palestinian Sufferers.

The Amitie club, composed of young women of the west side, yesterday intrusted THE TRIBUNE with $5, the proceeds of the sale of a two dollar and a half gold piece held by the club Friday evening. Miss Ruth Ruben of 2846 Arthington street, and Miss Pearl Richmond of 828 South Hermitage avenue, asked that the money be held for a fund to be raised for the sufferers in Palestine.

OCTOBER RAIL EARNINGS KEPT ALONG AT TOP SPEED.

Interstate Commerce Board Report Shows Average of $1,742 Per Mile for Whole Nation.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—[Special.]—Railroad earnings, which showed a large increase every month up to Oct. 1, continued on the upward grade during October, according to a statement issued by the interstate commerce commission today.

The gross revenue per mile for the whole country averaged $1,742, as against $1,569 in 1915. The net revenue increased from $586 per mile in 1915 to $644 this year.

For the four months ending with October, the average gross revenues increased from $5,907 in 1915 to $6,777 this year. The average net revenues, for the four months showed an increase from $2,173 to $2,515.

There was a decrease in the average net revenue for the eastern district of $1 per mile during October over the same month in 1915. This was due to larger expenditures, however, as the gross revenues increased from $2,469 to $2,702.

In the western and southern districts both the gross and net revenues showed material increases.

J. V. FARWELL CO. REVIEW.

The John V. Farwell company weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade says:

"This week active preparations are being made by all departments for the semi-annual preinventory clearance, Dec. 4 and 5. Owing to prevailing market conditions, a much larger number of buyers is expected in this market than in previous seasons.

"The buying of Australian and New Zealand wool clip by the English government and the consequent advance in prices has tended to increase the demand for cotton and cotton goods. Receipt of delayed shipments of French serges from manufacturers has eased up the situation considerably on this fabric.

"The season is closing with demand for blankets strong. Cottons and domestics are active on a firm and advancing basis. Cretonnes are selling well, both for immediate and spring delivery."

MARSHALL FIELD CO. REVIEW.

Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods is running ahead of the corresponding period of a year ago. Road orders for both immediate and future delivery have been heavy. Collections are ahead of the same week of 1915. Prices are firm."

CLOSED CARS THAT ARE NIMBLE
—QUICK—OBEDIENT

IF you have any intention of buying a Closed Car, investigate this feature thoroughly. A car's quick action, if it has quick action, will, when you least expect, perhaps, determine your safety.

Consider the countless times it must slow down, or stop, or creep along—giving clearance to cross-bound motorists, turning corners and taking up slack in traffic.

For maneuvers like these, the owners of Marmon 34 have all the advantages of a car that weighs a half-ton less than any closed car of the luxury class.

They have the advantage of livelier pick-up, quicker acceleration and less resistance to overcome in starting and stopping because of less inertia.

Bodies by "Kimball," "Holbrook," "Thompson" and "New Haven Carriage Company"—superbly appointed and artistically expressive.

May we not show you the new attractions of the Limousine and Town Cars now in our Show Rooms? Deliveries, at present, can be made promptly.

AWAKE AMERICA

America has the treasure of the earth.

It is the richest prize in the history of the world—tempting bait for covetous foes.

And today we are unprepared for defense.

In the capital of every country in the world today there are busily engaged spies and intriguers who march only a step ahead of the armies of invasion when weakness invites invasion.

The only safety for America is in KNOWLEDGE.

Too many other nations have foundered on the rock of ignorance and weakness.

Never shall America permit the confiscation of its wealth, the desecration of its homes, the starvation of its children and the outrage of its women.

A forewarned and forearmed America will not invite the fate of Belgium, Poland and Serbia.

THE ROYAL FAMILY OF HOLLAND—This is a new photograph of Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, her consort, Prince Henry, a duke of the German house of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, and their daughter, Crown Princess Juliana, who is 7 years old. The marriage of Queen Wilhelmina in 1901 and the birth of Princess Juliana in 1909 were occasions of great rejoicing on the part of the Dutch people; for without an heir to the throne the succession of the House of Orange to the Dutch throne would have been broken. A movement has recently been set on foot in Holland for a change in the uncertain succession to the throne, and impetus was given the movement by the reported serious illness of Princess Juliana. The reigning duke of Saxe-Weimar has, next to Juliana, the claim to succession to the Dutch throne, and he has a son and daughter. After them comes the aged Princess Henry VII. of Reuss, who has three grown sons, and after them various princes of German houses. With the prince consort of Teuton origin, German influence, especially economic, would be likely to predominate on the death of Queen Wilhelmina.

THE T. R. OF CANADA, so Gen. Sir Sam Hughes, recently minister of militia and defense of Canada, is called. It was Sir Sam who recruited, organized, and trained the large Canadian contingents sent to France to fight for the allies; but Sir Sam has, so it is said, such a good opinion of himself that he made it uncomfortable for his superiors, particularly Premier Borden and the Duke of Connaught, whose resignation as governor general of Canada was attributed to his inability to take good humoredly the snubs, rebuffs, and limelight propensities of the doughty minister of militia. Recently, owing to a disagreement between Sir Sam and the premier over the appointment of an overseas minister of militia, Sir Sam was asked to resign. And he did, but intimated that he was going to keep up the fight.

Suppose you decide this question

Many who drink Yuban say that it is at its best with a little cream and sugar added, so that its richness and flavor are precisely moderated to the taste.

Others maintain that it should be freely diluted with hot milk and well sweetened—that then its delicacy, its individuality and its rare fragrance reach perfection.

Still others insist that the vigor and zest of Yuban may be appreciated fully only in the demi-tasse—black—undiluted—with all its flavor and aroma unimpaired.

Suppose you try Yuban YOUR favorite way.

Whatever that way may be, you will still say this:

That Yuban combines all the coffee qualities and characteristics you have sought and hoped for—that you never knew there was such coffee procurable that only the evidence of your delighted senses could convince you that such a coffee could be produced and sold at a price within the reach of the general public.

Glove Silk! Crepe de Chine! Washable Satins!

Get out the most precious brassiere in your collection—your very favorite bit of sheer silk, cobwebby lace and soft ribbons—the one you have always dreaded to trust to soap and water.

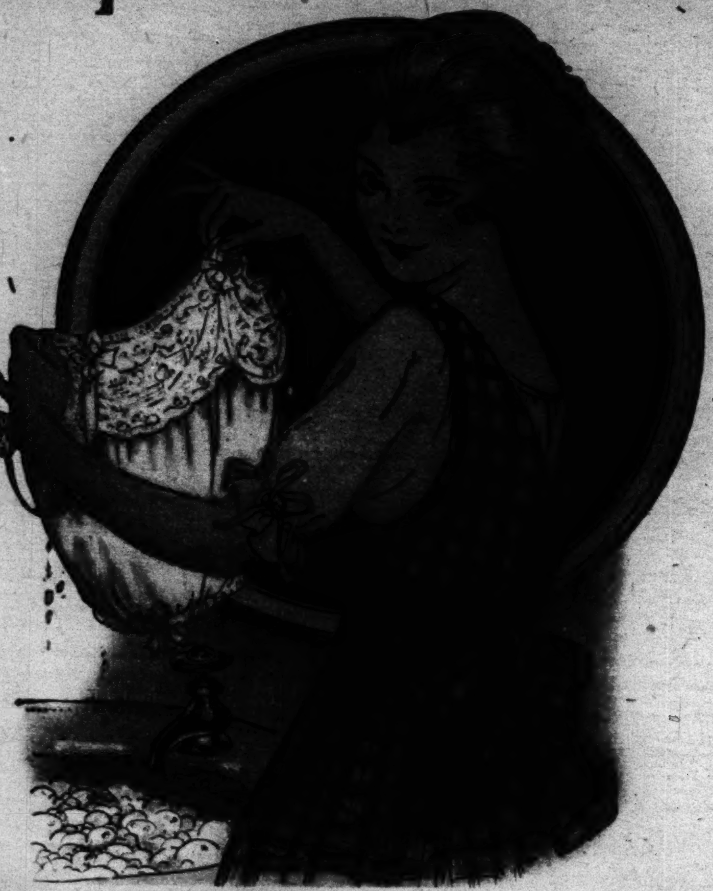
Wash it with Lux.

Yes, Lux and lukewarm water.

Wash it dozens of times, the Lux way, and it won't turn yellow!

Hard to believe?

Perhaps—after the discouraging experiences you have had with ordinary soaps. But Lux is wholly different from anything you have ever seen.



When you see how often your daintiest, prettiest silk garments can be laundered—when you see how they keep their whiteness and their fresh, silky sheen—when you realize that you can wear them so much more often—you will say you wouldn't be without Lux—not even if it cost four times its price!

See the flakes yourself

Get a package of Lux, pure essence of soap in flakes, and see for yourself. Try it!

Lux can't injure anything that pure water alone will not injure. At grocery and department stores. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

How to rouse a sluggish skin

A dull, sallow, lifeless complexion has several causes. Whatever the cause in your case, your skin needs stimulating. The following treatment is the most effective you can use:

Just before retiring, wash your face and neck with plenty of Woodbury's Facial Soap and hot water. If your skin has been badly neglected, rub a generous lather thoroughly into the pores using an upward and outward motion, until the skin feels somewhat sensitive. After this, rinse well in warm water, then in cold water. Then rub your skin for five minutes with a lump of ice and dry carefully.

Woodbury's Facial Soap is the work of an authority on the skin and its needs.

This treatment with it cleanses the pores, brings the blood to the face and stimulates the fine muscular fibres of the skin. You can feel the difference the first time you use it—a promise of that lovelier complexion which the steady use of Woodbury's always brings.

A 25c cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap is sufficient for a month or six weeks of this treatment.

Write today for sample—For 4c we will send a "week's size" cake. For 10c, samples of Woodbury's Facial Soap, Facial Cream, and Powder. Address The Andrew Jergens Co., 2183 Spring Grove Av., Cincinnati, O.

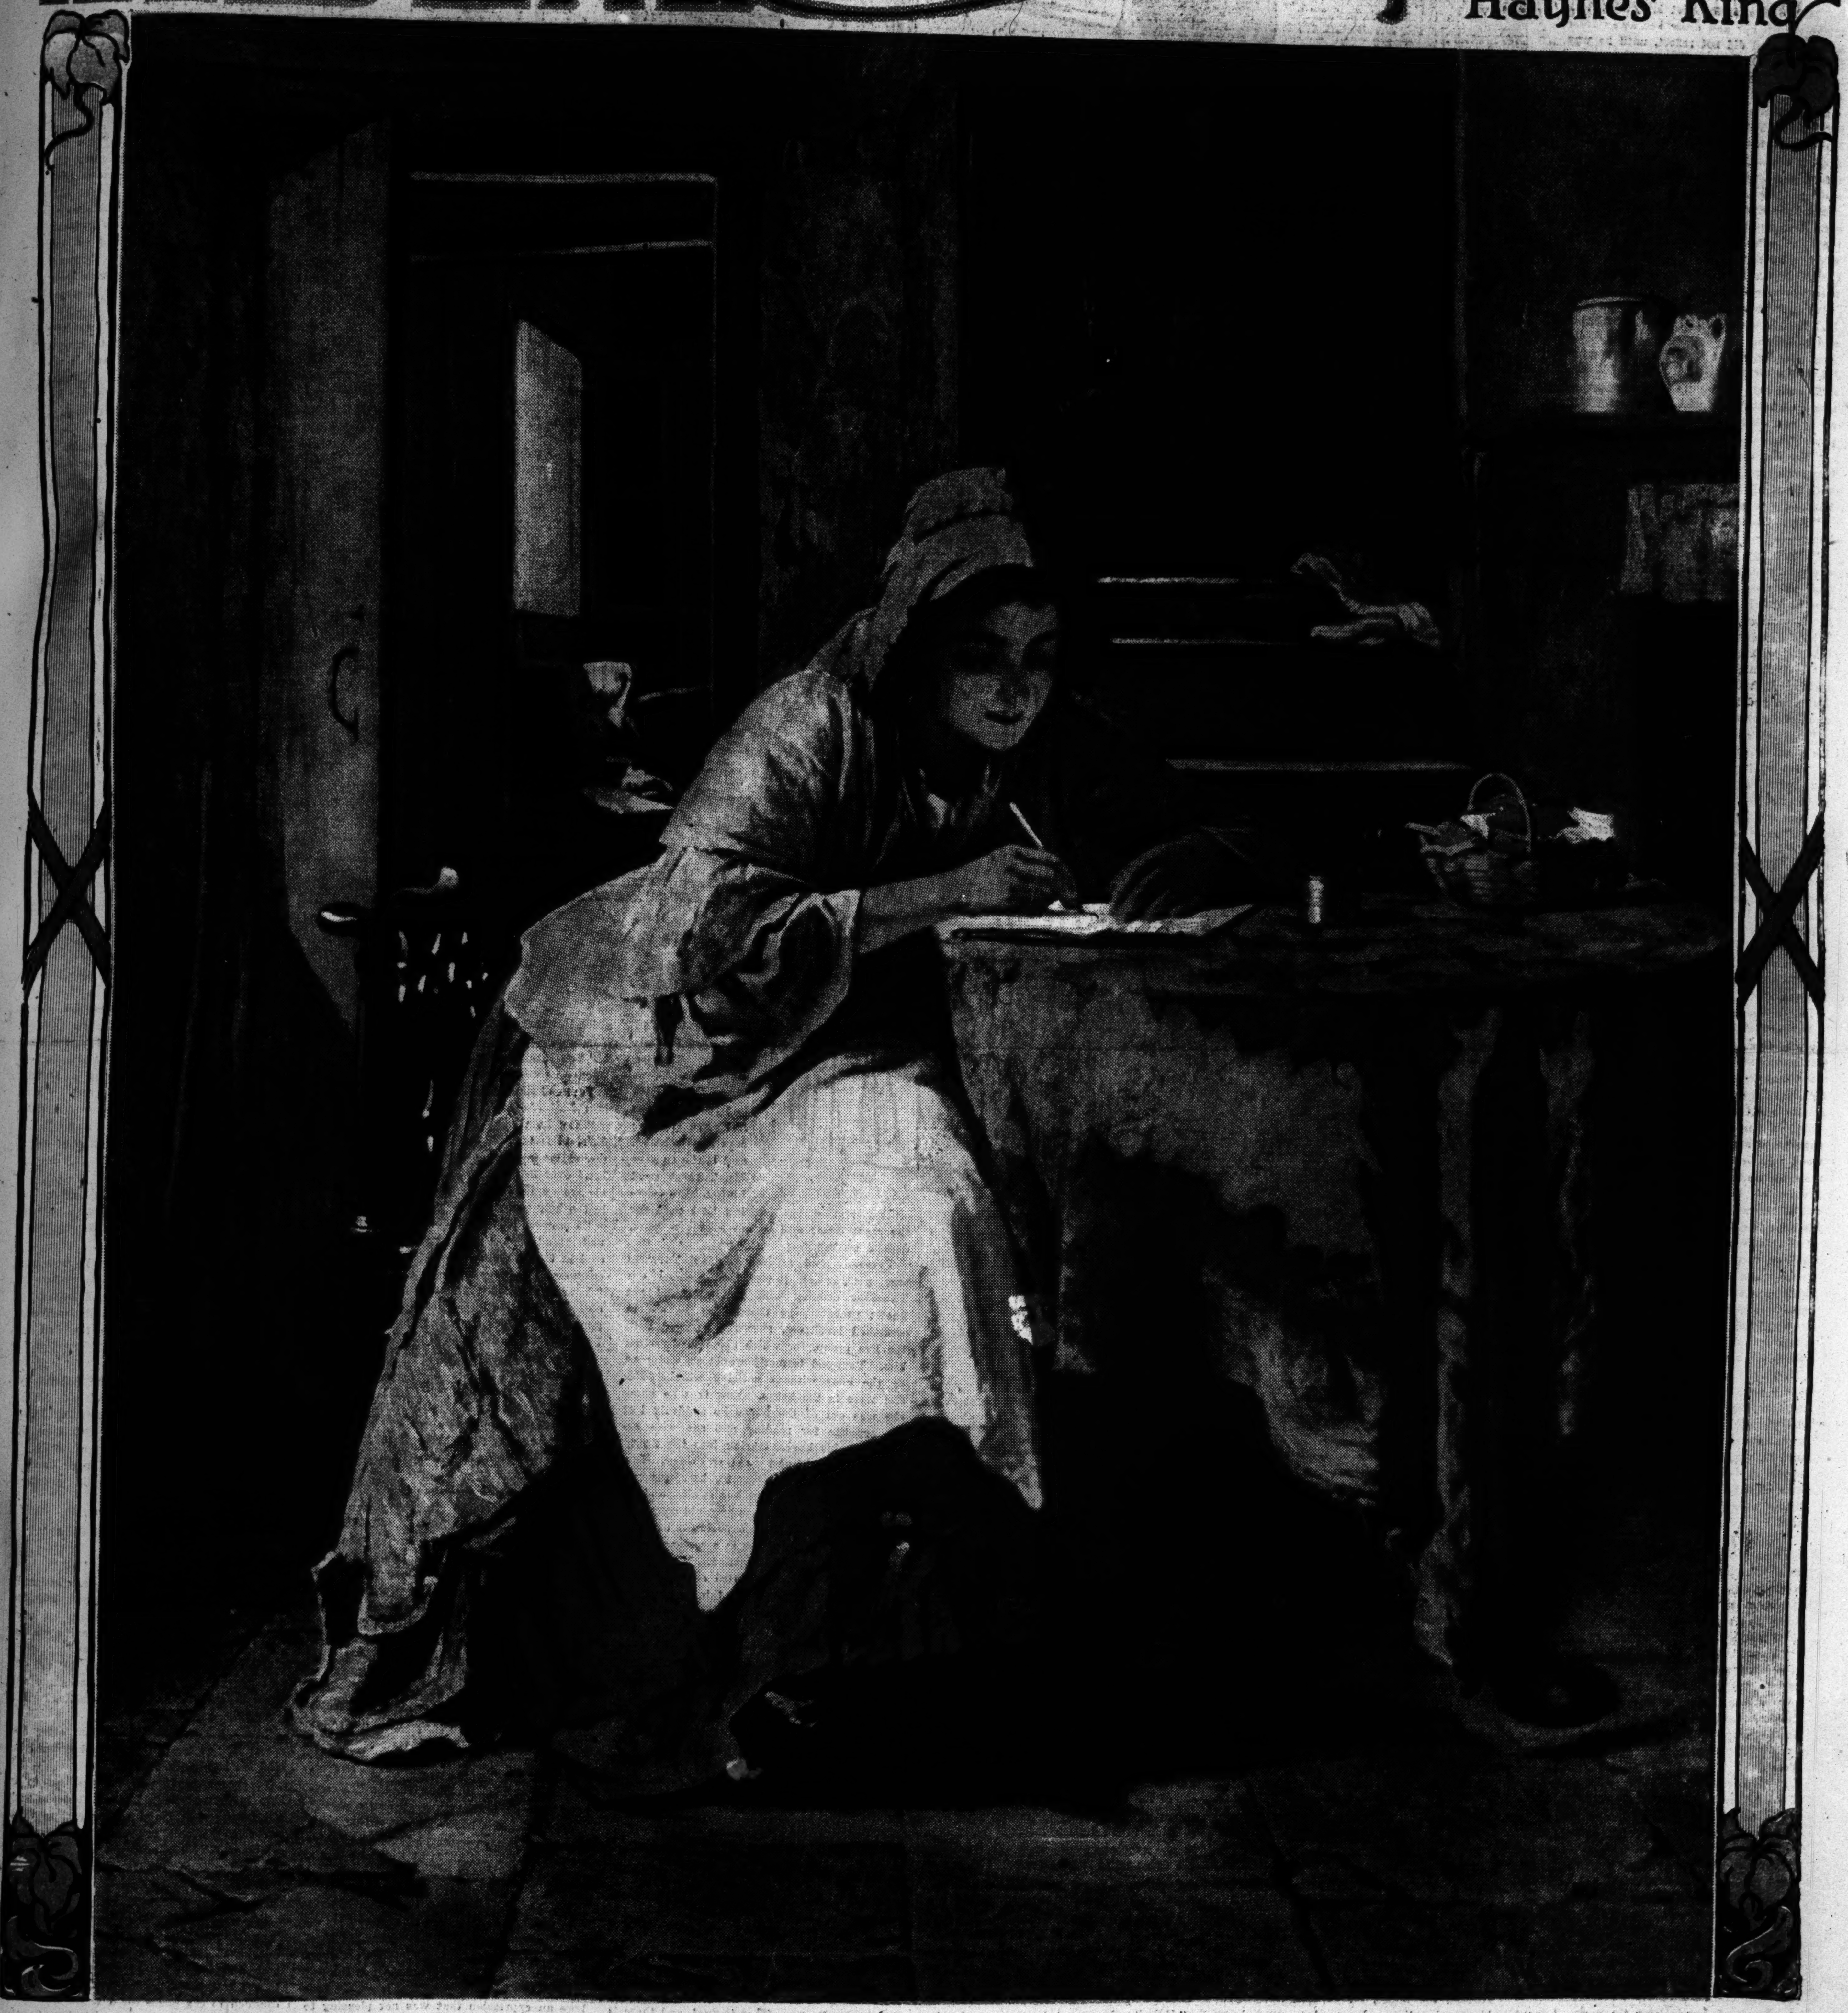
KATIE'S LETTER

Reproduction of a painting by Haynes King



By LOUISE JAMES BARGELT.

"Katy's Letter," from the picture by Haynes King, R. B. A. in the Atkinson Art gallery, Southport. Size 24x20 inches. Presented to the corporation of Southport by Miss Ball. (1881).

FOR over forty years Haynes King's pictures were exhibited at the Royal academy of London. Each year some new painting of his was hung on its coveted walls. And each year this painting attracted attention to itself and won popularity for its creator. No one picture ever differed radically from its predecessor in treatment or in theme. No picture ever startled by its novelty or staggered by the strength that it suggested. But each picture possessed the elements that please, and, being pleased, the public gave it generous measure of their approval.

A glance at a few of King's works shows their consistent portrayal of the brighter, simpler side of life. "The Lacemaker," "Home," "Waiting on Daddy," "Porridge for Breakfast," "The New Gown," "Happy as the Day Is Long" are all emblematic of this British artist's choice of subjects. He might be termed a prolific painter of cheerful simplicity.

In "Katy's Letter" he has not deviated from his established preference. It would not be possible to find a simpler subject, and yet the painting is permeated with a real warmth of feeling. The cottage is humble, its fittings of the most ordinary kind. The life of the fields is in the girl's face, but the brightness of youth and the joy of being in love are there, too.

She is writing a letter to her sweetheart. She has stopped in the midst of her work that she might finish it in time for some rural carrier to speed it on its way. Her blue sunbonnet shades her pretty face framed in its mass of soft dark hair, and she still wears her white apron which protects her brightly colored skirt. The whole room is flooded with sunlight from an open window, and the clear light brings out sharply each detail, even to the ragged edge of the worn table cover.

King is deftly subtle in the way he uses inanimate things to bring out the personality of the person he paints. The faded spread betrays the confidences it has heard in the days when the lovers were not apart, and the pitchers over the open fireplace reveal gay memories of hours they enjoyed. The earrings, half hidden by the bonnet, were a gift from him, and now they are quiet that on his return they may bob the more merry a welcome.

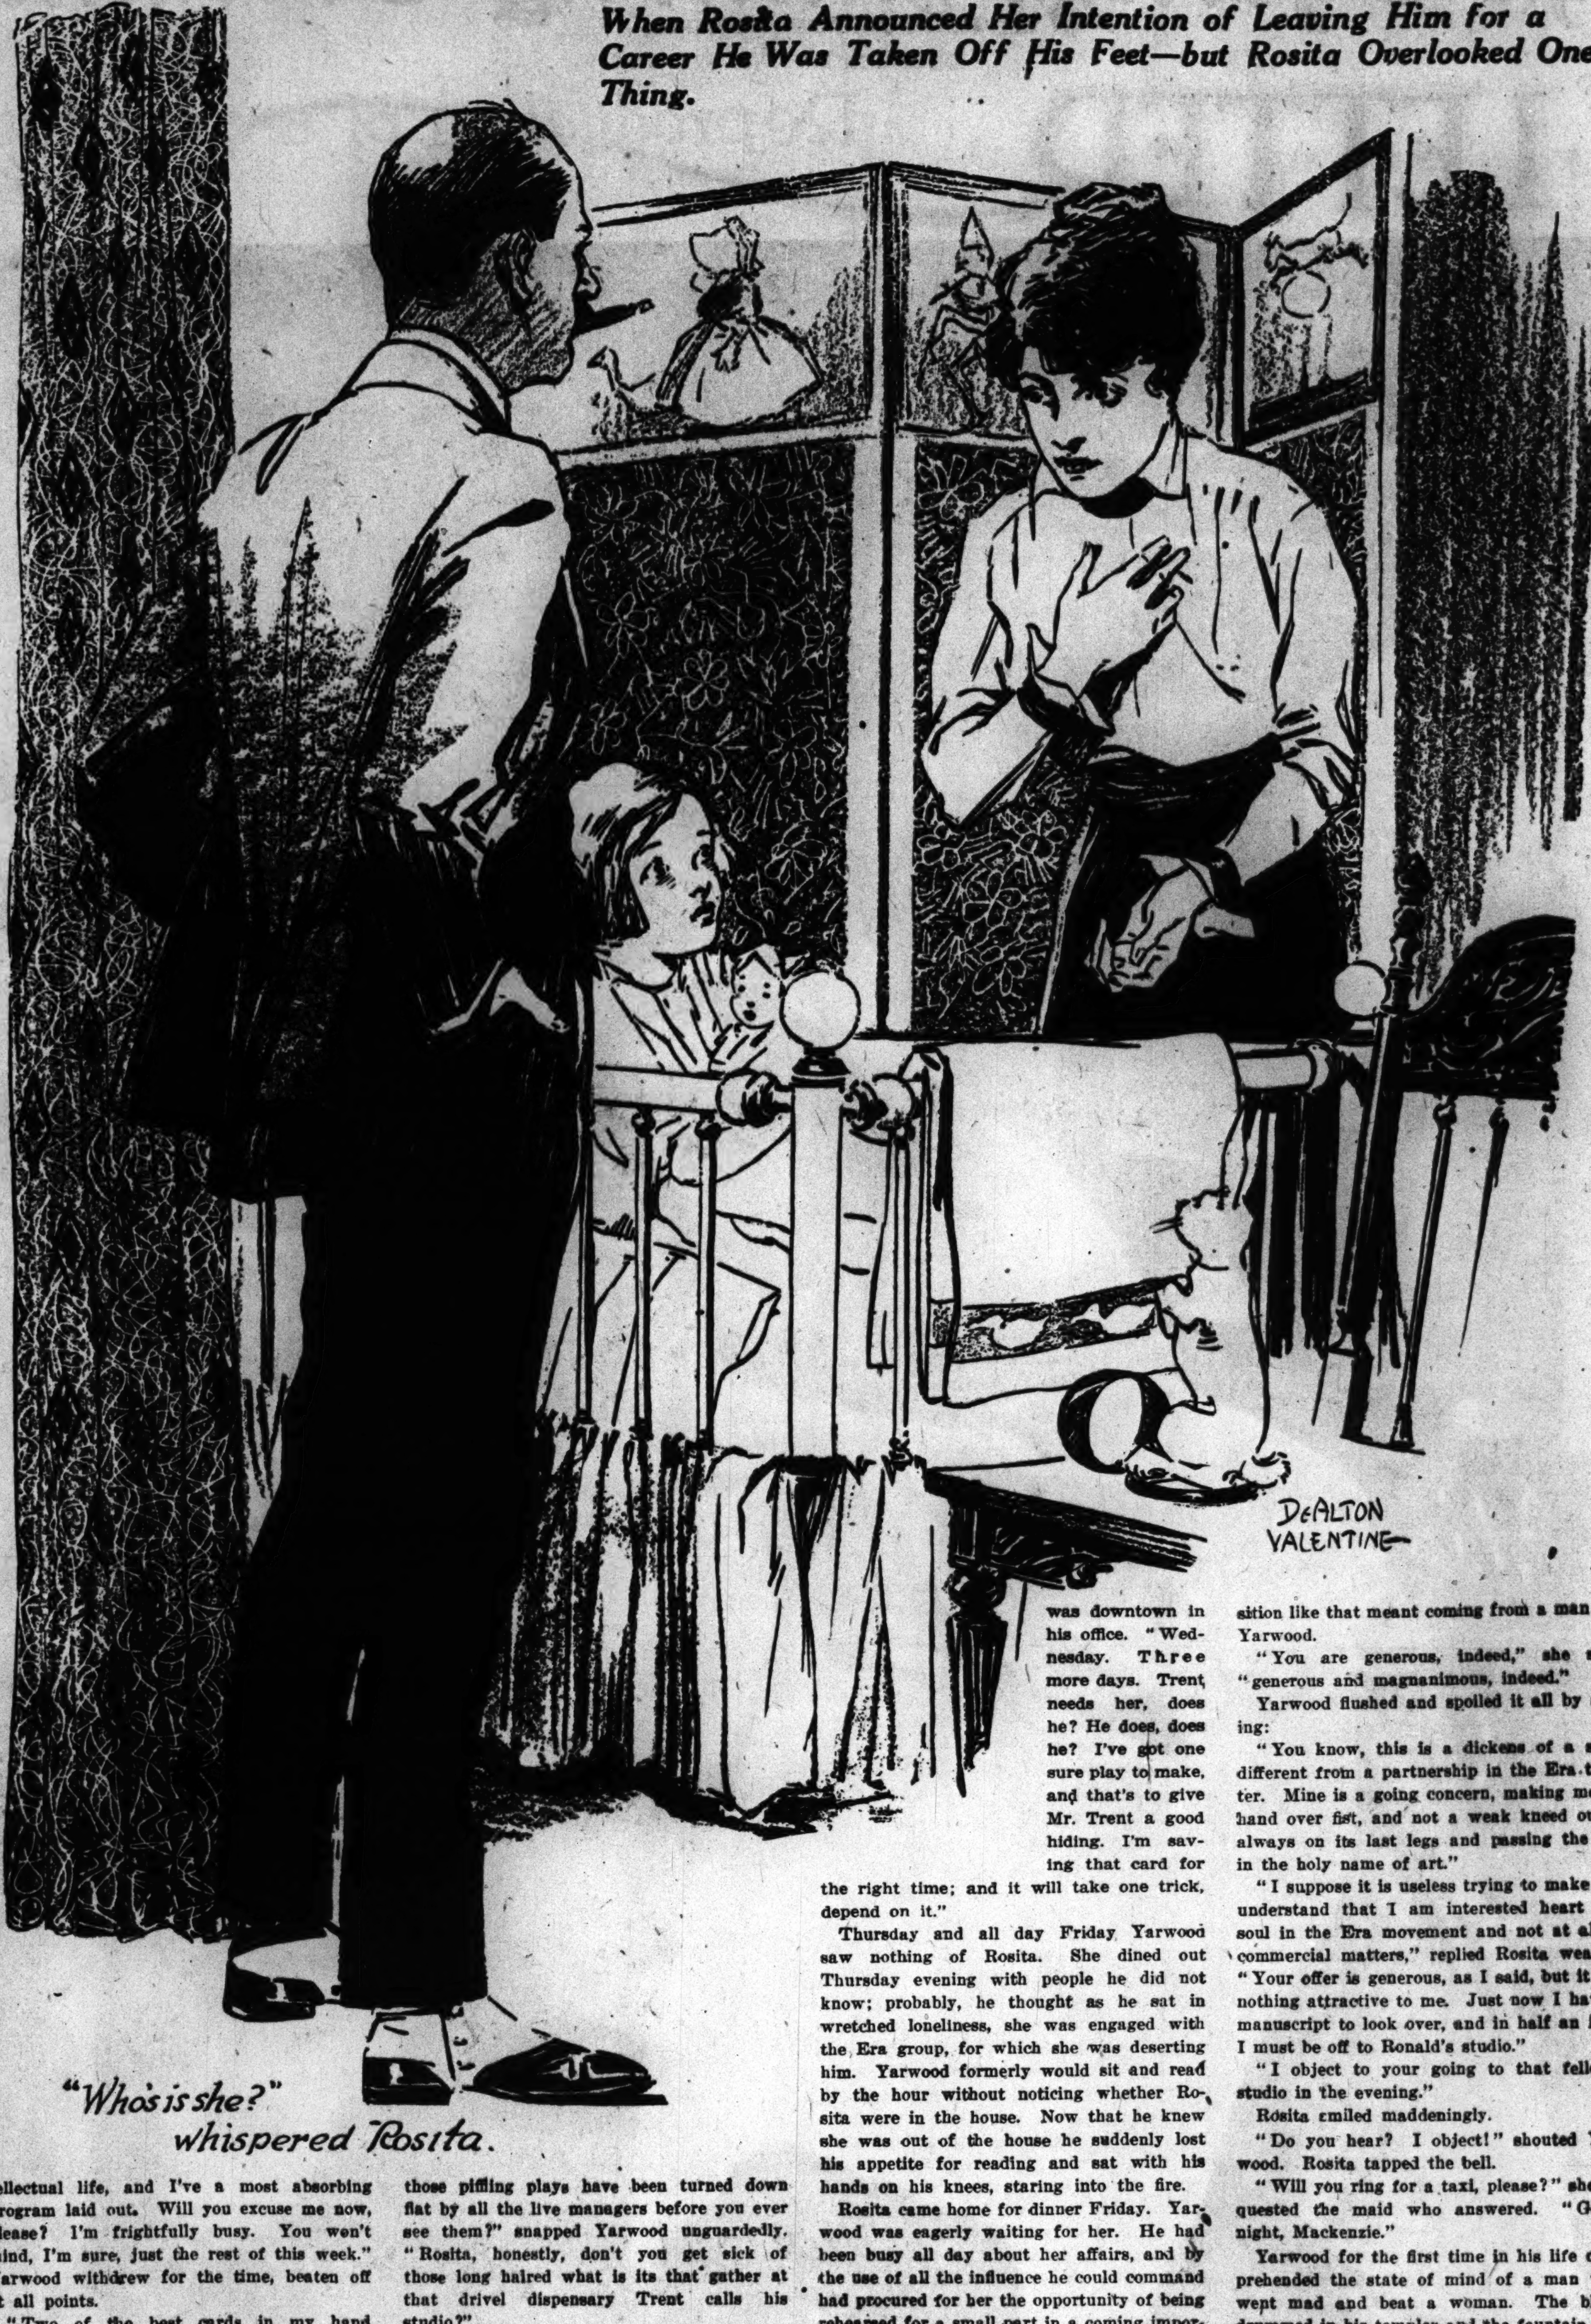
Born in Barbados in 1831, Haynes King received his art education at Leigh's academy, London. His first exhibit was at the Royal academy in 1855. From that time on for a period of nearly fifty years he was an almost yearly contributor to the academy exhibits. He was elected a member of the Royal Society of British Artists in 1864.

Another famous painting will be reproduced next Sunday.

The ACE of HEARTS

by A. DeFord Pitney

When Rosita Announced Her Intention of Leaving Him for a Career He Was Taken Off His Feet—but Rosita Overlooked One Thing.



"Who's is she?" whispered Rosita.

MACKENZIE YARWOOD was a little slow in waking up to the realization that Rosita was planning an independent life for herself. He knew that she had a strong individuality, but on that account he supposed that she found plenty to occupy her mind. It was difficult for him to comprehend that her occupations might absorb her and draw her away from him. Yarwood did not reflect, until he was jolted into wakefulness, that he and Rosita had had no vital common interest since their Jack died, four years ago.

When Rosita announced her intention of leaving him Yarwood was taken off his feet. Rosita was not the sort to broach such a subject tentatively. She did not like arguments, pleadings, or bickerings. She was not seeking to be persuaded. Yarwood, however, might have read the signs during a year and seen them growing unmistakably, but he was too busy. Rosita also was busy, and Yarwood had accepted this comfortably and used his freedom and supposed everything was on a satisfactory basis.

"I can't believe it, Rosita," he said stupidly. He had come in late from a conference and had found Rosita just dismissing Ronald Trent, leader of the Era theater movement. "I just can't believe it, Rosita." Yarwood still was half unable to realize what she meant and that she was in earnest. "I'm all at sea. When do you mean this to take place?"

"The Era company is leaving a week from tomorrow for a month in Boston. I am to be with them. It will be quite simple. I merely will not return here."

"But, Rosita, think; our home—the house——"

"Don't you suppose Jane and the maids can cook your meals and make your bed and dust off your desk just the same as they always have? Why do you suppose I have been working all summer on these plays? Why do you suppose I have been rehearsing this fall with the Era company?"

"I—I didn't know you had; that is—not seriously," faltered Yarwood. He could be dominant and imperative enough, but at this moment he was taken utterly by surprise.

"Nothing could illustrate better how little we mean to each other," said Rosita coldly.

"But can't you do all that without disrupting everything? Can't you go in for that sort of thing without leaving your home?"

"You don't understand, Mackenzie. To develop, I must have freedom. I cannot be limited by having to be answerable for my movements. We have nothing in common. In this house I am in chains. I have nothing to do here. I must respond to the call of my nature to go where I can be something and do something. It is my right. Do you not understand it?"

"I suppose that sneak Trent, with his hair and his black ribbon and his soulful eyes—he understands?"

Rosita scorned to reply.

Yarwood stayed at home all day Sunday. He tried to show attentions to Rosita, but she was quietly absorbed in her own affairs. Yarwood sent for all the roses the nearby florist had, and Rosita thanked him pleasantly. The glossoms decorated the library when Trent called in the evening, a bulky package of papers and manuscripts under his arm. Yarwood was fierceful resentful of Trent's intimate air and the way he shoved Yarwood's favorite old book rack with his pet volumes out of the way to make room to spread out his impertinent red and black ink manuscripts of the footless plays they had to put on at the Era theater because no other manager would waste time on them. Yarwood took his hat and stick and went for a tramp. The cards were dealt, he acknowledged, to him and to Trent. It remained to be seen which of them would have Rosita when the hand was played out.

Monday Yarwood took the forenoon away from his office and bought the most splendid, elaborate, big, glittering, plate glass and enamel electric town car that was for sale on automobile row. He paid a premium for instant delivery and ordered that Rosita's old electric car be taken away. The new machine was the kind of conveyance almost any woman would do anything honorable to obtain.

"I guess it will be some time before that fellow can rustle enough change to do anything like that for her," muttered Yarwood savagely as he strode back to his office. But as soon as he got home Yarwood learned that Trent had scooped in the trick without an effort, playing one of his small trumps on it.

"I sent back that wonderful big machine, of course," said Rosita. "It was a splendid present, but I could not think of such a thing as accepting a magnificent car like that under the circumstances. Much of the time I shall be traveling. We decided today that I am to play Lachrymosa in Trent's play 'Tears, Tears.'"

"We decided?"

"Mr. Trent and I." Yarwood gritted his teeth behind his serviette. He said no more during dinner, and when the meal was ended went off by himself to his study. Rosita was working in the library. He came to her in an hour and asked her if she was too busy to talk.

"I can spare a few minutes," she said kindly.

"I have been thinking, Rosita," Yarwood began, "of that ideal new house we used to say we'd build some day. I can get some ground in the very situation we used to dream of, overlooking the park. I want to do something for you, so you may give the commission to any architect you wish and the work may start at once. The whole thing will be your property and in your name, of course," added Yarwood genially. "But I hope you'll let me live with you." Rosita looked up and smiled.

"I couldn't think of it," she said. "I'm much too busy now to look after the building of a house. I should think this one would be perfectly satisfactory for you. As for me, it probably will be a number of years before I live anywhere except in apartments. I expect to have a purely intellectual life, and I've a most absorbing program laid out. Will you excuse me now, please? I'm frightfully busy. You won't mind, I'm sure, just the rest of this week." Yarwood withdrew for the time, beaten off at all points.

"Two of the best cards in my hand thrown away," he swore. "I never had a chance to score with them. Never mind! I'll keep on trying. This is only Monday."

As a result of his study of the problem over night in his own rooms on the third floor Yarwood did not appear at the breakfast table Tuesday morning. Rosita found a long envelope at her place. She opened it as she drank her chocolate. In it was a check for $5,000 and a moving letter from Yarwood.

"Perhaps it is best that you have a change of scene and altogether different environment for a few months," he wrote. "Believe me, I wish we might enjoy this together, but I am trying to think only of what might conduce to your welfare. I enclose a little fund, by no means establishing it as a limit. You might travel in our own country or in South America. I believe there are most interesting places in South America. But I leave it entirely to you. I assure you that you only have to state your wishes."

Rosita put the check back in the envelope. She handed it to Yarwood when he reached the house, an hour in advance of his regular time. He used to come home late, change, excuse himself early from the table, and either go out or bury himself in an easy chair in his study.

"I can't use this check," she said. "It has been arranged for some time that I am to go abroad after the season and see a few of the people who are doing the most advanced work and buy the rights to some of their plays. We discussed this today at Ronald Trent's studio," continued Rosita. "It will be a remarkable oportunity for me to have the first reading of some of the wonderful little uncommercial plays."

"It's all rot! Don't you realize that those piffling plays have been turned down flat by all the live managers before you ever see them?" snapped Yarwood unguardedly. "Rosita, honestly, don't you get sick of those long haired what is its that gather at that drivel dispensary Trent calls his studio?"

"They are earnest workers," said Rosita angrily. "And they are the people with whom I expect to spend the remainder of my life." Yarwood conceded the trick and led his long suit.

"I bought Seaside farm this afternoon," he announced.

"Seaside farm!" cried Rosita, and Yarwood knew he had taken a point. "How perfectly splendid! If only——" She stopped, but they both knew what she was about to say. They had been negotiating for Seaside farm when Jack went away. Yarwood played with his glass and looked out of the window, secretly gloating over his triumph. There was no mistaking the expression in Rosita's eyes. He caught her in the evening looking at a photograph of the farm instead of at the manuscript of a weak backed uncommercial play. Flown with triumph, Yarwood carelessly tossed away a trick by advising Rosita in the morning not to put any of her own money into the Era theater enterprises. She became icily angry immediately.

"My money that my grandfather left me fortunately is my own," she declared. "Happily, I am not in economic bondage. I don't have to do anything so preposterous as to defend the honesty of my friends. I will merely intimate that I will do as I see fit with what is my own. You don't understand," she added, more softly. "Roland Trent needs me, Mackenzie. He needs me. He has told me so. He is a wonderful leader. The world will know it some day. It is a great thought that he needs me."

Yarwood saw that he was throwing away his good cards and that his weak little leads were being trumped one after the other.

"Wednesday," he soliloquized when he was downtown in his office. "Wednesday. Three more days. Trent needs her, does he? He does, does he? I've got one sure play to make, and that's to give Mr. Trent a good hiding. I'm saving that card for the right time; and it will take one trick, depend on it."

Thursday and all day Friday Yarwood saw nothing of Rosita. She dined out Thursday evening with people he did not know; probably, he thought as he sat in wretched loneliness, she was engaged with the Era group, for which she was deserting him. Yarwood formerly would sit and read by the hour without noticing whether Rosita were in the house. Now that he knew she was out of the house he suddenly lost his appetite for reading and sat with his hands on his knees, staring into the fire.

Rosita came home for dinner Friday. Yarwood was eagerly waiting for her. He had been busy all day about her affairs, and by the use of all the influence he could command had procured for her the opportunity of being rehearsed for a small part in a coming important Shakespearean production. If she were successful in that, he pointed out, she could go on to better and better things, until she really amounted to something on the stage.

Rosita tossed her head at the idea of the small part which Yarwood had moved heaven and earth to obtain for her.

"Don't you see," she explained; "I am already collaborating with Ronald Trent in his productions and have been assigned to important parts in some of our plays, the only really significant plays which will be seen in America this year. Why should I step down to accept a little part in some commercial theater? It would be better, Mackenzie, for you not to busy yourself about things you do not understand. This is not a thing in which you can interfere intelligently, and I do not wish it."

"What do you wish that I can do?"

"I wish only one thing, and that is my freedom. That I shall have, and without asking any one's permission."

"Would you do this if we still had Jack?" said Yarwood. Rosita jumped to her feet.

"That is cowardly!" she cried. "I shall not listen to you. I shall leave Saturday night for Boston. That is final, and there is no use of further discussion." She ran out of the room. Yarwood followed her to the library.

"I have one more thing to propose to you," he said. "I believe that what you want most is a real interest. I offer you a partnership in my business, made out to you in regular form. You may be as active in it as you like. If you wish to extend it, limit it, change it, ruin it, whatever you like, it will be in your power as much as mine. I don't care anything about it except for your sake."

This was a big thing, and Rosita was impressed. She could appreciate what a proposition like that meant coming from a man like Yarwood.

"You are generous, indeed," she said; "generous and magnanimous, indeed."

Yarwood flushed and spoiled it all by adding:

"You know, this is a dickens of a sight different from a partnership in the Era theater. Mine is a going concern, making money hand over fist, and not a weak kneed outfit, always on its last legs and passing the hat in the holy name of art."

"I suppose it is useless trying to make you understand that I am interested heart and soul in the Era movement and not at all in commercial matters," replied Rosita wearily. "Your offer is generous, as I said, but it has nothing attractive to me. Just now I have a manuscript to look over, and in half an hour I must be off to Ronald's studio."

"I object to your going to that fellow's studio in the evening."

Rosita smiled maddeningly.

"Do you hear? I object!" shouted Yarwood. Rosita tapped the bell.

"Will you ring for a taxi, please?" she requested the maid who answered. "Good-night, Mackenzie."

Yarwood for the first time in his life comprehended the state of mind of a man who went mad and beat a woman. The blood drummed in his temples and the fountain pen his hand happened to fall on was crushed in his fist so the ink spurted without Yarwood knowing it. He was a powerful, sanguine tempered man, not the sort it was safe to trifle with, but this was a situation that baffled him. He hurried from the room because he was afraid that in another moment he would lose control of himself.

Yarwood breakfasted alone in the morning and tramped down the avenue to Trent's studio. The Japanese boy told him that Trent was not at home.

"Just as well, perhaps," thought Yarwood. "He'll keep until this afternoon. If I can get my hands on him, I'll guarantee the Era company will go to Boston without its chief."

Yarwood had a piece of business that occupied nearly the whole day and took him across the river to an institution at which he was a frequent and welcome visitor. He came away looking, for the first time in a week, almost happy. He looked happy but anxious, as a man who had made a great venture.

Trent was in this time when Yarwood hammered at the door of his studio. He came forward with considerable manner when the boy announced "Mr. Yarwood." His guest's face bore an expression that was not pleasing to Trent.

"I understand you plan to have my wife put money into your good for nothing concerns, you pitiful fourflush," said Yarwood without other preamble. "Take that!"

The Japanese boy rushed in and tackled Yarwood around the legs, but not before Trent had seen all the stars of the milky way skyrocketing around his ceiling. The janitor and elevator man came on the run, summoned by the noise and stamp of feet. Trent was a big man but flabby. He stood up to Yarwood just long enough to get well hammered. Yarwood tossed the Jap boy into a corner, pitched the janitor through a screen, and twisted the elevator man around by his collar and propelled him through the door. He had the satisfaction of seeing Trent lift a sorry looking head under the table where he had rolled. Two richly blackened eyes peered dismally through the tangle of hair.

"So far all's well," growled Yarwood as the elevator man respectfully took him down in the car. It was not the first time Trent had had irate callers.

Rosita was exceedingly busy Saturday evening. An annoying indisposition kept Trent secluded and he had not been able to assist in the final preparations for the departure of the Era company. There had been some mixup and misunderstanding about the money arrangements, and Rosita was not especially pleased with everything about the outlook. The affairs of the uncommercial theater had a reverse side, and Rosita was not delighted with her first real glimpse of the way the company conducted its business. Hitherto Trent had been on hand to look after things and keep up his patter about art and the drama and prevent Rosita from being troubled with the sight of contemptible money scrambles.

Rosita did not come home until late; long after dinner. She was tempted to have a headache. Her eyes were tired and in the back of them was disillusionment. Yarwood was in the library. He had a strained air. He made no observations concerning the parting at midnight.

At 11 o'clock Rosita started upstairs to take a final look over things in her room that she was leaving. Her quarters were on the second floor.

"If I've forgotten anything that I need, it will be easy to have it sent on," she said coolly, almost too coolly. She made a visible effort at coolness, in fact. After a moment Yarwood followed Rosita noiselessly up the stairs. The nursery was on the west side of the house, on the third floor. Rosita did not look around and did not know that Yarwood was behind her. She went on past her rooms without stopping and on up to the third floor. Yarwood waited on the stairs half way up. In a moment came a loud, anguished, indignant cry.

"What is this? There's some one in Jack's nursery."

Yarwood ran up. Rosita was in the hall outside the nursery door with both hands pressed to her bosom.

"Who has been put in Jack's room?" she asked, painfully excited. "Why has any one been put in there?"

"It's all right," said Yarwood. "It's a friend that's going to stay with me."

"You have no right—you have no right to put any one in Jack's room."

"Come in. It's all proper. There's no need for embarrassment." Yarwood led the way, turning the light switch as he opened the door. There was a tenant in the long unused little white crib. "Come on over and take a look at my friend," urged Yarwood. Rosita followed. He could hear her heart beating. In the crib was sleeping a yellow haired baby girl, hugging a Dutch doll. Her long, dark eyelashes were on her pink cheek. She stirred and drew the doll closer with her chubby, dimpled arm.

"Who's is she?" whispered Rosita.

"Mine."

"Yours?"

"Yes. I adopted her. She belongs to me. Did you think I was going to be left all alone in the world? Wake up, kiddums."

"Don't!" protested Rosita. It was too late. Yarwood tickled the baby under its fat little chin and it smiled and looked up and then sat erect in the crib, perfectly good natured and holding up the doll by one leg.

"Where did you get her?"

"From the children's home where we went one time; you remember."

"Yes; it was too soon after—after Jack, I guess. She's a darling. But how on earth are you going to take care of her?"

"O, I'll get a woman if I need one."

"If you need one? How did you feed her tonight?"

"She had dinner with me."

"Mackenzie, how old is that child?"

"Three and a half."

"What did she have to eat?"

"O, I had a special dinner; specially good, you know, for the occasion. We had wild duck, hothouse asparagus, creamed sprouts, and a few other things, and some fine plum pudding and nuts and coffee."

"Mackenzie! Do you mean to tell me that you gave a child of 3 years game and Brussels sprouts and plum pudding? Did she drink coffee, too?"

"Only a cup and a half—just after dinner cups, you know." Yarwood grinned behind his hand.

"Heavens, what was I doing not to be here to prevent it?" Rosita lifted the little girl from the crib and held her close while she felt the child's forehead for feverish symptoms. "Mackenzie, you will murder this baby. You cannot be left alone with it."

A maid knocked discreetly at the nursery door.

"There's a message from Mr. Trent, Mrs. Yarwood," she said. "His servant telephoned that Mr. Trent had a sudden attack and would not be able to escort you to the train. He said Mr. Trent would be confined to the house for a week."

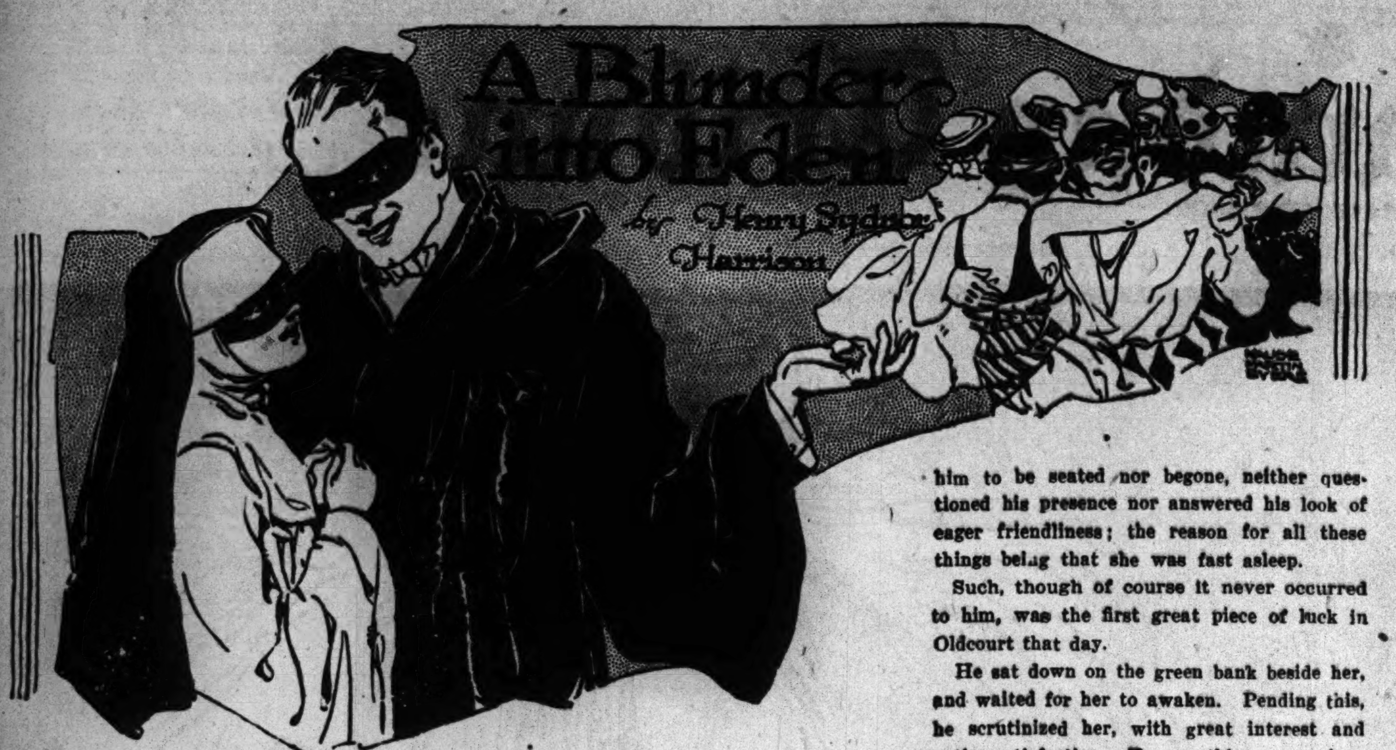
"Never mind," said Rosita impatiently. "I'm not going, so it won't make any difference."

"Will you really stay?" asked Yarwood humbly.

"Do you think I am a murderess?" cried Rosita, her eyes flashing. "Do you think I'd leave this darling little thing here alone to be killed with plum pudding and coffee?"

"We'll have a big Christmas house party at Seaside farm with all the children we can get, and we'll be happy as kings."

Mackenzie Yarwood took his wife and child in his arms.



A Blunder into Eden

by Harry Sydney Harrison

"I Am an Outsider. I Don't Know a Soul in This Room but One, and How to Find Her I Haven't the Faintest Notion."

BORN in dinginess, bred to the uses of adversity, sharpened by the old plain need of something to eat, he took his apprenticeship in the ways of things and at 12 stood forth a finished and resolute man of the world. Then, having all the facts at his command and the future of his mother to provide for, he made his hard, careful plans for success, and put his determined foot upon the ladder.

There was never anything to do with Tommy except to stand aside and let him rise. This they soon discovered at Hathaway's great factory, where he began by folding circulars and copying letters. Later they put a young college graduate at that, and Tommy started upward. When he was 16, they made him a traveling salesman.

That was the last day that his mother ever did any work. By another week he had moved her uptown. Three years later, when they took him off the road because they needed him in the office, he moved his mother again. By another year they were giving him a salary which he could not think of without blushing.

But Tommy had seen, at the start, that the way to make money was to save it; and at 23 his chance came. Hathaway wanted new capital, to enlarge his business, and was discussing the proposed improvements with his partners and Tommy when the latter blurted suddenly, "Why not let me come in?"

The general manager stared. The president, great Hathaway himself, looked out of the window and smiled.

"Why, you see, Tommy," he explained kindly, "this is a matter of such and such a sum."

"Yes," said Tommy, undismayed by the size of the figure, "I know. I could sell some things in two or three days. This is Monday. I could bring a certified check for it on Thursday."

The general manager stared harder. Old Hathaway, who had stopped smiling, stared too.

"Why, where on earth did you get so much money, Tommy?" he asked.

"I have been drawing a lot of money for the last seven years," said Driscoll calmly. "I haven't spent any at all, hardly. All of it has been working every minute since I got it. Compound interest, you know; it's really interesting how she doubles on you. Then I've been awfully lucky on some investments," and he mentioned one or two.

"Were you in on that?" cried the manager.

"And that?" asked the astonished Hathaway.

So Tommy went into the firm as treasurer, but he was much more than that. At the end of the second year, the earnings of the firm had exactly doubled. Toward the end of the third, they had doubled again. By the end of the fifth, when crowding competition had brought progress to a standstill, the lines for the great merger—seven big houses from Jersey City to Los Angeles—had already been laid. By the end of the sixth year, the merger was an accomplished fact. It was really Tommy Driscoll, of Hathaway's, who had put the deal through, though the papers did not say so. Then Driscoll bought a few more gilt edged securities, a little more choice real estate, did a little further figuring and found that he was in a fair way to become a wealthy young man. But, suddenly, just when he was making plans for playing business on a really large scale, his commercial career came to an abrupt close.

"Tommy," said his mother one night, as she sat on the side of his bed and gently stroked his great mop of a head, "I want you to give up the factory—and—and be a gentleman."

Tommy looked up with a wondering stare.

"A what?"

"A gentleman," said his mother softly.

"Yes'm," said Tommy.

"And marry," added his mother, her cheek against his, "some nice girl—a lady."

"A what?"

"A lady," said his mother still more softly.

"Yes'm," said Tommy again.

He took an office in a down-town skyscraper, engaged a stenographer, and spent an hour there every day looking after his affairs, which prospered largely. The rest of his time, for so he understood his mother's wishes, he gave to idling, to knocking about the town.

People interested him immensely. All classes drew him, and he sought instinctively for the type, the best type, of each. He was approaching 29 at this time, big and simple, pleasant to look at, full of those eager spirits which all the hard years had not been able to crush out of him. And, because there was no way out of liking him, he got, in time, into an unimpeachable club. Of course there was difficulty about this; for the odor of commerce was unwelcome to the nostrils of aristocracy, and he had brought from the Hathaway factories a certain peculiar and distinctive fame.

He met women of the sort he would be most likely to meet, and liked them in his candid, friendly way; but because of his instinct and of something intangible in their readiness to be known, he was always conscious—and this was strange, for he had known no women well except his mother, who had worked with her hands—that there was something lacking in them. This, like everything else in his new environment, set him to wondering, and gradually his vague thought grew into a definite purpose

"I believe I'll start and find a lady," he said to himself—"a lady"—and here he smiled, for this was Hathaway's most famous catchword, which he himself had invented—"who's 'the best thing going.'"

He was merciless to satisfy. Fifth avenue, the railroad stations, the park became his haunts. He loitered near brownstone fronts, waiting for young sprigs of celebrated houses (whose names he got from his morning paper) to emerge. As always he was wholly sure of himself; of course he should know her the instant he saw her, but for months the quest was vain!

Then one day his patience was rewarded. She sat in a victoria with a maid, while a male attendant and some baggage followed in a hansom. The scene of the meeting was Forty-second street, one block west of the Grand Central station.

"Smith," said Tommy to his man, who was behind, "follow that man in the hansom to the ticket window. Find out where he's going and buy me a ticket to the same place. Wait at the bureau of information."

"To Oldcourt, sir," murmured Smith at the designated tryst, handing Tommy the ticket. "The lady and the maid have just gone on. There are two cars, sir, the Laconia and the Latonia. The lady and the maid are in the Laconia. I have got you seats in both, sir."

"I shall ride in the Latonia," said Tommy. "Pack me, Smith," he said, "for a week. Say four trunks. Tell my mother that I have been suddenly called out of town and will write. Come on with the trunks tonight. I shall be at the principal hotel. Report to me there at noon tomorrow. Tell me at that time where I shall find Miss Belden—Miss Vespasia Belden."

"Very good, sir," said Smith.

With Tommy driving and Smith silent in the tonneau, they whizzed up the beautiful white road, turned to the left and slowed down at a pretty shingled house with low pillars and wide, well furnished porches.

"The club house, Smith," said Driscoll sagely. "You are sure she is golfing this morning?"

The man nodded, and, throwing on speed again, Tommy ran along beside the high white wall which surrounds the club grounds on all sides.

"Wait for me here, Smith," said he.

The wall was of such height as a six foot man might reach with some exertion. Driscoll, with apparent ease, laid his hands upon the top, pulled himself up and so dropped to the other side. He found himself in a great green rolling meadow, nearly treeless, but beautiful with grass and water. Far away on the hillside was a little plodding group—men, boys, and clubs. A bare hundred yards away, where a little dancing brook widened suddenly into a miniature lake, rose a splendid oak. Beneath the oak reclined a girl.

Whistling a snatch of song Tommy drew near to the tree, left off whistling, abruptly, and stood looking down at the girl, who, at a glance, had summoned him to Oldcourt.

Miss Belden remained quite silent. She neither screamed nor smiled, neither asked him to be seated nor begone, neither questioned his presence nor answered his look of eager friendliness; the reason for all these things being that she was fast asleep.

Such, though of course it never occurred to him, was the first great piece of luck in Oldcourt that day.

He sat down on the green bank beside her, and waited for her to awaken. Pending this, he scrutinized her, with great interest and entire satisfaction. For, on this nearer view, he knew beyond any doubt that he had found what he sought at last—the flawless product of the best of her time, the desired of the desired, the most perfect thing that a man had seen.

Presently she moved, brought her slender hand to her eyes, made ready to be aroused, and then quite suddenly she opened her eyes, met his friendly scrutiny, and straightened up, startled.

"Why," she cried breathlessly, struggling in the mists of sleep—"Why—you! YOU!"

"Yes," he assured her calmly, "it is I."

"You're a real person then! Why—why—why—who are you? Where could I have seen you before?"

Tommy's face fell a little at that. Excepting that she had, so it appeared, confused him oddly with something she had dreamed, he understood well enough. That question, put to him a thousand times in as many places, was always to be expected.

Still, he suggested hopefully, "I—I was on Forty-second street yesterday when you passed——"

"No, no!" she cried. "It's is nothing like that. Oh, you must tell me—tell me! Listen. I sat here a little while ago reading this magazine. I just remember beginning to look at the advertisements at the back; then I fell asleep. And I—I dreamed of—of someone who looked like you. I have never seen you before in my life. But it is all—so—so strange!"

Really troubled, she looked at him, intently, striving to think. And Tommy, because her bewilderment was so enchanting, laughed. To save his life, he could not help his features slipping into just the smile he wore in all his million pictures.

"Oh!" cried Miss Belden, suddenly drawing away a little, but still possessed by the great wonder of it—"Oh! I know you now. I saw you in an advertisement. You are Hathaway's Pickles."

Tommy, for the first time in his life vaguely abashed of his notoriety, bowed his head. "Yes, Miss Belden," he admitted, not without cheerfulness. "Yes, I am it."

For his pictures, in a hundred poses, but always with that one delighted smile, had appeared in every magazine in America and upon the vast majority of billboards. He was always shown as a fashionably garbed young man on the point of partaking of a gherkin; and opposite his jubilant mouth invariably hung the famous slogan:

"Hathaway's Pickles, the best thing going."

Thus it happened that Tommy Driscoll, eminent from Bangor to San Francisco as the Hathaway Pickle man, found himself in the most natural way, telling the story of his life to perhaps the most courted girl in America.

"As to those pictures," he ruminated, coming back to them, "I got up that idea myself: always showing one figure and one catch phrase in our ads, you know. They picked me to sit for them because I looked like a healthy appetite and had the right smile. I used to think it great fun; it was like being a celebrity, you know. I don't mind it now, of course, but my mother does. She wants them to stop using my pictures, but I don't like to make them: it's gotten pretty valuable as a trademark, you see. But mother is quite particular that way. It was because of her wish that I left the American Condiment company. She wanted me to give up business and be a gentleman—those are her words: bless her heart!—also to marry a lady. Funny, isn't it? But you ought to know my mother, Miss Belden. She's—well, she's great! Anyway, you know what she meant about that, and I've been doing it right along ever since. In a way, that was what brought me flying up here last night."

"Yes," said Miss Belden. "I have been wanting to have you tell me about that. Which?"

"Which?" repeated Tommy.

"Being a gentleman or marrying a lady?"

"Oh, that!" he laughed. "The terms are very misleading; but of course if you pin me down to them, I meant being a gentleman. Why," he added, as though this would explain everything, "it was to see you that I came to Oldcourt."

"Oh," said Miss Belden, "then I understand that you don't want to marry me?"

Tommy felt somewhat embarrassed "Well—that is," he hesitated, blushing a little, "I hadn't thought of the matter in that light."

She laughed. Then becoming suddenly grave again, she inquired, "You came here to see me, you say? How did you expect to do that—to meet me?"

Tommy stared. "Why," he explained, patiently, "I expected to find out where you were this morning, and then go there and talk to you and tell you why I came, just as I have done."

Miss Belden sat quite still a moment, silently regarding this most extraordinary young man.

"Now tell me," she said, "why you wanted to see me, and what that had to do with being a gentleman."

"The connection isn't close a bit, is it?" laughed Driscoll. "But it's this way." And he told her how it had been his pleasure to hunt for the best things since he had become a man of leisure, and all about his theory of a type of woman different from anything he had ever seen, and how he had sought for it, as part of his delightful investigations, and how unsuccessfully. "I suppose I've looked up a hundred cases in the last year," he said musingly, "and everyone was a flat fizzle Then yesterday who should come rolling along in a victoria but you of all people! You were the next on my list, you see, and as I didn't dare let you get away from me, of course I jumped right on the train with you, and had my trunks sent after me. That," he concluded, frankly, "is how I happened to come to Oldcourt."

"And now that you have—met me," she said, "I suppose I am merely one more disappointment?"

"You!" cried Tommy. "Well, I should say not! I was certain of that the minute I walked over here and looked down at you. I said to myself at once, 'Here she is at last—the best thing going!' and the conviction is strengthened by every word you say."

"I am glad to hear you say that," she said simply. "I should not have liked to know that, upon meeting me, you found me disappointing. And I am glad you came here and talked to me this morning. I have liked it all, especially what you have said about your mother. Now," she said, rising gracefully, "I must say good-by. You leave Oldcourt this afternoon, I suppose?"

"This afternoon!" repeated Tommy, with surprise. "No, I'm here for a week." Then he added bluntly before she had time to speak again: "What're you going to do now?" which surprised her into answering, "I am going home to dress for a luncheon at 2 o'clock."

"What're you going to do this afternoon?" demanded Tommy.

"After luncheon I shall play bridge until 6. Then I shall go home and dress again, this time for dinner."

"Tonight," said Miss Belden, "I go to a tiresome masquerade at the house of my friends—the Vandervoorts."

"H'm!" said Tommy, "masquerade! Well, I'm awfully sorry you're engaged all day, but I'll see you then, anyway."

"Why—I'm afraid not," she said, kindly. "It's—it's really quite a private affair, you see, meant particularly for friends of the family."

"I'll be there," he assured her serenely. "It'll be all right. I want to see you tonight, and since you're going to the Vandervoorts, why I must be there too."

It was some seconds before Miss Belden replied, "You must not think of it—really!"

"I must think of it—really," he laughed. "I like to have a little fun myself."

She stopped abruptly, and stamped her foot with sudden petulance. "Oh, don't, don't, don't—stand there smiling like that!" she almost screamed. "You look like that horrible advertisement——"

Which again, as the thoughtful will observe, illustrated the astounding luck of Tommy Driscoll that day.

At 10:30 p. m., his duties apparently ended, the ticket taker, who was entering Harvard next year, was on the point of joining the gay company within the Vandervoort villa, when a tall figure in black domino suddenly stepped upon the threshhold.

"Your card, please."

"My card," replied the guest in the black domino, "my card seems to have been lost in the shuffle. At least, I have had to come without it."

Then the black mask was lifted an instant and a pair of familiar friendly eyes smiled into those of the lad. "That's all right, sir," he said apologetically; and, entering, the new arrival crossed the hall at an easy saunter, passed through the music-room, halted at the further door and let his eye wander round the crowded, brilliant ballroom. The orchestra was playing. Every one in the great room was dancing except an elderly couple, and a Sister of Charity who sat alone opposite the entrance. Tommy crossed over eagerly and bowed before her.

"Little Sister," he said, "won't you dance?"

She arose gratefully and as they moved off he cheerfully ventured, "You looked a little lonesome, I thought."

"I was," she admitted.

"Maybe," he hazarded, "you're a bit of an outsider like me."

"Yes," she faltered, "I am an outsider." Driscoll laughed. "I don't know a soul in this room, but one, and how to find her I haven't the faintest notion. I forgot entirely that everybody was going to be disguised like this. I'll whisper a little secret to you if you'll promise not to tell. I don't belong here a bit. I came just for the fun of the thing and got in by a trick."

"I don't belong here either," she replied, desperately. "I'm a stenographer from Boston and came here on my vacation. Then this afternoon I—I picked up an invitation to this on the beach, and I thought I'd come. But oh, I wish I hadn't. I think they suspect me. I'm having—I'm having a perfectly ghastly time."

Tommy deliberated "You're game all right," he said. "But you mustn't mind them a bit. Why in the world should you? Walk about, speak to people mingle with them, have all the fun you can."

He danced next with a gorgeous princess of the empire, who knew that she had never met him before and flirted with him outrageously. The third time around, his eye fell upon the little sister seated alone in a corner of the room.

He asked the princess why this should be.

"Haven't you heard?" she replied, languidly. "Why, we're almost sure that she's one of those Ruthvens from Chicago. That's so like Mrs. Vandervoort's liberality, isn't it?"

"Well, isn't she nice, then?" asked Tommy, curiously.

"Nice," she echoed. "Oh, I suppose so. But she's a rank outsider. She's impertinent to come here at all. Please tell me who you are!"

"Are you sure you don't recognize me?" parried Tommy, before detaching himself from the princess and making his way over to the little sister for their third dance.

"You simply mustn't sit there polishing the wall like that," he remonstrated. "You must mix among them. There isn't a thing to be afraid of. Why, they all think that you're one of the invited guests—Miss Ruthven, of Chicago, whom they are cutting."

"Why, then," she asked faintly, "do you dance with me?"

"The first time," said Tommy gallantly, "was because I thought you were lonely. This time it is because I want to."

"But—I can't go about among the people, as you say. I can't. I'm afraid to."

"Then," said Tommy earnestly, "you must give me the rest of your dances."

"No, no. I'm not as selfish as that. You must not miss such a chance to dance with these—these rich and distinguished people."

"Are they better to dance with than you?"

"Why," said the little stenographer, in her low scared voice, "don't you want to get into society?"

"How do you mean?" asked Tommy, puzzled. "Bless you, I have all the society I want. Give me the next one, anyway, won't you? And let me take you to supper?"

Ladies of quality, gorgeously appareled, danced the fifth and the seventh with him, and he prospered with them famously. The sixth he took with the little sister again. During this his troubles began. A short, stout man waltzing with the princess of the empire circled by him and hearkened to his chatter.

"Why," he exclaimed, "hang me if that black domino isn't young Driscoll, who made a fortune out of pickles in New York! I'd know that laugh among a thousand. Well! who will we be meeting next?"

"Really?" said the princess. "That one! Well, I don't care. He's fascinating—even if he is so taken with that Ruthven girl."

The short, stout man knew Tommy in New York, and liked him, but he felt, naturally, that the functions of the chosen must be kept untarnished from the herd. He mentioned this latest instance of Mrs. Vandervoort's laxness to his aunt. Like wild fire, the scandal spread, the result being that when Tommy presently reëntered the ballroom, from the veranda, a giggling, suppressed but violent, sprang up behind him. The orchestra was just starting a new dance—the ninth. He sauntered to the line of people seated in chairs along the left-hand wall, tendered his arm to a decorated Bo-Peep, and was emphatically refused.

"She's spotted me for an outsider," he concluded cheerfully—remembering now that he had had some difficulty in securing a partner for the eighth—and summoned next an old Virginia belle of the colonial period, who also, pointedly, declined him. Passing on, he presently espied the empire princess among a silent group of maskers, and he was quite sure that she would dance with him. And then, behind him suddenly echoed a note of suppressed laughter. As he turned in the direction whence it came a similar cackle sprang up from the other side. Then another an another from the elder and sterner upholders of tradition until a score or more were sharing in the unseemly mirth. Tommy felt that every eye in the great room was fastened upon him.

"What's the joke?" he demanded pleasantly. "It seems to be on me, anyway!"

He was standing in the middle of the floor, trying absurdly to inspect his own back, the unembarrassed cynosure of a hundred unfriendly eyes.

As his back was turned to the door he did not see the Sister of Charity when she suddenly appeared at the threshold. She stood there a second, taking everything in at a glance before moving swiftly down the room, plucking at her mask as she walked.

"Why!" she cried in a voice very different from the frightened gurgle of the little Boston stenographer. "This is outrageous—insufferable!"

Voices rang out all over the room, "Why it's Vespasia!—Miss Belden, upon my soul!"

She came to Tommy with eyes shining, cheeks flaming scarlet; and before them all knelt down proudly on the polished floor and removed from his skirts a picture—that of a good looking young man delightedly dallying with a gherkin.

Tommy took it, smiling, and crumpled it in his hand, as he led the way into the dimly lighted conservatory, leaving behind them a room full of people, astonished, somewhat crestfallen and even a bit ashamed.

"Thank you for coming to the rescue, Miss Belden," he said, as the voices died behind them.

"I was frightened," she confessed, "and—and indignant. They had meant to unmask in another minute and catch you—with Mrs. Vandervoort at hand to say that you weren't invited. I want you to go now."

"Go!" echoed Tommy. "Why, I'm having a perfectly ripping time!"

"But," she hinted delicately, "there are other things to be considered than that."

"Oh!" he flushed, "I understand. You mean it would embarrass you—my being here without a card, and all that. Of course it would—I never thought of that! I'll go this minute."

She extended her ungloved fingers and let them rest in his hand a full minute, while she stood still and looked at him.

"When you go home," she said at last, gently withdrawing her hand, "you tell your mother from me—no, from a little stenographer that you were kind to one night—that you already are one."

"That I am already one what?" demanded Tommy.

Miss Belden turned away and began slowly unfastening her Sister of Charity robe.

"I don't want you to go," she said then, in a curious voice. "I've changed my mind. You promised to give me some supper, did you not? Put away your absurd black domino. I am going to take you in and introduce you to Mrs. Vandervoort."

"That would be nice," he said cordially. "I really owe her a sort of apology, I suppose, for coming here uninvited this way."

Four days later, upon the crested stationery of the Stornways, which many deem the handsomest house in Oldcourt, he addressed his mother as follows:

"Dearest Mother:—I moved my things over here last night to stay with the Storrmouths, who are very pleasant people. They keep you doing something all the time and I can hardly find a minute to write. I have to fly this instant to dress for a dinner at Vandervoorts, who want to take me to their camp in the Adirondacks later on.

"Oldcourt is a jolly, informal sort of place, and everybody is awfully nice to me. I have lots of invitations for house parties and things later on. Of course I'll be back Thursday, as I wrote.
Affectionately, Tommy.

"P. S.—The heavier underwear which you sent by mail arrived yesterday. It was just like you to think of it."

Oldcourt is a curious community. It runs strongly to fads, to lions. This time, beyond any doubt, it was Tommy Driscoll with his splendid alertness, his magnificent good looks, his gay and wonderful innocence, and, most incredible of all about him, the fact that he so obviously did not want to get into society, who was the success of the season.

But while his visit to Oldcourt was prospering, Tommy was not unmindful of his promise to his mother, who was not sharing these pleasant things with him. On the seventh day, at 12 in the morning, his trunks packed and gone, his ticket in his inside pocket, his mission, in brief, triumphantly done, he rose for the second time in the Belden drawing room to tell its single other occupant good-by.

"Good-by," said Miss Belden, and her voice now was curiously reminiscent of the little Sister of Charity.

"And now," she went on, "that you have done half of—of what your mother wanted of you—for even she must feel now that that part is finished—splendidly—I hope with all my heart that you will prosper as well with—the rest of it."

"Marrying a lady?" laughed Tommy. "Oh, pshaw! I never think of that of course. I've always felt that those things come in their own time and way. Haven't you?"

"I always used to think that I did," said Miss Belden. "I suppose that I think so still."

He took her hand and gazed down at her from his great height and there was affection in his honest eyes—real, deep, abiding—and Miss Belden saw it and paled.

"What a brick you are!" he said, huskily. "And what luck for a chap like me to have you for a friend!"

"Good-by," said Miss Belden once more. And Tommy was off to catch his train.

On the platform, he glanced at his watch; it was still ten minutes to train time. From his pocket he produced presently a telegram from Hathaway's and read it again with pleasurable sensations; the message saying that his offer for the famous trade-mark was accepted and that his portrait would adorn the billboards no more. He would never have thought of making that offer. She had suggested that, had told him how well worth doing it was.

Then suddenly he was not glad any more, but strangely and terribly depressed, as he had never been before in the wink of an eye, as at a signal, heavy gloom, unaccountable, unreasonable, settled down upon him. Vast despondency wrapped round his being.

He sprang up and began pacing restlessly about. The grizzled baggage agent eyed with some wonder the resplendent young man who strode so frowningly about the platform, muttering strange things to himself. Presently Tommy's eye fell upon him, and he drew near, struck by a sudden thought.

"Have a cigar, my man?" he said, striving to speak in an easy conversational tone. "Er—what does it mean, do you suppose, when you're leaving a place where you've only spent a week, and you feel, by George, ha, ha! as though you were going to die?"

"Well, sir," said the agent, pleasantly, but privately marveling anew at the odd ways of cottagers, "well, sir, if it was me, I'd say, beggin' your pardon, sir, as there was a lady in your case."

"A lady in the case!" repeated Tommy.

"A—lady—in—the—case!"

He went back to his suit case, sat down again, and he fell to thinking deeply—and as when a lamp is flashed sharply into a dark room, so now light, new and wonderful, suddenly flooded the hidden corners of his soul.

The way of life and its utmost meaning rolled out before him; a face framed itself marvelously upon the green hillside where his eye was fastened; and Tommy, face to face with the best of all his best things, found himself at the end of his explorations at last.

In two minutes—for it took no longer than that—he sprang up, laughing, and laid eager hold upon his suit case . . . and when the train came panting in, the baggage agent, wondering more than ever, saw the strange young man who had so restlessly waited for it, start hurriedly away.

"Hey, there!" he called good-naturedly. "Here's your train, sir—going this minute."

"Train! I don't want a train!" cried Tommy over his shoulder—never checking his swift pace, for it seemed to him that there was not another second to lose—"I want—the best thing going!"

The Teenie Weenie

CAPTIVES ARE PUT TO WORK

by
WM. DONAHEY.

"DOG gone it!" exclaimed the Dunce as he sat down and leaned against the side of the cigar box in which the three runaway Teenie Weenies had been imprisoned, "this is just what we deserve for leaving Shoe Hurst. Believe me, if I ever get out of this I'll never leave home again."

"Well, I done told you that we'd have bad luck," said Gogo from the depths of an old handkerchief which served the three prisoners for a bed. "It am powerful bad luck to start a journey on Friday and dat is what we-all went and done. If we had waited until the next day which was Saturday we-all wouldn't have been ketched."

"If there was just some way to get word to the General," said the Clown, looking thoughtfully at the holes the old man had bored in the box for ventilation, "we wouldn't have to worry, for the Teenie Weenies would find some way to get us out of this place."

"I've got a scheme!" exclaimed the Dunce. "While the old man was eating his dinner yesterday I noticed a piece of cheese on the table. Now if we could sneak some of that cheese into the box and then put a piece in one of the air holes why it would attract the mice, then we could talk to them and get one of them to go to the Shoe House and tell the General where we are."

After the three little fellows had talked of the plan to escape for some time they rolled themselves up in the handkerchief and soon fell into a deep sleep.

Early the next morning they were awakened by the old man's footsteps and presently he opened the cover of the box and grinned down at his prisoners.

"Well, it's time all Teenie Weenies were up," he growled as he lifted the box on to a table. Pulling up a chair the old fellow sat down to his breakfast while the three Teenie Weenies crawled out of their prison.

"Can we have something to eat?" asked the Clown, looking longingly at some bread crumbs that lay about.

"Yes," grumbled the old man. "But mind you I don't want you to try and run away or I'll kill you as I would a fly."

"Yes, s-s-sir," said the Dunce as he grabbed a huge crumb and stuffed it into his mouth. "We won't run away."

"Well, you had better not if you know what's good for you," growled the old fellow, glaring savagely at the trembling Teenie Weenies.

The old man's breath smelled so strong of garlic that the three little chaps were almost suffocated and if it hadn't been for a draft of fresh air that happened to blow across the table at that moment they would no doubt have been quite overcome.

When the old man had finished his meal he cleared off the dishes and placing a pipe and a package of tobacco on the table he ordered the three Teenie Weenies to fill the pipe with tobacco.

"You've got to work if you expect to eat while you're living with me," he growled. "No work, no eat!"

The Clown and the Dunce carried many arm loads of tobacco and stuffed it into the big pipe bowl, while Gogo brought a couple of matches from a box that stood on one end of the table.

"Hey, there!" shouted the old man, "one of you fellows get up into the pipe and tramp that tobacco down tight in the bowl. It won't burn right unless the tobacco is packed well."

"I-I-If you p-p-please, s-s-sir," cried the Dunce, "I'm afraid it will make us sick i-i-if we get into the pipe bowl; it's so awfully strong."

"I don't care whether it makes you sick or not!" roared the old man so loudly he made the very table shake under the scared Teenie Weenies. "Get up into that pipe bowl and be quick about it, or I'll stick you on the end of this knife," and the old man pulled a big jackknife out of his pocket and stuck it into the table.

The poor Dunce crawled up into the bowl and stamped the tobacco down, although the dirty old pipe made him deathly sick and it was all he could do to keep from fainting.

"There, now," said the old man when the pipe had been filled, "I call that a good job. You fellows will be very useful to me in the future and I'm mighty glad that I happened to catch you."

While the old man smoked his pipe the three little captives picked up the tobacco crumbs that lay about the table and put them back into the tobacco bag. The Dunce managed to get near the dish of cheese that stood on the table and when the old man was not looking he stuffed a piece into his pocket.

"Come on now and get into your box; it's time for me to be getting to work," said the old man as he placed the cigar box on the table. When the three Teenie Weenies had climbed in, the old man put a few bread crumbs and a small dish of water into the box so the little fellows would have food while he was at work, and placing the box on a window sill he weighted the lid down with a heavy iron bolt.

In a few minutes the Teenie Weenies heard the old man shut the door and walk down the path to the road. The Dunce quickly pulled the piece of cheese out of his pocket and stuffed it into one of the air holes at the end of the box. After some hours of waiting the prisoners heard the pit-a-pat of feet and looking through the air hole the Dunce saw a fat mouse eyeing the piece of cheese.

THE sense of beauty inherent in woman finds frequent expression in the dress with which she clothes herself. This season she has attained a full realization of the pictorial value of the one piece dress, and hence the avidity with which she welcomes such attire. Long, unbroken lines, unspoiled by harsh demarcation of the waistline, and exquisite color schemes—for ruthless contrasts are entirely eliminated in this model of dress—are the features that have won her favor. And perhaps there is another and less esthetic but equally potent factor, for these dresses require no fussing, no added touches, that are essential in other styles of dress.

Pictured on this page are several fascinating modes that reveal the varied forms in which such dress is fashioned. At the extreme left in the uppper row is an attractive frock. Designed on the simple lines of the princess, it is elaborated with an oval shaped vestee whose sole ornamentation is found in the row of large bone buttons that adorn the front of the chemisette. Prune gray satin cloth is the material from which the dress is fashioned, and a novel style idea is discovered in the girdle of matching suede outlined with dull silver. This is attached at the back of the collar, crossed in the front and drawn towards the back where the two ends are slipped under a metal ornament and are finished with deep silver fringe.

Bands of fur enrich the cuffs and collar, while a handsome moleskin cape is lightly slung about the shoulders. A barrel muff is also carried and it is gayly trimmed with a fur flower whose stamens are tipped with silver balls. The hat that is worn with this origination is made of prune colored velvet and the brim, upturned in front and cleverly slashed, is fastened to the crown by a glittering silver ornament.

Satin cloth is chosen for the gown that is pictured to the right of the model just described. A new modification of the princess is, however, revealed in this creation, for while the flowing lines prevail in the front and back, additional fullness is achieved by the galaxies of plaits that are cleverly arranged on the sides. A row of tarnished silver buttons heads the plaits and contrasts pleasingly with the beautiful blue cloth.

The bodice of this charming frock is cut in rather unusual style, for the collar is developed into a quaint little cape finished with dangling tassels and embellished with embroidery of silver and flame threads. The upper parts of the sleeves are decidedly full, so that they give the impression of a cape about the shoulders, while the long cuffs are decidedly snug fitting.

The hat of dark blue velvet is untrimmed, but this is no drawback, for it is distinguished by unusually dashing lines.

The wealth of fabrics suitable for the development of beautiful dresses is truly wonderful and wools and silks are shown in many exquisite colors. Supple faille in a delightful shade of field mouse gray is admirably adapted for the mode that is illustrated in the adjacent frame. The fullness in the skirt is arranged in wide and narrow plaits that are loosely gathered at the waistline. The one piece frock has a small bolero jacket whose fronts are cut away so that a beautiful vest of chiffon velvet is revealed. Threads of dull gold and gilded beads make wonderful embroidery and the oddly cut cuffs and standaway collar are trimmed with silver tipped dyed lapin.

In keeping with this costume of Spanish origin is the Spanish turban of field mouse velvet with its clustered silk pompons fore and aft, while the shoes that complete this exquisite toilette are of the finest suede in a shade that perfectly matches the dress.

Quaint simplicity is characteristic of the model that is shown at the extreme right of the page. This lovely gown is developed in nattier blue satin cloth whose texture is delightfully soft. The skirt, fairly long, is closely plaited, but to vary the monotony of repetition as exemplified in the plaits gay strips of embroidery are wrought on the front and the back of the skirt. Tiny beads of dull silver with threads of the same color are used for this decoration, which is most effective.

The picturesque cape like corsage is also enriched with embroidery, while the cuffs are made of bands of this clever trimming. The deep girdle of satin, ornamented with embroidery, while rows of buttons add novel touches to the sides. Unusual, too, is the collar which rears itself above the round cut neck.

A Russian turban of duck blue velvet with an ostrich fancy in shades of blue completes this smart creation.

The hat set snugly on the head is fashioned from trimmed seal with a generous supply of silk pompons that are prettily bunched up in the center front as well as lightly trailed about the sides. And one must not overlook the bright sash that, wound around the figure, is tied loosely in the back, where its broad fringed ends give but another hint of the origin of this clever model.

A mode well suited to the dashing college girl or her sister who has already entered the paths of pleasure that are designed by society for her entertainment is cleverly pictured at the lower right. Fashioned from a charming primrose satin broadcloth, it is delightfully light in weight, while this material possesses great beauty of texture. Broad plaits accentuate the straight lines of the skirt, and the uneven hem adds interest to this good looking gown. The bodice, suggestive of moyen age models, is richly embroidered with coral beads and threads of copper silk. The sleeves and collar are decidedly novel in style and reveal new ideas in the fashioning of these essential parts of the costume.

The large hat is made of petunia velvet with a magnificent plume, and the shoes, with their embroidered uppers, are of a deeper tone of glazed kid.

As the straightly cut frock is now so widely accepted, many attractive models are shown for southern wear, which is an indication that they will be in favor when spring modes are presented.

MEN AND WOMEN

"GREAT economic waste results from denying justice and legal status to the children of unmarried mothers," said Prof. James Tufts of the University of Chicago in a speech before the Chicago Woman's club. "They are so handicapped that it is well nigh impossible for them to grow to usefulness. When we refuse them a fair chance the loss is as much ours as theirs."

Perennially a bill is presented to the legislature through which it is hoped to make the birth of a child constitute a marriage of parents, unless one of the parents is already married. At the present moment more than usual interest centers around the so-called illegitimate child, because of the new law passed in Norway, called the Castberg law, after the minister of justice of Norway, John Castberg, giving the child born out of wedlock an equal share in the father's estate.

The Norwegian bill gives to a child whose parents have not married each other the surname of its father and entitles it to support from both parents in proportion to their financial ability and in accordance with the station in life of the more opulent parent.

Illegitimate Children.

This support continues until the child is 16 (in case the child is feeble in mind or body it continues longer). The mother is entitled to maternity expenses and to support for three months, unless she nurses the child, when she is entitled to support for nine months after its birth. If paternity is not proven, the obligation of support rests upon all who might sustain that relation. The responsibility of summoning the father to court rests with the state and not, as with us, upon the mother. The child inherits property from both its parents, exactly as would any other child.

A feature of the law is that the defense known as the "exceptio plurium" is not allowed, by which is meant the proof that some other man also has sustained guilty relations with the mother. The only defense an accused man can make is complete innocence. In case the court ascribes possible paternity to several men, the child does not inherit from them, but is entitled only to support.

There is hardly another place in the world where the law makes so small provision for the child unfortunate enough to be born out of wedlock as in Illinois. The best provision for her child an unmarried mother can hope to get in Illinois is a total of $550, and it may be doled out to her in payments of $25 every three months for the first year and $12.50 every three months thereafter until the total, $550, is paid. This figures out a trifle over [illegible]. The responsibility of the [illegible] ends when the child reaches its [illegible] year. In order to get this, the unmarried mother must go into open court, face unsympathetic publicity, and prove beyond reasonable doubt the paternity of the child.

Somebody said: "Parents may be illegitimate, but children never." Whether or not removing the bar sinister by an automatic marriage law will be an economical saving is a debatable question.

There is to be considered the question of irresponsible parenthood, for in the large majority of instances illegitimate parenthood spells irresponsible parenthood, and enforced marriage will not make it responsible. There is the possibility of injustice as prolific as the "Mann act." The parents of illegitimate children furnish a bad average heredity, in spite of the phenomena that occasionally appear to give the lie to the statement. Again, there is the enforced marriage that would result from a first mistake and the bearing of more than one child to a drunken or dissolute or diseased man.

Too Clumsy for Him.

I was much in love with a drug store clerk and had the habit of pausing to look in as I passed the drug store to receive his smile. One afternoon my mother sent me to town for some groceries and on the way back with my arms full of packages I walked slowly by the drug store, looking in to see Joe. Just as I got in front of the window I tripped and fell flat, spilling apples, crackers, and eggs all over the sidewalk. The store was full of boys, who laughed as Joe helped me up. Joe never came to see me again, and when my chum asked him why, he said that a girl that was so clumsy as to make a show of herself before all of his friends, wouldn't do for him.

Doris Blake Says

If you were born this week you are

Impulsive.

This department appears every day in "The Daily Tribune."

Have you a perplexing love affair in which you need the counsel of a friend? Write Doris Blake, care "The Sunday Tribune." If you wish a personal reply send stamped and addressed envelope.

WITH your symbol, the Archer, it is quite natural that those who were born during the week beginning today would be impulsive and quick in both movement and disposition, and such is the case. Always meaning well, you can't understand why some folks take offense at your cleverly directed "shafts" that hit home far harder than you realize. You are apt to say the first thing that comes to your mind, thus unconsciously antagonizing those who might be your best friends. It is only those people who live down this first impression who come to know you at your real worth, but fortunately for you, this group is many, so that you have plenty of steadfast friends.

The fact that you are such a good talker, mimic, and general "good fellow," seems to more than make up for your other less laudable traits. And you are so fond of society, sports, and games of all kinds that you are constantly in demand along these lines. You learn readily and retain whatever you learn remarkably well; in fact, if you weren't inclined so to worry about little things, you could hold down the biggest kind of a job with credit. But you do keep your worries to yourself and do not blame others for your losses and mistakes. Because you do not like to tender advice, you prefer others to let you pursue your own course and take what comes, for with all your ups and downs you retain plenty of self-confidence.

Strange, but with all these qualities there runs through your makeup a deep religious strain. Set in your opinions, you have a great regard for form. Some of you Sagittarius folk make excellent ministers of the gospel. Another of the many and varied traits you possess is a great fondness for animals; added to this, also a love of flowers, and nature in all its outdoor aspects. In both shooting and fencing, as well as in games of skill, you Archer people excel.

Being fire people, you possess a prophetic intuition; you are always shooting your arrows ahead, so to speak, cautiously, yet far seeingly. This, combined with your imagination, makes you sometimes overstate facts. The things which threaten calamity are more often the ones you prophesy, so that you become a sort of mental "storm prophet." Your way is to point a danger, and then let the person concerned run on to it or steer clear, as he chooses. And you seem to know by instinct what to do in cases of sudden danger. Not only can you take care of yourself, but you have the ability to care for others, and an inherent faculty for amassing wealth. It is said of you people that because of your faculty for making money you can cause more distress and misery to others than any other sign.

Neatness with you is a virtue, and you dislike disorder of any kind. You therefore lay much stress on outward appearance; in fact, some of you Sagittarius women are a bit vain when it comes to bedecking yourselves with finery and jewelry. The best is none too good for you, man or woman.

Your most harmonious union will be with your opposite pole, Aries, March 22 to April 20, or possibly with Virgo, Aug. 24 to Sept. 23. You will be most fortunate in your own sign, but should be careful during the week beginning June 27. As a musician, an artist, a jeweler, a merchant, a clergyman, a lecturer, or a teacher you may succeed.

Your colors are red, green, and gold; birthstone, turquoise. "If Sagittarius sign to earth brought you, your ring should bear the turquoise blue."

For and By BUSINESS GIRLS

Mary King.

Miss King will be glad to help business girls solve their problems. If you want a personal answer send a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Miss Mary King, "Sunday Tribune," Chicago.

AN APPEAL TO SHOPPERS.

NOW is the time when all those who are interested in the problems and trials of the workers—philanthropists, sociologists, editorial writers on newspapers and magazines, club women, etc.—are making an appeal to the shoppers all over the country to give some thought and show a little consideration for the girl behind the counter.

Saleswomen as a whole lack both the time and a proper medium to make an appeal for themselves. They must perforce depend on others to make it for them.

Several letters have come to me from girls in the stores asking that I call to the attention of other women workers the necessity of doing their Christmas shopping early—"early in the month and early in the morning"—if they would prevent this season from becoming the hideous nightmare it has been in past years to the women who work in the shops and stores.

These extracts from the letter of one saleswoman voice the statements of the majority:

"If the shoppers would have their holiday buying so mapped out that it would be but a simple problem to themselves, and as little trouble as possible to the saleswomen, it would go far toward relieving the hardships and weariness which the next four weeks will bring to the girls and women whose job is to sell the pretty trinkets and gewgaws of the holiday season.

"We saleswomen have no way of appealing directly to the public, and have to rely on interested outsiders to do this for us. I wish you would say a word to the women workers who read your column asking them to give a little thought to their shopping and arrange it so that it will not all come at the last moment. If they realized, by using a little system in their buying expeditions, how much they, as a class, could help relieve the situation for us, I am sure they would do all in their power to help by being as systematic and decided about their purchases as possible.

"It is not much we are asking of them, but if they comply with our request they will be doing great things for us.

"I realize, and I am sure most of my fellow workers do, too, that other women who work have little time to give to buying, and are forced to do their shopping when they can, usually after hours. But there are many girls who work in offices who do not have to report until 8:30, 9 o'clock, or later, and, as most of the stores are open at 8 o'clock at this time of the year, they would have a little time in the morning which they could give to their shopping. This is really the best time to visit the stores anyway, as the saleswomen are not so busy, and the shoppers can be waited on more promptly and receive more efficient service from the girls."

All working women should show the same consideration for salespeople at all times, and especially now, as they would hope to receive if they were working under the same conditions.

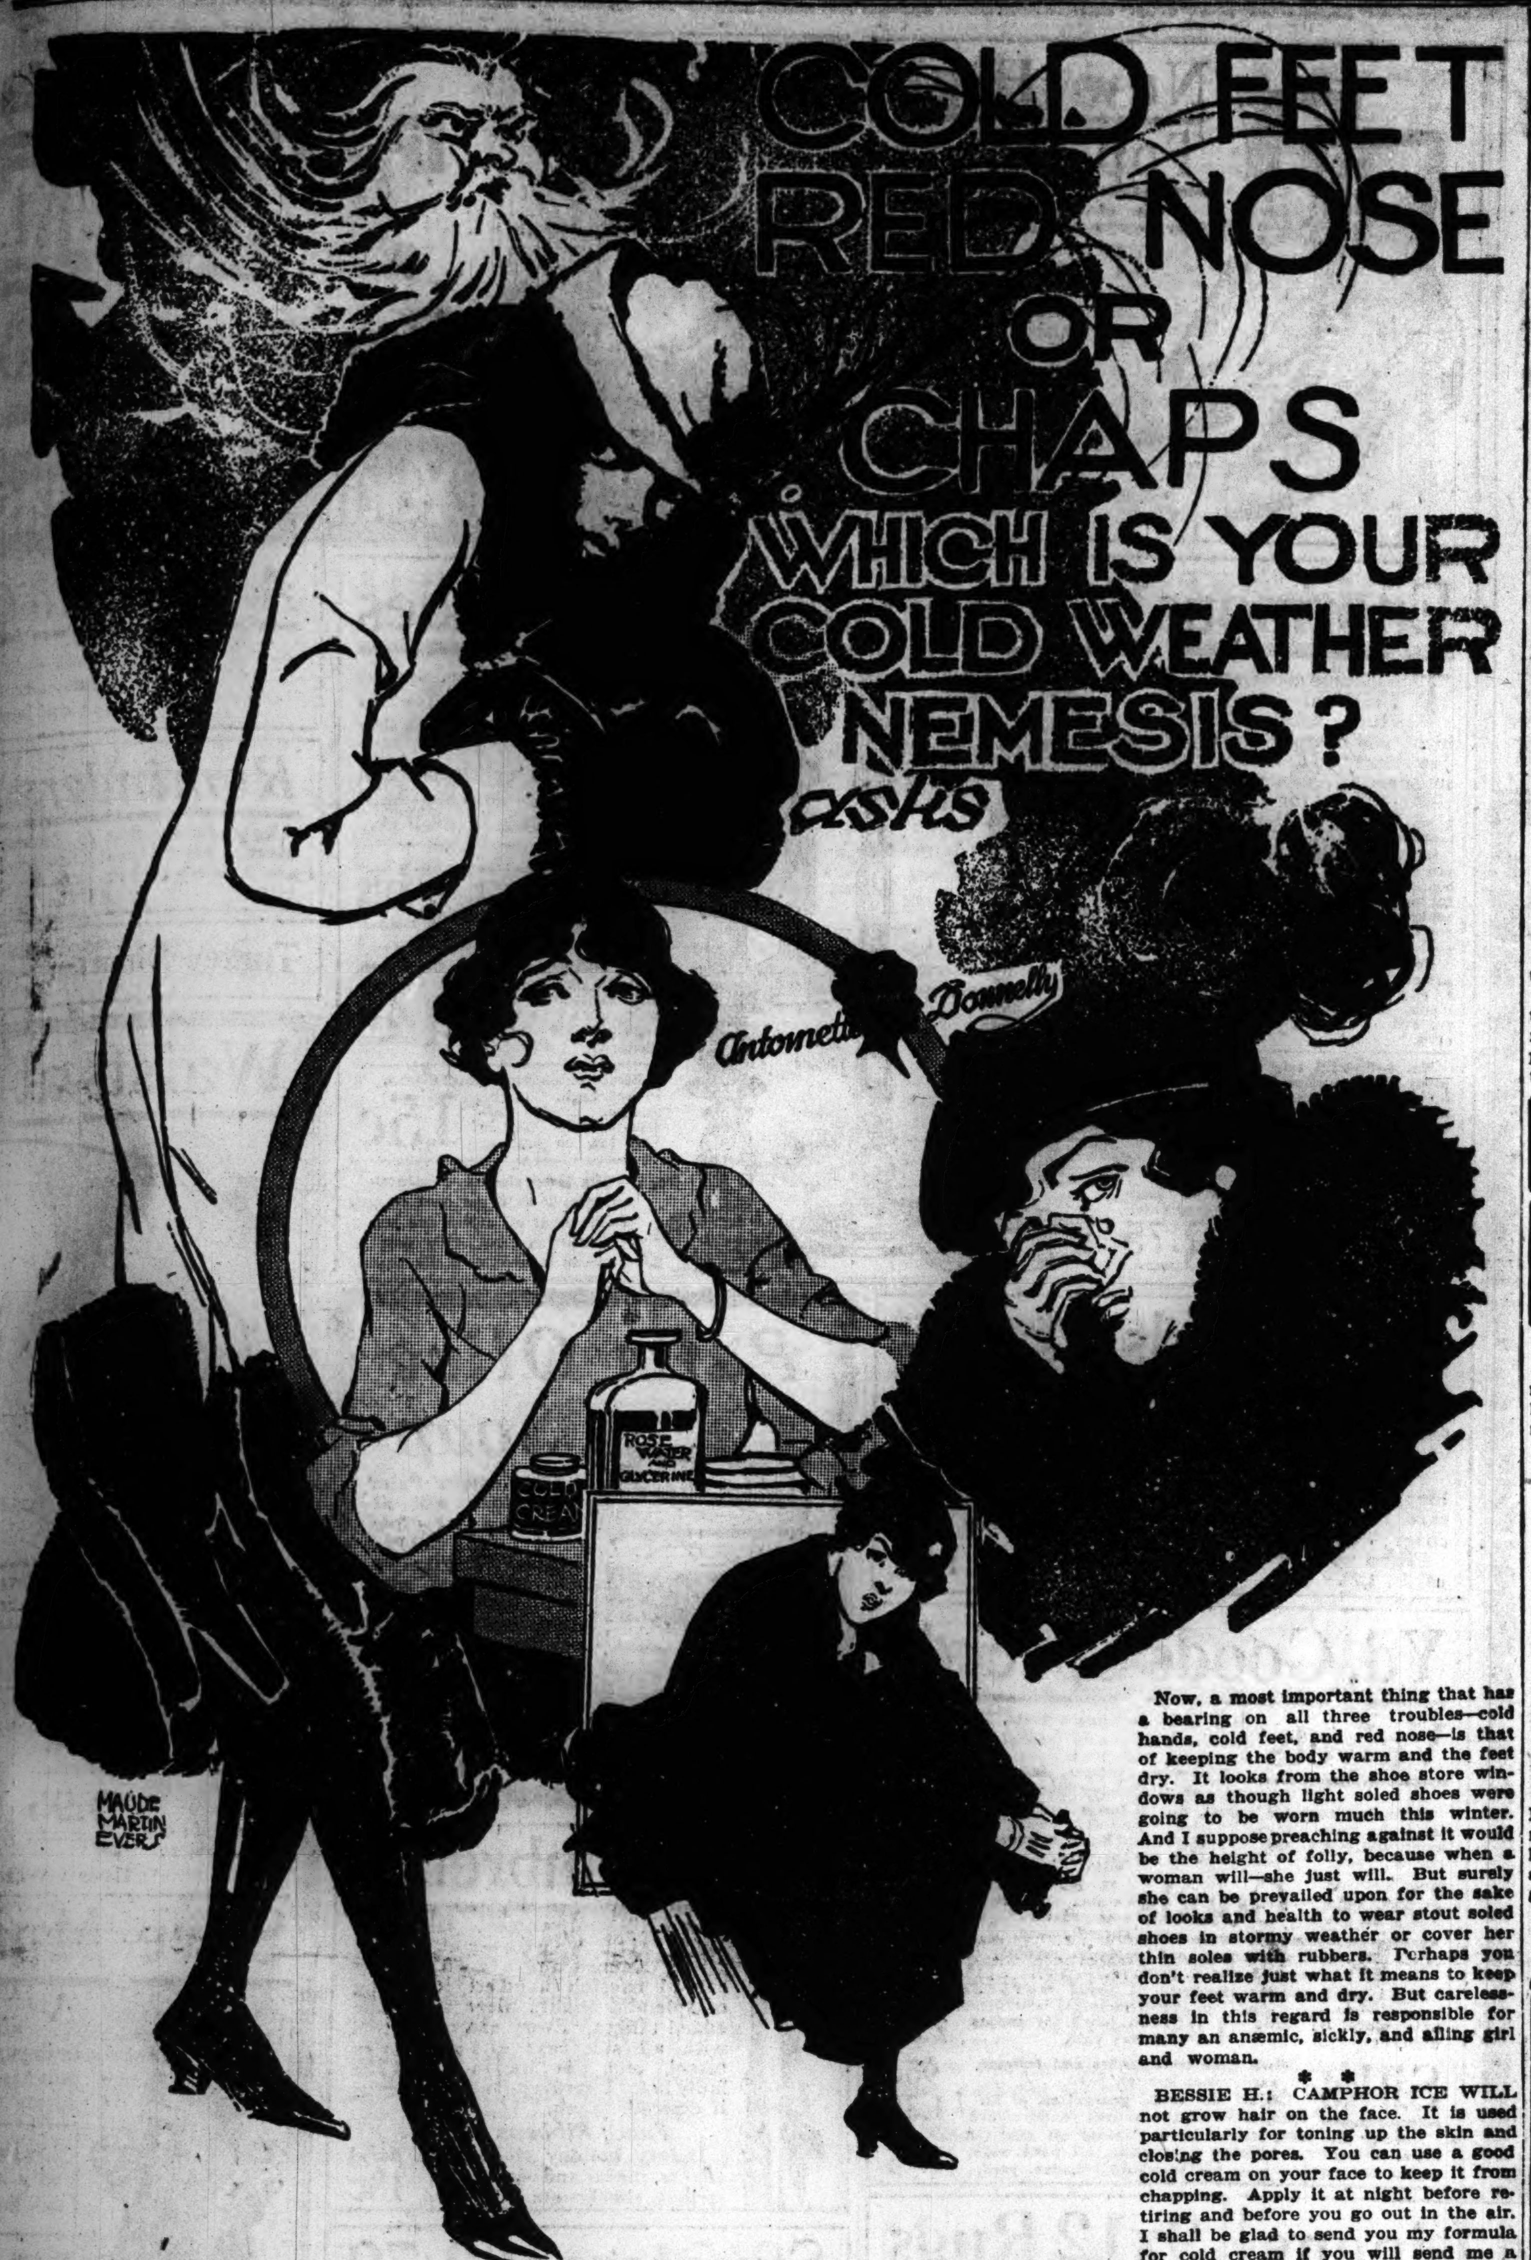
COLD FEET RED NOSE OR CHAPS WHICH IS YOUR COLD WEATHER NEMESIS?



This department appears every day in "The Daily Tribune."

A LITTLE red nose, or a big red nose, or any kind of a red nose, is about the least decorative touch of color your face can be illuminated with. Not even the proverbial enchantment of distance gets an inning if a red light protrudes from the middle of your physiognomy.

Therefore, a red nose not being a thing of beauty, what you all 'gwine to do about yours?

First, since you are not an intemperate lady, you probably wonder why is a red nose? The mercury descent is not the answer. A perfectly healthy body hangs out no such lantern.

A red nose is a danger signal that something is wrong with your machinery somewhere. And, of course, the stiff and biting breezes are the S. O. S. signals.

First thing you may make up your mind to is that your circulation is wrong; maybe not all wrong, but in need of repair. Defective digestion and impoverished condition of the system due to the sluggish blood circulation are the other causes.

Indigestion is the root of the trouble more often than not, because it affects the circulation. It is a fact that people suffer more from indigestion during the cold weather than the warm, for the simple reason that they stay indoors more and lead a much more sedentary existence when the crackly logs in the fireplace are so tempting.

The cure obviously rests with more outdoors in the cold weather and less indoors. The same attention in keeping the bowels in regular action as in the summer time must be given. Drinking water and eating vegetables are two valuable winter pastimes that most people shirk to the detriment of the beauty of their whole system, and especially their nose. The temptation to drink hot drinks and heavy ones and eat hot, rich foods exclusively is strong when the mercury registers 60, 70, or thereabouts. The impoverished condition of your blood and your sluggish circulation will be improved by exercise and fresh air, proper food, and baths.

So regard the daily walk of two miles as part of your red nose cure. Deep breathe before you go to bed and first thing in the morning before an open window. And above all things keep your sleeping rooms well ventilated during the cold season. It seems incredible in this enlightened age that any one could think of sleeping in airtight bedrooms, but I know of a number of people who are old enough and educated enough to know better, who close their windows tight at night.

If you can stand the morning plunge you pretty nearly have the red nose a possession not to be found among yours.

Nothing is so good for the circulation as the cold plunge or cold sponge and vigorous rub after. Cold feet and red nose are nothing if not affinities. What causes one causes the other. What cures one cures both.

The circulation is bad when you suffer from cold feet. The exercise outdoors and the plunge and the improved circulation through improved digestion all have the same happy effect on both feet and nose. So that when you work to cure one you are killing the two birds with the well known proficient single stone.

There are a couple of exercises that cold footed humans may do for immediate and hurried relief The tiptoeing exercise, which is nothing more than walking on tiptoes around your room, gradually increasing the speed as you go, should be done just before hopping into bed. The stationary running may either precede or follow the tiptoe exercise. This latter exercise is tiring and I would advise you to do it not more than two minutes at the start. The movement is the same as an ordinary running movement, except that you stand in one spot instead of covering any ground.

Even chapped hands come in for their share of benefit by the red nose treatment—that is, the impoved circulation treatment. The less oil a woman has in her skin the more she will be troubled with this last ofttimes most painful affliction.

To prevent chapping of the hands in cold weather heavy gloves or a muff should be worn. Another aid in preventing the skin of the hands from becoming rough and chapped, and the best means for curing them if this has occurred, is by the use of a good cold cream at night, just before retiring.

The cold cream should be well rubbed into the skin, especially about the finger nails, and after this talcum powder be dusted over. This forms a thick covering for the hands, the talcum powder prevents the cream from being rubbed off on the bedclothes, and on getting up in the morning the skin will be found to be soft. In case the hands are badly chapped, old, larke kid gloves should be worn at night and a quantity of cream left on the hands to be absorbed during the night.

The cold cream treatment for the lips and face should consist in rubbing cold cream well into the face before going out into the cold. Dust over with powder and be careful above all things to dry your hands and face thoroughly after washing.

Women at home suffer much from chapped hands because of rushing outdoors while the hands are still wet from dishwashing.

A little bran or oatmeal in the wash water has a softening effect. It makes the skin velvety and pliant. Almond meal is also excellent for this purpose. The good old reliable glycerine and rose water (one-third glycerine and two-thirds rosewater) for skins that can stand the glycerine is a good remedy for chapped hands and face and lips.

Now, a most important thing that has a bearing on all three troubles—cold hands, cold feet, and red nose—is that of keeping the body warm and the feet dry. It looks from the shoe store windows as though light soled shoes were going to be worn much this winter. And I suppose preaching against it would be the height of folly, because when a woman will—she just will. But surely she can be prevailed upon for the sake of looks and health to wear stout soled shoes in stormy weather or cover her thin soles with rubbers. Perhaps you don't realize just what it means to keep your feet warm and dry. But carelessness in this regard is responsible for many an anæmic, sickly, and ailing girl and woman.

BESSIE H.: CAMPHOR ICE WILL not grow hair on the face. It is used particularly for toning up the skin and closing the pores. You can use a good cold cream on your face to keep it from chapping. Apply it at night before retiring and before you go out in the air. I shall be glad to send you my formula for cold cream if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

ELVIRA: EXERCISES WHICH have a tendency to stretch the muscles are swimming, rowing, tennis, golf, basketball, fencing, and using the traveling rings. If you are past 24, I fear there is but little, if any, hope of your growing taller. I shall be glad to send you my formula for cold cream if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

ANABELL: THE DEFECT OF PROTRUDING ears can be hidden by dressing your hair down over them. The only way to remedy the trouble is to tie a cloth over your ears at night to hold them back close to the head. This process is slow and it will take some time to get improvement. But you will succeed, I know, if you are patient.

* *

FLORENCE R: TO KEEP DOWN your flesh after you have reduced to normal weight you will have to continue with your daily walks and exercise for not less than a half hour each day. Eliminate fat producing foods from your diet. You must give your body sufficient exercise so as to give the flesh no chance to "set."

ETIQUETTE

Any question on etiquette will be answered if you write to Elizabeth Van Rensselaer, "Chicago Sunday Tribune." If you wish a personal reply inclose a stamped, addressed envelope. Please write on one side of the paper only.

FIX HAIR TO STAY FIXED.

HOW many of us women, I wonder, have been embarrassed at different times by having a stray hairpin fall out into an annoyingly conspicuous place during a dinner or luncheon. Probably many well groomed, carefully coiffed women have never had this happen, but there is an unfortunate majority that have. By adopting one of our American watchwords, "Preparedness," and by living up to it, we could avoid this particular form of discomfiture. Just as "a stitch in time saves nine," so a pat ahead of time will save many a blush and vexatious moment. And, while this subject is uppermost in our minds, I want to add that these "pats" must be administered before coming to the table. There is nothing that looks worse than to see a woman at dinner, or, in fact, at any meal, touching or fixing her hair. One of the first rules that a girl learns at boarding school is that in the dining room she must not put her hands up to her hair. If she has neglected that last little hairpin and feels it slide, slide it must, and she may pray inwardly that it will fall unheard and unnoticed. Let us adopt this rule, too, and try in the future to forget our coiffures altogether during meal times.

R. W.: Unless a bride chooses to wear a dark traveling suit in which to be married, custom decrees that her wedding gown be white. However, the pale shades of pink, blue, yellow, green, or lavender may be employed in the general color scheme by having the bride's attendants gowned in any of these delicate hues.

* *

W. F. W.: It was not at all a breach of etiquette to ask a young woman to go to the theater with you while in your uniform. If she did not object to your taking the actress to dinner the night before, which is, of course, barely possible, could she not have had some more personal reason for refusing your invitation?

* *

LAURA JANE: When the meat and vegetables are served in side dishes it is customary to place them on the dinner plate.

* *

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.—Advertisement.

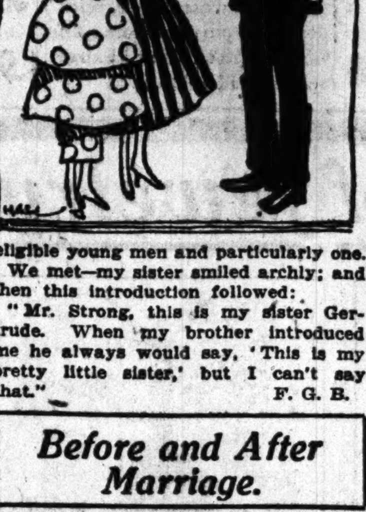
The Worst Slam I Ever Got.

Sometime, somewhere, somebody gave you a "slam" that nearly bowled you over. Tell the worst one you ever received. The stories must be original, written on one side of the paper, and confined to 200 words. Address them to Slam Editor, "The Sunday Tribune." For every letter published "The Tribune" will pay $1. No letters can be returned.

She Couldn't Say That.

As all young girls dream of their prince charming, so did I.

While visiting my sister, who at that time was a young society matron in the town, she mentioned the names of the eligible young men and particularly one.



We met—my sister smiled archly; and then this introduction followed:

"Mr. Strong, this is my sister Gertrude. When my brother introduced me he always would say, 'This is my pretty little sister,' but I can't say that."

Before and After Marriage.

"The Tribune" will pay $1 for every letter published on marriage disillusions. Address Doris Blake, "Chicago Sunday Tribune." Write on only one side of the paper.

One Fleeting Glance.

Before we were married John always noticed what I wore and would tell me how sweet and pretty I looked. One night a few months after our marriage I decided to surprise him and put on my wedding dress. When John came home he gave me one fleeting glance and said: "When did you buy the glad rag? It doesn't look familiar."

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING·HAND

by MARION HARLAND

This department appears every day in "The Daily Tribune."

When an address or other information is wanted by mail, a stamped, addressed envelope should accompany the request. Please do not send parcels to the newspaper office.

Stain on Ivory.

"CAN you tell me of some good preparation I could use to clean the handle of my white ivory mirror? It has a deep red stain which was perhaps caused by hair tonic. T. W. U."

Rub the stain gently with fine sandpaper and then polish with a chamois skin. If this does not prove effectual, wash the stain with peroxide of hydrogen and lay the mirror in the sun. If the stain is deep wou may have to repeat this several times, and I cannot assure you even then that the treatment will remove the mark. Can any one else advise a cure?

Another Parcel Lost.

"I have sent a book to the office of the paper for Mary E. R., who wrote a while ago that she wished books. We live on a homestead and certainly know the difference between the common necessities of life that so many are fond of saying are all they care for and the absolute essentials of a bare existence. I am often lonely, but after all my husband and three children are more than church and friends and books and all the rest. And at last we seem to have entered upon a period of greater prosperity and I hope I may soon be able to help a little. I wish we lived nearer a city, for we have so much fine garden truck go to waste every year. If Mary E. R. is supplied with books, please give mine to some other young girl. I would like to correspond with shut-ins especially. F. B. P."

I am sorry that the good intention and performance of this correspondent were practically thrown away. It is impossible to keep watch on the parcels that come to a newspaper office and for that reason I ask always that the Cornerites will write to me for the address of the correspondents they wish to send articles to. Then the parcels can go straight to them from the givers. I am interested in this view of homestead life and I am sure some one will be glad to get letters from Mrs. F. B. P.

In Exchange for Quilt.

"Your Corner has been of much interest to me and I am going to ask if there is any of your Cornerites who would make an appliqued quilt of gingham, etc., or of unbleaced muslin, in exchange for quilt pieces, either cotton or woolen. I also have some small silk and velvet pieces. I have two copies of a teachers' guide, back issues, if any one can make use of them. Has any one a copy of 'Uncle Remus' or of any of Louisa Alcott's works to exchange? L. H."

If any one wishes to make either of the exchanges requested, will she kindly write to me for the address of L. H.?

To Make a Rag Rug.

"I have never written to the Corner before, although I have read so many nice letters and seen so many requests for different things. I am the sole dependence of a widowed mother who is practically an invalid and cannot do any work except sewing and making quilts. If any of the Cornerites have old rags of any kind suitable for making rag rugs I would be glad to get them for my mother so that she can make herself a rug to put down at the fireplace during the cold winter months. O. I. C."

This request can be easily granted by those who have been making their fall clearance of old pieces and scraps. I shall be happy to send the address of this correspondent to any one writing for it.

Write for the Address.

"I copied and sent to you a while ago the words of an old song, in response to a Corner request, but in rereading the paper I decided I should have sent to you for the address, instead of sending the poem to you. Please pardon my blunder. I feel sure much good is coming to many through this method of cooperation. E. F. G."

This is another illustration of the way in which good offices are wasted because of the mistake of sending the letters to the Corner direct, instead of writing for the address of the correspondent with whom one wishes to get into touch. I am thankful for the kindly thought as well as for the pleasant words about the Corner.

Offers Large Print Bible.

"I have been helped to a pair of shoes that I needed badly, and I wish to thank the giver. Now, I have a good Bible with large print that I will give to any one who needs it. I wish I could do more, and I think you are doing so much and in such a nice way; it helps to draw people together. I. V."

I hope the giver of the shoes may see this acknowledgment, and that the Bible may fall into the hands of some one to whom it will be a real comfort and joy. Write for the address.

Asks for Silk Pieces.

"I see some one in your Corner has silk pieces for a lonely woman. I would certainly appreciate some of such pieces. "C. S."

I trust some one will have pieces to give C. S. She did not mention the name of the Cornerite offering them and so I cannot trace her. In requesting the address of C. S. please send the clipping containing it, as well as a stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Wants Fireless Cooker.

"Has any one a small fireless cooker she would like to exchange for some filet crocheting or plain sewing? "F. H."

I print this in the hope that the exchange can be made. We do not like to arrange for the barter of articles, but the exchange of such an item as this, or any other, for work strikes me as entirely legitimate. Write for the address.

Pronunciation of "Khaki."

"I write with regard to the pronunciation of the word 'khaki.' The 'a' should be given the sound of 'a' in 'father'; the 'i' is long 'e,' or as our common use of 'y' at the end of English words. There is no possible excuse for giving the sound of 'r' to 'khaki,' any more than in 'after,' pronounced 'arfter' by uneducated persons in both England and America. Slovenly, provincial pronunciation of words should be avoided by every one interested in correct English. A. D. C."

I am glad to have this authoritative utterance from some one who evidently knows what she is talking about.

My Most Embarrassing Moment.

"The Tribune" will pay $1 for every letter published on the subject "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life Was When——." Address Embarrassing Moments Editor, "Sunday Tribune," Chicago. Write on only one side of the paper. No manuscripts will be returned.

His Summer Stroll.

It was Saturday night. The moon was full and there were no clouds in the sky. It was rather hot, so I went out on the second story back porch to smoke a cigar. The porch ran the full length of the house, which was a double tenement. On the other side were two windows and a door. The window nearest the side of the house that I live in was dark. I could just see that the curtain was pulled down within a few inches of the sill. Light was coming from the other window. I began walking up and down my side of the porch. Presently a woman opened the door on the other side and shook her finger at me. "Young man," she said, pointing at the dark window, 'do you know that my daughter is in there, taking a bath?'

Mrs. Catt's Husband.

I was interviewing Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, national suffrage president, for a middle western paper during her recent campaign in Iowa and Kansas.

I asked Mrs. Catt if she had to marry her husband to convert him to suffrage. She replied that he espoused the cause when only 8 years of age.

"I suppose your husband, being a suffragist, does not therefore object to your long absence from home on campaigns for the cause," I ventured.

"O, no. My husband has been dead for many years," said Mrs. Catt.

This Was Difficult.

I had been asked by my hostess at a bridge party to collect and look over score cards to determine who were the prize winners. Can you imagine a more difficult and embarrassing situation than developed when it became necessary for me to call a friend's attention to a bad mistake in figuring up, when by doing so it made my own the high winning score?

How to Order Your Clotilde Patterns.

In ordering a waist the size should be determined by the bust measure. Give the bust measure. In ordering a skirt the size of the hip is more important than the size of the waist, but give both the hip and the waist measure. Ten cents for each waist, coat, or skirt.

In ordering misses' patterns the age should be stated—12, 14, 16, or 18 years. Ten cents for each waist, coat, skirt, or dress.

In ordering children's regular patterns order them by the age of the child. Ten cents each.

Clotilde's patterns are made in New York exclusively for "The Chicago Sunday Tribune" and may be obtained through no other service. A Chicago distribution office has been opened, and following this announcement orders will be filled on the day of receipt. An extra 2 cent stamp will allow for letter postage and will thereby hasten delivery. Patrons are requested to send stamps instead of dimes, as money is frequently lost in the mails.

Real Love Stories

This department appears every day in "The Daily Tribune."

Do you know a real love story—one that is stranger than fiction? It is the idea that is wanted. No attention will be paid to literary style. "The Tribune" will pay $5 for every story published. Manuscripts will not be returned. Address Doris Blake, "The Tribune," Chicago.

FAIRY STORY CAME TRUE.

SOME people say that I am too much of a dream girl because I love stories, especially fairy stories, and when things turn out rather disappointing and "unstorylike" I like to fix them over so that everything ends up beautifully and the sad people "live happily ever after." This story really did turn out that way, and it seems to me that the real story is just as nice as the dream story of mine.

In our church there was a woman of about 27 years of age who was the leader of our young people's choir. Although she was 27 she seemed quite young to us and we called her Miss Winifred. I think she is just about the nicest person in the world and I used to wonder why every man in our town wasn't just crazy about her and why they didn't all break their hearts and be bachelors forever because she wouldn't marry them.

One day I found out about it. (I mean I found out why she'd never married them, not why they weren't all bachelors). It was because, years ago, when she was 18 years old she loved a young doctor whom she had known all through her high school course. People say that they were engaged and that he finally broke the engagement after waiting for so long that she had grown to love him more and had made so many happy plans for the future with him.

Of course she thought then that he was the nicest man in the world, but he wasn't, and when she found out that he had never loved her but had been false all those years it seemed as though she must have built a tight wall all around her heart to keep it safe. I guess she thought all men were just about alike and that they would treat it as a mere plaything to be cast aside when they had tired of it.

And so for years she devoted all her time in unselfishly doing good for others and consequently in making every one love her more than ever.

Now this was the time my dreams came in. Sometimes when the sermons seemed pretty long and it seemed to me rather uninteresting I used to play that she was a beautiful princess, such as one often reads about, whom a wicked ogre had confined in a tower so high and so strong that no one could find an entrance, though all who came near could hear a beautiful silvery voice floating down to them. And every one who chanced to hear this melody fell immediately and violently in love with her and was seized with the desire to rescue her and win the heart of the maiden who sang thus sweetly. Then I would always find one prince out of all the world who because of his brave, pure life could overcome and conquer all sorts of difficulties, fight his way to her tower, obtain the key of some secret door, and so "live happily ever after."

Finally one day, when I had about exhausted this subject and was looking around for somebody else who would be interesting to make a story out of, the preacher introduced a bishop who was to speak at special meetings during the following week. He was a very interesting bishop indeed, so interesting that I forgot to think up another story.

That Sunday I thought Miss Winifred looked lovelier and sang more beautiful than ever before. Every one likes to hear Miss Winifred sing because she seems to put her whole self into her songs and every word means such a lot more when sung by her than by any one else. I guess the bishop agreed with me, because that week was not the last time we saw him. He kept coming again every once in a while.

One day he left our town for the last time, but he did not leave alone. You see he had discovered the secret key.

But there is just one little sad thing about this really truly true dream story of mine and that is me. We have a new choir leader now. After all I cannot be so awfully sad, because I have had a letter from Miss Winifred saying that I must come and visit her soon and that although her home is not a palace of gold, silver, precious stones or even marble or mahogany, yet she thinks it as a nice one and she says the bishop is the dearest man that ever lived and that she is the happiest person that ever lived. Somehow I have a feeling which is not at all like a dream or a fairy story, but is a very certain feeling that they will "live most happily ever after." R. F.

Bright Sayings of Children

"The Tribune" will pay $1 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, "Tribune," Chicago.

There were three little boys in our neighborhood who played together. Cecil, one of the boys, was rough. He was heard calling to his friends to come over and play and they said no, they didn't want to come. "O, come on," he said. "I'll let you play a little while before I hurt you." N. F.

My little brother Hans went over to a neighbor's to play and was told to come home at 11 o'clock, before dinner—we have dinner at noon in the country. At 11 he told the neighbor he must go home. She said: "Won't you stay to dinner, Hans?" "No," he replied. "Mother told me to come home before dinner, but I wouldn't mind taking a little lunch with you." C. K.

Virginia was spending the day with her grandmother. In the afternoon she suggested having a tea party, and grandma should be her guest. All went lovely until grandma picked up a plate of sandwiches and asked her to have one. Virginia, looking quite shocked, replied: "Why, grandma, you misspoke yourself, you are my guest." D. C. F.

Twice in one morning Elsie expressed a wish for a real baby to wheel in her go cart.

"Why do you wish that?" her mother asked. "You have your dolls, haven't you?"

"Yes," said Elsie, "but the dolls are always getting broken when they tip over." E. W.

Ellis had been naughty and was being scolded by his father, who was telling him what a good boy he was when he was a little boy. His father then asked him what he had to say for himself. Ellis replied, looking stern: "When I grows up to be a papa I'm not going to tell my little boys what a good little boy I was when they are naughty." E. A. W.

A neighbor's child was soliciting subscriptions for a magazine. I was not inclined to subscribe, but I did when the little chap said, "O, you'll like it, because it's full of cooking fashions." C. J. C.

Jimmy had heard his parents discuss the high cost of living. He was sent to the corner with 5 cents to get a pint of milk. He came back in a moment and remarked, "Even the cows have gone on a strike; it's 6 cents now." K. S.

Charlotte had lived a monotonous country life until she came to the city to attend school. One night after playing hard she said: "Do you know, I believe they leave the Wednesdays out of the weeks in town." F. B.

Our grandson was supposed to be asleep for the night. He is 3 years old. I sent the maid into his room for something for his baby brother. She went in quietly, when from the darkness came a small voice: "Be very quiet, Ruth, for I'se asleep." C. H. C.

The Tribune Cook Book

All recipes have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington with current market materials and are indorsed by her.

This department appears every day in "The Daily Tribune."

REQUESTED RECIPES.

TO plan menus having novelty, character, and charm requires time. To fit recipes to them that shall be exact, plausible, or consistent and dietetically sound is a real task. The woman who said she could write off menus all day, like some she presented, did not realize that what she was writing was not worth the paper it was written on. There was no principle and no idea in any of the menus she wrote.

Any woman understands that there are all grades of success in which a piece of cloth may be utilized in the making of a gown. The more skill a woman has in this business the more carefully thought out is each dress she makes. And the results—well, we all know the difference between a fine gown and a common one of home manufacture.

It is exactly the same in planning menus. The more skillful you become the more thought you will consider necessary to get nearly perfect effects. If I am going to entertain I mull the idea I am going to put into a menu over and over in my mind. I consider my equipment in dishes, the time of year, pretty effects that are at the same time good from the health standpoint, and, of course, I know what I can do in preparing the dishes I decide upon.

When some one writes to me asking for a special menu, I feel more or less in a panic. I know that she wants the benefit of my experience or she would not be writing to me. I feel that she wants me to think out somthing just for her, and I know that I cannot be fair to my work and to other correspondents if I take enough time to do so. Hence the decision to write no more than one recipe for any one person, though I am glad to give all sorts of general information.

It is different when recipes can be presented through this column. Mrs. E. B. N. writes: "Would you kindly print your recipe for lima beans (seasoned) with carrots and onions? You referred to it in last week's issue, also one for cooking cabbage. I am a new subscriber and have not seen it."

Miss E. R. H. wants these same recipes and there are other requests at hand for other dishes. No month passes without one or more requests for a chop suey recipe, and chili con carne, which I never make myself, is almost as often in request. Therefore I am giving a sort of clear up for this week.

A word about the cooking of any dried bean is in order. It is not necessary to soak these beans if you will cook them in the right way. I never nowadays soak either beans, peas, or lentils. They contain albuminous substance which may be soaked soft, and starch which must be cooked soft. You can combine the two operations by the most gentle sort of cooking. Hard cooking hardens the albuminous substance, unless it has been soaked soft, just as strong heat stiffens egg white.

Cooking Lima Beans in Skins.

Pick over the beans and wash well. To each cup of beans add four cups of cold water and one carrot scraped and sliced and one onion. Bring slowly to a boil and skim if necessary. Some beans require it as do yellow split peas in every case. Cover slowly and cook two hours over a simmering burner turned so that the steam in the kettle will not lift the cover of the kettle. The tighter the cover the better.

It is easier to cook one cup of beans in four cups of water in a three quart kettle than in a two quart. The straight sided aluminum kettles of the fireless cooker are best, but there are certain two handled, straight sided, wide and flat bottomed kettles called boilers which are good.

At the end season the beans generously with butter. If you want a soup put the beans through a sieve and add milk and one or two tablespoons of cream per person. Boiled down celery water is good to flavor such a soup.

Chili Con Carne.

This recipe was sent to me as a sort of remonstrance by one who said: "I lived and ate in the land of chili con carne for nine long years, and have eaten it up one side and down the other of Mexico, and never have I seen a bean in a dish of chili con carne. Beans are dessert in Mexico. They are always served last, and never with any other part of the meal. I send you directions for making the real chili con carne as made by real Mexicans in Mexico: Cut up a pound and a half of best boiling beef into pieces about two inches square, cover it with water, and boil until tender. Then put two large Mexican dried Chili peppers to soak in hot water enough to cover them after first taking out the seeds. They must be the genuine Mexican dried peppers. Soak until soft, about ten minutes. Then rub them to a paste in a mortar, using just a little of the water in which they soaked. Melt one tablespoon of lard in a large skillet, chop a medium sized onion fine and sauté it in the hot lard, add to this five medium sized ripe tomatoes or half a can if canned tomatoes are used, after they have been put through a colander. Then add about one cup of stock the meat was boiled in, boil a few minutes and thicken with three-fourths of a tablespoon of flour. Salt to taste. Now add the meat, bring to a boil and serve. Enough for five persons.

Tomato Cabbage.

Cut cabbage fine as for slaw and parboil it for fifteen minutes, using any quantity needed. Drain after fifteen minutes' cooking, butter a baking dish, put in a layer of the hot cabbage and some bits of butter, and fill up the dish with similarly buttered layers. Add some onion juice if you choose, but it is not needed, neither is pepper nor salt necessary. Cover the whole with stewed or canned tomato, stirring the cabbage so as to let the liquid down through, put in rather hot oven and bake for three-quarters of an hour.

Cabbage and Peas.

Cut up fine three-fourths of a pound of cabbage. This is about half of a small cabbage usually, but it may be a whole one this year. Put to cook in barely enough water to cover in a covered utensil. It will cook tender in a short time if gently treated. When tender add a can of drained peas and cook the two together until the latter are well heated through. Dress the whole generously with butter.

Pork Chop Suey.

A correspondent has but recently written to thank me for the following recipe and others during the year have used it with success, they write. To make it finer all or even half chicken meat may be used, mushrooms can be added, and when they can be procured some Chinese vegetables which are now presented to us in cans. But with a good little mound of boiled rice the following, well cooked, is acceptable:

Cut up one pound of moderately lean pork, chop into pieces an inch long, half an inch wide, and a quarter inch thick. Fry these in a tablespoon of oil, being careful not to burn or cook them brown. The Chinese generally use peanut oil, but olive oil is good.

At the same time fry in another pan three medium sized onions sliced rather thin and a cup of diced celery. It will take the vegetables longer to cook than the meat, so they should be started first.

Put the two parts together with the oil in which they have cooked, add two or three tablespoons of soy sauce, and let them stand covered for a few minutes over a tiny fire. The onions will be prominent when so prepared. To have the celery flavor most prominent, and therefore to get a more delicate dish, add the vegetables raw to the fried meat, cover the whole with a good meat stock, add a little sugar or molasses, and simmer until the stock is cooked away and the celery tender.

If this is cooked in the right way, with a stock of good body, soy sauce is not needed to give the typical color, if the flavor is not liked. The Chinese always serve soy sauce separately besides using some in the cooking.

Cocoanut Cream Candy.

There are many recipes for cocoanut candies in various books I have, but none under the name "cocoanut cream candy," requested by A. H. Perhaps the recipe for "cocoanut dainties" in the book "Candies and Bonbons," will be satisfactory. It reads: One large cocoanut, one beaten white of egg, milk of cocoanut, four cups of sugar, one-half teaspoon almond extract. Grate the cocoanut and put it into a large saucepan with the sugar, egg, and milk. Stir continually over the fire until the candy begins to sugar. Remove immediately, add the almond extract, and beat until it gets creamy. Then drop a spoonful at a time on buttered tins. Sprinkle over the top of each some finely chopped cocoanut. Pages 214 to 220 of the book in question are devoted to cocoanut candies.

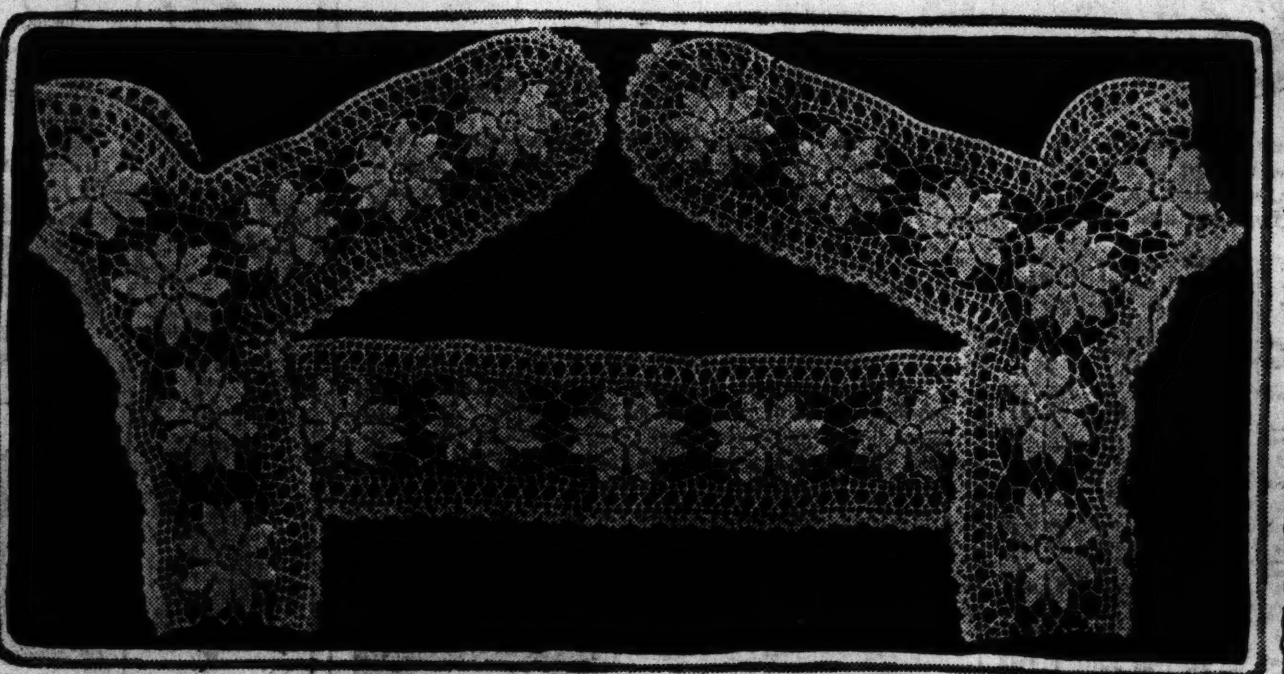
How I Won My Mate.

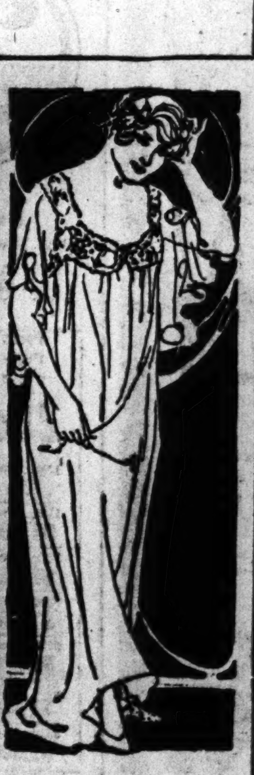
How did you win the love of your mate? What measures, if any, did you adopt? "The Tribune" will pay $1 for every letter published on "How I Won My Mate." Write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned. Address Doris Blake, "The Sunday Tribune," Chicago.

No Gas Necessary.

My husband is a dentist. We have been married five years, and he is still as devoted as he was in our courtship days. As I am not at all handsome, I asked him in what way I first attracted him. He said: "It was your pluck when you came to me to have your teeth treated. You certainly had a bad set of teeth, and it must have pained awfully to have them treated without taking gas. Why, you didn't even say 'Ouch' once in all the six months I was working on them." Of course, I didn't tell him that I just fell in love on first seeing him, and it was because he was causing the pain that I didn't cry out. A. C.

Crochet Waist with Medallions.





A good medallion seems to furnish so many adaptations and be so scarce that one simple square has been shown in nearly all the leading needlework magazines. The result is always so good with a medallion set together in a yoke or collar, inserted in curtains or in any form shown, that any new combination is always interesting.

The yoke here shown, a charming adaptation of the daisy pattern, would make a most pleasing gift.

Directions for medallion:

Chain 6, fasten in loop securely, ch. 8, using as one double treble, with thread over needle twice for double treble stitch, 1 d. t., ch 3, making 8 spaces in loop.

Second row—6 d. t., chains of 3, 3 ch. 8 times.

Third row—8 d. t., over 6 d. t. with 5 ch. between 8 times.

Fourth row—6 d. t., keeping one stitch of each on needle and in the sixth drawing all off two by two, drawing the first d. t. securely to sixth, forming a cluster of petals to the daisy; 7 ch., s. c. to center of preceding 5 ch., ch. 7, and repeat, finishing the eight petals.

Finish the second medallion as first until last two petals, when 3 ch. is single chained to center of finished medallion; 7 ch., 3 ch., s. c. to center of next 7 ch. of finished medallion and fasten 3 ch., completing second medallion; break thread and add as many medallions as required. Finish as shown in illustration.

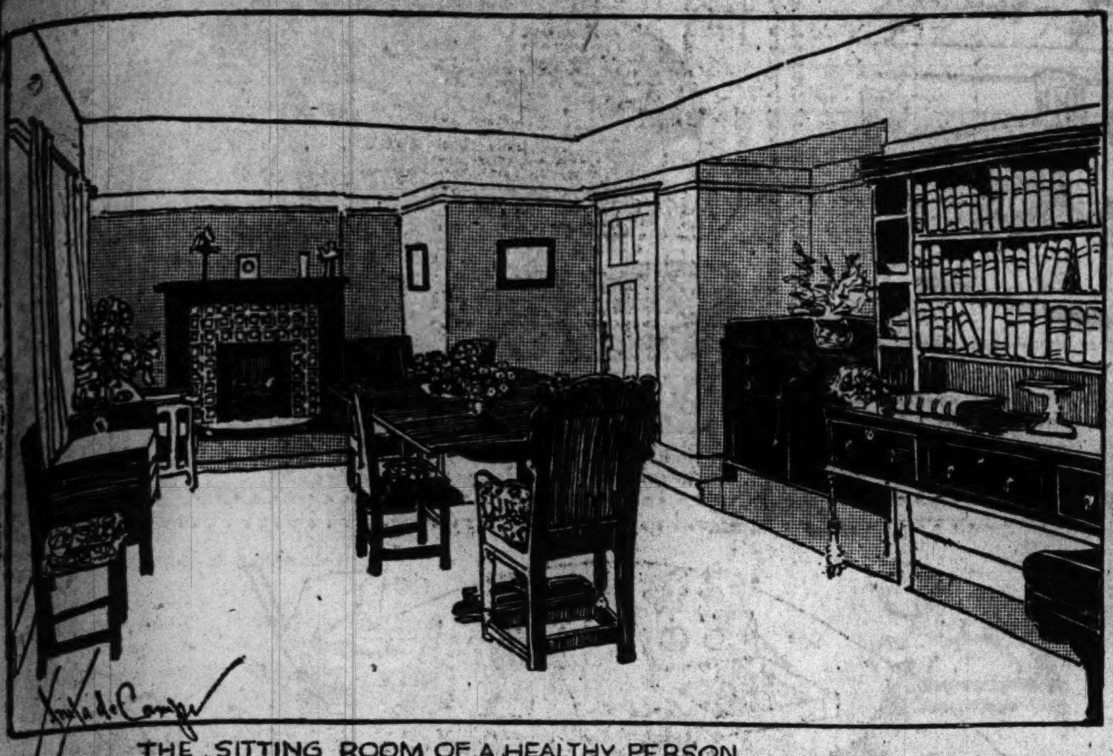
The Home Harmonious

Simplicity in Decoration

By Anita de Campi



THE SITTING ROOM OF A HEALTHY PERSON

Miss de Campi will be glad to assist the home maker in any problems pertaining to interior decorations. Address your letter to Miss Anita de Campi, "Sunday Tribune," Chicago. Inclose a stamped, addressed envelope if you wish a personal reply.

WITHOUT a doubt the most widely quoted authority in matters of interior decoration among English speaking people is William Morris. Though he has long since ceased to exist, no one ever thinks of putting his word in the past tense, it is still so vibrant with life, so reverently accepted as a creed of good taste. To know and to understand this great author-artist-poet seems to put the finishing touch to one's education. Yet all that Morris wrote in his virile plea for simplicity in the home was directed to the people, and not to the cultured few.

So simple, so direct, so fine in principle, and so easily understood is his doctrine that decorators should leave off the mere affectation of being his apostles, an affectation that they assume by taking two lines of his treatise and having these two lines illumined and framed and conspicuously hung in their studios. It would be more convincing if they would become his apostles in reality, for this would be so easy.

They would have but to learn the following extracts by heart to establish for themselves, as it were, a code of morals in dealing with their clients. Clients, too, should be familiar with Morris' principles of home furnishing, for then things that are unworthy would neither be bought nor sold, and the standard of homes in general would be raised tremendously.

For the benefit of readers in the decorative profession who may have forgotten all but the illumined two lines, "Have nothing in your houses that you do not know to be useful or believe to be beautiful," as well as for the benefit of those among the laity who have never had the good fortune to read William Morris, we give this rather lengthy excerpt from his book of short essays entitled "Hopes and Fears for Art," with the recommendation that it be cut out and saved, to be not only read but absorbed and assimilated:

"Nothing can be a work of art which is not useful; that is to say, which does not minister to the body when well under command of the mind, or which does not amuse, soothe, or elevate the mind in a healthy state. What tons upon tons of unutterable rubbish pretending to be works of art in some degree would this maxim clear out of our houses if it were understood and acted upon! To my mind it is only here and there (out of the kitchen) that you can find, in a well to do house, things that are of any use at all; as a rule all the decoration (so called) that has got there is there for the sake of show, not because anybody likes it. I repeat, this stupidity goes through all classes of society—the silk curtains in my lord's drawing room are no more a matter of art to him than the powder in his footman's hair; the kitchen in a country farmhouse is most commonly a pleasant and homelike place, the parlor dreary and useless.

"Simplicity of life, begetting simplicity of taste—that is, a love for sweet and lofty things—is of all matters most necessary for the birth of the new and better art we crave for; simplicity everywhere, in the palace as well as in the cottage.

"We want the pretense of the thing rather than the thing itself; we want a show of petty luxury if we are unrich, a show of insulting stupidity if we are rich; and, as a rule, we want to get something that shall look as if it cost twice as much as it really did.

"Believe me, if we want art to begin at home, as it must, we must clear our houses of troublesome superfluities that are forever in our way; conventional comforts are no real comforts and do but make work for servants and doctors; if you want a golden rule that will fit everybody, this is it:

"'Have nothing in your houses that you do not know to be useful or believe to be beautiful.'

"Perhaps it will not try your patience too much if I lay before you my idea of the fittings necessary to the sitting room of a healthy person:

"First, a bookcase with a great many books in it; next, a table that will keep steadily when you write or work at it; then, several chairs that you can move and a bench that you can sit or lie upon; next, a cupboard with drawers; next, unless either the bookcase or the cupboard be beautiful with painting or carving, you will want pictures or engravings, such as you can afford, only not stop-gaps but real works of art, on the wall, or else the wall itself must be ornamented with some beautiful and restful pattern. We shall also want a vase to put flowers in, which latter you must have sometimes, especially if you live in a town.

"Then there will be the fireplace, of course, which in our climate is bound to be the chief object in the room.

"This is all we shall want, especially if the floor be good; if it be not, as, by the way, in a modern house, it is pretty certain not to be, I admit that a small carpet which can be bundled out of the room in two minutes will be useful, and we must also take care that it is beautiful or it will annoy us terribly.

"Now, unless we are musical, and need a piano (in which case, as far as beauty is concerned, we are in a bad way), that is quite all we want; and we can add little to these necessaries without troubling ourselves and hindering our work, our thought, and our rest."

MRS. E. McP.: With the rugs that you describe let your wall paper be figured or select figures in fabric effect, using either plain or striped material for your upholstery.

* *

MRS. C. B.: Dull yellowish rose color would be the best tint for the draperies to use with your brown and green furnishings and wall paper. Lambrequins are much in favor, and I believe that patterns now can be bought to cut them by. In your dining room use dull dark blue for your inside draperies. Line them with old rose color.

* *

MRS. H. K.: Use a delicate oyster green tint for your living room calcimine. You will find it just as pleasing as paper would have been.

* *

MRS. F. H. D.: Olive green would be the best choice of color for your rug in the living room. Use a tan stripe for your inside curtains. Yes, the etamine curtains are quite correct in your living room.

GIRLS! BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR WITH "DANDERINE"

Get a 25 Cent Bottle! Freshen Your Scalp! Stop Falling Hair! Remove Dandruff! Grow Lots of Wavy, Glossy, Beautiful Hair—You Can!

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you can not have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?—Advertisement.

Some Reasons for Liking 'The Ring' as Sung Here

By Frederick Donaghey.

LETTERS—forty-odd in less than a fortnight—come about The Ring, which continues to be a source of great concern to many persons otherwise entirely self-contained and fidgetless. These letters, variously, condemn as unnecessary any flippant reference, in THE TRIBUNE and all other newspapers, to the mishaps of the Auditorium revival; urge that Mr. Campanini be compelled to give the trilogy in better fashion; lament that operas so deficient in sex-morality should be sung Sundays; demand that something be done to stir up public interest and make for a better attendance, lest the management regard Wagner as bad business and omit his works from the schedules of future seasons.

THE TRIBUNE is solicited to overlook the minor defects of the performances—"because this is neither New York nor Bayreuth," says one appellant—and is condemned for "its ridiculous deference to last season's series and this season's"; neither, it appears to the indignant subscriber who objects without caring to have his name printed, worthy of a city "which cheerfully pays five dollars a seat in order to get the best."

A lady who says that a line, "Some of the mechanical ones worked," in a report of "The Rhinegold," was "small and contemptible, and discouraging to the management," is in opposition to a gentleman who thinks that there is, "in these days of perfected stage-appliances, no possible excuse for the destruction of all illusion by the blunders of stage-management" in the same performance. Another is curious to know if the writer, in expressing approval of Mr. Whitehill's Wotan, does so in ignorance of the "correct traditions of the part or is stupidly bent on trying to make it appear that Wotan can be properly sung by any save an educated and enlightened German."

Other correspondents are for or against one or another of the singers of The Ring in the Auditorium performances and their disinterestedness is not quite clear. Some of the letters deal with matters that are the business of the management rather than of THE TRIBUNE.

It is my belief that The Ring was given last season and is being repeated this season as well, at least, as could reasonably be required in all the circumstances of the usual ten weeks of opera in Chicago. I am reasonably certain that one correspondent errs in asserting that this season's falling-off in attendance—if there be an actual falling-off: the management alone knows—is due to dissatisfaction with last season's experiment.

The five Sundays devoted last year to The Ring and "Parsifal" [the repetition of that opera and of "The Valkyrie" is not considered] gave, I am sure, a greater measure of satisfaction than anything else in the schedule. I have reason to believe, moreover, that the fiscal showing was better for those five Sundays than for any other five performances apart from the opening-night and the two or three "extras" at seven dollars a seat.

The average of the performances was high in general and—surprisingly high when it is considered that a season of ten weeks does not permit, with mercantile reason, of more than a single representation of the trilogy. The cost of a "plant" for the four works is out of all proportion to the probable returns. I may not be classed as a layman in such matters; and I should have no change to give back if I were allowed the sum of thirty thousand dollars with which to equip The Ring with settings and essential accessories even in the old-fashioned style in which the operas are given in Chicago, New York City—and Bayreuth.

To outfit and mount them in the best modern way would require, first of all, an opera-house in whose construction regard for The Ring had figured. The correspondence which inspires these observations contains numerous reasons for supposing that I shall be regarded as at least indelicate for giving consideration to the cost of anything having to do with The Ring, which is, nevertheless, a matter whose cost is of great importance.

The performances have been good, even by the best [illegible] standards. Each part has had, perhaps, at one time or another, more brilliant singing and playing than in the Campanini series. It is easy for one with a retrospect in opera-going to refer back to the De Reszke Siegfried, and say that it was better than Mr. Maclennan's. And to the great Loge of Van Dyck, the Siegmund of Alvary, the Parsifal of Burgstaller; but none of them attempted all the parts, or sang them a week apart in the special conditions of a venture put together for twenty-five or thirty operas in a period, including preliminary rehearsals, of three months.

The point made with respect to the tenor of the German operas in the Chicago schedule can properly be made with respect to most of the other singers in The Ring. With the possible exception of Von Rooy, a Dutchman, I have known no better Wotan in all respects than Mr. Whitehill. I am not credulous in the item of Brünnhilde: I heard Ternina's three when she was at her artistic [illegible]; but I am unable to accommodate to conditions the argument that last season's performances could have been better than with Mme. Claussen's, Miss Easton's, and Mme. Fremstad's, in that order, or this season's [illegible] with the good Brünnhilde of Mme. Matzenauer in last Sunday's "Valkyrie."

The Ring has for the last twenty years been given at least two and often more annual performances by the Metropolitan Opera; and in none of the many I attended were fewer mechanical accidents than those which marked the two operas so far given in the current Auditorium series. I have heard seven Metropolitan performances of "Parsifal" in the comparatively-few years in which the opera has been in the repertoire, and never heard one better in all respects than last season's in Chicago, although the Parsifal was both sick and scared, and the Amfortas so much of an invalid that an apology for his condition was made before the curtain rose.

That none of the performances of last season and, so far, of this was without defects is an of-course; but all of them have represented an amazing achievement under conditions of routine which cannot easily be made clear to the laity. To give The Ring, "Parsifal," and "Tristan" [illegible] times they have been given by the Chicago company were obviously possible, but at a cost entirely out of consonance with the scope of the entire enterprise, and out of consonance, I fear, with the most flattering probability of popular response, as well.

Burns Mantle's Theater Letter from New York

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Bayard Veiller has waited long for the success his newest melodrama, "The Thirteenth Chair," has brought him—long and impatiently. For which you really cannot blame him. If you, for instance, had written a play that proved to be as great a popular success as "Within the Law," and, through an unfortunate chain of circumstances had been forced to sit by and watch others collect most of the profit from that success, you would yourself be quite impatient to write another.

So it was with Veiller. But each attempt he made was doomed to failure, until managers lost faith in him and his ability to "repeat." The last few years it has not been much easier for him to push his way past the Cerberuses of the office gates than for the merest tyro with his first manuscript under his arm.

Now he is in high favor again. Probably he could take his pick of a half dozen contracts for his next play and collect a liberal advance royalty on signing it. That is the way of the play market. It is kind to the winners and has no use for losers.

"The Thirteenth Chair" is the thrillest melodrama produced in years, and one of the most mystifying. Consider the situation of the opening act:

Helen O'Neill, private secretary to Roscoe Crosby, has just become engaged to Crosby's son, though protesting her unworthiness and hinting that though she herself has been properly reared and educated, her mother is still not one to be introduced in high society. Father, mother, sister, brother Crosby all pooh-pooh her protest and the engagement is announced.

That night Crosby organizes, both for purposes of entertainment and experiment, a spiritualistic seance. The medium is one Rosalie La Grange, a funny little old Irish woman, who freely admits that sometimes, when her controls will not be good to her, she resorts to the tricks of her trade. The audience knows that Rosalie La Grange is the mother of Helen O'Neill.

Attending the seance, and the only man present who has openly refused to congratulate young Crosby on his engagement, is Edward Wales, not only a close friend of the family, but also a friend of one Spencer Lee, who, some weeks before, had been found dead in his office with a knife wound between his shoulder blades. It is Wales' announced intention to question the medium while she is in the trance state as to the real murderer of Lee.

All doors and windows are locked, the keys given to the butler, who takes his station in the hall, and by the time the seance is organized and the thirteen persons present form the conventional hand holding circle, you may readily believe a variety of shivers are running up and down the separate spines of the audience. A moment later the lights are put out and the moaning of Rosalie's con-

The Players: Their Plans and Prospects

FIVE DOLLARS will, in all likelihood, be the price of each main floor seat for Mr. Jolson's opening in the Garrick in "Robinson Crusoe Jr." That amiable blacker-up has the advantage of starting in Chicago on Sunday night, the 31st inst., and he and his managers feel that the New Year Eve crowd will not be the less prodigal because enforcedly less festive.

Mr. Cohan's new show, "The Revue of 1917," will not be produced until after Jan. 1. It will then be staged not in one of the Broadway theaters operated by him and Mr. Harris, but in the New Amsterdam, where, it is hoped, its allure will be sufficient to permit of it and its successors dividing each year with the Ziegfeld Follies.

The picture is of Miss Elsie MacKay, who appears as Anne Bullen in Sir Herbert Tree's presentation of "King Henry VIII." Messrs. Comstock and Elliott are among the American managers who have an explicable confidence in Miss MacKay's value as a star, and they are asking her to stay in the United States.

Miss Laurette Taylor's new play, "The Harp of Life," seems to be a definite commercial success, since the first week's receipts amounted to upwards of $16,000.

Miss Marie Tempest, who has valiantly strived for years to make a niche for herself in the American theater, is to try a short version of "The School for Scandal" in the two-a-day.

Miss Tempest was thought, in the closing weeks of last season, to have a success in "A Lady's Name," by the author of "A Pair of Silk Stockings," Cyril Harcourt. The comedy did not do well when tried in places other than New York City in the early weeks of the present season. Miss Gladys Cooper, a London beauty who has not yet been a visitor in the United States, is to try the comedy in London under a new title, "Wanted—A Husband."

"The End of a Perfect Day" has been taken over as a play-title by some hopeful Chicago operators.

Miss Jane Cowl, tiring of "Common Clay," passes from the producer of that prosperity to the Shuberts, who are to make an out-and-out star of her in a piece called "The Fugitive."

Lillian Russell is to leave her happy Pittsburgh home—but for ten weeks only. The reason is an offer of $2,500 for each of ten weeks in the varieties.

The actors in "The Boomerang" are not enrolled this season with the opponents of Sunday performances in Chicago: they are paid one-seventh extra salary for their Sunday nights in Powers'.

Pinero, whose "The Big Drum" has been his only play to reach production since the beginning of the war, is at work on a new comedy. "The Big Drum" had nothing to do with war, but referred to the intensity of self-exploitation among successful literary men of today.

The plays known in this country as "Primrose" (in which Miss Elsie Ferguson acted in 1912-13), "The Torch-Parade," "The Girl from Maxim's" (also, with songs, known as "The Girl from Montmarte"), and "The White Feather" are current offerings in the Paris theater.

Lady Forbes-Robertson (known in this country as Gertrude Elliott) tried recently to entertain a London music hall audience by reciting Oscar Wilde's poem called "The Happy Prince." The audience did not like her doing that and indicated its pleasure by giving her what is known in the London pit and gallery as "the bird." She changed her offering to a program of songs.

C. Aubrey Smith, last in Chicago with Miss Margaret Anglin in "The Lie," is now acting in London the title-part in "Daddy Longlegs," which is a hit there, with Miss Renee Kelyl as the waif.

Oscar Ashe's own play, "Chu-Chin-Chow," is so successful in London that it is being burlesqued in most of the revues. It is predicted that it will prove as great a success for Ashe as "Kismet," in which he made a fortune. American managers are trying to get the piece: it is not thought likely that Ashe, himself, will come here in it. He was in the United States for a short period in "Iris," in 1902, and decided that he did not care for us. His decision had nothing to do with his reception; for he made a great personal success in the Pinero play, quite "taking it away" from its former star, Virginia Harned.

Melville Ellis and the pretty French girl with whom he has been performing in the two-a-day, Irene Bordoni, are to go to London to take part in one of the numerous revues always to be found in performance there.

Cyril Maude, unable to pick a winning play to succeed "Grumpy" (which was picked for him by the manager who three years ago brought him to the United States), thinks well, it is said, of a proposition to pass into the hands of David Belasco, who says that he has a play exactly suited to Mr. Maude.

The Hattons' play of "The Songbird," shown last year in Los Angeles and Chicago, has been rewritten, and is announced for a Broadway hearing in the immediate future. Mrs. Hatton hereafter will sign no more contracts for plays unless she is allowed equal authority with the producer in the selection of the actors.

A. H. Woods thinks he will call his new Chicago theater the Randolph. Also, Mr. Woods will star Miss Mabel McCane in "The Girl from Ciros."

Mr. Sothern's farewell visit to Chicago will begin Dec. 18 at the Blackstone. He is giving his share of the receipts of "If I Were King" to the British Red Cross, and he expects to earn $100,000 for that fund.

$2,000 a week, it is said.

Miss Marie Cahill, long out of definite employment at home, is among the American performers to whom London looks good just now, in spite of the Zeps; and she is expecting to go there for a part in one of the musical shows.

Twenty dollars a pair was the price ticket-brokers exacted—and got—for seats for "The Century Girl" in New York City the night of the Army-Navy game.

MATTERS of MUSIC

The Orchestra

MR. STOCK'S program for the ninth week's Friday-Saturday concerts has as its chief feature Alfvén's third symphony. The soloist is Theodore Spiering, violonist: his numbers are Hugo Kaun's Concertstück for soloist and orchestra and Bruch's first concerto. Other matter in the Orchestra's program is Georg Schumann's "Liebesfrühling" overture and Holbrooke's symphonic poem called "The Viking."

The Orchestra will go tomorrow to Milwaukee and Tuesday to Madison.

The fourth of the Orchestra's Thursday-night Pops will be Dec. 28.

Mme. Olga Samaroff, pianist, will be the soloist of next week's Friday-Saturday concerts.

Concerts, Recitals, Etc.

3:00 Today—Jeannette Durno, pianist, in recital in Illinois theater.

3:00 Today—Concert by orchestra in Chicago Hebrew institute, with lecture by Mr. Maurice Rosenfeld.

3:30 Today—Luigi Gulli, pianist, in recital in the Florentine room, Congress hotel. He was heard in Chicago three years ago.

3:30 and 4:45 Today—Chicago Concert Ensemble in Fullerton hall, Art institute.

8:00 Tonight—Fifth "opera-evening": "Faust," with Miss Harriet McConnell, Arthur Kraft, and Herbert Gould, in Fullerton hall.

8:15 Tonight—Arthur Dunham and twenty-five members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra in concert in Sinai temple. Marie Bergersen, pianist, soloist.

3:30 Monday—The Flonzaley Quartet in the second of four concerts in The Playhouse. The program: Beethoven's quartet in F-minor, Sanmartini's trio for two violins and 'cello, and Schubert's quartet in A-minor.

3:30 Tuesday—Mischa Levitzki, a new pianist from Russia, in recital in The Playhouse.

4:00 Tuesday—Reinhold de Warlich, baritone, in recital, with Fritz Kreisler, the violinist, as accompanist, in Illinois theater.

11:00 a. m. Wednesday—Carl Cochems, basso, in recital in the Ziegfeld theater—tenth of the Kinsey series.

8:15 Thursday—Chicago Mendelssohn club [seventy-two men], under Harrison M. Wild, in the first of three concerts in Orchestra hall. Florence Macbeth, a coloratura, of the Chicago Opera, will be the soloist.

8:15 Thursday—Raoul Bonnanno, baritone, and D. A. Clippinger, lecturer, in recital of Italian songs in Central Music-hall.

8:15 Thursday—Walter Spry, pianist, in recital-hall of Fine-Arts building.

11:00 a. m. Friday—Henriette Weber's fourth "opera-talk": Massenet's "Sapho."

Miss Florence Macbeth

A SURVIVAL from an earlier reincarnation of the Chicago Opera, Miss Macbeth remains active and unafraid. She will be the Voice of the Forest-Bird in today's "Siegfried"; she will be the soloist of Thursday night's Mendelssohn club concert; and she will be the doll, Olympia, in Saturday night's "pop" of "The Tales of Hoffman." The doll is a part in which she was well liked when she sang in the Offenbach opera in Chicago, two years ago, with the Century company.

Burns Mantle's New York Letter

There are a few messages from Laughing Water, and then Wales starts his questioning of the medium. "Who killed Spencer Lee?" Suddenly, just as the medium seems on the point of answering, Wales groans, there is the sound of a falling body, the lights are flashed up, and Wales lies dead in the middle of the circle, his hands still clasped by those sitting next him, one of whom is Miss O'Neill. He has been stabbed in the back exactly as Spencer Lee was stabbed.

No one has either left or entered the room; no one is now permitted to do so, pending the arrival of the police. And when a search is made there is no knife to be found. The police inspector takes charge of the preliminary investigation, and the remaining two acts are concerned with the hunting out of the murderer. Little by little and bit by bit circumstances are revealed that point to Helen O'Neill as the culprit. When the circle is re-formed at the request of the inspector Rosalie La Grange deliberately declares her daughter did not sit in the chair next that occupied by the dead man, and throughout the investigation the girl's answers and explanations are evasive. But just as the audience is reluctantly forcing itself to believe the impossible—that the play's heroine could have done the deed—a new suspicion is given it to ponder. Some other person becomes halting in speech or hysterical in manner. And so first one and then the other is suspected. By the end of the second act the dramatic critics present, who think they know all there is to know about mystery drama, are suspecting each other. And as a matter of truth no one can reasonably say which of the suspected persons did stab Edward Wales.

In the end, of course, the heroine is cleared and the real murderer confesses. The knife is found sticking—but here, we promised not to tell. "The Thirteenth Chair" will be out your way before long, and if you know all about it there will be nothing to interest you in it. And you really should see a good solid thriller at least once a year, just as you need a sentimental comedy occasionally to flush your tear ducts and stir up your gentler emotions. They furnish the vibratory massage treatment of the drama.

Katherine La Salle, the Chicago actress, is the suspected heroine, and her performance is splendidly poised and sentimentally effective. Harrison Hunter is the inspector of police, and Gardner Crane the gentleman who starts all the trouble by holding the seance in his house.

BURNS MANTLE.

Tree deserves the greatest praise for giving us a Shakespearean production that is full of beauty and life and poetry and yet shaped into the form that gives it a most vivid appeal to playgoers of today. —RICHARD HENRY LITTLE in the Herald

. . . a glowing pageant of the English court of the 16th century . . . It was a dazzling show and living chronicle —O. L. HALL in the Journal.
. . . a great night in the theater . . . a premiere that brought back the old dignity of the classic drama sumptuously staged and beautifully acted. —CHARLES W. COLLINS in the Post.

The big thing is Tree's characterization. It is ripe, adult, brilliant, cerebral play-acting. —ASHTON STEVENS in the Examiner.
The spirit of Shakespeare's time seemingly pervaded the very atmosphere. —FRED McQUIGG in the American.

A stupendous impersonation, this acting of Mr. Harding—I shall never think again of the Bluff King except in terms of it. —PERCY HAMMOND in the Tribune.
Miss Matthison's portrait of the queen is exquisite, is tinged with divinity, with somber, dramatic symmetries and elements. —AMY LESLIE in the Daily News.

Mae Marsh as "The Dear One" in "Intolerance"

NOTHING FAZES PATHE STAR.

A LITTLE bird told me that Pearl White has driven an aeroplane, piloted a balloon for fifty miles all alone, been thrown from refractory horses eleven different times, painted a sign while clinging to a flimsy scaffolding twenty-two stories up on the side of a skyscraper, teased rattlesnakes as a child, descended from the top of a four story building hand over hand by a rope, swam in a tank with a dozen of angry rats—and still enjoys good health!

Beginning tomorrow "Miss George Washington" will be shown for one week at the Castle. This is the latest Famous Players film, featuring Marguerite Clarke in the rôle of a cheerful liar.

Irving Cummongs is a busy man these days. Report has it that the curly haired star is dividing his time between the theater at which he is appearing evenings in the comedy, "Object Matrimony," and the Paragon studios, where he works daytimes on an eight reel feature soon to be released.

It is announced that the World Film corporation has just purchased a large tract of land in the vicinity of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., on which will shortly be erected what, it is alleged, will be the largest of all the eastern studios. More than 8,000 acres hath this tract, they do say, and it is noted for the extraordinary variety and beauty of its scenic advantages.

Did you know that Louise Glaum has the distinction of being the first woman who ever posed for a picture at the side of Dario Resta, the noted automobile race champion?

According to Owen Moore's theory, there are times to do water stuff and there are times when to be aquatic is not wise. Mr. Moore is at present playing the part of a young millionaire with Irene Fenwick in the Famous Players production, "A Coney Island Princess." Edward Sheldon, the author, wrote the script last June, when everybody was ready for a swim, but the scenes where Mr. Moore becomes violently intoxicated and decides that a swim is the only thing which will ease his aching head were not reached until the latter part of this month. Conclusion: He is still barking.

George Elwell, favorite Ince-Triangle boy actor, passed away suddenly last week while dancing for a prize in a contest. His most successful contribution to the screen was the portrayal of Jimmy Callaghan in "The Raiders," with H. B. Warner.

A home for broken down cab horses is a project which Marguerite Clayton, Essanay leading woman, has launched forth in Chicago. Miss Clayton will submit a practical plan for the "home" to horse fanciers at the coming Chicago horse show.

And now Harry Lyons is no more. Dead? No. It happened like this: Out in Los Angeles county, California, there is a state senator named Harry Lyons, and the two were continually getting their mail mixed up. Harry Lyons, the senator, kept getting the mash notes of Harry Lyons, the actor, and Harry Lyons, the actor, received daily invitations to speak at political rallies, to forward silver mugs to babies that had been named after him, to hurry up this or that bill of interest, etc. Finally, in desperation, the actor went to court and had his name changed to Harry Nolan. Remember this the next time you see a Nestor comedy and you are looking for Harry Lyons' name on the cast.

A new department, named "Modish Coiffures," has been arranged for the Mutual program. These latest modes of wearing the hair will come direct from a most exclusive hairdresser.

HELEN K.: Why, of course! I'd love to! Constance Talmadge was born on April 19. Consequently she comes under the sign of Aries. According to the sign she should be:

The Selig-Tribune—Semi-Weekly

The World's Greatest News Film.

In the two issues this week are shown:

Number 96

SENDS TURKEY TO PREXY.

The high cost of living will not deprive President and Mrs. Wilson of a turkey dinner if Miss Georgine Kohn has anything to say about it! With her own fair hands she crated a thirty-five pound turkey, and with a card attached bearing the season's greetings, shipped it to the White House.

Number 97

CUDAHY KIDDIES COLLECT WASTE PAPER.

Waste paper is coming to be regarded as a precious asset. With the churches of Pasadena receiving it in place of silver offerings, the children of Jack Cudahy are spending their time collecting old newspapers to sell, the proceeds to go to Europe's war orphans.

Mae Marsh Seen Off Screen

By Mae Tinee.

A YOUNG and rather hesitating voice answered over the wire my query as to the whereabouts of Miss Mae Marsh, known to be stopping in a certain hostelry.

"She's out, but she'll be in——?"

"I'd love to come over," I said. "And if it's all right and you think she'll be there in half an hour—why, I'll be there, too."

"O, yes." The hesitating voice was cordial. "I'm sure she'll be here by then. You come on."

So I came.

The door of the Marsh apartment was opened for me by some one I accosted confidently as "Miss Marsh." The young one smiled and I knew that the smile belonged to the voice I had heard.

"Yes. Only I'm her sister," the owner of smile and voice said, flushing beautifully. "Won't you—sit down and—and wait. There's another chair—I think." And I discovered as I entered the room that there were others before me. One was a magazine writer and the other a somebody shrouded in a veil, who eyed me haughtily, as I advanced, and sat aloof while Miss Marsh, the other writer, and myself chatted, pending the arrival of the older sister.

Finally the door opened and she breezed in. I caught a surprised breath. Could this trim little creature, with her merry eyes and laughing lips be the same over whose sorrows I had shuddered and wept bitter tears, through so many pictures? Could it be she of "the saddest face in films?" Hard to believe, but closer inspection proved her to indeed be Mae Marsh and no other.

As she crossed the room the strange veiled woman on the couch caught her arm.

"My dear," she whispered. "My dear—I must kiss you."

"Wh—why, yes—of course." Miss Marsh kissed her—then somehow eluded the lady and spoke to us. "How nice of you all to come. How in the world did you find out I was here? O, dear, I wish I didn't have that appointment at the theater—but I don't care if I'm a little late."

"Yes, you do," I said, feeling sorry for her, she seemed so sort of little and bothered. "If you have an appointment at the theater I will walk over with you and chat on the way. That would be all right, wouldn't it?"

"O, yes!" She beamed her relief. "Only you must meet my mother." She started for another door. Again she was intercepted, and this time kissed by the strange, veiled figure. Said the woman on the couch:

"My dear, I don't believe in reincarnation—but if I did, I would know that you belonged to me before ever you belonged to your mother."

"O, yes." Miss Marsh patted her frantically. "Yes. I'll get mother." She escaped. I cast a wary eye toward the various exits. The younger Miss Marsh had followed close on the trail of her sister.

As I chatted with Mrs. Marsh, who was charming and cordial and about as young looking as her daughters, Mae Marsh frantically searched the drawers of a bureau. "My veil!" she wailed. "Where is it? I can't go out without a veil, and my hair just washed."

"Which veil?" asked her sister.

"Now, Millie!" Exasperation was in Miss Marsh's voice. "You know I've only got one veil," and ribbons and handkerchiefs and things flew right and left as she continued her search. Though about to receive a salary of half a million a year, this young woman had, like many of us, but one veil and she couldn't find that when she wanted it.

Once down on the street, walking briskly toward the theater where "Intolerance" was to open that evening, I asked curiously: "Who was that woman?"

"I don't know," Miss Marsh answered. "I don't know how she ever got in. Honestly, there are such a lot of them. Why, at the opening in San Francisco, a lot of us were there in person, and when we came out of the theater we were simply mobbed by people like her. They touched our clothes and felt of our hair and turned us around—for all the world like we were some kind of queer beasts on exhibition. It's terrible! That's why I never tell anybody I'm there when I arrive in a city."

"You've been with Mr. Griffith ever since you first went into pictures—won't you miss him terribly?" I asked. It was the surprise of my life to learn that she had signed a contract with Mr. Goldfish to head a company of her own.

"Don't talk about it!" she said briefly. "If you do I'll make a baby of myself. I wish he hadn't let me sign the contract. I hate money. It makes people do such horrid things. Money, money, money. That's all anybody thinks of!" And she walked fast and looked straight ahead.

"Will you by any chance be having Robert Harroun for your leading man?" I ventured—for I wanted to know.

"No chance," briefly. "He wouldn't leave Mr. Griffith and Mr. Griffith wouldn't let him go."

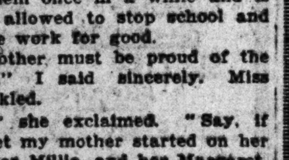
Besides Mae Marsh there are a galaxy of other Marshes. Margaret, the oldest sister, is in pictures, and Mildred appears in them once in a while and is wild to be allowed to stop school and take up the work for good.

"Your mother must be proud of the lot of you," I said sincerely. Miss Marsh sparkled.

"Is she!" she exclaimed. "Say, if ever you get my mother started on her Mae, and her Millie, and her Margaret, and her brother—well, you'll just want to take and drop her in the sea, that's all!"

We were at the theater by that time and it marked the parting of our ways. But I'll always remember—and I want you to, too, that Mae Marsh, gifted child that she is, has the simplicity and wholesomeness that marks a great nature. She has succeeded because she is genuine. There's no makeshift nor pretension about her.

ASK ME! ASK ME!



This department appears every day in "The Daily Tribune."

JANE: Don't worry. He's in no danger.

U. M.: If I were you I would write to Mr. Farman, care of the Lasky company, Los Angeles, Cal., inclosing 25 cents with your request, for his photograph. I'm quite sure he would send you one.

R. R. S.: There be times when this heart is too full for utterance!

MARGUERITE CLARKE ADMIRER: In the play you mentioned Mahlon Hamilton played opposite Marguerite Clarke. A letter addressed to her in care of the Famous Players company, 130 West Fifty-sixth street, New York, will reach her.

MARGARET E. S.: Pearl White is with the Pathé company, 1 Congress street, Jersey City Heights, N. J. Y'wekkum.

V. C.: If you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope I shall take great pleasure in mailing you the printed material I have on scenario writing and a list of firms that accept scenarios. I will also inclose the article on photoplay acting. No trouble at all.

MAN BEHIND: I don't know what you're behind, but if you value your safety stay there.

Miss Armour's Debut One of Season's Events.

By Mme. X.

THE tea dance on Wednesday afternoon at the Blackstone, when Miss Lolita Armour was formally presented to society by her mother, Mrs. Ogden Armour, and her grandmother, Mrs. Philip Armour, was one of the season's most festive and ornamental debut parties. It was gay, charming, sumptuous, the epitome of young America today.

The debutante herself has already made her own place among not only the youth of her set, but the elders of the tribe to whom her gentle, friendly manners, in an era of triumphant and obliterating adolescence, make a great appeal.

"All the world" was there; the flowers were lavish and lovely, the gowns were rich and rare, the music alternately beguiling and inspiring, but more interesting, more effective than anything else, was the picture made by the representatives of the three generations, the receiving trio.

The grandmothers of this era are so much younger than grandmothers ever were before in the history of the world—especially American grandmothers. There is no longer any distinguishing mode of dress. Their ilk of two or three generations ago were put into caps at 40, and tucked into high backed chairs by the fireside at 50. Canes were popped into their hands at 60, and by 70 requiem masses were their daily fare. Not so today, and the time is approaching when to be a great-grandmother will be scarcely more notable than to be a grandmother.

The matron of today is as brisk and enterprising as the debutante. In fact, in many older communities her continuing youth and freshness united to her mature wit and wisdom make her the more than successful rival of the season's buds.

Modern Youth Criticised.

With youth so much to the fore as at the moment, it is quite to be expected that young people and their customs, manners, and morals should be more or less a topic of conversation. Granted that "love flows in a descending stream," still there is in the attitude of a passing towards a coming generation an irresistible tendency towards adverse criticism. And the present outfit of parents and elders is no exception to this rule. They find that much of the youth whose initial efforts they are attempting to direct and guide is self-willed, independent in thought and action, unmannerly and in some cases dissipated and in a dangerous predicament.

At some club dinner dances, the accusation runs, the young cavaliers hie them to the bar after dinner, while the maidens flock to the dressing rooms to chatter, prink, and flutter. The band plays lilting measures to an empty hall, except for a group of anxious elders waiting for the dancing to begin. Minutes stretch out into quarters and half hours before terpsichore has her innings. Meanwhile Bacchus, according to rumor, gets in his work and the result is not always a pleasing one from the parental point of view. This does not always happen, but often enough to be disturbing to the organizing powers of society.

But those with long memories recall similar accusations in other days against other youth. There never was a time when the older generation did not accuse its successor of excesses and follies of many kinds, with probably much justification. It wouldn't be youth if it didn't effervesce and bubble over with vitality. The young men of the present are not of weaker fiber than their predecessors. If there is any difference between today and yesterday, it is that opportunities for self-indulgence, dissipation, and moral relaxation have been made easier and more frequent, often by the very people who criticise and rail at the offenders.

Dancing Men in Demand.

Meanwhile the order of the day enunciated and laid down by the debutantes is that you can't have a party—a dancing party, that is—without at least twice as many men as girls. One frantic maternal parent, who was a comparatively new comer in the community, without years behind her of "fence building," was so desperate in her quest of partners for the maidens she had invited to her debutante's ball that she called in the aid of an old stager of a society editor (not the writer of these lines) and asked her for a complete list of the single men of the town, old, young and middle aged, to all of whom invitations were promptly dispatched, with no further inquiry into their desirability or eligibility.

The Bachelors' and Benedicks' ball at the Congress hotel on Wednesday night revived the old traditions of this young and lively group of dancers. The Bachelors' and Benedicks' is a sort of connecting link between debutante balls and the assemblies. It is composed mainly of the young, married set, as smart and ornamental a group of young people as can be found in any community.

Among them are the Chauncey McCormicks, Joseph Ryersons, Edward L. Ryerson Jrs., Ambrose Cramer Jrs., Jay Morse Elys, Laurence Armours, Arthur Cables, Charles Counselmans, Kenneth Goodmans, Ray Athertons, John Stevensons, Philip Armours III., Allen Haineses, Ralph Pooles, Charles Deweys, Joseph Winterbothams, John Winterbothams, and McCormick Blairs.

The chief feature of the evening was the fanfare of trumpets which, after supper, opened the cotillion. The trumpeters stepped forth on to the upper balcony and gave the Aida clamor, and then a herald appeared and from the same vantage point recited a clever harangue written by Hunt Wentworth, who wields a witty and nimble pen. The snowstorm was another brilliant effect that captivated the throng by its verisimilitude and picutresqueness.

To Aid Crippled Children.

Mrs. William J. Chalmers is the moving spirit in the exhibition and sale of the handiwork of the convalescent crippled children in the country home of that name, which sale takes place next Wednesday in the Elizabethan room of the Congress hotel. The articles comprise handmade toys, bed tables, doilies, tea napkins, towels, bibs, and rugs. The proceeds will help these unfortunate children to become self-supporting, as they receive a share of the profits, the remainder of which goes to buy material for the work during the coming year.

A visit to these youngsters in their lovely country home leaves an impression never to be forgotten—an impression of childish suffering patiently borne, an impression of the power of human sympathy as expressed by those supporting and carrying on this work. The combination of busy hands and crippled bodies, of pale, wan faces and shining, eager eyes, of bitter pain and sunny cheerfulness, grips the heartstrings—and should loosen the purse strings.

Art Club Exhibits.

The present exhibit of the Arts club, in the Thurber building, is a distinguished artistic event. The three artists represented are in the forefront of American art today. Robert Henri, the oldest of the trio, is a noted personality in New York. With his slanting brilliant black eyes, high cheek bones, swarthy skin, and coarse, straight black hair he looks much like the Mexican Indians he depicts with so much virility. He is a marvelous talker as well as painter, and has the power of making his listeners think, at least for the time being, that art is the principal, if not the only real, affair of mankind. He waves his long, thin hands as he talks and shakes his long, thin fingers at you in a truly hynotic fashion.

His younger compeers represented in this exhibit are George W. Bellows, a vigorous, fiery fellow, both in and out of painting, and John Sloan, of less vivid personality.

The enterprising women who founded and are fostering this young and ambitious club conceived the idea of advertising the picture show to the somewhat oblivious public by sending out, in true London style, a couple of "sandwich men"; that is, helpless males wedged into signboards announcing in large and loud letters the fact that such an exhibit was open to the public at such a time and place. "Sandwich men" are a picturesque and regularly accepted feature of London streets.

The Chicago sandwichers came to grief and had their signboards confiscated by the police, after a short trip on the avenue.

The collection of pictures was secured for the Arts club by Abram Poole, who is on the track of other exhibits of equal merit.

Mrs. Robert McGann, Mrs. George Higginson, Mrs. Arthur Ryerson, and Mrs. C. M. Ely engineered a successful tea on Friday afternoon which celebrated the formal opening of the show, though the paintings had been on view since last Monday.

Eastern Artists Welcome Bartlett.

Speaking of art and artists, the Frederic Bartletts are now well settled in New York, where they have an apartment in East Sixty-seventh street, while Mr. Bartlett has a studio apartment in Gramercy park. He is ranked among the leading American landscapists, and as such is being welcomed into New York artists' innermost circles. Art dealers are all vying with each other as to which shall be the first to have an exhibit of his pictures.

If, as he said before leaving Chicago, he was going to New York to find out whether he really was an artist (this with that delightful, whimsical, one-sided smile of his) he is answered already.

It is to counteract, if possible, this drift of Chicago artists to New York that the Arts club was planned and organized. To make Chicago an art center as well as the musical center it now is, is the hope and ambition of Mrs. McGann, Lawton Parker, Abram Poole, and other lovers of painting and sculpture.

Bazaar Workers Active.

The allied bazaar is clutching at us daily with greater fervor and intensity. Each booth principal is spurred by ardent ambition to make hers the most striking feature of the affair. Mrs. Tracy Drake is working for the Roumanians. Will there be any Roumania by January? At any rate, there will be Roumanians, and for them groups of lovely young girls dressed in Roumanian costumes will wander about selling fruit from large, flat baskets, while Mrs. Drake and her other assistants will have more fruit for sale from a central stand under a gayly striped umbrella.

Mrs. Walter Brewster, Mrs. George Isham, and Mrs. Arthur Ryerson will have the most unique articles for sale—French war orphans, whose photographs will represent them so that you can select your own orphan. It won't be delivered to you, but you pay $36.50 and have a child assigned to your friendly care, and can have the satisfaction of knowing that you are doubling the French nation's portion to the young representative of a future France.

Other things on sale will be shares in various desirable articles, such as a grand piano, donated by Mrs. Charles Hamill; a diamond bracelet and seven Zorn etchings, donated by Mrs. Chauncey McCormick; three automobiles, several paintings, and so forth and so on. There will be many ways of separating you from your money without, let us hope, too much pain.

Aside from the numerous debutantes who have enlivened society with their various festivities during the month there have been a number of beautiful brides whose weddings bid fair to rival these debutante functions in many cases. Mrs. Robert Graves Warfield was, until her wedding of Nov. 21, Miss Marjorie Teall, daughter of Mrs. Edward Norris Wiley of 4556 Greenwood avenue. Her wedding to Mr. Warfield took place in the Kenwood Evangelical church and was followed by a reception at the Kenwood club. Miss Alma Ogden, daughter of Mrs. Howard N. Ogden of 5744 Kenwood avenue, was married to Erwin Fawcett Plumb on Nov. 22 at the family residence, and Miss Irene Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael H. Rogers, also chose Nov. 22 as the day of her wedding to James H. Leahy, which took place at Our Lady of Sorrows church and was followed by a reception at the Congress hotel.

WEDDINGS

Cards are issued announcing the wedding of Miss Gertrude Louise Warnick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paige Warnick of Kimbark avenue, to Eustace Vynne on Nov. 25 at the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. Charles Young officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Vynne will be at home after May 1 at 7136 Yates avenue.

Invitations have been issued to the marriage of Miss Dorothea Seeberger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Seeberger of 44 East Elm street, to Frank Cist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin Cist of Cincinnati, on Saturday, Dec. 16, at the family residence. Only relatives will witness the service and a small reception will follow. William B. Cist of New York will be best man and Miss Elinor Brooks of East Orange, N. J., will be maid of honor.

Miss Agnes Street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. C. Street of 11 East Division street, left on Monday to open the family winter home at Winter Park, Fla. The marriage of Miss Street and Hopewell L. Rogers will take place there on Jan. 3. Mr. and Mrs. Street will join their daughter on Dec. 10.

The marriage of Miss Susie Dayton Hoyne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Maclay Hoyne, to Frederick Ingraham, formerly of Waukegan, took place on Nov. 25 at the home of the bride's parents, 410 Diversey parkway. Miss Mary Hoyne was maid of honor and Dr. John J. Andrews was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Ingraham will reside at 2364 Euclid Heights, Cleveland.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Glickman of 1609 South Central Park avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Anna Helen, to Harry G. Gordon; this afternoon at 5 o'clock, followed by a reception at the family residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sachs announce the marriage of their daughter, Minnie Lillian, to Samuel L. Siegel on Tuesday, Nov. 21. At home after Jan. 1 at 5417 Ingleside avenue.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Donald McMillan of the Kenwood hotel announce the engagement of their daughter, Gertrude, to Newton Macy Wagener, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Macy Wagener of Kansas City.

Mrs. E. Gallaher of 4954 Kenmore avenue announces the engagement of her daughter, Letitia, to B. H. Princell.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Iralson of 4542 Grand boulevard announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia, to Mortimer Frankel.

"They All Came Out Good"

NEWS OF THE CHICAGO WOMEN'S CLUBS

Christmas Party for the Children of the Republic.

By Hazel Whitaker.

"PEOPLE will not look forward to posterity who never look backward to their ancestors." This is the doctrine so widely practiced as well as preached by the Daughters of the American Revolution, of which the Chicago chapter has furnished an especially shining example in the twenty Children of the Republic clubs which they have organized among all nationalities in all parts of the city.

Realizing that this is the season of seasons for the children, the chapter is this year planning a double Christmas celebration in their honor. The party for the benefit of the members, which is given for the first time, will be held on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 28, in Recital hall, where they will be entertained by Miss Alice Blanche Wellington. The annual affair for the Children of the Republic will be on the following afternoon in Memorial hall, G. A. R. building of the Public library. A special entertainer will be there to amuse the children, some of whom will also take part in the program.

Ever since 1890, when the Daughters of the American Revolution was started in Washington, D. C., patriotic education has been the theme most emphasized. The Chicago chapter, which was organized the following year, has dealt not only with the children of the immigrant but also has maintained a women and children's welfare department that has accomplished splendid results.

One of the most commendable features of the patriotic education work is the semi-annual presentation of a medal to the recruit attaining the highest efficiency at the United States Naval Training station at Lake Bluff. Patriotic holidays are celebrated appropriately, Flag day, the Battle of Yorktown, and the Battle of Lexington being among these days. The national old trails memorials, the Fort Dearborn memorial, monuments for historical places, such as Starved Rock and the Cahokia courthouse; agitation to correct the abuses against the flag—all these actions and many more are proof that this chapter has been "perpetuating the memory of the spirit of the men and women who achieved American independence."

The call of patriotism is so entwined with that of philanthropy that special means are being planned to raise funds in the near future by a rummage sale, of which Mrs. William Baden Austin is in charge. On Jan. 18 Miss Grace Abbott, superintendent of the Immigrants' Protective league, will address the chapter on "Opportunity of the Immigrant Women." A talk will be given later in the spring by Wilhelm Miller on "The Lincoln Highway and Roadside Planting." So it is that the chapter work has grown to include all possible phases of patriotism.

The chapter meetings are held the third Thursday of the month in Recital hall, Fine Arts building; the permanent headquarters are in room 921 of the same building.

The present regent, Mrs. Sarah E. Raymond Fitz-William, was the first superintendent of schools in the world. Mrs. Charles Salmon is first vice regent; Mrs. James A. Ostrom, second vice regent; Mrs. Amos W. Walker, recording secretary; Miss Elsie J. Rudge, corresponding secretary; Mrs. T. Henry Greene, assistant secretary; Mrs. Noble Clemons Shumway, registrar; Mrs. Harry C. Ellis, treasurer; Mrs. William B. Austin, historian. Directors: Mrs. John Shepherd, Mrs. James Blackstone Bapst, Mrs. William S. Rabb, Mrs. Stuart Sands Baker, Mrs. Louis A. Duval, Mrs. Walter C. Nelson, Mrs. Gustave A. Mueller, and Mrs. Charles E. Herrick. Mrs. Nelson, as chairman of the patriotic education committee, has charge of the twenty clubs of the Children of the Republic.

Many other prominent Chicago women are numbered among the eight hundred members, some of whom are: Dr. Julia Holmes Smith, first woman trustee of the University of Illinois; Mrs. John A. Logan, Mrs. George M. Pullman, Mrs. George Bass, Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Williard T. Block, Mrs. Harry Pratt Judson, Dr. Sarah C. Buckley, Mrs. Andrew J. Clark, Mrs. John N. Jewett, Mrs. J. Henry Kaufman, Mrs. Louis A. [illegible], Mrs. Frank O. Lowden, Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, and Mrs. Frederick K. [illegible].

DOWNTOWN CLUBS

Tomorrow the Chicago Woman's club's study class of the philosophy and science department will meet at 2 p. m. Dr. Rollin T. Chamberlain will speak on "Modern Geology." On Wednesday the joint education program will be given in Recital hall at 10:30 a. m. Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton will speak on "The Need of Supervision of High School Social Activities." The work of the high school deans will be discussed by deans of the Austin High school, the Lake High school, and the Englewood High school. On Wednesday at 2 p. m. the regular literary meeting of the club will be held in Recital hall. Victor S. Yarros will speak on "Women in Politics." The English study class of the art and literature department will meet on Thursday at 10:30 a. m., with Dr. Edwin Herbert Lewis as lecturer. The class in parliamentary law will meet at 1 p. m. on Thursday, with Mrs. George Plummer in charge. On Friday the drama study class will meet at 10:30 a. m. Mrs. Louis Sherman Taylor will speak on "The Voiceless Drama." On Saturday the efficiency committee will meet at 11 a. m. On Tuesday the Daughters of Indiana will meet in the oak room of the Congress hotel. Miss Edyth Graham will give a musical program. The Round Table will hold a meeting at 1 o'clock. The literary program will be in charge of Mrs. Frank Dow. "Scenic Spots in Indiana" will be the topic of the day.

On Wednesday afternoon and evening the graduates and students of the Illinois Training School for Nurses will hold a bazaar at the home, 509 Honoré street, the object of which is to help raise funds for the building of a new home. The old home in Honoré street was built in 1881, but has been added to from time to time, the Crerar addition built in 1907 filling the need up to that date. Contributions for the bazaar have been sent by the 1,300 graduates of the school and come from almost every state in the union, Hawaiian and Philippine islands, Canada and the Canal Zone. The exhibit consists largely of needlework, but there is also a good variety of handicraft and articles useful and artistic. The entertainment committee—Mrs. Matilda Zandmeister, Miss Bertha Alexander, Miss Agnes Reid—has a good program to offer consisting of informal dancing in Congress hall, folk dances by "The Finnish Dancers," whistling by Miss Nettie Geister, piano by Miss Edna Geister, and readings.

"Francesca di Rimini," the last opera musical of a series, will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Max Oberndorfer on Friday at the Chicago College club in the Stevens building. A turkey dinner will follow the musical. On Saturday at 11 a. m. Miss Marjorie Valentine will read "Everychild." Miss Sue Chatfield will play the music.

John H. Glen, secretary of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, will speak on "The High Cost of Living" at the meeting of the Social Economics club on Tuesday in room 412, Masonic temple. Others on the program will be Mrs. Milton E. Jones, Mrs. A. P. Daniels, Mrs. D. Joseph Splane, and Mrs. Graham Hayes. Dr. Annetta Saunders is chairman of the program committee.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY by MME. Z.

Official Season Opens and Closes Earlier Than Ever

WASHINGTON, D. C.—[Special Correspondence.]—The White House has announced its program of official functions, and now the rest of Washington's social world can proceed to make its plans. In a tentative way it has been doing this for some time past, avoiding any elaborate plans for Tuesday, taking it for granted that that would be the White House day this season as it was last. It is, but the program given out a few days ago contains one surprise in that it starts the ball rolling earlier and stops earlier than ever before.

Following is the program:

Dec. 12—Cabinet dinner.
Dec. 19—Judiciary reception.
Jan. 9—Diplomatic dinner.
Jan. 16—Diplomatic dinner.
Jan. 23—Congressional reception.
Jan. 30—Supreme court dinner.
Feb. 6—Army and navy reception.
Feb. 13—Speaker's dinner.

Heretofore the only one of the state functions to be given before the first of the year has been the cabinet dinner, which the Roosevelts placed in December in order to relieve the pressure on January and February, and it has stayed there ever since. This season the president and Mrs. Wilson have gone one better and arranged to get the first of the big receptions off the slate before Christmas; and as the diplomatic reception is entirely omitted it is the reception for the judiciary, scheduled for Dec. 19.

That will have one great advantage; it will add dignity and brilliance to this function, which, while it is supposed to be in honor of the most dignified and brilliant body of men in the country, has been one of the least dignified and brilliant of the annual state functions. This has been because the group of honor guests was comparatively small, and everybody who didn't particularly belong anywhere else was placed on the list for this reception, including a horde of young girls from the finishing schools which fairly overrun Washington.

This year, since people rather like to go to the first one, it is fair to assume that cards to the judiciary reception will be in rather unwonted demand and that some of the traditional brilliance of the diplomatic reception will accrue to it.

Two Dinners to Diplomats.

There are to be two diplomatic dinners, as there were last year—the first to the representatives of the entente, who are honored first, simply because the French ambassador happens to be the dean of the diplomatic corps here and as such is given precedence, the second to the envoys of the central powers, with presumably all the neutrals asked to both, as was done last season.

It simplified things a whole lot for the Lansings that it happened to be our ambassador to Spain and Mrs. Willard who were here this week simultaneously with our ambassador to Germany and Mrs. Gerard. They could give them one joint dinner and be done with it, as they did on Monday night. Whereas, if it had been the Sharps, home from Paris, or the Pages, from either London or Rome, there would have had to be two dinners.

Not of course that any of our envoys could not gather amicably at the same table but that it is de rigueur when the secretary of state entertains in honor of any of our diplomats, home on leave, that he shall invite to meet them the representatives here of the countries to which they are accredited. And it was blissfully possible to have the German ambassador and Countess von Bernstorff at the same table with the Rianos, as it would not have been with the Jusserands, the Di Celleres, or the Spring-Rices.

The Von Bernstorffs and the Gerards are old friends. Countess von Bernstorff, herself an American by birth, has been on the most cordial terms with them in Berlin for the last two years, frequently entertaining them, and in turn being their guest. She could not, under present conditions, give any brilliant function in their honor, but there was a luncheon for them at the embassy on Monday, one of those paradoxical formally informal affairs which the present European situation has produced, a luncheon en famille, but en famille diplomatique, with the whole embassy "family" in evidence, and the secretary of state and a few intimate notables, as the only outsiders.

Two picturesque ceremonies of the week have been the memorial mass for the Emperor Francis Joseph, held at St. Patrick's Wednesday morning, and the annual Pan-American Thanksgiving mass at the same church the next day. Both of them brought out diplomatic and official notables in full force and in full uniform, and at both an unusual number of dignitaries of the Roman Catholic church participated in their most magnificent vestments. To both admission was by card only, and the president and Mrs. Wilson, with every available aid in attendance, made something of a triumphal entry, their first appearance at church of any sort, by the way, since their return to Washington.

The memorial mass was similar to the one at the time of King Edward's death, except that the envoys of the allies were of course, conspicuously absent. The others, all the neutrals, and all those connected with the central powers, were out in force. The Pan-American mass has become a regular feature—the only regular feature, perhaps—of Thanksgiving day in Washington, and it has been customary for the president to attend in considerable state.

Wednesday night, the eve of Thanksgiving, practically all of the fashionable world, except the proportion of it which is violently Teutonic in its sympathies, went up to the Playhouse to the ball for the joint benefit of the American fund for the French wounded and the British-American war relief fund. It was the first big benefit of the season and brought out all the smartest people in town. It had at first been set for Thanksgiving night, but the date was changed in order not to conflict with the naval relief ball.

First Showing of Debutantes.

The naval relief ball, held in the sail loft at the navy yard—which, by the way, is not as primitive as it sounds, the name only being a survival in these days when the navy knows little of sails—was as always a great success. The President and Mrs. Wilson lent the light of their countenance to it, and the fact that they had promised to be present, and would, of course, bring a White House party, insured the party both financially and socially. The Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Daniels, she being the ranking hostess of the occasion, entertained a dinner company of forty on the Dolphin preceding the dance; Capt. Berry likewise had a dinner party on the Mayflower, and there were any number of others throughout the city for young people who were going to the navy yard ball.

It was practically the first showing of the season's debutantes. There have been a few scattered luncheons and dinners for them, but no big parties until Thanksgiving afternoon, when Anne Nevill Hopkins, the first bud to bloom this season, came out at a big tea, with most of the others in the receiving party.

Little Miss Anne certainly had a glorious day of it. After her tea her parents gave a dinner for her receiving party. The dinner party merged into a theater party of about forty. The theater party, after a light supper, finally adjourned to the navy yard, and wound up a strenuous day only when the next day was treading fast on the heels of the first, and they simply had to get some sleep, you know, to be ready for Janice Herron's coming out Friday afternoon.

Janice Herron is the daughter of former Assistant Attorney General William H. Herron and a niece of Mrs. William Howard Taft and of Mrs. Lippitt. She is evidently not superstitious, since she selected Friday for her launching, probably feeling that with her family connection she can afford to take chances with fate. These are only the advance guard. From now on until Christmas the debutantes will be with us in a whirl.

Corns Loosen, Lift Right Off

Nothing But "GETS-IT" Will Do This to Corns and Calluses.

If you've ever had corns, you've tried lots of things to get rid of them—salves that eat your toe and leave the corn remaining, cotton rings that make your corns bulge out like popeyes, scissors and knives that make corns bleed and sore, harnesses and bandages that fill up your shoe, press on the corn and make your foot feel like a paving block. What's the use? Why not do what millions are doing, take 3 seconds off and apply "GETS-IT"? It dries, you put your stocking on right away, and wear your regular shoes. Your corn loosens from the toe, it lifts right off. It's painless. It's the common-sense way, the simplest, easiest, most effective way in the world. It's the national corn-cure. Never fails.

"GETS-IT" is sold and recommended by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent on receipt of price, by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sold in Chicago and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by Economical Drug Co., The Fair, Siegel, Cooper & Co., Home Drug Co., Ashland Drug Co., W. A. Snobbery Absent at Allies' Ball; Season Under Way

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Yes, the season is under way. You always can tell by the condition of your evening dress when you get home from an evening of entertainment. In October you can put on the filmiest of chiffons and get back from whatever it has been with costume as fresh as ever. Last week you returned with the under ruffle of hand embroidered chiffon cloth torn from its moorings of taffeta and bearing forever the indelicate imprint of a masculine foot, where it had been stepped on. Many a handsome costume indeed made its first and only appearance on a hectic evening of last week which marks the beginning of the social season.

You cannot imagine it and I cannot describe the opening festivities of this year. Imagine Madison Square garden, colossally huge, and seared with the dignity of age, ablaze with light and tropic with color. The people of all the lands of the earth (except Germany) poured into it in their most gorgeous of costumes. Maybe they were mostly Americans made up to represent those nations, but they looked their parts, and the dresses cost as much as the ransom of their kings and nations. Anyway, Mme. Nazimova was there to represent Russia and most of the allied countries had natives of more than adequate distinction to stand for them.

It was the Allies' ball, and it succeeded as a function (if not financially) more than anybody ever expected it to.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt at the last moment was simply turning things upside down to get another $500 box to accommodate her guests, and the only way it could be scared up was for John Moffat, chairman of the committee, to give up his. The Mayor and Mrs. Mitchel were among her guests. Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont was there with the governor of the state and Mrs. Whitman in her box. What became of Mr. Moffat's guests is more than I can say, for there wasn't an extra seat any place in which to stick them.

Many Actresses Present.

Actresses, of course, were there in numbers, they upholding the heavy part of the program. And because the allied ball would have nothing to do with any but the best of all classes and professions these actors all had engagements on Broadway early, so that the real program could not begin until midnight. Such a scene there never was, and above all in high society for carrying a theme, a lesson, a text with it. Said theme is one of my favorites and I shall take occasion to repeat it.

The world is growing more democratic. I think it appropriate that an entertainment for the war should demonstrate this fact, for one of the results of the war is going to be a deeper, more world-wide democracy. There was a time when you scarcely saw dames and autocrats of fashion mingling with débutantes, some of whose mothers had not been in their set when they were young. There certainly was a time, not far away, when you did not see actors and actresses, even the high class ones, fraternizing with the functionaries of the smart set.

There was a time in this dear, new country when our aristocracy did not put itself out to any, except to be polite, with those who steer our political destinies. Now it is getting to be quite the thing for the autocrats of the smart set to talk politics and cultivate politicians. That is one of Mrs. Belmont's dearest principles; to get the Americans of wealth to learn, think, talk, and influence politics. I wonder that we Americans have not begun to do it sooner, because it is one of the fixed principles of that aristocracy which the American has adored and that is of course the English.

As for the débutante revel at Sherry's—the Junior assembly—it maintained the traditions of others years, and did not, like the allied ball, give indications of a wider democracy. The big thing to a débutante is for her to be able to get into it. Mothers some times place their daughters' names on the waiting list when the daughters are born, and then are at last disappointed in getting them admitted.

Whitney Debut Off.

I should not wish this letter to close leaving the impression that in the world of society all is gay. A real calamity has befallen the smart set and particularly one family in it. Just as the bright particular bud of the year was ready to unfold, she and all of her family are engulfed in mourning. Miss Flora May Whitney cannot come out; the invitations for her début party are recalled by her mother, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

The dearly loved sister of Mr. Whitney, Mrs. Almeric Hugh Paget, died last week. She was married to an Englishman, one of a long line of titled aristocrats, and her death took place in that foreign land where she had lived. Once more the announcement makes me think of life as a moving picture. I have recently seen that house where she lived, set with that garden spot, England, for a setting, and I have, of course, seen the Whitneys. They have been planning and working for years toward this début. It was to be a perfectly flooring thing. I mean the whole winter of gayety with their daughter in it, who would set all of the young men a fluttering over her charm and her fortune.

It seems so strange that the death of a woman over there in England could so change the panorama of this winter's activities for any young woman over here—could change, perhaps, the whole life channel for this young woman in America. It is a pity for her to have so serious a thing as her début interrupted and altered in character. A début deferred, like a marriage, is never quite the same. However this may be, society's brightest flower will not appear for the present.

"What's the Matter, Robert?"

"You hardly said a word the whole time the Petersons were here. It was quite noticeable. I'm afraid they think you don't like them."

"Noticeable! I should say it was. But I was more uncomfortable over it than anybody else was. I like them well enough, but I couldn't think of anything worth saying and you can't talk nothings to people like the Petersons. I'm beginning to dread having people in. I haven't time to do the reading necessary to be a good conversationalist, and——"

"Oh, I know the very thing for you. Mrs. Peterson told me about it this evening—a way they've found to learn at least one interesting, worth-while thing every day. It is by joining and we must join." The Mentor Association numbers among its members 100,000 folks who know that to be interesting to others one must constantly be absorbing interesting information—information, for instance, about art, nature, music, travel, and the other good things that the world has to offer. They are obtaining this information in the most delightful form in "The Mentor."

"The Mentor" comes to them the first and fifteenth of every month—twenty-four times during the year. Each time a special topic is discussed with absorbing interest by a recognized authority who is also a gifted writer. And with each issue of "The Mentor" are six exquisite gravures or color pictures, reproduced on heavy paper, which, added to the illustrations throughout the text, and the text itself, leave a graphic and vivid recollection of the subject.

The Mentor Discussed

and illustrated, at various times during the last several years, for instance, the following topics: [Note the scope of its interests and activities] Travel, Fine Art, History, Biography, Literature, Music, Domestic Art, Nature and Popular Science.

Beauty Spots in India; the Mediterranean; Switzerland; London; Romantic Ireland; China; Japan; Mexico; The Philippines; Alaska; Grand Canyon of Arizona; Shakespeare's Country; Beautiful Children in Art; Beautiful Women in Art; Etchers and Etching; Pictures We Love to Live With; Great Galleries of the World; Michaelangelo; Raphael; The War of 1812; Story of the French Revolution; Story of America in Pictures; The Golden Age of Greece;

Joan of Arc; Oliver Cromwell; Napoleon; Milton; Thackeray; Dickens; Shakespeare; Walter Scott; George Washington; Abraham Lincoln; American Poets of the Soil; American Pioneer Prose Writers; Famous Women Writers of England; Famous English Poets; American Novelists; Makers of American Humor; Masters of the Violin; Famous Composers; Masters of Music;

Old Silver; Gothic Architecture; Chinese Rugs; Architecture in American Country Homes; Furniture and its Makers; Natural Wonders of America; American Birds of Beauty; Sporting Vacations; Game Birds of America; Game Animals of America; Favorite Trees; The Weather; Story of the American Railroad.

This is but a partial list of the subjects which "The Mentor" has been discussing, twice each month, with the members of The Mentor Association. It will give you, though, an idea of the delightful excursions they have been taking into realms where their desires would lead them. Yet it is only a part of

What Membership Means

Briefly, membership in The Mentor Association gives you these five things:

First. 24 issues of "The Mentor," bringing a beautifully printed and illustrated story every two weeks, all about one subject, written by a leading authority upon that subject—300 pages during the year.

Second. 600 beautiful illustrations, distributed during the year through the text of the 24 issues of "The Mentor."

Third. 144 gravure or color pictures, reproduced on heavy paper, all ready for framing, in deep, rich tones that bring out all the beauty of the originals. On the back of each picture is a crisp five-minute description of the subject that is portrayed.

Fourth. Answers to any question on art, travel, literature, history, nature or architecture, each answer by an authority.

Fifth. Authoritative Club Programs. Any program you may want for a club, a reading circle, a literary afternoon or evening—each made for you by an expert.

How to Become a Member

The Mentor Association wants among its members only those people who love the finer things of life, and yearn for them—music, art, nature and travel—who seek for self-improvement; who realize that to be interesting to others one must absorb worth-while knowledge; who believe that education is only commenced in school and should be followed through life.

If you believe as we believe, if you desire as we desire, then, we warmly invite you to our membership.

But you will want to know even more about The Mentor Association before you decide. So we make this suggestion: write your name and address on the coupon below, tear it off and mail it to us. Send no money; you will receive a copy of "The Mentor." If you like it, and want to join The Mentor Association, send $1 on receipt of a bill from us and $1 each month for but two months thereafter until a total of only $3 has been paid.

A membership in The Mentor Association is yours for but $3 a year; 12½ cents for each issue of "The Mentor."

You are placed under no obligation by signing the coupon. This is a special offer. Don't let it pass. Tear out the coupon now, while it's on your mind.

THE MENTOR ASSOCIATION C. T.—12-3-16
52 E. 19th St., New York, N. Y.

Please send me one issue of "The Mentor." If, after reading it, I decide to become a member of The Mentor Association, with all privileges as advertised, I will send you $1 on receipt of bill and $1 a month thereafter until $3 has been paid.

News of the Chicago Women's Clubs

On Tuesday the Woodlawn Woman's club will hold an all day session, with luncheon at 12:30 p. m. The afternoon program will be in charge of the civics and philanthropy department, of which Mrs. D. Jack Foster is chairman. An address will be given by Charles W. Gilkey. The study class will meet tomorrow at 10 a. m. Mrs. James K. Lambert will talk on "Suffrage."

On Thursday the Ken-Rose Woman's club will meet in the Palmer park club rooms.

The Lady Aberdeen chapter, Daughters of the British Empire, will meet on Tuesday at 1 o'clock at the residence of the regent, Mrs. W. S. Howell, 7137 Eggleston avenue.

Chapter D, Illinois P. E. O., will meet at the home of Mrs. Cyrus Cunnigham, 414 South Michigan avenue, on Thursday.

The Frances Willard Parent-Teacher club has been trying to bring to the notice of the health department of the city the need of having children's teeth properly taken care of. It has resulted in having "Dental week" proclaimed, beginning with a noon day rally tomorrow at the Cort theater and continuing throughout the week, during which time the children will be drilled in the use of the tooth brush, and lectures also will be given. The club will hold a benefit performance at the Twentieth Century theater on Saturday from 2 until 6 p. m. The money raised will be used in philanthropic work.

On Thursday the Fellowship House Woman's club will be the guest of Mrs. Frank Jerome and Miss Mari Hofer, 6427 Greenwood avenue, from 2 to 5 p. m. There will be readings by Julia Cooley and a silver offering for the Fellowship House kindergarten.

At Sinai Social center the following lectures will be given this week: Monday, at 8 p. m., Horace J. Bridges, "The Merchant of Venice—The Tragedy of Race Prejudice"; Tuesday, at 10:30 a. m., Oscar Blumenthal, "Art and Insanity"; Wednesday, at 2 p. m., S. M. Delson, "Le Misanthrope" [in French]; Thursday, at 8 p. m., Dr. Emil G. Hirsch, "The New Testament from a Jewish Point of View"; Friday, at 8:15 p. m., Oscar Blumenthal, "The Movies—Its Problems and Limitations."

Miss Nanette B. Sheffer

Miss Nanette B. Sheffer is president of the Young Ladies' auxiliary of the Arché club, which will have charge of the club program Friday afternoon at Lincoln center. Miss Sheffer will be presiding hostess. Two plays will be given.

NORTH SIDE CLUBS

The next meeting of the Edgewater Drama Study club will be held at the home of Mrs. Theodore Laist, 6923 Sheridan road, on Friday, at 2 o'clock. Joseph P. Birren will give a talk on "The Evils of the Drama," based on observations made after seeing three plays staged and acted on the wharves at Province, Mass., the plays themselves being written and acted by some of the best known actors, managers, and playwrights in this country.

A charity party will be held by the Arion Aid and Benevolent society this evening at Belmont hall, Clark street and Belmont avenue.

Chapter A. D., Illinois P. E. O. society, will meet with Mrs. Katie Reed, 6302 Kenwood avenue, tomorrow.

At the Catholic Woman's club of Rogers Park first social card party of the year tomorrow afternoon at the Edgewater Beach hotel, whist, euchre, and 500 will be played to raise funds for special club enterprises. The hostesses for the affair are the president, Mrs. De Witt J. Garrison; social chairman, Mrs. Philip Luber; vice chairman, Mrs. A. S. Loeffler, and house chairman, Mrs. A. R. Tatton.

On Tuesday Lake View Woman's club will give a reception and guest day to the presidents of the clubs in the Ninth district and the past presidents of the Lake View Woman's club, at Martine's hall, 2732 Hampden court. The musical program will be in charge of Mrs. Charles W. Johnson. Mrs. F. M. Richardson will have charge of the cafeteria luncheon at noon.

The next regular meeting of the Ladies' auxiliary of the Temple Sholom, which takes place on Wednesday, will be an afternoon of song, given by Miss Lucille Mayer and Miss Ethel Shapiro.

An illustrated lecture will be given by Mrs. Maxwell C. Black at the North End club tomorrow at 2 p. m. The home economics class will meet at 10 a. m. The girl's auxiliary will give a play on Friday called "The Triumph of Youth." The proceeds will be used for charity.

The North Shore Woman's club will give a cafeteria luncheon on Thursday at 12:30 o'clock under the auspices of the civics and philanthropy department at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Wilkie A. Cox, 4729 Dover street. Auction bridge and five hundred will be played in the afternoon.

An informal social evening will be held by the Ravenswood Woman's club tomorrow at 8 p. m. A short program will be given by Redmond P. Hogan, after which the evening will be devoted to cards. Each member will be entitled to a guest.

Temple Emmanuel sisterhood will hold its annual sisterhood exchange day on Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. in the restrooms of the temple. Articles comprising jellies, preserves, bakery goods, needlework, and groceries will be on exhibition and for sale. Mrs. Felix Levy is chairman.

La Guirlande Litteraire will have the second salon of the season tomorrow at the Academie Lafayette, 5948 Winthrop avenue, Mme. Corselis de Smet presiding.

On Thursday evening Donald Robertson will speak on "The Play and Its Relation to Life," under the auspices of De Paul university auxiliary in the University building, Webster avenue and Osgood street.

The regular meeting of the Argyle Park Portia club will be held on Wednesday morning at the home of Miss Mary Young, 5637 Kenmore avenue.

The Lake View Thimble club will hold a meeting on Wednesday at the Butler house, 3212 Broauway, at 10 o'clock.

HANDS A FRIGHT WITH PIMPLES

Itched Till Child Was Nearly Wild. Some Nights He Cried All Night. Now Entirely

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My brother's hands started with pimples; some had water, and some seemed to have matter in them. His hands cracked and you could almost lay a slate pencil in the cracks. They itched so that he scratched till he was nearly wild, and they were a fright. We had him treated, but his hands were getting worse all the time, and some nights he cried all night.

"Then we got Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and it was not long before the itching stopped, and his hands began to heal. Now they are entirely healed and they have never bothered him since." (Signed) Mrs. W. G. Dow, Mandan, N. D., April 1, 1916.

WOMEN WITH IDEALS

want a paper with ideals. Therefore they read THE TRIBUNE—every morning.

Hair Removed

El Rado—a Sanitary, Colorless Liquid

El Rado removes hair on the face, neck, shoulders, or under the arms in a few moments.

While necessary for the wearing of sleeveless gowns and sheer blouses, women remove the hair from their underarms as much for comfort and cleanliness as to meet the dictates of fashion.

It also relieves excessive perspiration and enables a woman to discard with safety the cumbersome dress shield.

El Rado is easily applied with a piece of absorbent cotton or small sponge. The sanitary liquid first dissolves the hair—then it is washed off. El Rado is absolutely harmless, and does not increase or coarsen later hair growth—more agreeable and "womanly" than the use of the razor.

Pastors Unite in Memorial to Bishop Cheney.

By the Rev. W. B. Norton.

As a tribute to his long pastorate in Chicago and the esteem in which he was held by ministers of all denominations, a memorial service will be held for the late Rt. Rev. Charles Edward Cheney at 3:30 o'clock today in the Christ Reformed Episcopal church, Twenty-fourth street and Michigan avenue, of which Bishop Cheney was rector for fifty-six years.

Those who will speak will be:

The Rev. James G. K. McClure, Presbyterian, president McCormick Theological seminary; the Rev. James S. Stone, rector of St. James' Protestant Episcopal church; the Rev. James M. Gray, dean of the Moody Bible institute; the Rev. Johnston Myers, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church; Charles L. Hutchinson, a lay member of St. Paul's Universalist church; L. Wilbur Messer, Methodist, general secretary of the Young Men's Christian association; William P. Sidley, president of the Y. M. C. A.; John Benham, and the Rev. Samuel M. Gibson, rector of Christ church. Bishop Samuel Fallows, who succeeds Bishop Cheney as senior bishop of the Reformed Episcopal church, will preside. Seats will be reserved for all visiting clergy.

The Chicago Baptist Social union will hold a Chicago night banquet at the Hotel La Salle Tuesday night. Two Methodists, Judge J. R. Newcomer and the Rev. John Thompson, and the Rev. S. J. Skevington, pastor of the Belden Avenue Baptist church, will be the speakers.

The instruction in all of the parishes of the Roman Catholic archdiocese, which is to cover a period of five years under the direction of Archbishop Mundelein, will begin today. The Apostles creed will be studied all this year. The teaching is so arranged as to form a lesson for each one of the fifty-two weeks and will be the same in every church.

Rabbi Wise will speak at 10:45 today in Isaiah temple, Forty-fifth street and Vincennes avenue, Dr. Joseph Stolz, rabbi. Tomorrow at 10:45 he will address the Methodist ministers' meeting in the First Methodist Episcopal church, Clark and Washington streets, on the subject, "The War Against War."

The Rev. Charles Epstein

The Rev. Charles Epstein is the newly appointed pastor of the St. Francis Assisi Roman Catholic church, West Twelfth street and Newberry avenue. He preached his first sermon there last Sunday. He was born in Chicago and received his preparatory training here in St. Francis parochial school. His collegiate training was taken in Quincy, Ill., and his theological training in St. Mary's seminary, Baltimore, Md. He was ordained in 1904.

Father Epstein served more than seven years as pastor of the Immaculate Conception church, Plainfield, Ill. His new parish is a difficult one, because its membership has scattered to various parts of the city. The church is located opposite the Guardian Angels settlement, with which Father Epstein says he will coöperate. He expressed his purpose to be to study sociology and acquire as full a knowledge as possible of the best ways of meeting the problems of the parish.

Representatives of all Methodist Episcopal churches in Chicago and suburbs will meet next Friday evening in the Wabash Avenue church, Fourteenth street and South Wabash avenue, to consider the improvements to be made at the Desplaines camp ground. The work of improvement on the camp ground has already begun. The meeting will be preceded by supper at 6:30.

Congregationalists will observe tomorrow as the centennial of the founding of the Congregational Education society. It was organized in Boston as the American Educational society, Dec. 4, 1816. In the hundred years the society has aided 10,073 candidates for the ministry and disbursed over $6,500,000 in maintaining and aiding schools of various grades.

The Chicago Presbytery meets tomorrow at 10 a. m. in the assembly hall, 509 South Wabash avenue. The board of home missions which raised a week ago $110,950 for special work in debt paying and enlargement will also meet today.

The work of preparing the grounds for the building of the Quigley Memorial Preparatory school has already begun. The school will occupy the territory between Chestnut street and Delaware place, on Rush street, to the depth of from 200 to 250 feet. The buildings, chiefly dwellings, which are occupying the ground are being torn down. The plans call for the erection of a school and chapel, which Archbishop Mundelein said he expected to be the finest example of ecclesiastical architecture in Chicago.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, founder of the Free synagogue in New York, will be the speaker this evening at the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall. His subject will be "Facing Life."

Rabbi Wise is the son of a rabbi and comes of a long ancestral line of rabbis. He was born in Hungary and came first into prominence in Portland, Ore., where he took an active part in civic affairs while serving as rabbi of the Beth Israel congregation.

He speaks regularly in Carnegie hall, New York, and has had a wide hearing. The last two ambassadors from the United States to Turkey, Henry Morgenthau and Abram Elkus, are members of his congregation. Edgar A. Nelson will give the organ recital and Gustav Holmquist will sing "Morning and Evening," by Spicken. Several anthems will be given by the choir under the leadership of O. Gordon Erickson.

As an evidence of the growing interest of the churches in the religious care of students in state universities the commission representing the joint boards of home missions and education of the Methodist Episcopal church announce they have under their care 15,000 Methodist students in these state institutions. At present there is a campaign on to raise $1,500,000 for buildings and equipment and $20,000 a year to help pay salaries of student pastors. Presbyterians have appointed Dr. Louis E. Holden, former president, of Wooster college, to aid in similar work for Presbyterian students.

The next annual convention of the Religious Education association will be held in Boston, Mass., Feb. 27 to March 1. The general subject of the convention will be "Religious Education and the Coming World Order." Popular meetings will be held in Symphony hall. The Religious Education association has its national headquarters in Chicago, 324 South Michigan avenue. The association was organized in Chicago in 1893.

The Faith Lutheran church of Oak Park will dedicate a chapel this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Rev. G. A. Gullixon, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Chicago, and the Rev. J. A. Molstad, pastor of St. Mark's church, Chicago, will officiate.

The Rev. Edward B. Crawford, pastor of the Garfield Park Methodist Episcopal church, will begin today services in Los Angeles, Cal., where he has gone to assist in an evangelistic campaign the Rev. W. E. Tilroe, formerly of Chicago, who is a pastor in Los Angeles.

The First Presbyterian church of New York will celebrate this week in two hundredth anniversary of its organization. It held services in the city hall for the first three years. In 1834 its building which it had erected in 1719 and had enlarged later, was burned. The present structure at Fifth avenue, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, was erected in 1845. The present pastor, the Rev. Dr. Howard Duffield, has served twenty-five years and has secured a permanent endowment for the church, thus insuring its continued usefulness.

The Rev. Daniel Bryant, pastor of the Independent Church of Zion City, Ill., for seven years, has resigned. He will continue serving the church until next March, and will then be succeeded by the Rev. Ormand E. Lovell, who graduates next month from the Transylvania Theological seminary.

The First Methodist Episcopal church, La Grange, will contribute money today for the erection of a new Sunday school building. The basement is to contain a gymnasium which can on occasion be used for banquets. The Rev. A. F. Clark is pastor. The speakers today will be the Rev. J. L. Walker, district superintendent, and the Rev. John Thompson, superintendent of the board of home missions and church extension.

For ECZEMA

and all eruptions—there's nothing like

POSLAM

Just a little of it and few applications will show what it can do. Itching stops; undue redness of the skin is cleared away over night. Eczema and all virulent skin troubles seem to demand precisely the healing influence which Poslam supplies so well. The skin is urged to respond. Stubborn cases of Acne are healed. Pimples and Rashes driven away.

Poslam Soap, medicated with Poslam, is unusually grateful to tender skin.

which our Fourth Floor Section has prepared. In gowns, more than in any other article of wear, value is a matter of taste rather than price, and these gowns, although moderate in price, are exceptional in charm.

For the woman who must be exquisitely dressed but desires a fairly frequent change of costume, these frocks offer a real opportunity. There are others even as low as $15.00 and $18.50, and, of course, as high as any one cares to go.

Also Equally Attractive Street and Afternoon Gowns.

These Handsome Coats of Black Silk Velour

make wonderful Christmas gifts. The material is so beautiful that they are quite correct for the most formal occasions, and yet, being black, they are worn with satisfaction when the occasion is informal. The untrimmed models combine beautifully with either dark or light furs.

Each year at this time we make a special preparation on silk velour coats in the new models. This year, in spite of general conditions, we obtained enough of the material, which is imported, to make an offering bigger than ever. The prices start as low as $45.00.

Evening Coats in Light Colors Also Make Exquisite Gifts.

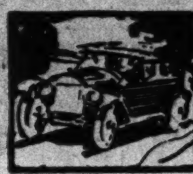
MOTORS AND MOTORCYCLES



Motoring After the War; What Cars Will Be Like.

By H. Massac Buist.

[Motoring Expert of the London Daily Mail.]

MOTORING being the youngest, and, at present, quite the most romantic and astonishingly vigorous branch of engineering, it behooves us rather to look ahead and recognize that, amazing as is that which has been accomplished in the two decades since it became a lawful movement in this country, nevertheless today we are but touching the fringe of its possibilities.

Twenty years ago it was unlawful to drive a motor vehicle at a faster speed than four miles an hour; it was classed as a locomotive, and it had to be preceded by a man on foot carrying a red flag. Later we dispensed with the services of the pedestrian banner bearer, but there were few car owners to take part in the drive from London to Brighton, with which that emancipation was celebrated, and still fewer cars capable of making that run without being patched up on the way.

There is no need to indulge in irresponsible prophecy. Instead we have merely to observe certain factors which obtain today and which in combination will predetermine the nature of passenger car development. The matter may be stated thus:

(a) The purchasing power of the community, which, class for class, will be much less than it was when war broke out.

(b) The progress of metallurgy in association with the world increase of steel output, and the resultant widening of the scope of the designer.

(c) The labor situation and the general growth of education concerning the profitableness of concentration of effort.

There will be two ways only of causing the private individual to buy a motor carriage after the war. Either you will produce it at such a price that it will be an economy for him to acquire it or you will embody in it such a combination of improvements, alike in design and materials, as will make him disgusted with the finest motor carriages so far available in any class, therefore you will tempt him successfully to part with his money.

It may be recalled that before the war manufacturers were wont to employ special steels for making cars solely for competition purposes. There were, however, a hundred and one reasons why they could not standardize engines of high output then, among them being the fact that the very special grade steels of which they must be fashioned were not commercially available. Again, the rank and file of each factory staff was not educated to such highly specialized work.

But the demands of war have compelled one motor maker after another to produce engines of more or less high output for aviation work. The original British designs that have proved practical are few in number, a remark which applies equally to the cases of France or Germany, for instance; but manufacturers are nevertheless gaining enormous experience because many who are unable to make high powered air craft engines of their own designing are reproducing them from designs evolved elsewhere.

The difference between war and peace work for engines of high output is this, that in peace time the individual manufacturer produces a few examples for competition work under what may be styled more or less nursery conditions in that the cream of his staff of mechanics is in constant attendance on them; whereas in war time engines of high output have to be standardized precisely as do those of touring cars and issued to the services, whereupon they are placed in charge of those who, for the most part, had never anything to do with this class of engineering construction before the war. Hence, experience is being gained on an immense scale.

There remains the question of price. The war has put an amazing premium on increase of steel production. The point that matters in this particular connection is that, alike in the case of this country and of any of the big engineering nations, post-war steel production capacity will be enormously in excess of normal requirements, as distinct from those of the brief reconstruction rush pediod.

Steel makers will find themselves in very keen competition one with another. Those who will succeed in filling their order books will be the firms which will commercialise higher and yet higher grades of steel. Of course, the way to make a better motor carriage is not merely to employ finer materials than hitherto; the possibilities of these materials must be realized to the full by utilizing them with worthy designs.

Probably, by concentration on one model per factory, and so forth, as far as the lowered price cars of ordinary design are concerned, no radical change will be witnessed for a spell. They will be more completely equipped for less money. But as regards higher grade production, including the matter of power for weight, we shall see startlingly fresh things in car design because the weight problem will be attacked to the saving of tires and petrol.

You will be able to maintain a motor carriage more cheaply, as well as find it more pleasurable to use, because it will be more flexible, and so forth. Certainly we shall see the more and more efficient overhead valve engine standardized for private car practice, with four valves per cylinder, the whole properly silenced.

The cylinder castings, as well as the axles and the longitudinal frame members of the car, for instance, will be made of the finest grade steels or of the latest aluminium alloys to save weight.

Lightness with commodiousness has not been attempted yet. Progress in this direction will lead us, unconsciously or otherwise, to realize that quality which in our childhood's days we associated with the Damascus blade. We must utilize the elasticity of modern metals more and more.

The automobile industry in Europe must suffer permanently because the war has enabled the American industry to develop to an unmatchable magnitude. But America has not yet produced engines of really high output in the sense which obtains today.

Moreover, any engineer who has studied aluminum alloy construction work—take the girder framework of a Zeppelin—will be aware that, apart from metals, there is the opportunity to employ design and workmanship in making cars that will be featherweights compared with what we know now. Why have springs weighing over a hundredweight apiece if you can build a long, light frame to absorb the shocks?

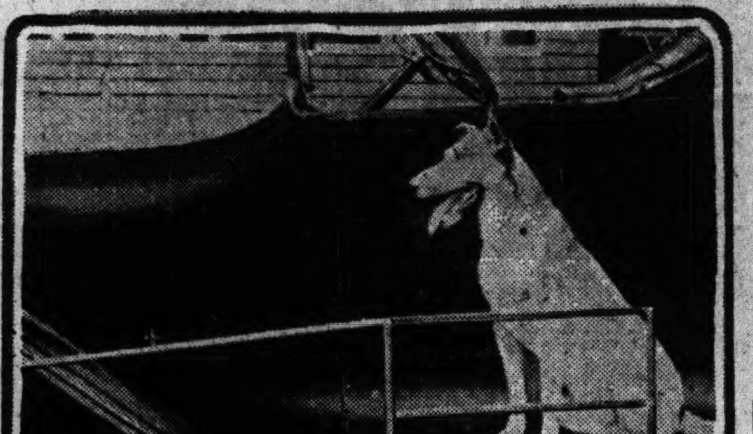
Of course, the fear will be that the price of such a vehicle must be beyond the purchasing power of the public. That is not so, for there remains always a sufficient proportion of the public which is ready to buy the new and the much more than ordinarily good thing for whatever price it is necessary to charge for it.

Hitherto, no matter what class of car we ride in, we have at least five hundredweight of machinery for each individual conveyed. After the war we may expect the best examples to scale two and a half hundredweight of machinery per person carried as a start towards seriously attacking the problem of motor vehicle weight. In less than five years from the time peace is concluded we shall regard the motor carriage of today as a heavyweight, even as twenty years and a day ago today the law regarded the slow, weak, little motor carriage that pioneered the world industry of today as a "locomotive."

Builds Aviation Field.

Henry B. Joy, chairman of the board of directors of the Packard Motor Car company, is an aviation enthusiast. During a recent tour of the national advisory committee for aeronautics much of the tourists' attention was devoted to an aviation field twenty-seven miles northeast of Detroit, which Mr. Joy has spent two years developing at his own expense. The committeemen were so laudatory in their comments on the field—570 level acres on the shore of Lake St. Clair—that it is considered likely the government will be asked to designate it as one of its aeronautical stations.

Berth for Dog on Car.



W. F. Parker of Pasadena, Cal., has solved the problem of carrying his dog safely on motoring trips without taking him into the car. Mr. Parker drives a Dodge Brothers car and when Gyp, his favorite four footed pal, fell off the open running board a couple of times and was bruised up, Mr. Parker went to a blacksmith and had the steel fence shown in the picture made for his car. Now Gyp rides in safety and is never in the way when the seats are occupied.

Gossip of the Auto Trade

The new Olympic, built by the Olympic Motors company of Pontiac, Mich., will be shown at the Hotel Sherman during the coming automobile show. Application was made for space at the Coliseum, but the fact that the concern is just entering the field would have placed the exhibit in the basement of the annex, so the hotel was chosen instead.

From the Mitchell factory at Racine, Wis., to Boston and back to San Francisco without repairs of any sort and only two punctures in a total of 6,832 miles is the record reported to Mitchell dealers in San Francisco by F. A. Chamberlain of Merced, Cal. Mr. Chamberlain made the trip in a Mitchell Mid-Season Six.

A series of moving pictures showing in detail the manufacture and operation of Packards—both trucks and pleasure cars—will be shown on Wednesday evening at the Packard service building, 2338 Indiana avenue. A general invitation has been extended to owners and drivers of Packards to be present.

According to the figures of Sales Manager Al Reeke, sales of Jeffery cars during the month of November, just closed, show an increase of 381 per cent over the corresponding month of last year. All records for business have been broken, says Mr. Reeke, during the three months that C. W. Nash has been president of the Nash Motors company, organized recently to take over the Jeffery plant. Despite the general tendency to increase prices, it is announced that the price of the Jeffery "four" is to remain unchanged.

"There are many striking things about the new Premier," says James Levy, the Chicago distributor, "but, of course, the magnetic gear shift and the aluminum bloc motor are the greatest points of interest. It is a fact not generally known that this principle of the magnetic gear shift, new in automobiles, has been used for some time in the control of battleships and even in the operation of jackknife bridges."

B. G. Koether, general sales manager of the Hyatt Roller Bearing company, reports an interesting array of detailed statistics, which have just come into his hands, showing the number of automobiles in use throughout the world. The figures, corrected up to June 1916, indicate that a total of 3,108,472 machines were then in use. The United States had 2,400,000, by far the greatest number—Great Britain came second with 2[illegible]6,699, and France third with 98,400. The island of British North Borneo reported the smallest number, five. Samoa had twice as many.

Ground has been broken for the new plant of the Saxon Motor Car corporation on land recently purchased by the company in Detroit, Mich. The site of the new automobile factory for Saxon comprises nearly forty acres fronting on the terminal railroad and affording excellent shipping facilities.

The Pellet Magneto company has moved from 1606 Michigan avenue to 2453 South Wabash avenue, and with a larger plant, equipped with modern machinery, is now in a position to give its patrons better service than heretofore in the ignition, starting, and lighting line.

In order to bring the name of the company and the name of the car into perfect harmony, the H. A. Lozier company of Cleveland, O., has been reincorporated as the Hal Motor Car company. The product of this company, which has been known as the H. A. L. twelve, will continue under practically the same name, with the periods dropped—the name becoming Hal twelve.

A new series of Mercer cars, known as 22-73 models, has just been announced by the Mercer Automobile company of Trenton, N. J. This latest series follows closely to the lines of the preceding models, the pleasing streamline effect which has characterized Mercer cars for the last two years being closely adhered to. Changes and improvements are observed, but they are only in the nature of refinements. Consistent with its well known policy, Mercer still holds to the exclusive manufacture of four cylinder motors, its entire effort being concentrated on one type of chassis.

I am planning to join an automobile party and tour from Detroit to Miami and other southern Florida points, and would like to ask your opinion as to the advisability of starting the trip so late in the season. Will you please give me a few pointers on the route? I understand the Dixie highway is a fine route to follow. Would one be likely to encounter any bad roads going that way?

B. W. J., Detroit, Mich.

Naturally this is rather late in the year to undertake a long tour in this section of the country, as there is a strong possibility of cold and snowy weather that would make touring anything but easy or pleasant. However, if the weather remains fairly good, such a trip might be made. The Dixie highway, like most of the other great highways that traverse the country, is good in many places but bad in others, and those who use it in going south must expect to encounter some hardships. The road between Monroe and Toledo is under construction, and I would advise you to go to Indianapolis via Ypsilanti, Clinton, Adrian, Wauseon, Bryan, Fort Wayne, Huntington, and Marion. At Indianapolis take the Dixie highway and go through Louisville and Nashville. Owing to the bad condition of the road over the Cumberland mountains, it will be necessary to go about 100 miles out of the way in order to reach Chattanooga. The detour runs through Huntsville, Scottsboro, Bridgeport, and Jasper. From Chattanooga on you would have the choice of two routes, via Savannah and via Waycross. The latter is the shorter, but the former has more historic interest. When you pass through Chattanooga I would advise you to call at the office of the Dixie Highway association for detailed information regarding the route.

How should one proceed in driving a car from Portland, Ind., to Macon, Miss.? Please state the condition of the roads at this time of the year and name the principal places along the route.

S. M. E., Muncie, Ind.

Drive to Indianapolis via Anderson, and then take the Dixie highway to Nashville. From that point go through Columbia, Tenn.; Tuscumbia, Ala.; Corinth, Miss.; Tupelo, and West Point to Macon. The stretch between Tuscumbia and Corinth is pretty bad, but the balance is fairly good. An optional route from Nashville would be via Birmingham, Tuscaloosa, and Carrolton, Ala., but it is not quite as good as the first named way.

I should like to get some information regarding the length of the Dixie highway, the states it traverses, and the large cities it passes through. Where could I obtain some pamphlets containing that and other information?

T. L. E., Moline, Ill.

The approximate length of the Dixie highway is 4,500 miles, and it traverses eight states—Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, and Florida. By writing the Dixie Highway association, Chattanooga, Tenn., you may receive gratis maps and pamphlets with detailed information.

A little information, please, regarding Hudson cars. Do they have Timken axles? How long has the concern been making cars and when did it make the first six cylinder machine? I would be pleased to receive this and any other additional information you may have.

C. P. A., Red Wing, Minn.

The Hudson cars carry Timken axles. The first Hudson car was made in 1910, and since then the growth of the company's business has been phenomenal. The first six came out in 1913. Why do you not write to the Hudson Motor Car company, Detroit, Mich., for a catalogue and learn all the details regarding the car?

What is the best nonfreezing solution to put in the radiator for winter driving? Is denatured or wood alcohol bad to use and is some kind of a salt solution better?

K. McD., Chicago.

Avoid the use of salt solutions, as most of them have a tendency to rot the rubber hose connections. The best thing to use is either denatured or wood alcohol, which may or may not be combined with glycerin to keep the temperature down and prevent it from heating too quickly and evaporating. See the automobile section of Nov. 12, which contained the formula and a table showing the degrees at which the water in the radiator would freeze.

Owing to the large volume of inquiries for automobile routes and the relatively small amount of space in which to answer them, readers wishing immediate replies are advised to inclose a 2 cent stamp with inquiries so they may be answered by mail. Only routes and answers to questions of general interest will be published.

How a cigarette can be sensible

Take Fatimas, for instance. They are always cool and comfortable to the throat and tongue. And they leave you feeling fine and "fit" even after a long-smoking day. Because their Turkish blend of pure tobaccos is so delicately balanced, Fatimas are sure to be comfortable. That's sensible, isn't it?

And Fatimas are dependable. They never vary. They will taste just as good to you a year from now as they do today. That, too, is sensible.

It's worth your while to try Fatimas.

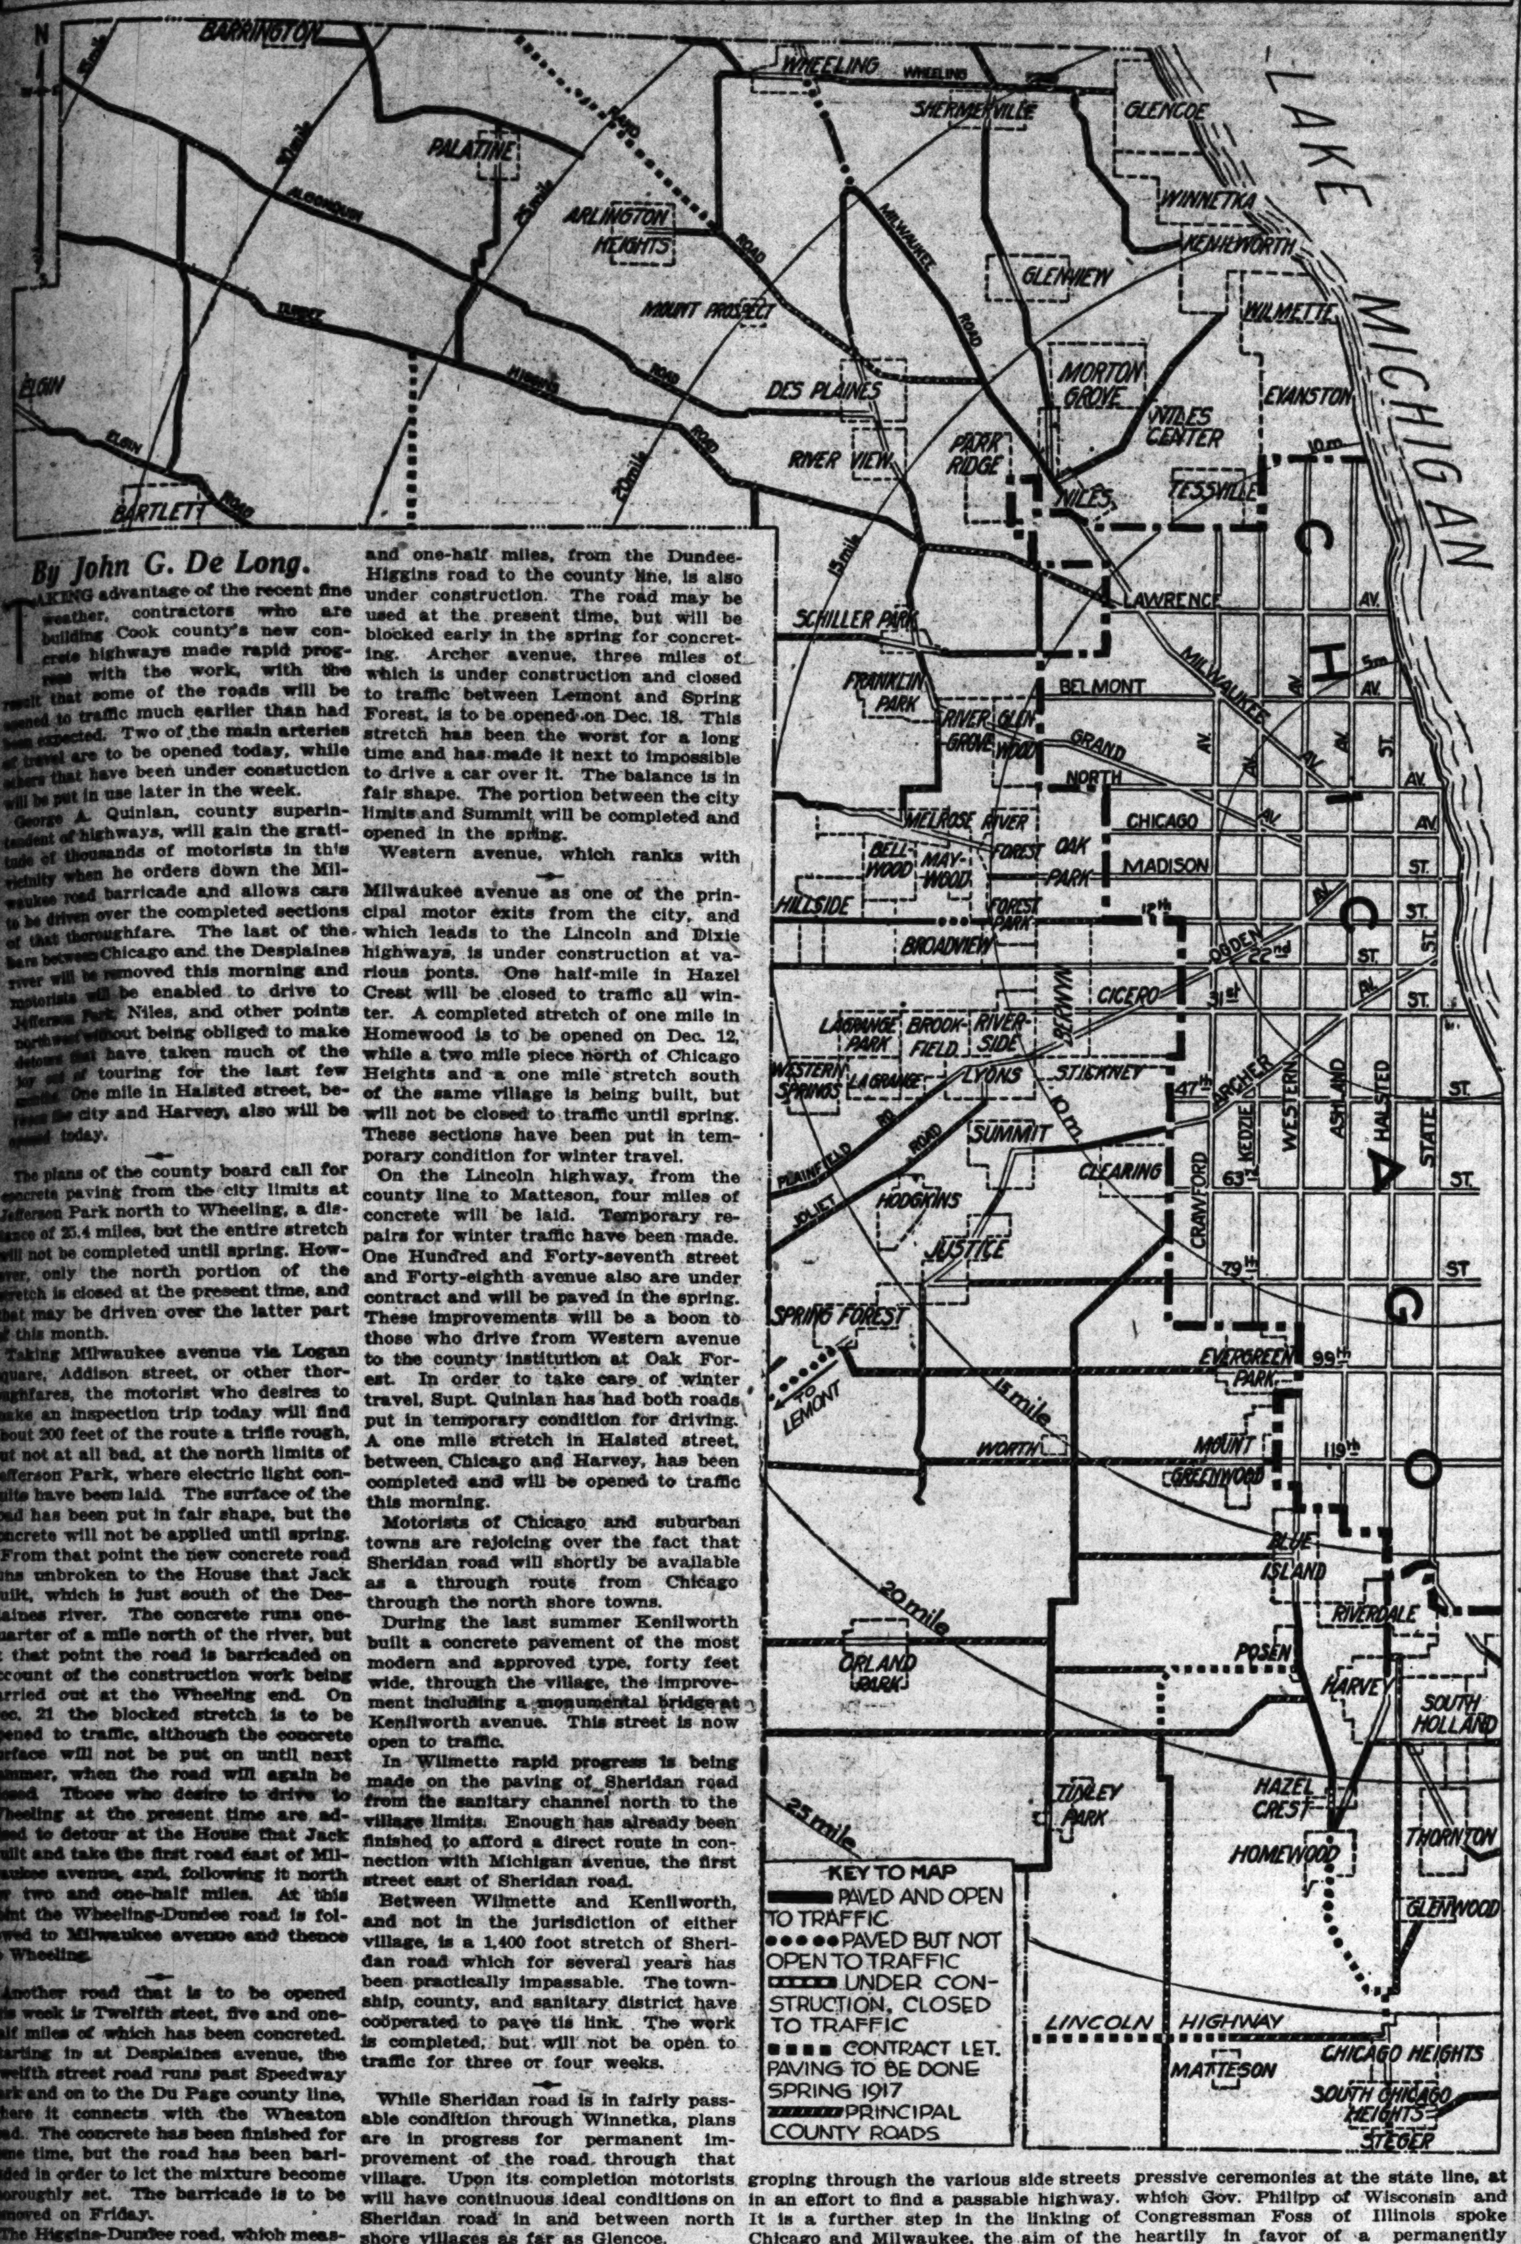
Open New Concrete Roads in Cook County



By John G. De Long.

Taking advantage of the recent fine weather, contractors who are building Cook county's new concrete highways made rapid progress with the work, with the result that some of the roads will be opened to traffic much earlier than had been expected. Two of the main arteries of travel are to be opened today, while others that have been under constuction will be put in use later in the week.

George A. Quinlan, county superintendent of highways, will gain the gratitude of thousands of motorists in this vicinity when he orders down the Milwaukee road barricade and allows cars to be driven over the completed sections of that thoroughfare. The last of the bars between Chicago and the Desplaines river will be removed this morning and motorists will be enabled to drive to Jefferson Park, Niles, and other points northwest without being obliged to make detours that have taken much of the joy out of touring for the last few months. One mile in Halsted street, between the city and Harvey, also will be opened today.

The plans of the county board call for concrete paving from the city limits at Jefferson Park north to Wheeling, a distance of 25.4 miles, but the entire stretch will not be completed until spring. However, only the north portion of the stretch is closed at the present time, and that may be driven over the latter part of this month.

Taking Milwaukee avenue via Logan square, Addison street, or other thoroughfares, the motorist who desires to make an inspection trip today will find about 200 feet of the route a trifle rough, but not at all bad, at the north limits of Jefferson Park, where electric light conduits have been laid. The surface of the road has been put in fair shape, but the concrete will not be applied until spring.

From that point the new concrete road runs unbroken to the House that Jack Built, which is just south of the Desplaines river. The concrete runs one-quarter of a mile north of the river, but at that point the road is barricaded on account of the construction work being carried out at the Wheeling end. On Dec. 21 the blocked stretch is to be opened to traffic, although the concrete surface will not be put on until next summer, when the road will again be closed. Those who desire to drive to Wheeling at the present time are advised to detour at the House that Jack Built and take the first road east of Milwaukee avenue, and, following it north for two and one-half miles. At this point the Wheeling-Dundee road is followed to Milwaukee avenue and thence to Wheeling.

Another road that is to be opened this week is Twelfth steet, five and one-half miles of which has been concreted. Starting in at Desplaines avenue, the Twelfth street road runs past Speedway park and on to the Du Page county line, where it connects with the Wheaton road. The concrete has been finished for some time, but the road has been baricaded in order to let the mixture become thoroughly set. The barricade is to be removed on Friday.

The Higgins-Dundee road, which measures twenty-five miles and is the longest road of the Cook county system, has six miles under construction and will be opened in the spring. Next summer the work of concreting the entire road will be carried out. The Rand road, which runs northwest to Lake Zurich, is under contract for eleven miles of concrete, which eventually will give the tourist a fine run from Milwaukee avenue to the county line, or within four miles of Lake Zurich. The stretch between Milwaukee avenue and Arlington Heights is to be opened on Dec. 21.

The Schaumberg road, which runs four and one-half miles, from the Dundee-Higgins road to the county line, is also under construction. The road may be used at the present time, but will be blocked early in the spring for concreting. Archer avenue, three miles of which is under construction and closed to traffic between Lemont and Spring Forest, is to be opened on Dec. 18. This stretch has been the worst for a long time and has made it next to impossible to drive a car over it. The balance is in fair shape. The portion between the city limits and Summit will be completed and opened in the spring.

Western avenue, which ranks with Milwaukee avenue as one of the principal motor exits from the city, and which leads to the Lincoln and Dixie highways, is under construction at various ponts. One half-mile in Hazel Crest will be closed to traffic all winter. A completed stretch of one mile in Homewood is to be opened on Dec. 12, while a two mile piece north of Chicago Heights and a one mile stretch south of the same village is being built, but will not be closed to traffic until spring. These sections have been put in temporary condition for winter travel.

On the Lincoln highway, from the county line to Matteson, four miles of concrete will be laid. Temporary repairs for winter traffic have been made. One Hundred and Forty-seventh street and Forty-eighth avenue also are under contract and will be paved in the spring. These improvements will be a boon to those who drive from Western avenue to the county institution at Oak Forest. In order to take care of winter travel, Supt. Quinlan has had both roads put in temporary condition for driving. A one mile stretch in Halsted street, between Chicago and Harvey, has been completed and will be opened to traffic this morning.

Motorists of Chicago and suburban towns are rejoicing over the fact that Sheridan road will shortly be available as a through route from Chicago through the north shore towns.

During the last summer Kenilworth built a concrete pavement of the most modern and approved type, forty feet wide, through the village, the improvement including a monumental bridge at Kenilworth avenue. This street is now open to traffic.

In Wilmette rapid progress is being made on the paving of Sheridan road from the sanitary channel north to the village limits. Enough has already been finished to afford a direct route in connection with Michigan avenue, the first street east of Sheridan road.

Between Wilmette and Kenilworth, and not in the jurisdiction of either village, is a 1,400 foot stretch of Sheridan road which for several years has been practically impassable. The township, county, and sanitary district have coöperated to pave tis link. The work is completed, but will not be open to traffic for three or four weeks.

While Sheridan road is in fairly passable condition through Winnetka, plans are in progress for permanent improvement of the road through that village. Upon its completion motorists will have continuous ideal conditions on Sheridan road in and between north shore villages as far as Glencoe.

Thus, motorists may enjoy the beauties of the north shore towns without groping through the various side streets in an effort to find a passable highway. It is a further step in the linking of Chicago and Milwaukee, the aim of the Sheridan Road Improvement association, which several weeks ago held impressive ceremonies at the state line, at which Gov. Philipp of Wisconsin and Congressman Foss of Illinois spoke heartily in favor of a permanently paved highway giving uninterrupted passage from Chicago to Milwaukee.

Motor Notes.

Heretofore, while the general advantages of auxiliary feed systems for automobiles have been freely ackowledged for low speed, it has been found impossible with any auxiliary feed system to maintain a high average speed, owing to the fact that with the throttle wide open the auxiliary tank quickly became drained. These difficulties the Church gasoline feed claims to have overcome. Like other devices of the kind produced during the last few years, Church gasoline feed employs, in addition to the regular full tank, an auxiliary tank located on the dash or other convenient place from which gasoline is fed directly to the carburetor by gravity. This, however, is the only point of resemblance between the Church system and others. The Church auxiliary tank is kept filled by an ingenious check valve mounted usually in place of the petcock on the rear cylinder which supplies the necessary pressure for the transfer of gasoline from one tank to the other.

PREPAREDNESS 'PLUS

I differ with the prophet who declares we're on the bum,
That when it comes to fighting we're the residue and scum,
We may not have a navy that amounts to 30 cents,
Our army may be full of prunes and apertures and vents,
But what care we for armies or for navies or for guns?
For ammunition, strategy, or even sturdy sons?
No enemy would dare to harm our humble habitats.
We'd tell our William Farnum and he'd kick 'em in the slats.

For have you seen our Farnum slap an engine off the track,
And chase a mob to helangon and sometimes half-way back?
And have you seen him stand a king upon his royal ear
And beat a faithful army to a palpitating smear?
How gracefully he hits a big gazabo on the nose
And presto: undertakers and some flowers and repose!
So do not fear the English or the German or the Jap.
Just notify Bill Farnum and he'll chase 'em off the map.

Then let us offer up our thanks that this is even thus,
Let's thank a kindly Providence for taking care of us,
For handing us a Farnum to protect our kith and kin,
A Farnum who can give the foe a swift one on the chin.
For should a foreign country grow pernickity or raw
We'll laugh our girlish tee hee hee and likewise haw haw haw.
Have we not William Farnum to defend the mountain pass?
We have, and William Farnum, girls, can run 'em out of gas.

Plan Go1geous Auto Show.

The pomp and majesty of medieval days, the art and brilliance of the renaissance, will become tributary to modern masterpieces of utility at the National Automobile show when it opens in the Coliseum on Jan. 27. The scenic setting has been designed and executed at a cost of $50,000 for the world's greatest trade exhibition.

This marvelous background for automobiles and accessories of 1917 is the achievement of Charles J. Tietzel and his force of artists. An idea of the magnitude of the work is conveyed by the fact that the initial plans for the decorations of the 1917 show were approved last March by General Manager Samuel A. Miles and work was started immediately.

The visitor at the approaching automobile show will need to exert his imagination only a trifle to visualize his surroundings as the stupendous, embattled, yet ecclesiastical interior of an ancient English castle. The scheme of decoration and illusion is a union of the medieval and early English renaissance. One novelty in the decorative idea will be mural panels of scenic art glass. Globes ornamented in art glass, atop gigantic pillars, will add impressive touches to the illumination, and from the heights 200 illuminated art glass clusters will suspend.

At the north and south ends of the Coliseum will be seen the most massive mural decorations ever designed for any exhibition. These sections of the ornamental scheme will be significant of the automobile industry, its growth and world-wide power There will also be a series of panels on which will appear the symbolic figures of Progress, Industry, Peace, Charity, Hope, Faith, Literature, Music, and Science. Other panels will depict the arts and crafts which contribute to the greatness of the automobile industry. There will be a novel treatment of painted flowers in the balcony facings.

The prevailing tones of the decorative ensemble will be amber, green, old rose, and black. These will be utilized lavishly in trappings and trimmings of royal splendor. A sense of sturdiness amid this plethora of beauties will be contributed by the columns, set at intervals upon solid bases of mahogany, which mark the exhibitors' sections.

The scheme will be followed out almost to the point of duplication in the First Regiment armory, and there will also be conformity in the decorations of the Coliseum annex and Greer buildings. In addition to being the most gorgeous and the costliest scenic background ever arranged for a national automobile show, it will be the "most ready." Artist Tietzel announces that were it necessary the decorations would be in shape for installation as early as Jan. 1.

Near Tampa, Florida's Greatest City!

Best location in all Florida. Right in the very vicinity of beautiful Tampa, the coming Los Angeles of the South. Your Dixie Estate will be near fine, palm-bordered boulevards, railroad stations, schools, churches, etc. And the soil! You could not buy better land for fruit growing at any price. The trees we plant on your Dixie Estate are the very finest obtainable—budded, pedigreed stock, grown by experts. We own and operate extensive nurseries. Therefore, we give you a big advantage in our development of Dixie Estates. Climate is ideal for fruit-growing and wonderful to live in.

Oranges, Grapefruit and Avocadoes! Three fruits famous as money makers planted on your Dixie Estate. The Avocado (commonly called Alligator Pear) is known as the Aristocrat of Fruits. The supply is so limited that in the northern cities only the rich can afford to pay the prices it sells for. In December, 1915, Avocadoes sold in Chicago at the almost unbelievable price of $3 and $4 each.

Past and present prices for these three fruits show an earning power of from $1,000 to $1,500 a year for one-acre Dixie Estates and proportionately upwards of that amount for larger size tracts. Even one-half or one-third of these returns, to be ultra-conservative, would show a profit of nearly 100% on your investment annually.

Richard E. Tucker, who came from Minneapolis two months ago to become advertising manager of the Louis Geyler company, Chicago distributor of the Hudson super-six, has been made retail sales manager of the organization. Mr. Tucker also retains control of the advertising, as part of a plan to associate the advertising and selling departments more closely. With the completion of the new service building at Twenty-fifth street and Indiana avenue, and with ground broken for a north side service building in Wilson avenue, near Sheridan road, Geyler service is making long strides.

G. W. Stratton, secretary and manager of the King Motor company, has perfected an automobile top of his own. The top is detachable, is made to fit any make of car, and has sides which can be readily removed by motorists who do not care for a completely open car in fine weather.

Only the "best of everything," says President Hollingshead of the Western Motor Car company, distributor of the Stearns-Knight, has been used in the new closed cars he is handling. French and Italian walnut is used for the interior woodwork and paneling, heavily chased bronze hardware, specially designed, harmonizes with the color scheme of upholstery and hangings, and the "fixings" include foot cushions, a fatigue pillow, a specially designed chauffer's megaphone, vanity box, smoking set, Waltham eight day clock, umbrella holder, and glass flower vase.

For all automobile owners who install the Dann instert, a self-lubricating springleaf bearing, the Fred Allen Automobile Supply company is adding 1,500 miles to the regular guarantee of every make of tire it sells. The extra guarantee is made possible, it is explained, by the extent to which the spring insert relieves the tires of road jars and shocks.

Nearly 6,000 dealers, their employés, and their guests are expected at the Overland dealers' convention, which opens tomorrow at the Willys-Overland factory in Toledo. Twenty-eight special trains will bring the visitors from all parts of the country.

FOR YOUR "DOG'S SAKE"
IT'S A CONSTANT NEED!

The conditions under which dogs became the wonderful animals they are have dangerously changed. Town and city life weakens their resistance to disease; and an attack of worms in a dog is the "handwriting on the wall" that foretells the victim's quick decline unless something definite is done quickly. Worms open an easy way to the deadliest maladies.

Vermilax Worm Remedy is given with frequent regularity to dogs by prominent breeders and noted dog owners to exclude or remove worms from the animal's system. This latter it does invariably within an hour's time.

For worms and as an all-round conditioner and tonic, Vermilax Worm Remedy is highly appreciated on the mountainsides of Alaska, where the shaggy sledge-dog's endurance is a bulwark against hardship, and in the Blue Ribbon kennels of wealthy exhibitors in every corner of "the States" "Vermilax" dogs are never "off their feed." We can supply you with Vermilax Worm Remedy or any of the other of the celebrated Vermilax Remedies for dogs.

THE NEW EPOCH.

"We approach," said the German chancellor to an American interviewer, "the subject of epoch making events. On the morrow is to be introduced in the reichstag an act incorporating into the direct service of the empire all the strength of its manhood between the ages of 17 and 60."

Never, he added with absolute truth, has there been a mobilization of national energy on a scale so great.

A few days ago Ambassador Gerard reported that "hereafter Germany will do her buying as a unit." That is, the various industries will report what they need of raw material and it will be bought by government agency.

That will mean that our producers will not be selling to an army of competing individuals but to one great customer. The German plan is likely to force some similar step on the part of her rivals, so that producers may be selling not to thousands of individuals but to half a dozen customers, each a government with a nation's resources back of it. The British government is already buying wheat and other civilian supplies in large quantities.

These two tremendous facts, the mobilization of all the active manhood of a nation of seventy millions directly under state control and the taking over of the whole buying function of her manufacturers and merchants by government, are the two longest strides ever taken toward complete state socialism. Germany has been developing this highly organized collectivism for a generation. Her people are committed to it. But Germany is now committing all of Europe to the same development. Even in individualistic England the iron hand of military necessity is transforming the national organization. There is both military and industrial conscription. A cabinet minister recently announced that measures to control food consumption are in preparation. The operations of industrial Britain are coming more and more under government control. Plans for collective commercial action after the war are being worked out among the entente allies. The central powers are planning for a great zollverein or bulwark of tariffs and commercial regulations for middle Europe.

In short, one of the great changes in world organization is taking place under our eyes. If there are such things as epochs, a new epoch is dawning. It may be pointed out that the measures now being taken in Europe are war measures and will pass with the coming of peace. They will not pass entirely, for indeed there is to be no such peace as will permit any nation to fall back into the lower national organization of the past. Every measure taken during the war to heighten a people's power, to economize their collective resources, and more effectively to direct their collective energies will be retained so far as it has been successful and can be applied under peace conditions in "the war after the war"; that is, in a world-wide struggle of economic rivalry.

Mankind has never known before the organization of collective wills and intelligences and material resources which this mighty war has brought forth. Every great nation is becoming morally and materially a more intense entity than ever before. Collectivism or socialism, in democratic and autocratic forms, is the world system. This may be what Herbert Spencer called the coming slavery. In due course of time it will bring a reaction or give birth to some still higher form of human organization. Meanwhile it is for us to confront the tremendous facts before us and to realize that, whether we distrust their beneficence or welcome them as human progress, we must deal with them. The optimistic indifference which is a marked characteristic of American thought must give place not to pessimistic fears or discouragement but to a courageous and realistic study of the world movement and a practical adaptation of its lessons to our own interests and needs. We cannot meet the highest organization man has developed with the loose and wasteful if pleasant individualism of our American scheme. We must learn a higher, closer form of collective effort. We must learn to concentrate and direct our common resources. We must learn to think in terms of our whole huge community, and to demand of individuals, groups, and classes a greater subservience to the common welfare and a greater loyalty to the common life.

This is all opposed to our indulgent mood. We may refuse to read the lessons Europe is writing in giant deeds across the page of history. We may not learn until misfortune teaches us. But certainly if we do not learn by way of our intelligence we shall learn by bitter experience.

CENSORSHIP ZEAL.

Some day the American adult is going to get mad and revolt. He is going to revolt against being treated like a neurotic child of 16 with criminal tendencies. He is going to be sick of living on mush and milk experiences and go in for a real gorge. He is going to have Maud Allan and her dancers with every meal if he wants to.

In ten years maternal admonitions and prohibitions have extended themselves to the grown-up. Equally with the unruly child he feels the warm and stinging maternal hand. Because it is inadvisable to let the child wander out of the family lot the gate is locked for him also. Because the children's moral legs are not directed wisely enough to take them safely across the street of experience, he cannot cross the street either.

It is getting so that some energetic protective force will insist on chopping down the tree of knowledge because the children insist on climbing in it.

It is already scarcely worth while growing up. There won't be any reason for wanting to do so in a few years more. The elimination of everything which might damage in some fashion or other an underdeveloped child of 16 will pretty well clean out everything. It will be an eviscerated country, flat and safe—perhaps. But we should all have moral rickets.

UNMANNERED YOUTH.

Reports persist that the youth of our society, the favored darlings of circumstances and wards of fortune, are becoming, or have become, Bœotian in their habits. They drink as the Thracians do and behave otherwise as Hottentots, being unmannered and unlicked cubs, distressing the matrons and alarming the virgins by strange customs.

Of such large proportions has the evil become that editorials upon the subject have been printed in newspapers closer to the dancing world than THE TRIBUNE is. Our young dancing men, it seems, have become not only extremely bored but extremely rude. Their wish is not to be devoted to beauty and courteous to their elders but to slouch through the parties to which they have been invited, elbow their way into the smoking room, order in strong liquors, and behave in a graceless fashion while the girls warm the walls with their backs and the matrons warm the air with their comment.

It may seem insignificant that the jeunesse dorée have taken to strange habits and strong drink and we must confess that some of the editorial comment had the seeming of shooting rabbits with machine guns, but reflection gives a different aspect to the matter.

Lack of discipline is a characteristic of a people who have created luxury without assuming obligation. Noblesse oblige saves the character of people who are treated to the easy conditions of life. It imposes higher duties as life gives greater comforts.

The aristocracy of nations in Europe is raised in this conception of life because the nations of Europe are disciplined nations. The samurai code is becoming alien to American thought. We once had a touch of it. When the nation was more nearly a nation than it is now, when it was dominated by New England thought, manners, and customs, graceless as many of them were, it had a national idea which since has become confused.

This national idea, it seems to us, is expressed rather well in the bas relief of Shaw of Massachusetts at the head of his Negro regiment. There was forceful idealism and determination. Shaw died at the head of that regiment of men who had been slaves, died for a principle and willingly. Life was not to him or to the men of his times and breeding a lollipop. It was a moral and physical struggle in which man did the best he could according to his conscience and took the pain.

Manners are the expression of a people's idea of life and where the ideas are loose and undisciplined the manners will be expressive of their thought.

It is of no importance to the structure of the American nation that a few young men in large cities have been brought up without good breeding unless that fact be symptomatic of general conditions. Lack of discipline and lack of obligation may come to lack of consideration for other people, to shameful egotism, and to the breaking down of needed conventions.

Life must be decorated by manners, strengthened by discipline, and made worth while by principles. It cannot be a disordered composition of free desires and inconsiderate habits.

We believe in taking the youth of a nation and opening its eyes to some of the realities of life in a sharp fashion, teaching the unescapable lessons of obedience and submission, and ironing out the nasty qualities of egotism and selfishness. We are for universal military service as a moral tonic as well as a measure of national defense.

A few years after this nation has been sending its young men to the barracks there will be fewer parents wondering how they can correct their sentimental viciousness in dealing with their boys and fewer women wondering why courtesy and manhood need part company.

COMPETENT ADMINISTRATION.

Citizens interested in social and industrial legislation in Illinois are hoping that the incoming administration will place a new emphasis on enforcement. The public is inclined to think a reform is accomplished when a law is signed. We forget that the reform is then only at the threshold. Enforcement is more than 50 per cent, and Illinois is no exception to the American rule of sweeping legislation and inefficient administration.

We have some good social laws won after hard fighting, and largely lost by neglect after the battle was presumably won. Our industrial laws are not efficiently administered, and much of their value to the state is thereby wasted. The Juvenile Protective association, for example, has called attention to incompetent or negligent prosecution of the child labor and woman's ten hour laws, and it is hoped the inspection department will be put on a much higher footing by Gov. Lowden.

We are entering the day of expert administration, and the expert is needed for the thorough enforcement of industrial statutes. Illinois should employ a professional safety engineer to administer the factory laws, and a competent lawyer should be employed to advise and prosecute. If present compensation is not adequate, proper salaries should be fixed.

Editorial of the Day

GUARDING THE BALLOT NORTH AND SOUTH.

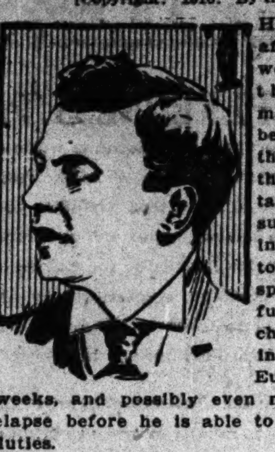
[From the Minneapolis Tribune.]

The federal government is sending into Minnesota secret service agents to see that the Republicans do not steal the vote of this state from Mr. Wilson. Of course this is the proper thing everywhere, but the administration, which is watching over the integrity of the ballot box in Minnesota, does not appear to be at all concerned over the fact that in a large section of the country from which Democratic electoral votes can always be counted upon as an absolute certainty there are approximately 6,000,000 of disfranchised people. They are counted in the determination of the basis of representation in congress and the representation in congress fixes the representation in the electoral college. So that, through the practical exclusion from the polls of the Negroes of the south, although legally entitled to the ballot, and in very many cases better qualified to use it than many of the whites who drive them from the polls, the election results are determined to the extent of 126 electoral votes before the ballots are even cast.

If the representation in the electoral college were based upon the number of votes cast and honestly counted, Mr. Wilson would not be the president of the United States after the fourth of March, and the patience of the people of the north, of Minnesota, for instance, with rank discrimination of this character against themselves in the electoral college is not easy to account for on any other ground than ignorance of the facts.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

[Copyright: 1916: By the Brentwood Co.]



THE Duc de Noailles, after escaping every wound and harm during the twenty-eight months or more he has been at the front and in the trenches fighting the Germans, as a captain of infantry, has sustained such severe injuries through a motorcycle accident while spending a few days on furlough at his historic chateau of Maintenon, in the department of the Eure-et-Loir, that many weeks, and possibly even months, are likely to elapse before he is able to resume his military duties.

Married to the only sister of the Duc de Luynes, and with three children, the eldest of whom, a boy, bears the title of Duke of Ayen, he will be remembered on this side of the Atlantic as having been for several years president of the association by Baron Pierre de Coubertin for the purpose of promoting French influences in the universities and educational centers of the United States. It is a society that dines together once a year, on Washingon's birthday.

His father also devoted much attention to America, the late duke having been the author of a monumental volume entitled "One Hundred Years of Democracy in the United States."

The late duke's younger brother, the Marquis de Noailles, who died six years ago, spent several years at Washington as minister plenipotentiary of France.

Anna de Noailles, widow of Antoine de Noailles, sixth Duke of Mouchy, and grandmother of the present and seventh Duc de Mouchy and Prince-Duke de Poix, was born in the United States at Bordentown, N. J., as Princess Anna Murat, of an American mother, who was Miss Caroline Fraser of Philadelphia. Moreover, several of the De Noailles figured among those French nobles who came in the train of the Marquis de Lafayette to the United States to fight in the latter's war of independence.

Maintenon, where the present Duke de Noailles is now recovering from his injuries, was a present from Louis XIV. to his morganatic wife, Mme. de Maintenon, who, in turn, gave it to her niece, wife of a member of the De Noailles family. The castle was built during the reign of Louis XII., and the towers and chapel of that epoch are standing at this day. Mme. de Maintenon built the right and left wings. The gallery in the left wing is adorned with portraits of the De Noailles from the first crusade down to the present time, the family tracing its descent in an unbroken line back to the year A. D. 1028.

It was Hugues de Noailles who, when sailing for the Holy Land, in the crusade of St. Louis in 1248, signed a deed according to which his lands and name were always to descend exclusively in the male line. The dukedom was created in the seventeenth century, and the present duke is the eighth of the line.

According to a royal decree enacted in 1737 and never yet repealed, the eldest son of the Duke de Noailles for the time being always bears the title of Duke of Ayen, and among the other dignities are a grandeeship of the first class of Spain, dating from 1712, and the hereditary priorship of the French League of the Sovereign Order of Malta. The house of Noailles has furnished four field marshals, six ambassadors, forty generals, a cardinal, and a grand admiral to France.

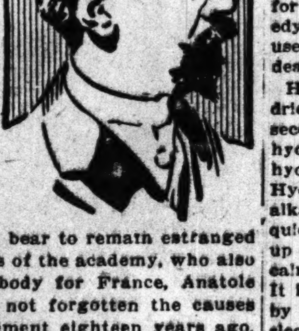
France Back in Academy.



PARIS.—[Special.]—Perfect peace reigns today in the French academy for the first time in eighteen years as the result of the return of Anatole France.

That a "sacred union" of the Forty Immortals of the French academy is at last a reality is due solely to the "sacred union" that has everywhere else been attained in France in the moment of her great crisis. Declaring that when all France is united to the last man, woman, and child in the supreme effort to save "La Patrie" he could not bear to remain estranged from his fellow members of the academy, who also are working soul and body for France, Anatole France has forgiven if not forgotten the causes that led to his estrangement eighteen years ago. His return to the sittings of the French academy is one of the benefits which the war has conferred on France.

Just what led to Anatole France's estrangement has never been definitely known. It was in 1896 that France was elected a member of the academy—usually considered the highest honor that can be attained in French life. For two years he attended regularly the meetings of the academy, then suddenly abandoned them altogether, and for eighteen years never entered the door of the Palace Mazarin.

Yankee Saves 25,000 Lives.

LONDON.—[Special.]—The champion life saver of the world is probably George F. Gracey, late of the American mission in Armenia. To Gracey's credit are 25,000 lives.

The story of how this modern Moses shepherded his enormous flock out of the Armenian province of Van just ahead of the hungry hand of the advancing Turk has just reached western civilization.

Gracey, the only western white man in the district, was advised by the Russian military authorities to get his Armenians to safety. Across Lake Van Gracey could see the flare of burning buildings and hear the sound of Turkish guns. The Turks had just retaken the town of Mush from the Russians and were pouring on through Armenia, dealing heavy blows to all Armenians, men and women alike, as fast as they met them.

The nearest point of safety for Gracey's flock was Igdiah, 150 miles away. The Russians could offer no protection along the only route of exit which lay through the pass of Bekri-Kala, a lonely mountain outlet, infested by bandit Kurds. The American mission representative overcame this embarrassment by arming 200 of his Armenian men.

After a hot fight they seized the mountain pass and put an enemy many times their number to flight. One thousand refugees an hour passed through the Russian lines into the pass. When the procession was fully on its way, including 6,000 cattle, it took two days to pass a given point. The march continued for five days. Improvised stoves of flat stones cooked unleavened bread for the refugees en route.

PROFIT IN DRUG PLANTS.

DEAN DAY of the University of Illinois, in addressing a meeting of the Illinois Pharmaceutical association, told of a farmer's wife who during 1916 had made $1,500 from a small patch of belladonna and of a druggist who had planted a plot back of his drug store with hydrastis and therefrom had made $300 in a single season and with very little effort.

Belladonna leaves which before the war sold at 25 cents a pound are now selling at $4 a pound. Hydrastis or golden seal is now selling at $4 a pound. The rise in price of almost all plants used as medicines is nearly as great and, in some instances, much greater. The reason is not difficult to find. Many of the plants most popular as the source of drugs are grown by the countries now engaged in war. Not only are the warring lands consuming an undue quantity or drugs but production has been greatly curtailed.

In the main the growing of drug plants is done by housewives. The woman of the house will have a small patch in her garden in which she will grow belladonna, digitalis, hydrastis, or some other drugs. She tends the plants, gathers them, and sells them for pin money. Since the war began the women of the warring countries have been too busy with other duties to keep up their little plant patches.

The United States government is endeavoring to persuade the women of this country to take up the growing of drug plants. The department of agriculture will furnish information about drug plants to inquirers. To help spread this information is one reason for this article. The second is the interest which attaches to the drugs themselves. The drugs which are considered in this article are in constant use. Some one of them at least is taken by practically every person at some time during the year.

We are interested in the drugs we take and their sources.

BELLADONNA—Belladonna is a perennial plant with dark purple bell-shaped flowers and purple-black berries about the size of cherries. It grows naturally in the mountains of southeastern Europe and western Asia. It is cultivated in yards and gardens, especially in Germany. It can be grown successfully and profitably in many sections of the United States. The leaves and roots are used as a source of medicines.

Belladonna is closely related to henbane, which grows naturally in the United States, and to Jimson weed, one of the worst nuisances in the southern states.

From belladonna atropin and hematropin are derived. Belladonna causes dryness of the mouth and throat and dilatation of the pupils. If large doses are taken the sight is interfered with, the face is flushed. The flushing of the skin may cause an appearance somewhat similar to that of scarlet fever. The effects of belladonna and its alkaloid—atropin—are somewhat like those which follow the use of some of the ductless glands. When physicians know more about the use of drugs than they know now, especially their use to control the sympathetic nerves, belladonna will be more used and better used than it now is. As matters now stand, this drug is used to dilate the pupils, as a remedy for bed-wetting, and as a coryza remedy with precision and success. When used for other conditions there is a good deal of hit or miss about its use.

HYOSCYAMUS—Hyoscyamus is the dried leaves and flowering tops of the second year's growth of henbane. From hyoscyamus the alkaloids hyoscyamin, hyoscin, and atropin are obtained. Hyoscyamus and its compounds and alkaloids are used to produce mental quiet and calm. Drunkards are sobered up on hyoscyamus. The drug is used to calm the mental excitement in delirium. It is an ingredient of the mixture used by many physicians to produce twilight sleep.

SCOPOLIA, an allied plant which grows in Bavaria and Hungary and which might be grown in the United States, is the source of scopolamin, the alkaloid often used in place of hyoscin in producing twilight sleep—in fact, scopolamin is advised instead of the hyoscyamus preparation.

STRAMONIUM is the dried leaf of Jimson weed. The plant is a rank weed with a green stem, large green leaves, and large white flowers. The flowers have an unpleasant odor. The alkaloids of stramonium are atropin, hyoscyamin, and hyoscin. Jimson weed in the south should prove a profitable source of supply for atropin, hyoscyamin, and hyoscin.

An allied plant, DATURA TATULA, has a purple stem and purple flowers and the leaves are a darker green. The leaves are smoked as a remedy for asthma.

HYDRASTIS is the dried root of golden seal, which grows naturally over a good part of the United States. From hydrastis two alkaloids, hydrastin and berberin, are derived. Hydrastis is used as a bitter tonic and for other purposes.

ALOES—Aloes grows naturally in Cape Colony and other dry sections in Africa. It can be easily grown in other parts of the world, but I do not know of any commercial production of aloes in the United States. The drug is the dried juice or milk of the leaves of the plant. When aloes is taken it develops a purgative principle upon entering the alkaline secretions of the upper intestine. This purgative principle stimulates the muscles of the intestines.

A few years ago Senator Stephenson of Wisconsin was quoted as saying that he attributed his good health in his old age to the habitual use of aloes. The senator's good health is probably due in greatest measure to his good physique and the careful living in his earlier years, but possibly the use of aloes has been a contributing factor. The best policy is to regulate the bowel habits by diet and exercise, but if medicine must be used there is nothing better than a nightly dose of aloes, particularly if a little belladonna, strychnine, and ipecac is combined with it. An old and well established constipation pill known as the A. S. & B. pill, contains aloin, one-third grain; sulphate of strychnine, one-fortieth grain, and extract of belladonna, one-tenth grain. Nothing is gained by taking proprietary or patented medicines as a purgative. The old, well established and well known A. S. & B. pill is better than any of them. In fact, most of the patent constipation pills contain aloes or aloin derived from aloes. Aloes acts slowly. In consequence it is habitually given at night.

PODOPHYLLUM or MAY APPLE grows wild in the woods of the United States. It is sometimes called wild mandrake and sometimes umbrella plant. It has a green stalk, large green leaves, and a white flower at its summit. From it podophyllin is obtained.

Podophyllum is a slow but effective purge having many of the qualities of aloes. It is liable to cause griping and it should, therefore, be given in small doses combined with aloes or in larger doses combined with belladonna to prevent griping. Many of the patent constipation pills contain podophyllum. A constipation pill almost as good as the A. S. & B. pill is the P. B. & C. pill. This contains one-fourth grain of podophyllin, one-eighth grain of extract of belladonna, and one-half grain of capsicum.

It is better to regulate the bowels by drinking water freely, by eating coarse foods, fruits and vegetables and by exercising than by the use of any pill. But if a purgative must be used either a podophyllin or an aloes pill is very much better than salts or any saline purge.

CASCARA SAGRADA—This drug is obtained from the dried bark of a small tree growing on the Pacific coast. To get the best results the bark must be stored for a considerable time and then skillfully extracted.

Cascara is one of the best medicinal laxatives. It is a bitter and stimulates the intestinal wall so that the muscle moves naturally. Like aloes it is slow in its action. It is not very prone to lose its effect and therefore to be required in increasing doses. On the other hand, skillfully used, it often leads to the reestablishment of proper bowel habits. If a person must take a daily constipation pill or potion cascara ranks with aloes as the very best. Should the operations of war prevent a supply of aloes from coing to the country cascara sagrada would be used in its stead.

RHUBARB—This drug is obtained from the dried root of a plant which grows in China. The rhubarb grown in this country does not contain any considerable quantity of the purgative principle. Perhaps if compelled to do so we may succeed in growing a rhubarb fit for medicinal use.

Rhubarb is peculiar in that combined with the alkaloid—emodin—which acts as a purge—there is a considerable amount of tannic acid. The effect of this combination is a very free evacuation of the bowels due to the emodin and no further tendency to diarrhoea. The tannic acid prevents any continuing action of the drug. Therefore, rhubarb is used in cases of diarrhoea where it is desirable to empty the bowels, but is undesirable to continue irritating. For instance, a baby gets an acute bowel disturbance. It is desired to clean out the bowels and then to check the diarrhoea. Rhubarb is about the best purgative to use. Or a man eats something which has disagreed with him. He has a diarrhoea, but he feels the need of a purge. If he feels that he has time enough he uses rhubarb. If he feels the need of rapid action he may use something else.

CASTOR OIL—Castor oil is expressed from the castor bean. The castor bean comes from India, but it grows well in many parts of the United States. The oil is pressed from the seeds much as oil is pressed from cottonseed and olives.

Castor oil, in addition to the usual fats, contains ricinoleic acid, an irritant to the intestines. From the seed a highly poisonous substance, ricin, can be obtained. Therefore, the action of castor oil is a different matter from the simple, mild action of sweet oil or olive oil when used with babies. When taken in considerable doses it is an irritating purge, producing diarrhoea, griping, and exhaustion. It is an excellent purge.

ONE WINTER SOUTH.

L. M. C. writes: "We consider your column the most reliable source of information on the subject of health, hence I am sending you a query regarding treatment for a child about 2½ years old. He is well in summer, but in winter he is subject to colds, which have a tendency to develop into pneumonia. Three times he has had lobar pneumonia, the last time following whooping cough, and a very severe case. Their physician advises them to take the boy south for the winter. That will mean a sacrifice in many ways. Do you consider it necessary, or is the important thing fresh air and not necessarily warm air? If he can be cared for satisfactorily at home, should you advise the use of a sleeping porch? The family lives in northeastern Pennsylvania."

REPLY.

If the child can get south this winter it would be well. Probably after this winter he can stay north with safety. You are right; it is fresh air that is needed, but in the climate of northern Pennsylvania it is difficult to keep a child in the open air for enough of the day in midwinter. The houses are too warm and too dry. If the child stays at home have a playing and sleeping porch for him.

REAUMUR TEMPERATURE.

W. P. C. writes: "In this morning's TRIBUNE I note in the bulletin which you quote relative to Franz Josef's condition prior to his death that his temperature is given at 39.5 degrees Reaumur. Using the well known (?) formula to find the equivalent temperature on the Fahrenheit scale (9-4 Reaumur reading plus 32 degrees), it figures slightly over 120 degrees. This temperature needs no comment. However, assuming that the reading was on the centigrade scale and using the formula 9-5 centigrade reading plus 32 degrees, the corresponding Fahrenheit reading is 103.1 degrees."

REPLY.

I think your conclusions are correct. The normal temperature for a person on the Reaumur scale is 29.6. The temperature given in the cablegram translated into Fahrenheit would be 118 to 120 degrees. On the other hand, if the figures given, 39.5 to [illegible], be assumed to be on the centigrade scale they would mean that the emperor had a moderately high, but not an excessive, fever. As further proof the centigrade scale is in use in that country. Thanks.

WELLS STREET.

Hubbard Woods, Ill., Nov. 25.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Will you inform me the approximate date when the name of Wells street south of the Chicago river was changed to Fifth avenue?

CHARLOTTE PORTER.

Wells street, named after Capt. William Wells, who lost his life in the Chicago massacre in 1812, was changed to Fifth avenue some time in the fall of 1870. Just why this simple memorial of a city's gratitude should have been obliterated no one seems to know, and it is hoped that before long the name will be replaced.

ALLEY WILL BE LIGHTED.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—[To the Friend of the People.]—The alley in West End avenue, between Hamlin and Crawford avenues, ought to be lighted. The lights on the street car barns in this alley are in use up to 11 p. m., but after that hour the alley is dark. M. N.

A survey has been made of the conditions in West End avenue and the necessity for additional street lamps at the alleys noted is recognized. Their installation is recommended and they will be placed in service as soon as funds are available for the purpose.

ALLEY WILL BE PUT IN SHAPE.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Can something be done to have the alley between Perry avenue and Lafayette avenue, in the Seventy-fourth street block, filled in with ashes so as to be in better condition for winter months? C. E. J.

This alley will be filled with ashes this winter.

W. J. GALLIGAN,
Assistant Superintendent of Streets.

PAYING RENT TO HOLD APARTMENT.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I have paid the rent for an apartment in order to hold it, but have not occupied the premises. Is the landlord justified in charging me in this manner when I have not used the apartment? READER.

Depends on the terms of your agreement. Such a contract would not be illegal.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

REDEEMING TOBACCO COUPONS.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—During a trip from the east about the middle of August I overheard a conversation to the effect that a justice of the Supreme court in New York City had given a decision that on and after Jan. 1, 1917, no trading stamps, cigar or tobacco coupons would be issued and all now out would be called in. Do you know of any such decision? S. B.

We know of no such decision.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CHANGING A NAME.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I was adopted by a family about nine years ago and have used their name. I now wish to resume my right name. Is it necessary to go to court about it? E. P. B.

As far as your name is concerned you do not need court proceedings to make the change.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

EMPLOYMENT AGENCY FEES.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—If through information furnished by an employment agency a position is secured can the agency legally collect a fee from the first month's salary or any percentage of salary after the first month. J. L. O.

—Yes, if agreed upon.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MUZZLING DOGS.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—[To the Friend of the People.]—What is the ordinance covering the muzzling and licensing of dogs in the city limits and penalty for nonobservance? VICTIM.

Sections 769 and 770, chapter 20, of the Chicago code read, in part, as follows: "Any person owning or keeping a dog within the city who shall permit such dog to be kept or to remain within the city without being licensed or muzzled in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, shall be fined five dollars for each dog owned or kept by him in violation of these provisions. The muzzling of any dog while on private premises, or while on any street, alley, or other public place shall not be required if such dog shall be led by a chain or in leash, in such manner as to prevent such dog from biting any person or animal.

COAL HOLDUP.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—[Editor of The Tribune.—I wish to protest against the conditions existing here in the coal market. The high prices and alleged scarcity of coal are due to arbitrary acts of the dealers themselves.

I have reasons to believe I have a contract for my winter supply of coal at about last year's prices, and when I requested the delivery in October I was informed I had no contract, but was told I could have all the coal I wanted if I paid the advanced prices; and, not wanting my tenants to suffer, I was forced to purchase the coal at the dealer's advanced prices and received the coal the next day. This same firm I purchased coal from all last year, and from letters they wrote me quoting me prices for my winter supply for the coming winter I had reasons to believe I was protected for the winter. They even went so far as to deliver coal to my building in September last on the prices quoted me in these letters in August last for my winter supply.

I appeal to you to use your influence with the state's attorney and any other authorities to carefully investigate and right this terrible wrong and punish the guilty parties. SUBSCRIBER.

THE ACADIAN DEPORTATION.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Dr. Krohn quotes Parkman concerning the Acadia deportation, but unfortunately he has not seen fit to quote Parkman's full observations in this case. If Dr. Krohn will recall his grammar school course in history he may remember that Parkman states that when the province of Acadia was ceded to Great Britain under the treaty of Utrecht the Acadians were excused from bearing arms for Great Britain and were allowed to remain neutral. Parkman further states that, in spite of this, their actions were anything but neutral, and that "the Acadians, while calling themselves neutral, were, in fact, an enemy encamped in the heart of a province."

Why doesn't Dr. Krohn quote the full text of Parkman's observations on this matter, which is as follows: "Whatever judgment may be passed on the cruel measure of wholesale expatriation it was not put in execution until every resource of patience and persuasion had been tried in vain. The agents of the French court . . . had made some act of force a necessity. We have seen . . . they produced in Acadia a state of things intolerable and impossible of continuance. They conjured up the tempest . . . the result of which they themselves were not the victims, but the inhabitants of Acadia." This, as you see, places a somewhat different construction on the matter than that offered by Dr. Krohn.

W. Du[illegible]

Chicago, Nov. 29.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The letter of Mr. Krohn's in today's paper is a typical example of Teutonic logic. Because a crime is not a new one, therefore it is not so much of a crime, and hence may be carried out on "kolossal" dimensions. Or, since the Prussian is 150 years behind the Britisher in culture, he is no more subject to criticism than were the Britishers for allowing a German monarch to [illegible] barbarities that many years ago. These are the logical implications of his arguments.

When the Prussian is guilty of the blackest injustices he thinks only of necessity, of logical justification, or attempts to hide behind the cloak of British precedent. Never does he show magnanimity. In Mr. Krohn's letter he speaks of the sympathy of the British officers who were obeying orders from London, where the personal touch of sympathy could scarcely reach. But what tales do we get of Prussian sympathy for outraged and bleeding Belgium, with the kaiser frequently on the spot to see with his own eyes?

BUSHROD LEE HA[illegible]

CUT OUT EGGS.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Your interview with Mr. [illegible] is full of interest to the buying public. He admits purchasing heavily eggs at [illegible] cents a dozen and now wants a profit of 100 per cent. Any legitimate business is entitled to fair returns for money invested, but is not this an unjust profit, more than we should be compelled to pay for a necessity of life? A young mother who has a limited income told me yesterday, "The doctor requires us to give our baby one egg a day. They are so much we cannot have them ourselves." Another has five children and wants them to have an egg a day, but is compelled to deprive them of what they really need. All organizations and the public should cut out eggs when and wherever they can. Then those who corner them would be satisfied with lower prices and then would make a handsome profit.

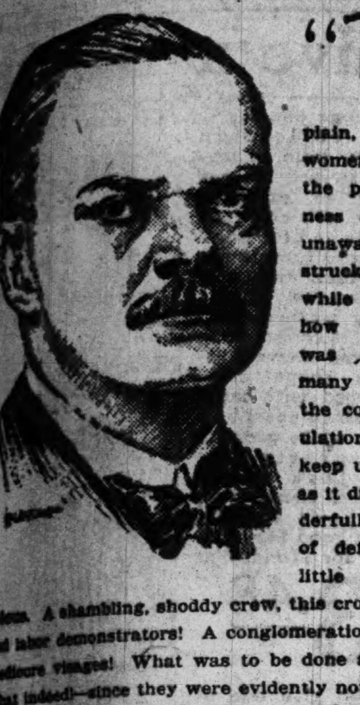
THE NUDE SOWER

By Edward Goldbeck

[Since Mr. Goldbeck wrote the subjoined article "The Sower" has been removed from the steps of the Art institute.]



"THE people passing him were distressingly plain, both men and women; plain with the particular plainness of those quite unaware of it. It struck him forcibly, while he went along, how very queer it was that with so many plain people in the country the population managed to keep up even as well as it did. To his wonderfully keen sense of defect it seemed little short of marvelous. A shambling, shoddy crew, this crowd of shoppers and labor demonstrators! A conglomeration of hopelessly mediocre visages! What was to be done about it? Ah, what indeed!—since they were evidently not aware of their own dismal mediocrity. Hardly a beautiful or a vivid face, hardly a wicked one, never anything transfigured, passionate, terrible, or grand."

This is the description which Galsworthy in one of his novels gives of a London crowd. It suits the Chicago crowd exactly. Yes, we are distressingly plain "with the particular plainness of those quite unaware of it." And we are not even clean. The French historian Michelet has said somewhere: "For a thousand years Europe was unwashed." During the campaign I spoke to a lot of men who belonged to what one would call the higher classes in Europe. They claimed to stand for clean hands in politics, but they did not seem to be aware of the fact that physical and moral cleanliness are mysteriously interlocked and I would have liked to say to many a one: "Before you work at saving the country, go home and clean your hands and nails!"

In the "L" I go through all the horrors of Dante, as I am a fastidious aristocrat who indulges in soap and water as often as possible. Among other ordeals are a woman in front of me whose jaws move incessantly. A cow is beautiful because the beatitude of her face is not marred by thought or greed, by passion and suffering. But this chewing human being, created to reflect divinity, is a disgusting sight.

Sometimes the national vice is mitigated by a touch of comicality; for instance, when an enamored couple sit together, petting each other's hands, murmuring words of endearment, and chewing, chewing, chewing, as if interruption for a single moment would mean the sudden end of their happiness.

WELL, are you through, you damned fault finding highbrow? O, no; I could go on for pages. I take the street car from Davis street to Main street very often. There is a conductor on one of the cars who is a wonder, and I cannot understand why they don't make him a vaudeville headliner. At Dempster street he opens the door just a tiny little bit and spits through the slit. To spit in Brooklyn bridge curves is an exclusively American achievement and especially in the "long distance spit" we are absolutely unrivaled, but the performance of this man is something "unique," as they say in theatrical contracts.

Is there anything else on this list, as long as Leporello's? The artistic handling of the toothpick, picturesquely and elaborately as it is done in the United States, has not been attained in any European country. That rather well dressed gentleman over there rolls the pointed instrument from the left to the right, as if it were as smooth and rotund as a bonbon. Then suddenly he seems to have swallowed it, but one moment later he reupens his mouth without changing the placid expression of his benevolent face and produces the weapon again. By a marvel of dexterity he must have turned it topsy-turvy in those dark abysses, as I can easily see that the end that is sticking out now is not that which greeted me before. Although shuddering, I cannot avert my eyes. What a queer pleasure, and would not it impress the king of the Fiji islands!

THE hypothesis that we are growing uglier every day is probably erroneous, but I cannot get rid of it, and as I bow to everybody who tries to promulgate beauty. Whenever I hear that a millionaire's son has eloped with a chorus girl a smile of satisfaction illuminates my clean cut features (vide photograph), because there is some hope for good looking children who might give some pleasure to the eye, this most cruelly mistreated race. This is the opportunity to state that I approved thoroughly of the display of beauty on the stage and that I b-lieve in enlightened sensuality. Reprehensible are smutty allusions; the enjoyment we take in physical beauty is highly commendable. To see beauty is the only way of beautifying ourselves and future generations.

I suppose that considerations of this kind, but, of course, more dignified and academic, induced the management of the Art institute to put the "Nude Sower" on the staircase of that classical building. It is different with "The Outcast." The management exiled him into the street because it disliked this Rodin parody too heartily, and now the poor outcast bewails his lonely fate in crowded Michigan avenue. (I am sorry I have to speak so impersonally of "the management," but as we believe in boards and diluted responsibility in this country, we are always vainly clamoring for the man higher up.)

Now I hear that stern men and women have complained about the nude sower, because they deem it immoral and pernicious to exhibit the nude figure of a man. They ask the unanswerable question of the simple in mind: "Why is he not dressed? Are not the sowers dressed in all civilized countries?" The only answer to this question is a mass suicide of the sculptors if they don't prefer to go into real estate. But friends who know have told me that this business is jammed at the moment.

Living in a country whose inhabitants proudly insist on dealing with facts, I beg to submit to the old ironsides of morality that to a sculptor the legs are the fact which is underlying the trousers. If he is not allowed to examine, study, and reproduce the human body he will not be able to create even a dressed sower. For the sculptor the word holds good which has been said about the mediæval church: "Sit, ut est, aut non sit." He must be as he is or he will not be at all. And that would be a pity; everybody will admit it lest he should be called uneducated. In a country like ours, in which hypocrisy has reached a climax seldom seen before, a country in which the president can thank the Lord for the prosperity which "he has bestowed on us in such unstinted measure" (the worshiper means our ammunition sale), it becomes necessary to protest against this unclean way of looking at art.

We all know that we are males and females, the human anatomy is taught in schools, sex problems are discussed everywhere, so our conscience can hardly revolt at the sight of the nude sower. This is entirely a matter of principle, as the work itself is too insignificant to arouse my passion. Whether the sower stands in bright sunshine or in the coziest corner of the exhibition room is nothing to me nor probably to anybody else, excepting the artist, the "management," and some chastity cranks who do not know what purity is.

The question is if there is not hidden in the indictment of these cranks some truth which they were not able to extricate from the tangle of moral, social, and sexual misgivings? I think that they only imagine themselves to be protesting for reasons of a very indecent decency and that at the bottom their challenge is artistic.

WE shall find, if we try to remember famous antique sculptures, that most of them show the human body, either in academic quiet or in primitive activity. Academic quiet is never offensive; it smells too much of the studio. Primitive activities I call fighting, dancing, jumping, running, throwing. These activities interest the sculptor particularly, as they show the body in passionate intensity, in bold, unusual poses and gestures. They supply him with problems of motion which he tries to solve. This is not the case with the sower; his movement is rhythmical, even melodious, but moderate and monotonous. In so far as it repeats itself and thereby becomes mechanical it is uninteresting.

The other activities I mentioned show the model in one elusive moment of individual effort and concentration, and we are curious to see how the human body may present itself in such a moment. The sower is in a calm and settled mood; his duty is in regularity; to succeed in his work he must do it like an engine, and therefore we cannot see the artistic need of nudity and may come to understand the naïve argument: "Why isn't he dressed?" Primitive activities, near to nature, make us feel that it is natural to show the nude body. But sowing is not a primitive activity. It is an activity of culture and even "the" activity of culture. There is something solemn and spiritual in this simple gesture and involuntarily we think of Christ, of the parable of the sower, and of all the great teachers of humanity.

To have these awe inspiring mental associations stripped of their spirituality and reduced to a mechanical movement which is not even interesting in itself seems a sort of desecration. Christ is pictured nude on account of his martyrdom only, but imagine a nude Spinoza! To my mind that is the mistake the artist made, and this mistake is a serious one; it simply means that he did not feel his subject in its deeper implications. To condense it all: the sower stands as a symbol to the civilized mind and in sculpturing him you symbolize a symbol. For this sower is not one particular sower, he is meant to be "the" sower. It is only fair to add that Rodin's "Penseur" seems to me an aberration, too.

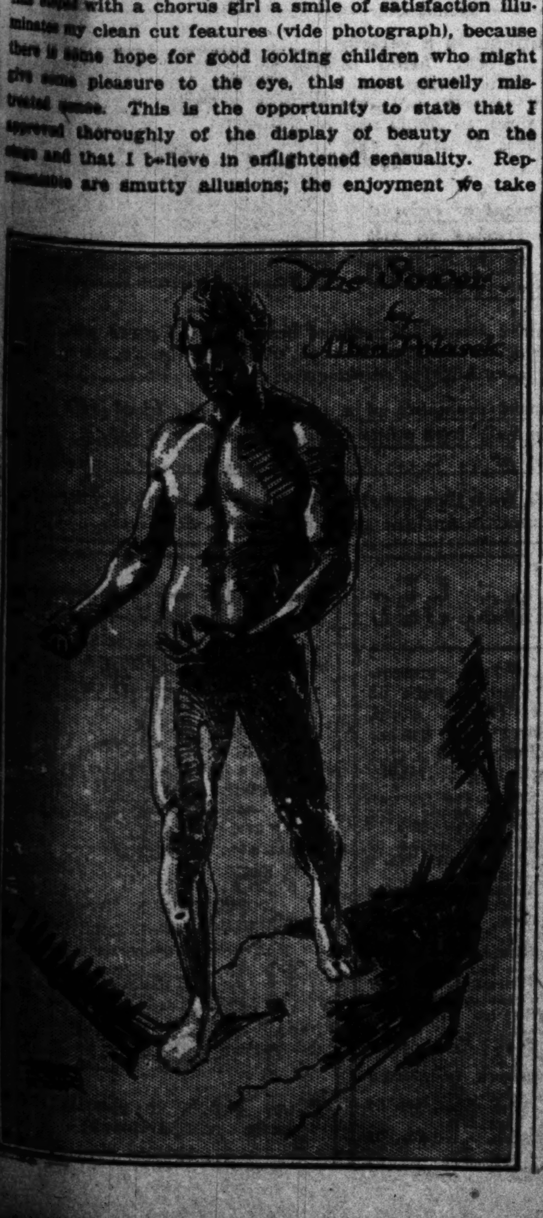
VERY probably those who objected to the exhibition of the nude sower had other reasons for their complaint. But my reasons, far fetched and hypersubtle as they may seem to people who are not wont to listen to the voices from the subconscious regions, have at least this advantage that they are artistic reasons. And while speaking about Art one ought to try to feel and think and speak as if Art were the only thing which matters. We are all too much inclined to mix up the issues: politics and morals, sociology and sentimentality, justice and charity ("Justice must have a heart," is the latest discovery of our immense Woodrow), and so on. But if we have to judge a work of art, then we ought not to indulge in kindergarten reticencies. Art must not be emasculated.



Invocation.

By Olive Tilford Dargan.

The following selection from "The Cycle's Rim," a new book of verse by Olive Tilford Dargan, is published through the courtesy of Charles Scribner's Sons, publishers. The volume is dedicated "To one drowned at sea."

My love! Shy as the wonder in a young deer's eye,
Bold as a seer with every riddle read;
Swift as the dagger fire of storm's dusk sky,
Loitering as light where June's late lilies bed.
Now is thy soul a glacier-girdled lake
That never mirrored murk of human gaze,
And now, a rebel rillet, 'twould partake
Of dusty joys by trundled, peasant ways.
Thou art an ardor that would burn the sea;
Thou art the tremor of a far, white sail;
Thou art a linnet's dream; the poetry
That sleeps in Asia, wakes to walk in mail.
A thousand loves should wed these thousand men.
"Thou art my thousand women," saidst thou then.

TABLOID BOOK REVIEW

by Fanny Butcher

Last week's best sellers in a leading Chicago bookstore were:

WAR.

"With the Turks in Palestine" (Houghton-Mifflin), by Alexander Aaronsohn.

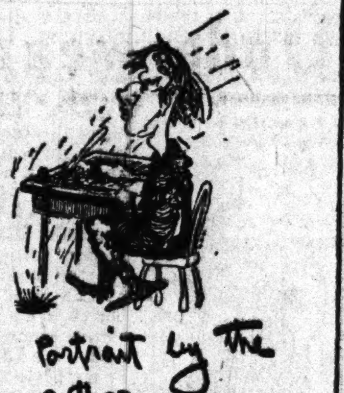
"Mr. Britling Sees It Through" (Macmillan), by H. G. Wells.
"Georgina of the Rainbows" (Britton), by Annie Fellows Johnston.
"The Wonderful Year" (Lane), by William J. Locke.
"Enoch Crane" (Scribner's), by F. Berkeley Smith.
"Mary 'Gusta" (Appleton), by Joseph C. Lincoln.
"Tish" (Houghton-Mifflin), by Mary Roberts Rinehart.

NONFICTION.

"A Hoosier Holiday" (Lane), by Theodore Dreiser.

VACHEL LINDSAY was in town last week, confessing his ways of life and poetry before the priests and priestesses of beauty and light of the Little theater and poetry magazine groups, and putting into practice his latest theories of the relation of poetry, music, and the dance by chanting his own poems while they were interpreted by a dancer.



Portrait by the author — Vachel Lindsay.

I once asked a woman who knew him what he looked like, and she said: "Like a turnip or a cabbage, or any other common or garden variety of useful vegetables." So I was somewhat prepared for his agrarian blonde buxomness. He prides himself, I believe, upon his kinship with the common peepul and his hard middle western r's. At any rate, he doesn't wear long, gently curling hair, and he knows how to read ragtime verse so that it sounds like a college yell. He seemed very hazy about when he wrote his first poem. "You see, I had no thought of being a poet," he said. "I started out to be an artist. I went to college for three years in Hiram, O. Then I made up my mind I was coming to the Art institute. I came up here and got a job in Marshall Field's wholesale and registered for the night school at the institute, but I had to work overtime every night but two during the first term, so I didn't get much out of that winter. I was determined to get an art education, though, and I did. For three years I was a student at the Art institute, and while I was there I wrote some poetry. But I didn't think of myself as a poet. Then I went to New York, with a portfolio under my arm and high hopes in my heart. I tried to get the magazines to let me draw pictures for them, but none of them would. I tried to get a job as a newspaper reporter. Finally I got so desperate I was willing to do anything, but I couldn't even shovel coal. I was beaten, but I couldn't go home beaten. You can't, you know. So I made up my mind I'd be a tramp and a beggar. I expected to have as hard a time that way as I had had in New York, and I'll never forget the emancipation that filled my soul when the second man I ever asked gave me supper and a bed for the night for the simple asking. From that day I was free. I made two trips through the east that way, reciting some of my verses now and then and leaving copies of the only poem I had printed. When I knew what I could do I decided to collect the verses which the magazines had refused and start on a long tramp through the west, with them as my only currency. That little leaflet was the one called 'Rhymes to Be Traded for Bread.' You'll find the story of all of my trips in my new book, 'A Handy Guide for Beggars' (Macmillan), which is just out."

That's one of the most characteristic things about Vachel Lindsay, that he has shared with the public the story of his life, the stories of all the phases of his spiritual and poetic and physical and romantic and prosaic life. Like George Moore about George Moore, Vachel Lindsay is the least reticent person in the world about Vachel Lindsay.

Elinor Glyn's latest is "The Career of Katherine Bush" (Appleton). When I was in New York I was pressed to say what I thought about Elinor Glyn. I quoted an English friend of mine, who declares that as a novelist Elinor Glyn is the best dressed woman in England. To my surprise the point of my little foolery was entirely disregarded and I was assured most solemnly that she really is the best dressed woman novelist in England because her sister and sartorial counselor is Lady Duff Gordon.

Ralph Fletcher Seymour is the sponsor for a commemorative edition of the selected works of Paul Verlaine and his "Absinthe Tinted Song," translated by Bergen Applegate. It contains 160 poems, a monograph on the poet, and copious notes.

For the business man who wants to know something more about advertising than the telephone number of a good agency there is Benjamin Sherbow's book on "Making Type Work" (Century). It's a practical little handbook which, with the help of sample ad layouts (to use technical phraseology, which makes it seem as though we really knew something about advertising), the author tells some of the do's and don'ts of making advertising command attention, get itself understood, and, finally, get itself acted upon.

J. P. McEvoy, the Palmist of Life in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE, has contributed to this year's literary Merry Christmas a box of twenty cards warranted to be unusual, though not cruel. They are published by the Volland company.

"Recollections of an Alienist" (Doran) is a volume of reminiscences of Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, who is a grandson of Alexander Hamilton and whose testimony was prominent in the Thaw, Molineux, Patrick, and Robin trials. His recollections are not by any means purely the record of his technical experiences, although the latter half of the book chronicles famous trials. From his boyhood days, when Washington Irving was a guest in the family homestead, Dr. Hamilton has been intimately associated with men and women of importance in the great world, he has traveled extensively, and his reminiscences are recorded with the skill and charm of cosmopolitanism.

A close friend of William McFee, whose "Casuals of the Sea" (Doubleday-Page) is one of the really remarkable novels of the year, describes him thus: "McFee is a very reserved man, partly due perhaps to his deafness and partly to his really being interested in his own thoughts. He is big boned, with very blond hair and blue eyes—a typical Briton. He is as strong as a bull, but very gentle, and passionately fond of children and cats. His physical endurance is remarkable. I have never seen him tired."

Capt. Ian Hay Beith, author of "The First Hundred Thousand" (Houghton-Mifflin) under the name of Ian Hay, is in this country on a leave of absence of three months to see about the affairs of the allied bazaars. He is now in New York, charmingly conversational about things in general, but silent as the sphinx about his own part in the great war. He was caught off his guard the other day when he was asked about the surprisingly heavy stick which he carries. "That's a loaded cane," he said. "When the officers go into action they are unarmed save for a stick of this sort, and if it really comes to a hand to hand encounter this stick would be quite likely to do damage to a German head. Although I have never had occasion to defend myself with it, the cane really saved my life at the battle of Loos. We were obliged to fall back, and when I reached the trench behind us I discovered that I had left my stick in the trench we had just vacated. It was a farewell gift from my wife, and naturally I didn't want to lose it. So I popped back again, and no sooner had I stooped to pick it up than a shell burst in the very spot I had just left, killing two of my men."

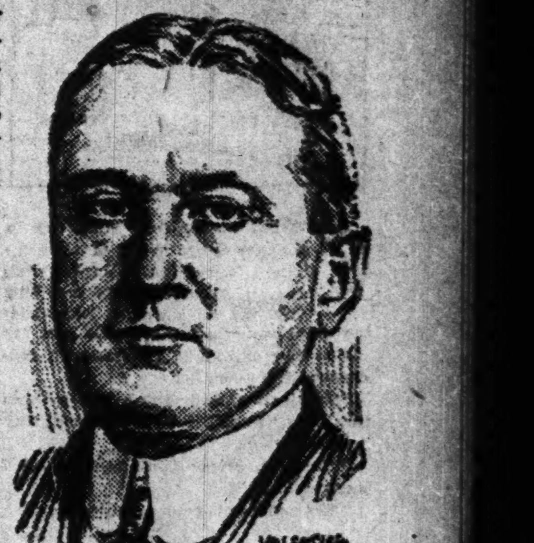
At one time when Albert Bigelow Paine was on the staff of St. Nicholas he had a letter from a man who wanted to become an editor. It ended, "I have been a preacher and I have also traveled selling church furniture and acquired some of the polish that goes with that ubsiness. Please let me know if you think I would do for your magazine." 'S true.

"Making Men at Ford's" (Funk & Wagnalls) is Ida M. Tarbell's latest contribution to the history of modern business economy. She was here during the Republican national convention, writing for the first time in her life for a newspaper. She came very quietly, did her work, and was gone before I had a chance to do more than snatch a moment's chat with her in the corner of one of the breathlessly crowded hotel rooms that during those days groaned with the struggle. But in those hectic moments I got an impression of clear eyed, quiet power, a picture of a worker understanding and loving her work that will always mean Ida Tarbell to me. "Making Men at Ford's" is the chronicle of her investigation of the Ford industry.

Anton Chekhov, who is well known to us by literary reputation if not by his actual work, is to be made available as Dostoevsky and Turgenev have been brought to us—in a translation by Constance Garnett. "The Darling and Other Stories" (Macmillan) is the first of a series which will probably include nine volumes of his work. "The Duel" is promised as the second volume.

EN ROUTE

by Robert Herrick



GOING to Europe these days is a very different affair from what it once was. There is no gay laughing crowd at the pier, no flowers, fruits, candies, lap dogs, maids, and brand new luggage piled high on the dock. One takes as little luggage as possible, which is all carefully examined at the entrance to see if it contains concealed explosixes. Small groups stand about the gangplank talking to the departing travelers, for nobody is allowed to go on board except those with tickets and passports. Instead of the confusion and hubbub on the steamer there is a grim sort of silence, and, except for the clank of the cranes loading the last of the cargo, a gloomy solemnity on the dock itself throughout the immense, dimly lighted shed. For going to sea in ships these days is a more or less uncertain affair, and the authorities do not mean to let an American take it lightly. There is a great business with passports. Three different sets of officials examine and check off these documents, making trebly sure that you are you and have got the consent of your own and a foreign government to travel. Thus, after satisfying all the officials, one mounts alone into the silent ship.

ON board there is less confusion and less order than of old. The ship is evidently undermanned, from the few old stewards to the small deck crew that is trying to clean up the mess left by the longshoremen. The usually tidy decks of the big steamer are dirty and tangled with ropes and chains. Presently there sound three tremendous bass blasts from the whistle, warning to harbor craft to keep out of the way, challenge to the hostile sea, and we begin to slide backward past the pier openings into the stream.

There is no one at the pier head to wave us a cheerful farewell. We are in the river, slowly swinging outward, while passengers on a passing ferry boat look up curiously. We move on down the harbor among the crowd of ferry boats and scows, past the gleaming cliffs and towers which outline the city at night.

Not for another couple of hours does the ship begin to lift on the seas outside Sandy Hook, and with the putting out of all light on deck the reality of a war crossing comes home to the traveler. Many of the little ceremonies of the Atlantic hotel are wanting. There are few passengers, a hundred or so, and fewer servants to wait on them. In your cabin is a card with the information that in "case of abandonment of the ship" you are expected to seek your place in boat No. 6! (With your ticket is a little printed slip of advice as to how you should behave in case of disaster: you are not to lose your head and rush about, etc.).

Everywhere is posted "by order of the commandant no lights"!—which means what it says, not even a match struck on deck. The heavy shutters are already fastened over the cabin ports: there is not a mast headlight visible. The ship rolls in complete darkness. I turn into the smoking room, where a handful of passengers are chatting in subdued tones. Thus begins our furtive, darkened voyage over a course that is known to nobody but the captain. Before we steal into the Gironde there will be plenty of time to think!

THOSE last hurried hours in New York have left a strangely vivid impression on me. New York becomes more monstrous, more impossible every time I see it. It seems set on the mad career of proving logically what city living must become, inhuman and physically impossible.

Such crowds, such swarms of people on the streets, struggling at the crossings in a blind rush for safety to the other side! Two lines of packed humanity on either marge of every thoroughfare and another stream of moving vehicles inextricably interwoven between them, all flowing in different ways, hemmed in by the walls of lofty buildings—that is New York all day and most of the night. And such all pervading stench of gasoline, such raucous hoots from impatient motors piercing the duller roar of traffic! It is a fight to get about. Fifth avenue and Broadway have some of the dangers of the trenches.

If one must live in New York it would be well to move about only in the early morning hours, when for a brief time the city sleeps like an uneasy beast, spending one's days in some subterranean vault or on a lofty roof. I close my eyes on the gray ocean, and as if raised on the wings of an aeroplane above those towering city walls I peer into the gridiron of streets with their swarming multitudes, pushing, scrambling, squirming to and fro, in and out, now dammed by a sudden rush of screaming motors, now spreading out over the streets or furtively stealing at the risk of life and limb among the moving cars. Over all rises a din, sharp and also raucous. That is New York! In another five years the streets will all be tunneled, the roofs covered with tracks, in order to shoot people under and over the packed surface of the city; for this American ant hill would seem to be stuffed already to its human limit.

The climax of confusion is reached at dusk when the tall buildings vomit their thousands into the streets, foreign looking men and women scurrying homeward in all directions. Then comes a slight lull while the city feeds, to roar again all evening and half the night about its pleasures. Motors flash up and down the avenue, crawl through the side streets to amusement places and big hotels, where throngs of men and women eat and dance with the same insatiable ferocity with which they work all day. Strains of dance music come through banging doors, mixing with the loud whir of motors outside and the voices of hurrying people. Over all plays a perpetual stream of electric light. Such is the high tide of America, living its life fiercely in a blare of light, a roar, a perpetual confusion, banging, struggling, shrieking, throbbing, glittering—to what end?

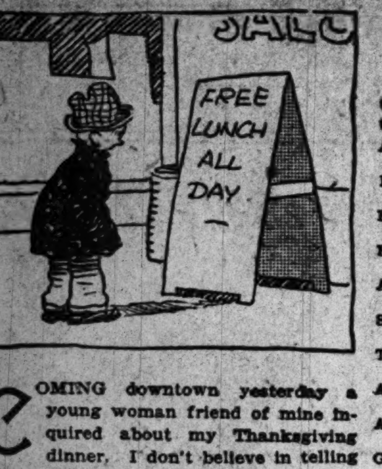
HERE at least in the midst of those "three thousand miles of cool sea water" there is peace, of a kind. Over the horizon there may be a solitary cruiser doing sentry duty on the high seas, beneath the gray waves may lurk a waiting submarine, but our ship plows its course steadily across a vast waste of water and sky. The freedom of the seas becomes more than an academic phrase to the traveler these days! This gray ocean has something about it large, impersonal, and unpossessed like the air. Men cross it in their ships, but their tracks are quickly effaced; its surface remains ever fresh and free. Within its depths lie many wrecks of human property, but they are hidden from sight, as wrecks should be, and its ways are open for all to attempt. The seas must be kept free for men to cross to one another, but not to own, to control. Humanity needs this vast dividing element, perpetually neutral and common, bathing the shores of nations, cleansing and cooling men's passions. Our cities are too crowded, our lands too full, germinating hates and strifes: the air and the sea must remain free.

For a little while, the space of a few days, we are alone between the sky and the water. The world has disappeared into silence, scarce broken by the faint wireless messages that come through the air from either land. The noise of world strife is lost behind large horizons, one's spirit escapes the din, the turmoil in which we live our little lives. Over there ahead of us across the gray seas is a grim wall of armed men facing each other in the agonizing struggle of the great war. It is the old world strife complimentary to our strife of peace. Who can say which is the deadlier, the more fatal? . . .

In Roumania the invaders are being held at the frontier, silence from Russia, the French have won back a few acres about Verdun—such is the wireless "news" of the day! . . . A third dreary winter of warfare has begun. How many more remain in the hands of fate until the war is "settled"! A million Frenchmen have died, half as many English, God knows how many Russians and Germans, Italians, Austrians, and Turks, and still no "decision." . . . It is the wrong method, obviously: the great decision for humanity cannot come through slaughters and destructions, through hatreds and crimes, through armies and fleets. Nor can it come in a mad struggle for money, in the heedless individualism of America. Peace lies not with us more than with Europe, rather the seed or wars in germination.

"I've Got Indigestion Yet,"

Says Oney Fred Sweet



COMING downtown yesterday a young woman friend of mine inquired about my Thanksgiving dinner. I don't believe in telling any one an untruth, but under the circumstances I thought it best for me to be guarded in my answers concerning the event.

"Turkey and everything was so high this year, wasn't it?" remarked the young woman.

"The high prices didn't bother me," I answered.

"You substituted goose for turkey?"

"Nope."

"Then you were invited out?" she inferred.

"Well," I replied cautiously, "I should say there were about forty guests present. You know," I went on, "I am peculiar about these holidays. It seems to me that the spirit of the occasion means so much." Then I quoted:

Over the river and through the wood
To grandfather's house we go;
The horse knows the way
To carry the sleigh
Through the white and drifted snow.

Over the river and through the wood,
And straight through the barnyard gate.
We seem to go
Extremely slow—
It is so hard to wait!

Over the river and through the wood—
Now grandmother's cap I spy!
Hurrah for the fun!
Is the pudding done?
Hurrah for the pumpkin pie!

"You must have had a very enjoyable time," envied my young friend when I had finished with the poetry. And she left the car without my having to go into any further details. It was just as well.

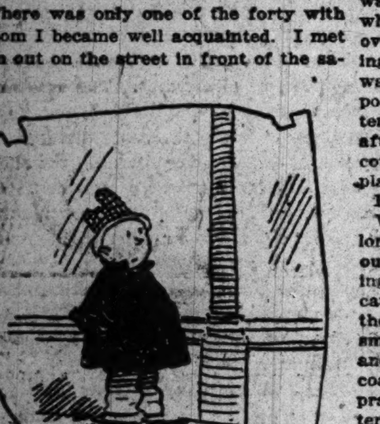
There were about forty of us loitering about the free lunch in that West Madison street saloon at noontime on glad Thanksgiving day last Thursday. Where the forty had come from and why they were away from home would call for some forty different explanations.

There was only one of the forty with whom I became well acquainted. I met him out on the street in front of the saloon. The street was wrapped in a Sunday quiet. A blue haze hung in the shadows between the deserted office and store buildings. Nearly everybody had stayed home or gone to some one else's home. The wanderer who addressed me seemed to sense that the blue haze of the almost deserted street had crept into my system. He didn't exactly invite me into dinner with him, but he did put me wise to the fact that there was no excuse for any one going without a Thanksgiving dinner.



JUST FOR AN INSTANT I STOOD IN THE DOORWAY.

We had no sooner entered the saloon than I spied the "festive board." It stood against the grimy wall directly opposite the bar in such a position that the bartender could keep his eye on it. There were two platters on the oilcloth covered "groaning board," and beside them stood a jar of water in which reposed a fork. We were still at considerable distance from the banquet table. Although it was by no means cold outside my friend and I had stopped at the stove to make a pretense of warming ourselves. Yet all the time as we stood there our attention was toward the spot where, if you had a real vivid imagination, you could see the linen shimmer and the silver shine.

I was getting good and hungry. No odors came from the kitchen—although there were plenty of odors in the place—and I came to the conclusion that the viands had probably been prepared at some previous time and were now quite cold. Neither could I quite make out the nature of the menu, but fancy pictured pumpkin pie:

Ah, thanks for thy present! None sweeter or better
E'r smoked from an oven or circled a platter!
Fairer hands never wrought at a pastry more fine,
Brighter eyes never watched o'er its baking than thine!
And the prayer, which my mouth is too full to express,
Swells my heart that thy shadow may never be less,
That the days of thy lot may be lengthened below,
And the fame of thy worth like a pumpkin vine grow,
And thy life be as sweet, and its last sunset sky
Golden tinted and fair as thy own pumpkin pie!

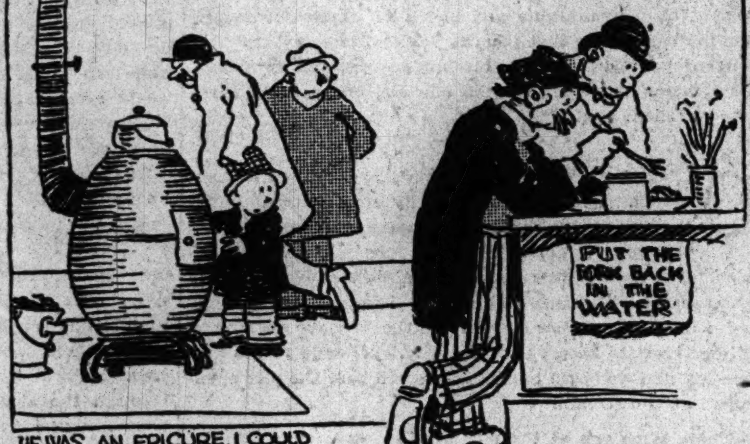
I discovered that my new found friend, standing beside me there by the stove, seemed torn between two emotions. He was apparently as hungry as I was, but he gave hint of having had long experience with free lunch counters in cheap saloons, and he therefore seemed equally anxious about the lay of the land.



GURT HALL
PUT THE FORK BACK IN THE WATER
HE WAS AN EPICURE, I COULD SEE THAT.

"I know I'm broke," he admitted, "and youse look as if youse was broke, so we better sneak over there one at a time. I'll go first."

Of course it was only polite and proper that I should let him go first, but the platters didn't seem to be piled any too high and I knew I was taking chances in being polite.

"Watch me," whispered my shabby companion. "There's a right way and a wrong way of doing these things—a certain etiquette."

Whereupon he ceased pretending to warm his hands, looked up at the clock, which now pointed to 12:30, glanced over toward the bartender, and, assuming an air of indifference sauntered toward the rear of the dark room. At a point directly opposite the lunch counter he paused, and, as if from pure afterthought, suddenly shifted his course and wound up in front of the platters.

He was an epicure, I could see that.

With a deftness acquired only through long practice he plucked the worn fork out of the jar of dingy water and, poising it just for an instant in midair, he caused it to descend into the midst of the dainties before him. I saw him smack his unshaven lips with approval and after wiping the fork on his frayed coat sleeve he leaned forward to appraise the contents of the second platter.

Is anything more aggravating than watching some one eles eat when you yourself are half famished?

After what seemed ages, my bo friend returned, smoothing out his vest and brushing imaginary crumbs from his necktie. He fairly radiated an air of just having dined. I could see no reason why I should not hasten to take a chair at the table myself, but he placed a restraining hand on my shoulder.

"Youse must control yourself," he cautioned. "Youse must wait like I did until the bartender is good and busy."

O, the waiting and the waiting on Thanksgiving day for the dinner to be placed upon the table!

But, O, the waiting and the waiting, with your mouth watering, for a bartender to become preoccupied!

For the forty occupants of the place were not all active customers. Most of them were dormant customers. They had exhausted their funds and were simply lingering about for after dinner chats and in the hope that some old friend might drop in with a piece of change or that some new worth while acquaintanceship might be formed. They were leaning against the walls and passing the day in as close proximity to something to drink as was possible.

Finally, however, a sudden rush of business afforded, in my opinion, an opportunity. Almost ravenous by this time, I took the route which my friend had pioneered toward the sideboard. My eyes sparkled as I reached the goal. Ah, it was the glad Thanksgiving time with the harvests over, the grains all garnered, and the barns o'erflowing.

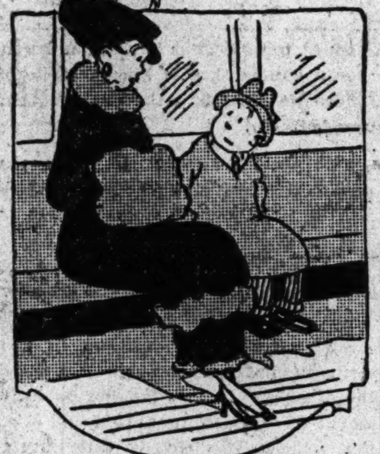
At close view I could see that one platter contained sliced bologna that had red and green stripes running through it, while the other dish contained what appeared to be a mixture between fish and cheese. With the aid of the much handled fork I had partaken of a dab of the cheese and was about to spear a bit of the dark meat out of the bologna, when—

"Where's your drink?" interrupted a voice from behind the bar.

The voice was so gruff and so sudden that the fork slipped from my grasp and sank among the much pawed over cheese. The bologna I decided to let remain on the platter, but it was too late for any one to beat me out of that mouthful of cheese. I enjoyed the cheese as much as was possible, considering the excitement of the moment.

"How did you know I hadn't bought a drink or that maybe I didn't intend to?" I inquired.

"I didn't come in here yesterday," answered the bartender. "I know if a bird's broke the minute he enters the door. First, he rubs his hands by the stove while he sizes me up, then he stalls by looking up at the clock, and then he sidesteps along until he gets his mitt on that fork.'



"THEN YOU WERE INVITED OUT?" SHE INFERRED.

Outside the saloon a blue haze still hung in the all but deserted street. Just for an instant I stood in the doorway, wiping my lips, smoothing out my vest, and brushing imaginary crumbs from my necktie.

I had gotten the best of the high cost of living. I had had my Thanksgiving dinner and the price of turkey hadn't bothered me at all.

Yes, I should say there were about forty guests present altogether.

"O, hurrah for the fun!
Is the pudding done?
Hurrah for the pumpkin pie!"

Which Corset?

Third Floor—Center

The Nemo, say most women, but we ask you to pause and choose the model actually suited to your figure—we've twelve distinctive models in Nemo corsets at $3.50 to fit either the slender, medium or stout woman correctly, including the two models illustrated in the extreme low bust, and so at $3.50 we now have every height bust, from the extremely low to the extra high, as well as every size in every model. There is not that tired, worn look on the face of the woman who wears a Nemo corset because of undue pressure.

Her abdomen is supported, she is lighter on her feet, she is less tired at the end of the day—WHY? Because the Nemo bridge, which is a feature in the construction of Nemo corsets, prevents pressure over the gastric region, including the region of the liver, the spleen, gall bladder and large intestines, and therefore does not interfere with the normal functions of these organs.

If you are troubled with indigestion or constipation, try a Nemo corset that is correctly fitted. We have the most carefully supervised, scientific fitting service in all America, and without charge. Nemo corsets, sizes 19 to 36, at 3.50

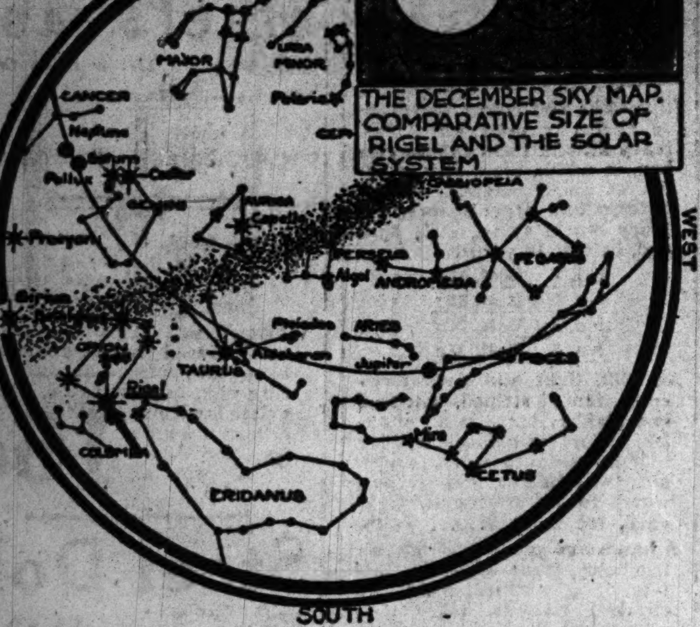
ASTRONOMY

by CLIFFORD RAYMOND



POSITION OF THE STARS AT 9 O'CLOCK TONIGHT (ARROW POINTS TO RIGEL) DRAWINGS by S. F. MAXWELL

WHEN Orion comes back into the evening sky in late autumn the casual observer who has been watching the heavens for stars as he might watch the woods for blossoms knows that the majesty of the dome overhead is reaching its full.

There is no constellation equal to this of Orion for one who, considering life microscopically, looks for fringed gentians and, considering it telescopically, waits for Sirius.

Orion has a visible stride, visible to the imagination. With its great stars, Rigel and Betelgeuse, its belt and the sword, containing the great nebula, it is a configuration which seems to walk across the vault. Other constellations are a part of the geography of the heavens, but Orion is the war lord of them.

Orion has two first magnitude stars, Rigel and Betelgeuse. Betelgeuse is the first to arise. It is a deep red star with an orange tinge. About twenty minutes after Betelgeuse has come into sight Rigel appears. It is a blueish white star.

There is no need to give directions for the finding of these stars. At 9 o'clock tonight any one can find the constellation in the east, a little to the south, with its striking belt and the two great suns.

Rigel is so far away that astronomers do not undertake to estimate its distance. It may be a thousand light years. It may be two thousand light years. It is of such magnitude and power that in spite of this almost infinite distance it shows in the heavens as one of the very bright stars, ranking next to Arcturus. Rigel is increasing its distance. It is receding from us.

Orion is, imaginatively, a colossal figure, a giant, facing the Bull. Aldebaran is the eye of the Bull. Orion has his right hand uplifted and in it holds his club, ready to strike. A lion's skin hangs over his left arm as a shield. From his belt hangs his sword. Regel is in his left foot.

Orion is not a mere accidental grouping of stars, but a huge star cluster. These suns are all physically connected. They are so powerful that there is not a star in the universe, far or near, which does not feel their pull. If 700,000,000 earths were heaped together, the entire mass would hardly equal the great bulk of Rigel, and Rigel, perhaps, is not the largest, but appears more brilliant only because it is nearer to us than most of the others.

If it were possible to expand our sun to the size of Rigel, Jupiter and Saturn and all the interior planets would be covered and only Uranus and Neptune would be left.

Surface for surface, Rigel is 3,000 times brighter than the sun. If Rigel and the sun were set side by side, and we could look upon the luster of the star, our sun would seem almost black in comparison, for a 3,000 fold brightness is a greater difference than exists between India ink and an electric light.

Donahue and Stewart:

"So you got pants on."

"Yes, I have."

"You don't look like a boy in them."

"I'm not supposed to. Say, do you remember George Washington's birthday you gave me a gold necklace?"

"Yes, I remember—and it was some necklace."

"And do you remember St. Patrick's day?"

"Sure. Why?"

"It turned green that day."

"Petticoats":

"I wish I had a good man for a husband."

"Husbands, my dear, are awfully hard to pick. They're like eggs."

"How do you mean?"

"You can't tell if they're good till you've broken them."

Jack and Phil Kaufman:

"Do you remember when you said you'd take me where the bees made honey?"

"Yes."

"Well, you took me. Do you remember that large bee that came buzzin' around me, and lit on my lower lip?"

"Did it hurt when he lit?"

"No, it didn't hurt when he lit, but, my land, when he sat down!"

McVICKER'S.

Burns and Kissen: "What were you burying in your garden today?"

"What, me?"

"Certainly you. What were you burying in your garden?"

"I wasn't burying nothing."

"But I saw you with a spade and hoe in your hand."

"That's right, so you did."

"Yes, and I want to know what you were burying in that garden."

"I wasn't burying nothing."

"Then what were you doing with the spade and hoe?"

"I was just replanting some of my seeds. That's all I was doing."

"Seeds? It looked more like one of my hens."

"It probably was one of your hens, but my seeds were inside."

The Northeast Wind.

A NORTHEAST wind is a friend of comfort. It intensifies whatever condition exists. If that condition be discomfort, it increases discomfort. It can cause the ill clad to hug their rags to press warmth from nothing. It can suggest to the comfortable that their surroundings have a contrast.

A fire of logs is lighted not to give heat but to make a picture, to give tangibility to an illusion, to suggest that comfort is being served by a visable thing. A northeast wind is the companion of the fire. It says that the fire is needed.

It has many voices, one in the eaves, one at the corners, one in the pines, one in the tops of the trees. All are the voices, to the comfortable, of fictitious threat. They skirl at the housed and contented being. They suggest that the walls and roof protect him.

A sense of danger is needed for the enjoyment of a sense of security. Shelter is nothing valuable unless there be clamorous elements against which shelter is needed. The northeast wind is one of the builders of the house. The house is not made by the materials which compose it but by the elements which require it.

Four walls and a roof, offering shelter, ask that shelter be needed. The northeast wind is one reply. It is the wolf in the woods. It gives benignance to the closed door. It gives warmth to the fire and brightness to the lights. It causes the person, hearing its blustering raps against the walls, to feel two sensations—one of comfort, one of avoided discomfort.

On a night when the northeast wind blows the sentient and sensible person reads a book which, with sad stories of the deaths of kings, says that life is a rabbit and fate a fox.

OWEN MAGNETIC

One Little Finger-Lever Does All the Work

¶ There is nothing but "high" in driving the obedient Owen Magnetic—at all speeds—on any grade—under any traffic congestion.

¶ No gear-shifting at all—no rattle, racket, fuss, or dangerous manipulation of levers.

¶ One little finger-lever on the steering wheel does all the work. You start and stop, increase or diminish—and float along any speed, like coasting. No jerks or jars, like other cars.

¶ All functions of self-starting, lighting, clutch-pedal, fly-wheel, transmission and electric braking are accomplished by one marvelous magnetic unit—under perfect, constant obedience at a mere touch of your finger.

¶ Ease of control, elasticity of power, constant torque, smooth riding at a thousand speeds—others have sought these qualifications in vain by multiplying cylinders from 4 to 12

¶ Coach-makers have paralleled this triumph of science in a triumph of design distinguished in style and beauty comparable only with the highest priced foreign cars.

¶ Limousine, Town Car, and Landau Models from $4200 to 5000. Touring Cars and Roadsters from $3150 to $3750. Classic Models on Exhibition—or Made-to-Order.

This Wonderful New Church Gasoline Feed $10

f. o. b. Chicago

- —Increases gasoline mileage.
- —Eliminates draining of auxiliary tank in fuel supply system.
- —Automatically regulates feed to carburetor—constant gravity pressure.
- —Keeps dirt out of gasoline.
- —Universally satisfactory.
- —Eliminates waste vapor—no disagreeable odor—great economy.
- —Simple—trouble proof—efficient.
- —Out-demonstrates every other type of gasoline feed in every possible test conducted at Speedway Park under auspices of A. A. A.

No. 1—Feed pipe from main gasoline tank to Church Automatic Gasoline Feed Tank.
No. 2—Feed pipe from Church Automatic Gasoline Tank to carburetor.
No. 3—Feed pipe to conduct vapor from Church Automatic Feed Tank to carburetor, utilizing every ounce of fuel.
No. 4—Check valve located over exhaust valve in motor. Through this check valve pressure is put on the main gasoline tank and automatically regulated at 1½ pounds by action of float in Automatic Gasoline Feed Tank.

Money Back in 30 Days

Try it thirty days.

Return it if you are not satisfied; we will refund every penny of your purchase

But put it on your car now. Get real satisfaction—increased economy—smoother running—greater motor ability. Get a system that is always working—that has nothing to go wrong—that can be installed on any car in a very short time.

A big, sensational contribution to automobile efficiency and economy

Edmond S. Church, the famous inventor of devices increasing efficiency and economy in the gasoline motor, has perfected his greatest achievement, daring in simplicity, yet a mechanical marvel.

It is the Church Gasoline Feed System that the chief engineers of thirty-five leading automobile factories are wiring for—that is being placed on factory test cars as fast as we can get installations out—that has been pronounced by every engineer who has tried it the most wonderful feed system ever devised.

It is the final solution of how to get perfect gravity feed—constant level feed—an auxiliary gasoline tank under the hood with the gasoline from the main tank air-lifted into the reserve tank to keep it full under all conditions of driving.

Gravity feed from auxiliary tank on dash to carburetor.

Pressure on main tank steadily maintained at from 1½ to 2 pounds.

Gasoline supplied to auxiliary tank on dash in same proportion it is used up by motor. Gasoline level in auxiliary tank never changes, no matter how hard work the motor is doing, regardless of any throttle condition or any condition of running.

F. E. Edwards Joins Automatic Carburetor Company

F. E. Edwards, for years Chairman, Technical Committee of the A. A. A., one of the biggest and best known automobile authorities in the country, a man whose word has been accepted as final in more big tests by more big manufacturers than any other one man in the industry, is now efficiency engineer for the Automatic Carburetor Company.

No more sensational verification of the wonderful value of the Church Gasoline Feed could be obtained than this.

In all his investigations of automobiles and automobile accessories, in his highly specialized investigations of gasoline feed systems, the results obtained from the Church Automatic Gasoline Feed alone justified the action which Mr. Edwards has taken.

Saves Big Vapor Loss

The Church Automatic Gasoline Feed saves the big vapor loss which every engineer admits cannot be avoided with the use of any open vacuum or suction type auxiliary feed system. The Church system is absolutely closed; there are no vents. The vapor which accumulates in the auxiliary tank is carried to the carburetor and mixed with the fuel.

Engineers' estimates vary, but the consensus of opinion is that the fuel lost in an open system is from 7 per cent to 16 per cent. The Church feed saves this.

A Universal Feed System

Church Gasoline Feed System is the only universal feed system made. Any open vacuum or suction type feed can be quickly emptied with the car running at speed.

It can be quickly emptied with the car running with throttle wide open on hard pulls up steep hills.

Open vacuum types and suction types are not satisfactory in hilly country. The Church Automatic Gasoline Feed maintains a constant level, constant gravity pressure feed regardless of throttle conditions—regardless of road conditions.

Have you ever been driving up a long, steep hill, throttle wide open, and have the engine go dead, and blame it on the carburetor?

If you are using an open vacuum or suction tank feed, the trouble is in the gasoline feed, not the carburetor—the vacuum tank is drained.

Driving at speed, with the throttle wide open, you can drain any vacuum tank in from three to four miles.

Automobile engineers admit this. The Church Gasoline Feed system is the only reserve tank system that cannot be drained.

We have drained the vacuum tank on a Jeffery Six in 1½ miles with a wide open throttle. On a Chandler Six we have drained the tank in 1¼ miles.

Using the Church Gasoline Feed on these same cars and driving with wide open throttle, the level in the reserve tank never changed. The tank stayed full, the air lift system working from the reserve tank and supplying gasoline as fast as the carburetor used it.

Keeps Out Dust and Dirt

The Church Gasoline Feed System keeps dirt and dust out of the fuel.

With the vaccum feed, the cap on the rear tank must be open. Road dust is drawn in by the suction; sand is drawn into the suction reserve tank under the hood. Look at the dirt and dust that banks up on the dash under the hood! Think how much of this must get into the reserve tank.

This means a dirty feed system.

No dirt can get into the Church system. Clean, sparkling, power developing gasoline is the only thing that goes into the carburetor with a Church Gasoline Feed.

A Steady Uniform Feed

If you use a pressure system, you know how you have to pump air into the main tank.

You know that the pressure often comes up to three or four pounds—that the jarring of the carburetor float over rough roads releases a great quantity of gasoline in the carburetor under this high pressure.

The Church Gasoline Feed System overcomes these difficulties.

The air lift on the main tank is equivalent to a steady pressure of 1½ pounds—never more, never less. And the gasoline is fed to the carburetor by gravity.

You get a steady uniform feed—gasoline saving; efficiency increasing.

Ask your garage man! Ask any engineer! Ask any car owner using a vacuum system, or a pressure feed system. Let him tell you what his troubles are.

Every one of these troubles is eliminated in the Church Gasoline Feed.

Big Official Tests—Sanction of A.A.A.

A Mercer roadster, equipped with Church Automatic Gasoline Feed and driven in official tests at Speedway Park, covered 10 miles in 7 minutes 58 2-5 seconds. The maximum speed was 84 miles an hour.

At the end of 10 miles the pressure on the gasoline tank was 1½ pounds. The Church Automatic Feed Tank was full, and the car could have run until all the gasoline in the main tank had been exhausted without affecting the feed.

The same car, equipped with a standard vacuum feed system and running under same conditions, emptied the auxiliary tank and stopped at the end of 3¼ miles in the first trial, 3¼ miles in the second trial, and the maximum speed was 82 miles an hour.

These results have been certified to by the A. A. A.

In another test a Jeffery Six Cylinder car was used and the Church Gasoline Feed system was carried on a mast 10 feet 9 inches above the bottom of the main gasoline tank.

The compression obtained by turning the motor over with the electric starter filled the Church tank at this extreme height in 14 2-5 seconds, and the car was driven around the Speedway with the gasoline tank still carried at the top of the pole, but working perfectly.

This was equivalent to putting the car on a 65 per cent grade—an impossible position—but a wonderful demonstration of perfect gasoline feed for hill climbing.

Wonderfully Simple

With all its marvelous advantages over any other type of gasoline feed system—with its tremendous economy features—the Church Gasoline Feed system is amazingly simple in construction. There are no complicated valves, no delicate mechanism to get clogged up—nothing to get out of order. It is a mechanical ornament to any car on which it is used.

ART by Louise James Bargelt

Institute Enriched by Rare Books of Japanese Artist.

THE Ryerson library of the Art institute has just received 135 volumes of rare old Japanese books, and among the number are fourteen volumes with sketches known as the Manga by the great genius Hokusai.

These sketches, which deal with nearly every phase and form of human existence and which include "the things of heaven and Buddha, of earth, and men and women, and birds, and plants, and beasts, and trees," will interest not only the student of oriental art but every appreciative onlooker of the world's artistic productions. For they fascinate by their strangeness, these prints done in pastel gray and coral pink, with here and there a startling splash of single black.

Page after page reveals designs of seemingly infinite variety and magnificence. Picking up a book at random one chances on a group of lovely flowers, the narcissus, the iris, the chrysanthemum, and then at the next page turned one sees a huge frozen, marshy plane with white mountains towering out of sight. Next is a seashore with crabs scrambling around and then a warrior armed to the teeth and then a man and woman smoking sociably together. After that perhaps one comes abruptly on some hideous phantom.

Leonardo's maddest caprice never invented anything so ghastly as the picture of the murdered wife, monstrous, mutilated with clawlike hands betokening absolute ferocity. If there had been bitterness in the soul of Hokusai he would have pictured sights we would not care to have looked upon. But he bore the world no grudge despite the life of comparative poverty and privation which he always lived.

He loved humanity, this artist of a century ago, and he loved a busy, workaday, normal humanity. He knew by heart the figures of the men and women of the artisan class among whom he lived. His attitude towards the laboring class is radically different from another great artist, Millet, whose pictures are now hanging on the institute walls one floor above. The Japanese are a cheerful race, and Hokusai saw no reason for sadness in their daily toil. It was a privilege to be able to work rather and with mingled umor and insight and love he sketches them as they are.

He knows how men look when convulsed by the strenuous exertions of physical labor and he knows, too, the graceful carriage of the women of his race. He knows character in animals too, and worships them when they are in wildest, maddest action. Don't forget to see his tiger being carried furiously down the waterfall or his shaggy ponies prancing gleefully about. He is equally certain of himself in his landscapes, knowing the bitter cold of a winter sky and the grim ironlike intensity of a biting frost.

Hokusai was born in a tiny, obscure suburb of Yedo, and came from a simple family of the artisan class as obscure as the town it lived in. At 26 he threw himself into the task of earning a living by means of illustrating comic books. Not succeeding in this eminently legitimate endeavor, he was forced to resort to tricks in order to wrest a bare living from the world about him. Possessing no less nimble a brain than a brush, he began making microscopic drawings on grains of wheat and sketching upside down on an egg.

This deft achievement won such real approval from the amused populace that Hokusai was given the chance of drawing before the shogun, a rare opportunity for an artist of humble birth. Before the shogun he advertised his dexterity by painting the feet of a cock and letting it walk about in wet colors, under his careful directions, until he had a blue river covered with floating leaves of vivid red maple. This so delighted the shogun that the fame of Hokusai spread far and wide, and from that time on, while he never achieved any real financial success, he was able to support himself by legitimate means.

In 1817 he published the first volume of this Manga, which is considered to contain some of the best work ever done in the history of Japanese art and to equal any done by Hokusai himself in later years. He said: "When I get to be 110 I want everything I do to be wholly alive, even if it is only a single black dot," and this desire was fulfilled in that up to the day of his death his work lost little of his tremendous and wonderful vitality.

Fountain of the Earth by Robert Aitken
AMERICAN EXHIBIT OF SCULPTURE. ART INSTITUTE

Now, with his original designs carefully hoarded in private hands in Europe and America, and bringing enormous prices when they are offered for sale, his burial place is black and neglected among the cherry trees of a monastery garden in the Asakus suburb On it is the inscription.

"The old man mad about drawing."

No one really knows the amount of work that is extant of his. The bulk of his output was enormous. He lived for ninety years, and during most of that time did nothing but draw. His engraved work alone defies computation, his biographers say.

Nor do I know of any way in Chicago right now of putting in a more interesting hour than in glancing through the pages of these books of this Japanese artist.

The work of three of our up to date, eminently sane, wholesome, and independent artists is on exhibit at the new Arts club this week. This is the second exhibition this recent Chicago venture has launched and they form an agreeable sequence to the Sargent and Dearth display of the preceding weeks.

They are Robert Henri, George W. Bellows, and John Sloan, and their paintings are frank, spirited, full of vitality, and pulsing with plenty of wholesome enjoyment of life.

No true Chicagoan ought to miss going to this Arts club and seeing just what it is like and understanding just what it is trying to do. And no man or woman interested in modern art and artists ought to neglect seeing this work of these three American men.

Exhibitions at the galleries:

Art Institute—The Twenty-ninth annual American art exhibition; oil paintings and sculpture, etchings and drawings by J. F. Millet, Atlan Ceramic club, and Applied Arts.

Arts club—Paintings by Henri, Bellows, and Sloan.

Abbott's—American water colors.

"The Car of the Golden Chassis"

The World's Largest Manufacturers Of Fine Cars

THE NEW SERIES 18 CARS

With Seven New and Exclusive Features

THE DAY OF HIGH PRICES FOR FINE CARS HAS PASSED

STUDEBAKER NEW SERIES 18 CARS, with seven new, special and exclusive improvements are FINE CARS, warranted by us to completely satisfy the most particular and fastidious persons. We believe these cars represent the greatest automobile values ever offered to the buying public, and that persons accustomed to paying $2000 or $3000 for cars will, upon examination, concede that these Studebakers equal ANY such cars in quality of material, design, workmanship and finish, and also concede the truth of our statement that THE DAY OF HIGH PRICES FOR FINE CARS HAS PASSED.

Studebaker has centered its great resources and experience on ONE BASIC DESIGN, with all parts interchangeable for both the FOUR and SIX, except the motor. One equipment of machinery, tools, character of manufacturing operations and quality of material suffices for both models.

No revolutionary changes have been made in the basic Studebaker design for four years. The same group of EMINENT ENGINEERS AND DESIGNERS are responsible for the evolution of the new Series 18 models, yet the many improvements and refinements adopted as the result of our experience have made these new models decidedly the best cars we have ever produced. They are sold with our guarantee of prompt and efficient service and the replacement without charge for defective parts, if any are developed, within one year from date of sale. We guarantee our cars to give absolute satisfaction, provided they receive the care a highly developed piece of machinery should receive.

The Series 18 cars are leaders in the industry, history makers, which put Studebaker in the lead with new and greater values at popular prices. Studebaker has led the way in nearly every forward step in automobile construction in which the owner profited. STUDEBAKER WAS THE FIRST —to produce a six-cylinder car selling for less than $2000;

—to produce a 50 horse power car selling for less than $2000;

—to produce a seven-passenger car selling for less than $1000;

—to establish a uniform, international service system for owners;

—to produce the now popular crown fenders;

—and, finally, Studebaker was the first manufacturer of FINE CARS to offer its product at medium prices, thus leading the way to greater values and compelling other manufacturers to increase values and reduce prices.

Studebaker has $13,000,000 invested in the most efficient and modern plants in which it manufactures all of its engines, axles, transmissions, differentials, bodies and tops. Middlemen's profits (parts makers) included in the price of assembled cars and small manufacturers' cars are almost entirely eliminated in Studebaker selling prices. It is necessary to pay from 50% to 100% more than Studebaker prices for cars of corresponding value.

Seven New Improvements and Additions

GUN-METAL FINISH. Original, rich and exclusive finish of deep lustre and permanency, applied in TWENTY-FIVE OPERATIONS. No finer finish is possible than that of the Series 18 Cars. A permanent body finish depends largely on the slow and careful building up of the different coats of color and varnish—the Studebaker way. Fenders and aprons are rich, black enamel.

NEW AUXILIARY CHAIRS. Arm chairs, original and exclusive with Studebaker, patent applied for. These large, roomy and comfortable chairs fold up and slide under rear seat when not in use. They dispense with the unsightly recesses in the tonneau floor and with slit carpets, commonly used in other cars. When these chairs are underneath the back seat the Studebaker is a roomy, beautiful FIVE-PASSENGER CAR—instead of the regular seven-passenger car.

REVERSIBLE FRONT SEAT. Original and exclusive with Studebaker, the front passenger seat is reversible so that passenger can sit facing tonneau or facing forward. Both front seats are covered with leather, have large and handsome robe strap, and are adjustable to all leg lengths. No more comfortable seats are found in any car, regardless of price.

NEW STORM CURTAINS. Of the recent Blackmore design and patent, opening with the doors and thereby preventing crouching and crushed hats. Studebaker, we believe, is the first maker to offer this improvement as standard equipment.

IMPROVED BODY AND UPHOLSTERY. The body is elegantly finished and equipped—inside and out. The handsome foot rail, wide scuff plates, wide doors, handsome door trim, carpeting, etc., all demonstrate quality and refinement. The upholstery is semi-glazed, straight-grained, genuine leather, made to special Studebaker forms, with the best curled hair and long coiled springs. Tonneau carpet all wool, bound with leather instead of cheap, raveling thread-stitch. The top is made of the finest grade silk mohair, bound with leather edging, a feature found on few cars at any price. The body materials, upholstery and workmanship of Studebaker cars are unsurpassed, and the interior finish and detail of the bodies are LUXURIOUS and COMFORTABLE.

YALE SWITCH LOCK. Of pin tumbler type, Studebaker design, insuring convenient and safe protection against theft or unauthorized use of the car.

NEW WINTER TOP made exclusively for Studebaker cars. Noiseless. Quickly and easily put on or taken off, and fitting perfectly.

Mechanical Improvements

Improvements have been made in the Series 18 Motor, insuring greater smoothness, flexibility, quietness and economy. All noticeable vibration has been eliminated by superior piston design and the stiffening of the motor frame.

The Studebaker-Schebler carburetion system has been developed so that both the FOUR and SIX are the most ECONOMICAL motors on the market in ratio to power.

Studebaker lubrication has been further improved. The system is positive and eliminates all lubrication troubles. Waste through the exhaust is overcome and practically no surplus oil reaches the combustion chamber to burn and form carbon.

The chassis frame is the same strong light construction which has characterized all Studebaker cars. The perfection of our chassis design is convincingly proven by satisfaction given in over 285,000 Studebakers produced and sold.

The full-floating rear axle construction remains the same in principle as heretofore, but has been further improved and strengthened. This type of axle is used by practically all leading manufacturers, thereby proving its mechanical superiority.

The best quality of steel and alloy is used throughout. Every gear is of CHROME NICKEL STEEL, specially cut by Studebaker.

In the differential, which has four bevel gears, Timken bearings are used throughout. Only eleven of the three hundred different cars on the market use as many Timken bearings as Studebaker, and the average price of these cars is $2,000.

The Wagner Lighting and Starting System is individual to Studebaker cars and has been further improved by increasing the cranking power 12%.

The Willard Storage Battery is absolute assurance against ignition, lighting and starting failure. Studebaker uses a 100 AMPERE hour battery.

Special Values in Slightly Used and Second Hand Pianos AT LYON & HEALY'S.

EVERETT PIANO, $125.
Nicely figured Golden Oak case, full size, 4 ft. 8 in. high, three pedals. In very good condition. An exceptional selection.

CROWN PIANO, $150.
Full size case, Rosewood finish, with solid top frame panels, carved fluted trusses. A fine piano with good mellow tone. An interesting proposition for any intending purchaser.

SOHMER PIANO, $175.
Walnut case, wth a full length solid panel and fancy mat top frame; carefully renovated; in fine condition; full, round, pleasing tone.

DECKER BROS. PIANO, $175.
Rosewood case of modern design, with full length solid panel top frame, plain round pillar trusses. Very good condition; an exceptionally good instrument of this old reliable make.

HAZELTON BROS.' PIANO, $200.
In a beautifully figured American Burl walnut case, with solid panels; in fine condition. Unusual opportunity to secure a piano of recognized standing at a low price.

WASHBURN PIANO, $215.
Dark mahogany case of a design appearing in one of the latest catalogs; Colonial style; possesses unusually good tone quality; a most valuable instrument; our own make. Only slightly used and in appearance practically like new.

KNABE PIANO, $295.
In an artistic design walnut case; in fine playing order; of good tone quality. A splendid opportunity to secure one of these widely known pianos at a moderate price.

LYON & HEALY PIANO, $300.
Style "K," dark mahogany, in the present issue of our catalog; has had only very slight use; is in the best of condition and can hardly be distinguished from new. Its tone purity is of a character that has made pianos of our make popular. No better investment can possible be made.

WEBER PIANO, $350.
In a full size mahogany case of late design; practically like new; in tone quality, etc., it is a typical instrument of this high class make.

STEINWAY PIANO, $375.
Ebonized case. This instrument is in very good condition throughout. Here we present an exceptional value and offer the opportunity to secure one of these world standard pianos at moderate cost. Was $675 when new.

Also many other equally fine values. These are only a few examples of our large stock.

Executives and Managers.

EXPERIENCED MANAGER, MERCANTILE BUSINESS.

I have been connected with one of the largest retail and wholesale mercantile houses in the U. S. A., operating a system of branch houses. During the past six years I have been located in the Pacific Northwest as manager of a branch house.

I have had entire charge of the retail and wholesale sales and the promotion of them; have determined credits, purchased merchandise, and have handled men.

Although assured of further advancement, it has seemed advisable to sever my connection with them, being of the decided opinion that through determined effort I can better myself now during the best years of my life.

I believe there are business men who are looking for my services—for a man of my type, to assist them in developing their business. Am married and 33 years of age.

I invite your correspondence and your investigation. Am in Chicago now. Address P X 52, Tribune.

ADVERTISING MANAGER, SALES MANAGER OR ADVERTISING SALESMAN.

Man with over 12 years' successful experience as advertising manager and salesman of advertising desires change.

As advertising manager he had splendid merchandising and advertising experience with one of the greatest companies in its line in America.

He knows printing, lithographing, art work, and engraving, and how to buy to his employer's best interests.

This, coupled with additional invaluable experience gained in selling advertising of a high grade nature to, and co-operating with, concerns in pratically every line of industry, makes him a well rounded out advertising man.

Married, and about 35; $125 a week salary or drawing account, with opportunity of earning more on bonus or commission arrangement. Address H 312, Tribune.

ATTENTION!!!

SUPER SPECIALTY SALESMEN.
$500.00 TO $1,000.00 A WEEK.

A million dollar corporation, established and in successful operation, engaged in a legitimate, permanent business of unusual profits, with an entirely original plan of operation, offers you an opportunity limited only by your ability and ambition.

QUALIFICATIONS NECESSARY.

You must have had years of successful high grade specialty sales experience during which time you have made $100 to $200 and expenses weekly. If you have made $200 a week you will have to put the brains, ability, and effort into this business in proportion, to make a thousand. So if you are looking for easy money, it isn't here. But if you have reached the limit in your present work and know you are capable of handling a bigger proposition, if you want to get the limit of your earning capacity, we have a place for you where you can cash in for every dollar's worth of ability, force, tact, personality, intelligence, industry, and money making qualifications you possess or can develop.

MEN NOW EARNING $1,000 WEEKLY.

This is sales work of the highest order; sales are from $500 to $5,000. In all probability it is different from anything you have ever done. It may take you from two days to two weeks to learn it on a make good basis. $200 a week men who started with us a month ago are already making and getting $1,000 a week. If you make good, you can make a permanent connection with a future that will keep pace with your development. We can use only a few men and will give particulars only at interview. You will waste your time in replying to this unless you are in dead earnest and possess the experience and qualifications designated. For appointment address T O 292, Tribune.

ATTENTION, STOCK SALESMEN.

INDIVIDUAL HOMES AND BUNGALOWS.
See the newest and up to date features and the most complete and well built houses.
AT MODERATE PRICES.
On Laramie and Latrobe-avs., north of Augusta-st.,
AUSTIN.
They are built in 5 to 8 rooms on large lots on wide exclusive paved residence streets with hedges, shrubs, and trees planted and no vacant lots left to mar the beauty of the street.
Some of the features in these bungalows are the large porches, sleeping porches, and sun parlors. The interior finish, lighting fixtures, plumbing, art glass, and decorations are such as are seen only in much higher priced houses.
In inspecting these homes you will also notice the large heating plants, brick fireplaces, built-in sideboards and bookcases, shower bath, 7 ft. plastered basement, 3 part laundry trays, lot fenced, cement walk to alley and yard graded with clear black soil.
Prices are $4,000 to $6,500, on terms to suit or cash.

LOS INDIOS
The Key to Prosperity

If you are looking for a real place to live, where you can own your own home and lead a happy, healthful, outdoor life, in a country that knows NO WINTER, where you can raise two bumper crops a year of the kind of fruits and vegetables that command highest market prices, come to Los Indios, in the Isle of Pines, just off the east coast of Florida, where there is bathing, fishing, and boating all year long.

If good fortune is with you now, one of these highly profitable little fruit or vegetable farms at LOS INDIOS, Isle of Pines, will be one of the BEST INSURANCE POLICIES AGAINST FUTURE ADVERSITY that you could possibly take out. If you are working in a rut at tiresome routine work for moderate wage or salary and see no future ahead, come to Los Indios, where you can be independent, happy, and prosperous. If you are struggling against unhealthful climatic conditions, that continually impair your working efficiency, come to Los Indios, in the Isle of Pines, with its ideal temperate climate, where you can live right out in the open and enjoy every minute of the day. If you are looking forward to comfort and happiness under conditions that will bring you prosperity, Los Indios offers big inducement from an investment standpoint.

As high as $800 per acre cleared on grapefruit. Last year vegetable growers netted from $385 to $685 per acre. Shipping rates low, market quickly reached. Large, only deep water harbor at Los Indios accommodates ocean liners; 99% OF LAND OWNED BY AMERICANS. For further information address E. G. ALLEN, Room 812, 117 Wisconsin-st., Milwaukee, Wis.

LAST EXCURSION
[TUESDAY, DEC. 12, 1916.]

THE LAST EXCURSION to the Swigart Tract until next March goes Tuesday, Dec. 12th. The privilege of exchange until Sept. 1st, 1917, will be given if there should be any snow on the ground. The conditions are favorable for examining land in our district nine seasons out of ten until Christmas.

ARE YOU GOING to let another year end without having done anything toward your future home? Without even making the effort to investigate? A man told me last week that he was too poor not to own his own home. He said he couldn't afford to pay rent.

BUYING A HOME is economy. Buying a Farm Home is economy and good business, because it provides the means of livelihood. My easy payment plan means the opportunity to buy your land now. Getting the benefit of the rise in values or paying the higher prices is the difference between buying now and delaying. On my terms of only $25 to $50 down and $7 to $10 per month you can start today. It is a sure way to own a piece of land.

NEXT SPRING the prices will be higher. They increase every year. They are now $15 to $25 per acre. You can get an excellent piece of land now, one that I can recommend, in a good location for $18 to $20 per acre. In other words, here is a chance to get 40 acres of land in the center of Michigan's Fruit Belt for only $720 to $800, and properly handled, it means that you have paved the way to independence for the rest of your days.

YOU PROBABLY KNOW the advantages of the Swigart Tract—only a half day's ride to Chicago, Milwaukee, Grand Rapids, and Detroit; largest tract to select from in Western Michigan; wide diversity of crops; plentiful rainfall; one of the best fruit locations in the U. S.; most rapidly developing part of Michigan; splendid transportation by four railroads, also Lake Michigan steamers; schools, churches, good roads, local markets at Ludington and Manistee.

GET MY FREE LITERATURE and map. Drop a postal or call for it right away. Study my proposition, then join this excursion and see the district for yourself. Talk to the old and the new settlers there.

ON TUESDAY, Dec. 12th, be at my Chicago offices at 11:20 a. m. You get back in Chicago at 7 a. m. the following Friday. Round trip, $12.50, including meals and lodging. Railroad fare rebated on your land purchase. Good accommodations for both men and women. Automobiles and guides free. Offices remain open Monday evening and Saturday afternoon.

MADELEINE DOTY SAYS PRUSSIA IS INEFFICIENT

Holds German People Disintegrating Under Weight of War's Red Tape.

BY MADELEINE Z. DOTY.
[Author of "Marital Misfits."]

In my recent investigations in Germany among other things I wished to see Germany's poor at first hand. I had no little trouble in attaining my object, but I persisted. I wanted to expend the money given me by the Christian Work fund properly. But official Germany denies its poor and hides them. The officials of the relief organizations were very kindly and very appreciative, but they insisted on showing me card catalogues, pamphlets, and discussing organization instead of producing hungry babies. I flatly refused to spend money on cataloguing.

One day I was told I should see suffering babies and Germany's care. In different districts Berlin has babies' centers. Here children are brought to be tested. I reached one of these offices at 2:30 one afternoon. Two is the opening hour. There were no babies. I found a doctor, two white clad nurses, three beautifully equipped rooms, and row upon row of index cards. Just as I was departing one quite normal looking baby arrived. The doctor reported the baby's condition satisfactory.

My lack of success discouraged me. I appealed to a woman social worker. "Very well," she said, "I'll show you what is happening."

Children Ragged, Pale.

She took me to the north of Berlin. There little children swarmed, dirty, ragged, barefooted, and pale. This is a new state of affairs for Germany. Heretofore there has always been at least potatoes and clothes. No one has gone hungry. Paternalism flourishes only when the family is fed. When father fails to furnish food the children rebel. The spirit of rebellion is abroad in Germany. We visited several tenements. The following is a typical family.

A mother, nine children and grandmother, two rooms and a kitchen. Father in the war; income 144 marks ($38) a month; rent, $7 a month. This mother could not afford to eat at a feeding station. One meal at 10 cents a head meant $1.20. The baby was 6 months old. It has what is termed "Englische krankheit."

It was weak from lack of nourishment. It could not raise its arms. Since Sept. 1 only children under 6 are allowed milk. The allowance is a pint a day. Not enough to nourish a baby. This family was living on tea and potatoes.

No Yielding to England.

We visited many families. I could not but admire my companion. She was very proud, but tears ran down her cheeks. She belonged to the official class. She adored Germany and held every German act right, yet her heart bled for her people. Vainly she was trying to stem the tide. She dashed her tears aside to say: "Do you wonder German women are bitter? But England shall not bring us to our knees; rather we will give our last baby first."

At every home I insisted on laying in supplies. But there was little to buy. Nothing with substance—no meal. We had to be content with pudding powder [heaven knows what that is!], tea "ersatz," and some canned goods. My companion had succeeded in getting some packages of meal from the government. When she produced one of these the family went mad with joy. Cereal foods are more precious to mothers than diamonds. The thing that is needed is food—not money. But I gave my companion some money from the Christian Work Fund. "Buy things that are going to the rich and give them to the poor," I said.

Increase in Mortality.

I knew now what was most needed. It was milk for babies. I dislike quoting figures, but a reliable and well informed Social Democrat told me that in the big babies' hospitals the increase in mortality was 50 per cent.

I consulted Dr. Kimmule, the head of the German Red Cross in Berlin, about securing milk. He thought the best investment goats. More money had come from the Christian Work Fund, and I turned over 4,000 marks [roughly because of depreciation about $800] with which to buy goats for the north of Berlin.

The wealthy agrarian who sold the goats asked 150 marks [$37.50] a goat. Ordinarily the price is 30 marks, or $5.50 per goat. Was this German agrarian patriotic or efficient? He made money out of German babies' necessity. Why did the goverment permit it? Was it efficient? Does Germany handle its food supply efficiently?

The Card Food System.

The following items are to be had only with government cards: bread, meat, potatoes, butter, sugar, cheese, milk, eggs, meal, flour, soap, and cheap clothes. Each person has to trade at the store assigned. Working people have to buy at noon and in the evening. This results in long lines in front of every shop at these hours.

One Saturday evening I went to a big market in the poor quarter of Berlin. This market covers an entire block. In it are sold meat, groceries, and dairy products. I arrived at 6. There was little meat visible. At one booth a butcher presided over a wholly empty counter. A little old woman stood before him, weeping bitterly. Between sobs she let out a torrent of words. This is what she said:

"I must have some fat."—sob—"I haven't had meat or fat for three weeks." Sob, sob, sob. "My stomach has turned against marmalade"—sob—. "I can't live on it any longer." Another sob and then indignantly: "It's no use telling me to come earlier before the meat's gone. I can't come earlier. I have to work until 6."

Had No Meat Card.

I pulled my companion's sleeve: "Look!" I said. "There's meat on that other counter, couldn't we buy some?" But no, of course not, the little old woman could only get meat with her meat card from her particular butcher. This time it was I who said: "Curses on the military."

Conspicuously over many counters flapped the sign "ersatz." "Ersatz" means substitute. Sausage ersatz was a pale edition of the real article. One's speculations run riot.

But there were few meat purchasers. The people were out for potatoes. The potato counter crush was as bad as a bargain day. At 6 o'clock there was a line stretching through the entire market and far out into the street. At least 2,000 people were in line. I stood and watched for three hours and the line never decreased. As fast as some left others arrived. There were old men and women, mothers with babies and tiny children clinging to skirts, and young children carrying huge baskets.

The crowd swayed and muttered. It stood on one foot and then on the other. Women who had worked all day looked ready to drop with fatigue.

Dealing Out the Potatoes.

At the counter three or four women employés were dealing out potatoes and punching cards as rapidly as possible. Occasionally little commotions broke the monotony. Once a baby cried. We hurried toward the sound. In a baby carriage a tiny creature sobbed drearily. Standing beside the carriage and clinging tight to the baby was a 5 year old also weeping. Brother, 12 years old, had been standing in line three hours for his potatoes. Meantime the babies had grown hungry. They had had nothing to eat since noon. Some kindly women gave them bread, which was devoured eagerly. Presently mother arrived, just released from the factory. She was tired and worn. She shook and scolded brother for being so slow. Then the little procession moved off. The babies, the little boy, all dirty, ragged and barefooted, and the worn mother, with a bag of potatoes between them; all they had. Father was in the war.

No Potatoes; Go Hungry.

Once I left the market and went with my friend to sit on a street bench near by. Close to us was a pale, sickly man and his wife and child.

"Have you your potatoes yet?" we inquired. "No," was the reply, "but grandmother is standing in line. It's going to be all right tonight. Last Saturday we waited three hours. Then we hadn't any. They'd given out." "What did you do?" we gasped. Quietly, without bitterness, came the answer: "We went hungry, of course."

Presently we went back to the market. There was still the same line, but the crowd was getting restless. A rumor was afloat that the potatoes were giving out. Women began to talk in angry tones.

Then an amusing incident occurred. A patient horse, hitched to a delivery wagon, had been standing among the people. Little children came to pat and stroke his nose. He seemed the mildest of creatures. Then came the report about the potatoes. The crowd began to mutter. An officious policeman began to shove the people back. His tones were angry, his manner far from gentle.

Horse Nips the Copper.

As he passed the horse the creature seemed to bristle. Its meekness vanished, and, throwing up its head, it gave the officer a vicious nip. A little cheer broke from the crowd. The horse was so human. It had so expressed the multitude. The officer was furious. He spat upon the animal and hit him in the face. In a moment children were crowding around and again patting the horse's nose. All the creature's meekness returned. But the crowd was angry. Some women shook their fists.

Then a whisper passed along the line. More potatoes had arrived. A huge wagon full stood outside. Only that word prevented a riot. The crowd settled down; peace came again. Nothing would happen that night. It was [illegible] o'clock. My friend and I were [illegible] and we left.

Is such food distribution efficient? The agrarians are asking 9 francs [about 1½ cents] a pound for potatoes. They wanted to raise it to 20 francs, but the government set the limit at 9 francs. Out of revenge the agrarians sent the worst potatoes to Berlin. But before the war potatoes were 3 francs a pound, not 9.

Why Not Seize the Land?

Germany cannot afford to have a worker starve. Why not seize agrarian land and set officials and card indexers to raising potatoes. It would be more profitable to pay for such work than for card cataloguing. Why bother with cards? Why not establish eating kitchens and let everybody who is hungry eat at meal times. Card catalogues might be used to see that each worked. But both rich and poor should be given food at government kitchens and share and share alike.

The wealthy people do not stand in line. Their servants do this for them. Besides, chickens and birds at high prices are to be had without cards. The egg allowance is one a week. But for the wealthy this also is a farce. I grew egg hungry and demanded two a week, but the waiter was adamant.

"Well," I grinned, "I know what I'll do. I'll buy some live chickens and keep them in my room, then I can have eggs every morning for breakfast."

Actually the waiter laughed. Seriously, that chicken idea is not bad. If Mme. Hempel had taken chickens and a goat to Germany with her this summer, instead of her lap dog, she would have been very popular. This idea is not patented and I recommend it to all travelers in Germany.

City Conditions Worse.

In the big cities conditions are worse than in the country. Farmers are expected to pool and sell their supplies of milk, butter, and eggs, but, naturally, they hold back enough for their children. There is no way of knowing how much milk each cow gives each day unless the German army was retired from the field to do the milking and report to the government. Even German organization cannot brook this.

One farmer I discovered greasing the wheels of his wagon with his home made butter. The price of butter is [illegible] at a fixed rate. Oil was so expensive he couldn't afford it. Soap was not on the card list until late August. Fat had been under control for months, but the government forgot soap was grease. Now one cake a month is the allowance. The ante-war soap is very expensive. I paid 15 cents for a 50 cent cake. The soap made since the war is atrocious.

Hears of Food Riots.

I asked the Social Democrats about food riots. They occurred, I was told, chiefly in the spring when the potatoes gave out. In Hamburg the women [illegible] straight on the soldiers' bayonets in the struggle for food and several were killed. The following day, Sunday, the government had to throw open the Hamburg provision stores and let the people in to restore peace. Berlin has had riots. In some cities women have been shot.

"It is quite easy to start riots," said a Social Democrat to me. "Sometimes we went to the market and [illegible] the crowd to riot. But we stopped. The women were put in prison and the children left destitute."

But when there are no potatoes there will be riot. As long as there is food for the children, however inadequate, the women keep quiet. Their hearts are sore, but they dare not revolt. They fear the fate that may befall their husbands at the front if they make trouble. Or, if the husband is wounded, they fear he will not be well cared for. Or they fear their children will be taken from them. But these women who used to look wise and say: "W [illegible] men come back from the [illegible] you'll see."

PROPERTY in the downtown district held the center of the stage in the week's real estate market, making in the aggregate one of the best showings it has made during the year. Considering the market's activities were materially curtailed by Thanksgiving, the week's showing as a whole was of an encouraging character.

Perhaps the volume of really important transactions, outside of the central district, was of a rather limited character, but apartment property made a better showing than during the previous week, while factory and outside business property were represented by unusually interesting transactions. The volume of small trading was fully up to that of the last several weeks.

Hardy Purchase the Feature.

Of course, the feature of the week's market was the purchase by Francis A. Hardy, capitalist and chairman of the board of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company, from Henry C. Lytton, Henry C. Wolf, Landon C. Rose, and Herbert Schwarz of the Tower building at the northwest corner of Michigan avenue and Madison street.

The building is one of the most conspicuous in the downtown district and was for many years occupied by Montgomery Ward & Co. The consideration is said to have been about $1,600,000. Negotiations for the sale of the property have been on for a long time, the University of Chicago appearing as a likely purchaser at one time.

While Mr. Hardy will take title, the property will pass into the possession of a syndicate, including Mr. Hardy and his two sons. It is stated no immediate changes are contemplated in the condition of the property.

Building Cost $1,000,000.

The purchase includes the twenty-one story Tower building, which was erected in 1900 at a cost of over $1,000,000, the leasehold interest in the land at the corner, 38x162½ feet, belonging to the Catholic bishop, which is under lease to Montgomery Ward, from whom Mr. Lytton and associates acquired it and the fee simple in the 48x162½ feet adjoining on the north, both occupied by the building.

The lease to Montgomery Ward is for forty-three years, ten months and sixteen days from July 1, 1896, at an annual rental of $3,500 for the first thirteen years ten months and sixteen days, $4,000 for the following thirteen years, and $6,000 for the remaining fifteen years.

The Hardy deal has been pending for a considerable time. It was negotiated by Clark & Trainer, Lee J. Lesser cooperating. E. Orris Hart & Co. are also said to have been associated in the deal.

Building Recently Remodeled.

When the property passed into the hands of Mr. Lytton and his associates nearly four years ago the building was largely reconstructed and overhauled, the first floor being converted into retail stores and the upper floors into offices.

In the purchase of the property Mr. Hardy assumed an incumbrance of $1,000,000 held by Mrs. Montgomery Ward, paid Mr. Lytton and associates $350,000 cash, and for the remainder of the consideration conveyed the high grade apartment building at 190 East Chestnut street, fronting 209 feet, with a depth of 100 feet, containing fifteen apartments, and estimated to be worth about $300,000. Its gross annual rental is about $35,000.

Potter Palmer Jr. Buys.

An important deal in the downtown district was the purchase by Potter Palmer Jr. from Edward H. R. Green of the fee at 128-32 South Wabash avenue for $490,000.

The land, which is irregular in shape, has an east frontage of fifty feet, 116 feet north of Adams street, with an extreme depth of 174 feet, is under lease to the Potter Palmer estate for ninety-nine years from May 1, 1912, at an annual rental of $19,250, which, capitalized on a 4 per cent basis, gives a leasing value of $481,250, making the sale on the basis of a little under 4 per cent.

The transaction merges the fee and leasehold and gives to the Palmer estate the ownership of the entire frontage of 117.5 feet north from Adams street. On the frontage in Wabash avenue north of the parcel just acquired 117.5 feet belongs to the Catholic bishop and is under lease for eighty years at an annual rental of about $10,000.

Owner of Adjoining Sites.

The property adjoining on the north, 50x85 feet, belongs to the Chicago real estate trustees, who acquired it from Carrie L. W. Hoops in march for $350,000. The property on the north of this, comprising the southwest corner of Monroe street, 53x85 feet, belongs to L. A. Goddard and is under lease for 198 years to David Mayer at an annual rental of $30,000. The sale was negotiated by Albert L. Strauss.

The property just acquired was formerly known as the A. M. Miller block. The building, a five story structure, erected just after the fire, is occupied by Von Lengerke & Antoine, sporting goods. Edward Mott Robinson acquired the property just sold by foreclosure in 1877 for $58,000.

In connection with the purchase Mr. Palmer gave a trust deed to W. K. Potter, trustee, to secure a loan of $465,000, twenty years, at 5½ per cent.

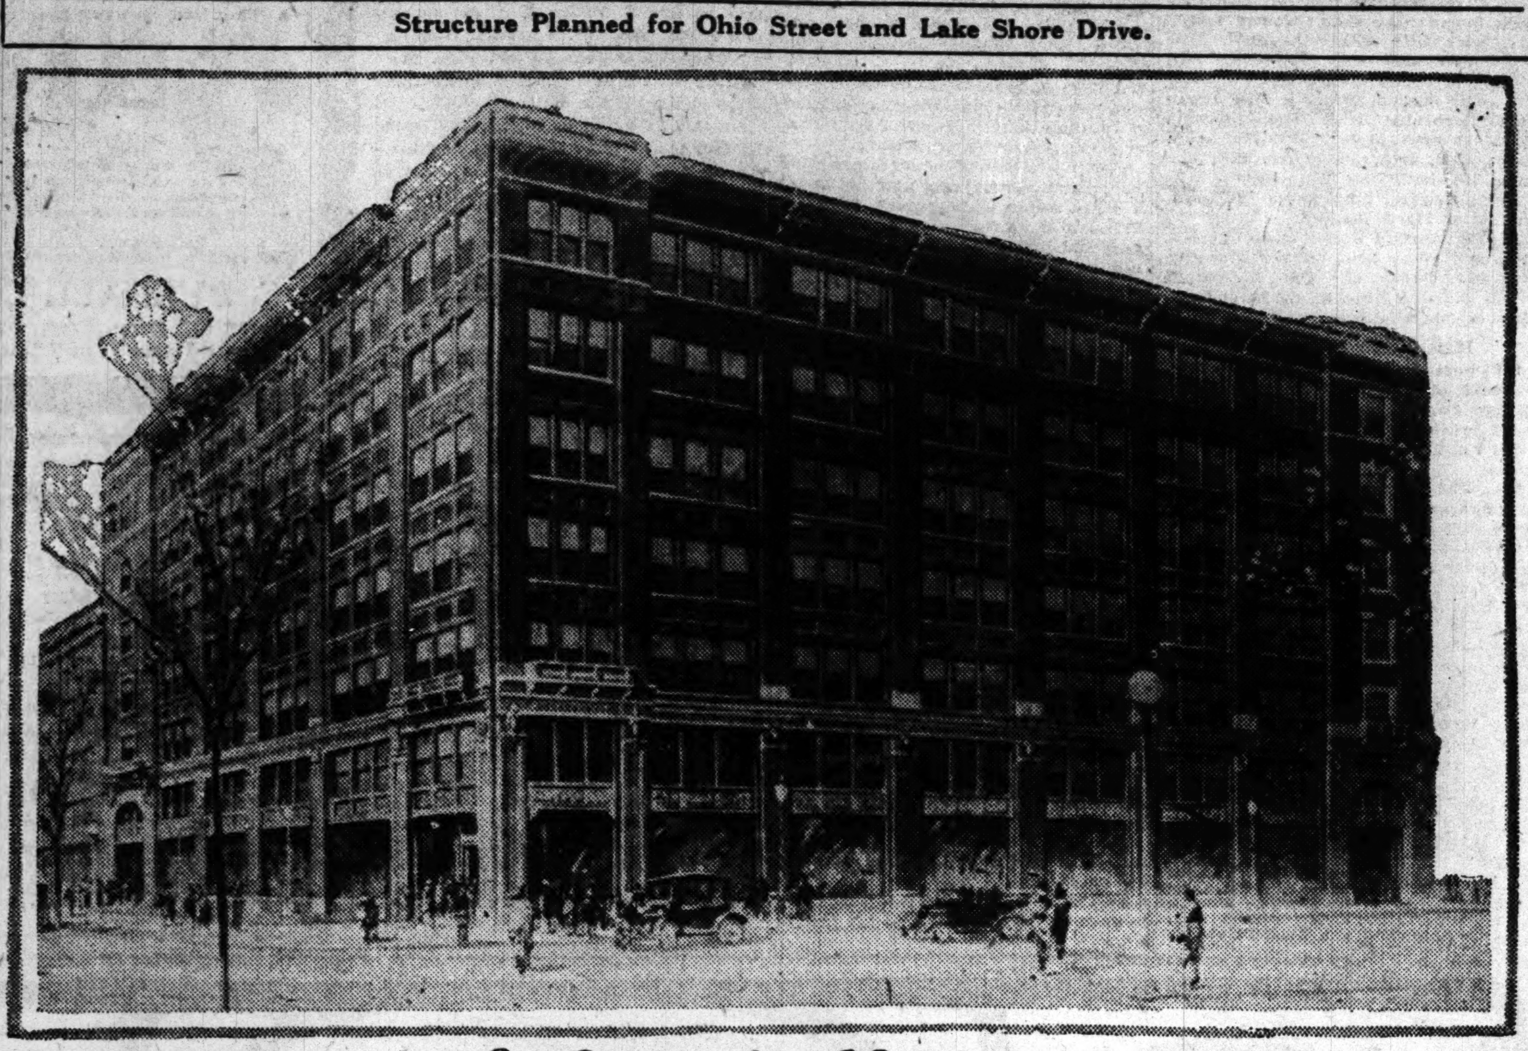
Buys Fifth Avenue Parcels.

In deeds filed for record the First Trust and Savings bank took title in behalf of a purchaser, whose name is withheld, to three parcels in Fifth avenue for a total consideration of $90,000. From J. G. Harlow the bank acquired the 24x107 feet, 312 feet north of Taylor street, for an expressed consideration of $30,000; from Mary Steinbach, 24x107 feet north and adjoining for a similar amount, and from Grace C. Harlow 24x107 feet north and adjacent for the same figure. Part of the land is vacant and part improved with old buildings of little value. It is reported the construction of a mercantile building is contemplated by the purchaser.

A report is current the property was acquired by Wells, Fargo & Co., who occupy the adjoining property and are said to be in need of more room.

NEW MILL BUILDING FOR NORTH SIDE

Structure Planned for Ohio Street and Lake Shore Drive.



Lake Shore and Ohio Building

One of the most attractive buildings planned for the new north side business district is the Lake Shore and Ohio building being erected by E. J. and F. M. Bowes at the southwest corner of the Lake Shore drive and Ohio street. It will be seven stories and basement high, of heavy mill construction, will occupy a lot 109x158 feet, and, with the land, will, it is stated, represent an investment of $400,000. It will be devoted to mercantile, office, and light manufacturing purposes. In connection with its construction S. W. Straus & Co. have underwritten a bond issue loan of $225,000 at 6 per cent. The first floor will be devoted to stores, while the upper stories will be devoted to mercantile offices and light manufacturing purposes.

H. E. GREENEBAUM BUYS RESIDENCE IN KENWOOD

An interesting deal in high class Kenwood residence property was the sale by Eugene K. Butler, former general manager of the International Harvester company, to Henry E. Greenebaum, vice president of Greenebaum Sons Bank and Trust company, of the property at the northwest corner of Forty-ninth street and Greenwood avenue, for a reported consideration of $42,500.

The lot fronts 101 feet on Greenwood avenue by 240 feet on Forty-ninth street, and is improved with a handsome three story stone front residence and garage.

Mr. Greenebaum is said to contemplate extensive improvements in the house, after which he will occupy it as his home. Mr. Butler is said to have lived there for twenty-five years. The sale was negotiated by Roy J. Friedman of E. B. Woolf & Co.

TRADING LIVELY IN APARTMENTS

Number and Character of Transactions Top Record of Previous Week.

While the aggregate movement of apartment house property during the week was hardly up to that of several preceding weeks, the showing made was better than during the previous week both as regards the number and character of the transactions.

Probably the most important covered the property at the northwest corner of Greenleaf avenue and Paulina street, Rogers Park, which has been sold by Andrew O., David H., and William F. Jackson to Charles W. Carmen of Grand Rapids, Mich., and William G. Arnold, the latter secretary of A. B. Dick & Co. and vice president of the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank, each acquiring an undivided half interest, the consideration being nominal, subject to an incumbrance of $125,000.

The lot is 150x171 feet and is improved with a three story building containing thirty-nine apartments of four and five rooms, the building having a gross annual rental of about $21,600.

Buys 25 Flat Building.

Another noteworthy north side sale covered the property at 4412-22 Magnolia avenue, lot 123x144 feet, east front, improved with a building containing twenty-five apartments of four and five rooms, which has been sold by Caroline and Reinhardt Hoppe to Robert Roos for a reported consideration of $110,000, subject to an incumbrance of $63,000.

In part payment the purchaser conveyed the property at 2146-50 North Halsted street, lot 75x135 feet, improved with a four story building containing four stores and fifteen apartments, it being transferred at a reported valuation of $47,000, subject to an incumbrance of $4,000. Mrs. F. C. Patterson & Co. represented both the parties to the transaction.

$55,000 Apartment Deal.

The eighteen flat building on 53x200 feet at the southwest corner of Kedzie boulevard and Altgeld street, with a gross annual rent of $7,200, was sold by O. O. Krabol to Charles F. Krueger for a reported $55,000, clear. In exchange the purchaser conveyed the northwest corner of Wrightwood and Sawyer avenues, improved with a two story eight flat building, and seven room residence at 3538 Wrightwood avenue, and a vacant parcel. Charles A. Johnson was the broker and will have charge of the property.

The new [illegible]teen flat building on 83x119 feet of ground at the northwest corner of North Paulina street and Balmoral avenue has been sold by F. and R. E. Alberts of Michigan to F. H. Wessman for a reported consideration of about $40,000. It is stove and furnace heated. The nine flat building at 4745-47 North Hermitage avenue, valued at $28,000, was given in part payment. R. N. Lloyd was the broker.

Buys Cornelia Avenue Corner.

The eighteen apartment building at the northwest corner of Cornelia avenue and Reta street, lot 65x125 feet, has been sold by Johanna M. Foege to Carl F. Giesse for a reported consideration of $40,000, subject to an incumbrance of $15,000.

In this connection the purchaser conveyed the two parcels, comprising the northwest corner of Cortland street and Francisco avenue, subject to $13,500, and the northwest corner of North Lincoln street and Sunnyside avenue, subject to $10,000, the consideration for the two being $44,000. P. G. Steinbach of Steinbach & Co. was the broker.

The same broker also sold for Frederick Schroeder to Emma F. Behrens the sixteen apartment building in North Shore avenue, lot 107x125 feet, south front, for a reported consideration of $42,000, subject to an incumbrance of $15,000, the purchaser conveying in return three parcels at a total consideration of $19,500.

Congress Street Flats Sold.

The high grade six flat building at 3846-48 Congress street, lot 61x125 feet, has been conveyed by Joseph J. and Elizabeth M. Butler to Mary A. Hollan for a consideration said to be $32,000, subject to an incumbrance of $15,000, the purchaser conveying in part payment the property at 3957 Harrison street improved with a three story store and flat building. Westervelt & Co. were the brokers.

Belle Sabel has sold to Edward H. Sheppley the new six apartment building at 6813-15 Harper avenue, consideration nominal, subject to an incumbrance of $17,500, but actually the figure is understood to have been $30,000. The purchaser conveyed in part payment a tract of forty acres in Glen Ellyn, which, it is stated, will be subdivided. Krause, Beak & Co. represented both parties.

ANNOUNCE SPEAKERS FOR REALTY BOARD'S BANQUET.

The banquet committee of the Cook county real estate board report as speakers at the ninth annual banquet of the board to be held in the gold room of the Congress hotel, Tuesday evening, Dec. 12: John Temple Graves, Harry Pratt Judson, president of the University of Chicago, and State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne. It is expected to secure another speaker, who will discuss the financial situation. An exceptionally heavy sale of tickets is reported by the committee, of which Mark Levy is chairman, the other members being Robert E. L. Brooks, Richard W. Wolfe, James Hedenberg, C. S. Adelman, A. C. Lueder, P. C. Loeber, A. G. Rathje, C. Goodman, C. T. A. Anderson, Albert Wahl, H. T. Davis, C. T. Durland, F. L. Lean, J. M. Pace, C. Ringer, P. Foote, and A. S. Ruud.

William G. Thon, member of the legislature, will talk on "State vs. City Supervision of Private Banks" at Tuesday's weekly luncheon.

BIG INCREASE IN TORRENS.

A 62 per cent increase in applications and a 20 per cent increase in acreage over the figures for the corresponding month last year was the November record in the Torrens department of Cook county. The advance is ascribed to the "pictograph" campaign started over two months ago by James C. Russell, chief clerk in Recorder Connery's office.

GOV. DUNNE SELLS HOUSE

Gov. Edward F. Dunne has sold his residence at the northwest corner of Beacon street and Sunnyside avenue to Mark Henry, the consideration not being disclosed. The dwelling is a fifteen room frame on a lot 55x150 feet.

FACTORY SITES TAKE A LEADING PLACE IN TRADES

Shaft Company Buys Property for $240,000—Big Sale on the Northwest Side.

Manufacturing property cut a particularly conspicuous figure in the week's business, the most important of the several deals reported being the purchase by the Chicago Flexible Shaft company from H. H. Walker of a tract of 188,454 square feet of ground at the northwest corner of Fifty-sixth avenue and Twelfth street, together with a one story saw tooth skylighted building containing 130,000 square feet, to be erected thereon.

The company also has taken an option on an equal amount of land adjacent to this corner at 30 cents a square foot, which it expects to exercise within a year. The property is served by private switch track from the Chicago B. & O. T. railroad at grade. The total consideration is reported at $240,000. S. N. Crowen prepared the plans for the building.

The purchasing company owns the property now occupied by its business at the southwest corner of Ontario and La Salle streets, which it will vacate about March 1 when its new building will be completed. J. J. Harrington & Co. represented all parties and will have the sale of the Ontario and La Salle street property. They recently have negotiated sales in this new district aggregating $414,000.

$225,000 Paid for Factory Site.

In another important deal, also negotiated by Harrington & Co., the Goetz company sold to the W. D. Gibson Springs company the property at the northwest corner of Clybourn avenue and Willow street, formerly known as Ogden Grove, containing approximately 80,000 square feet of ground, improved with steel and mill constructed buildings containing 70,000 square feet of floor space.

The property is served by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul tracks. After extensive improvements and the installation of a sprinkler system the property will be occupied by the Gibson company in connection with its present building at Huron and Kingsbury streets. The consideration in the transaction is given at $225,000.

Deal in Chicago Avenue.

The property at the southeast corner of Chicago avenue and Kingsbury street, 124 feet on Chicago avenue by 130 feet on Kingsbury street, improved with two three and six story buildings, has been acquired by S. C. Iverson of Hibbard Porter & Bro. from Olaf H. Ahlgren and wife and Fred Hart for a total consideration of $125,000. The consideration is at the rate of about $8 a square foot, Mr. Iverson taking title for the purchasers, whose names are for the present withheld. The fifty-two feet at the corner was acquired from Mr. Hart for $52,000 and the seventy-two feet adjoining from Mr. Ahlgren and wife for a reported consideration of $73,000. The deal was negotiated by Fred Wittenberg & Co.

The three vacant corners on West Thirty-ninth street, the northwest corner of Wallace street, the northeast corner of Lowe avenue, and the northwest corner of Lowe avenue, each corner with a frontage of 1.. feet on Thirty-ninth street by .25 feet deep, have been purchased by A. J. Montague & Son from the estate of John Lowry of New York, consideration withheld. The property will be divided and placed on the market in frontages of fifty feet for manufacturing sites.

EVANSTON HOME FRONTING LAKE BOUGHT FOR $30,000

An interesting transaction in high class Evanston residence property is the sale by John Thomas to Charles T. Ozmon of the property at 24 Sheridan road, between Main and Kedzie streets, lot 77x300 feet, east front, overlooking the park and lake. It is improved with a fourteen room brick residence, erected about three years ago. The property sold for a reported consideration of $30,000.

It was announced that the handsome white marble residence at the southwest corner of Michigan avenue and Forty-fifth street, home of the late John W. White, has been sold to Mrs. Mary Jane Hoar, a nominal consideration being given. Considerable publicity was given to the sale a short time ago of the relics and curios collected by Mr. White. Ballard, Rowe & Whitman represented the White estate and Mr. Bradley of W. G. Young & Co. the purchaser.

Leases and Loans.

THERE were some interesting leases and loans reported or filed for record during the week.

A big lease of warehouse space on the west side is reported. H. Melvin Mahin, who recently leased the three story building with 30,000 square feet of space from the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company on Ford avenue south of Twenty-second street, has made a new lease with that firm by which he takes over their entire plant at this point at an annual rental of $27,000.

The property fronts 250 feet on Twenty-second street and 300 feet on Ford avenue. It is improved with a four story building, containing 160,000 square feet of floor space, the property being served by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad at grade. The buildings will be used for general storage warehouse purposes. Hart & Whetston were the brokers in both transactions.

E. Frank & Co. have leased from the L. Z. Leiter estate the store and basement at 28 West Washington street at a term rental of approximately $50,000. After alterations the premises will be used as a restaurant. Benjamin Rosenberg & Co. was the broker.

There was filed for record a trust deed given by Petter Palmer Jr. to W. K. Potter, trustee, to secure a loan of $465,000, twenty years at 5½ per cent, secured by the property at 128-30 South Wabash avenue, which Mr. Palmer purchased earlier in the week from Edwin H. R. Green for $490,000.

The Bowes Realty company has leased for Winston & Co. the west half of the main floor of the seven story building at 351-63 East Ohio street for a term rent of $22,960 to the Walter M. Lowney Co. of Boston, manufacturers of chocolates and candies.

The National Life Insurance company of Montpelier, Vt., through S. Yondorf & Co., its local agents, has made two loans aggregating $125,000 for five years at 5½ per cent, with prepayments of $28,000, to Tobias C. Gleich, secured by the apartment house property at 609-19 Wrightwood avenue, each lot 125x200 feet, each building containing forty-two apartments. It refunds a building loan of $135,000 made three years ago.

The same brokers have made a building loan of $46,000, seven years at 6 per cent, with prepayments secured by the eighteen flat building now being erected at the southeast corner of Independence boulevard and Garfield park.

Theodore Jacobs has leased to Joseph Johnson, Abraham and Bernard Perlmutter a theater to occupy a part of the lot at 2111x21 West Division street for ten years from Oct. 1, 1915, at a term rent of $54,900.

Foreman Bros. Banking company has made a loan of $30,000 five years at 5 per cen, o John Zulewsky, on 173x173 feet at the northwest corner of Sixty-fourth street and University avenue, with thirty-three flat building.

Willis & Frankenstein have leased for Charles F. Gunther to the C. F. Wilcox-Barnes company, the second floor in the Gunther building, Wabash avenue, northwest corner of Eleventh street, for 5 years from Jan. 1, next, at a term rent of $30,000.

ARCHER AVENUE AND RIVER TRACT SELLS FOR $120,000

An important transaction at Archer avenue and the river was filed for record. It was the purchase by Alphonse W. Huber, secretary of the New Chicago Specialty company, from Elizabeth G. Dickason of a tract on Archer avenue, 125 feet northeast of Waver street, southeast front, 225 feet back to the south branch of the river, for a stated consideration of $120,000.

The property, which is between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth streets extended, is 125 feet on the northeast line, 115 on the southwest line, with a frontage of 425 feet on the river. It is improved with the National grain elevator, with a capacity of 1,000,000 bushels, and is under lease to Bartlett, Fraser & Co.

It is stated the purchase is a personal one on the part of Mr. Huber and that he has no plans looking to any immediate improvement of the property. Eventually, it is understood he plans to improve with buildings adapted to the grain and provision business.

REALTY CLUB ELECTS HEAD

At the annual election of the Realty club the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President, A. E. Hartrich of Holton, Seelye & Co.; vice president, G. V. Cleary of G. V. & J. M. Cleary; secretary and treasurer, J. B. Kaine of J. F. Hooker & Co.; directors, H. R. Hill, H. C. Clover, Louise Manierre, Raymond E. Harman, Aldis J. Browne, G. Scribner, W. F. Conlan, and J. B. Ackerman. The club membership is limited to fifty and is composed of the younger brokers in the real estate business.

OUTER BUSINESS PROPERTY MAKES A GOOD SHOWING

Sixty-third and Halsted District Figures in Trading with Deal for $170,000 Site.

Outside business property was represented in the week's business by several transactions of more than ordinary interest, the showing being a good one.

The Sixty-third street district furnished one of the most interesting in the sale by Edith L. Uglow to William F. Thomas, a tea merchant at 6601 South Racine avenue, of the property at the northwest corner of Western avenue and Sixty-third street. The lot fronts 99.63 feet with a depth of 125 feet, and is improved with a brick building containing ten stores, sixteen flats, and five offices. A consideration of $10 is given, subject to an incumbrance of $116,000, but it is understood the property has been held at $170,000.

Thirty-fifth Street Corner Sold.

Another noteworthy deal in south side business property was the sale by John A. Carroll to Louis Bomash of the property at the southwest corner of Thirty-fifth street and Grand boulevard, lot 135 feet on Thirty-fifth street by 120 feet on Grand boulevard, improved with a one story building containing ten stores. The consideration is given at $60,000, J. W. Dooley & Co. representing both the parties to the transaction.

Charles J. Johnson has sold to John Olson the new building at 916-18 West Fifty-ninth street, lot 50x125 feet, south front, improved with a building containing three stores and ten flats of two and three rooms, for a reported consideration of $35,000, subject to an incumbrance of $21,000. Mr. Olson conveyed in part payment the residence property at 504 West Fifty-fourth street at a valuation of $4,500 in part payment. Glatt & Price represented both parties.

Store Building Sells for $28,000.

The property at the northwest corner of Center and Bissell streets, improved with a building containing four stores and seven apartments, stove heated, has been purchased by Louis H. Stafford and W. C. D. Trankle for a reported consideration of $28,000, subject to an incumbrance of $7,400. In part payment the purchaser conveyed to Fred J. and Hannah C. Classen 1,000 feet of frontage on Kildare and Lowell avenues, between Ainslie and Argyle streets, at a reported consideration of $22,600.

The business property at 4525-27 Ravenswood avenue, lot 50x165 feet, north front, improved with a three story store and flat building, has been sold by Robert F. Scholl to Riley P. Mallott for a reported consideration of $22,000, subject to $9,000. E. E. Stults, with E. R. Haase & Co., was the broker.

BUYS TRACT OF 108 ACRES.

Dr. William P. Cutter has purchased from the Walter estate 108 acres near Milwaukee avenue, just east of "The House that Jack Built," at a reported price of $250 an acre, which, after extensive alterations, he will occupy as a country home. He gave in exchange a flat building in Evanston and his home at Lake Forest. E. E. Stulys of E. R. Haase & Co. was the broker.

ALASKA INDIANS ASK UNCLE SAM FOR PROTECTION

Want Large Reservation Rather than Individual Homesteads —Fear Invasion.

BY FRANK G. CARPENTER.

[Copyright: 1916: By Frank G. Carpenter.]

ANDREAFSKI, Alaska.—The Indians of interior Alaska are excited over the building of the government railroad. They see the whites taking up homesteads, and fear they will swallow the country.

They know the fate of the Indians of the United States proper, and they want the government to set aside land where their fishing and hunting will not be disturbed.

Not long ago the seven chiefs of the tribes of the Tanana and Yukon valleys met at Fairbanks to consult with their friends among the whites and see if the government could not be induced to give them a reservation. In talking with them Mr. Wickersham, the Alaska delegate to congress, advised them to have their people take out a lot of homesteads in one block.

He said it would be difficult for them to do this after the whites had come in, and said they should act promptly. One of the chiefs replied that he thought all of Alaska belonged to the red men, and he wanted to know what the conditions actually were.

Rather Have Reservation.

These Indians would rather have a large reservation than a number of individual homesteads. They want to live together and keep out the whites. Moreover, they need large tracts for trapping, and the fur business will be wiped out by the division of the land.

The government has been setting aside reservations for the Indians in various parts of Alaska. The Aleutian islands are practically one reservation. Annette island, where Metlakatla is located, is another, and the Hydaburg reservation, consisting of twelve square miles on the western coast of Prince of Wales island, is a third. The tract of 800 acres on the Chilkat river, not far from Skagway, has been given to the Klukwan Indians, and there are forest reservations where the Indian can trap and hunt at will.

The Indian chiefs who met at Fairbanks were remarkable men. They were tall and fine looking. They wore clothes which were much the same as the whites, save that they had on their ceremonial jackets bordered with fur, and beaded moccasins covered their feet. Each wore a great necklace of beads, which was probably a badge of his chieftainship, and the hair of al lwas cut short.

Face Mongolian in Cast.

I have a photograph of the chiefs. Their faces are Mongolian in cast, and several of the men looked much like Japanese. All show great strength of character, and I doubt if a stronger and better looking body of rulers could be found anywhere.

They are of Athabascan stock, and they form a part of that great family of Indians which is scattered throughout northern Canada, extending on into central Alaska. They are about the same as the Navajos, and some other Indians of our southwestern states.

The Indians of Alaska are rapidly decreasing in number. They are much fewer than when we took possession of the territory; and in 1910, according to the census, they numbered less than 12,000. At that time there were about 25,000 natives, and of these 60 per cent were Eskimos. That 25,000 was scattered over a territory one-sixth as large as the whole United States and three times the size of either Germany or France.

The Eskimos inhabit the region along the coast of the Arctic ocean and Bering sea, taking in the deltas of the Yukon, the Kuskokwim, and other rivers, and extending down into the Alaskan peninsula. The Indians are found here and there on the mainland, and especially in the great plateau of the Yukon. There are some in the Aleutian islands and about Prince William sound, and there are a great many along the coast and on the islands of southeastern Alaska.

Half Dozen Different Stocks.

The Alaska Indians are of a half dozen different stocks. The Athabascans number just about 4,000. They are divided into twelve tribes, and may be seen along the Yukon and Tanana rivers.

The Aleuts are closely allied to the Eskimos. They number perhaps 1,500. They live in the long island chain which extends from southwestern Alaska almost to Asia. They are fishers and hunters. They have some artistic ability, and the finely woven baskets which come from Alaska are made by their women.

The Thlingit is an Indian family that is found scattered through southeastern Alaska. It numbers 4,000 or 5,000, divided among a dozen or more tribes, including the Auk, the Chilkat, the Kake, the Sitka, Stikine, Tongas, Yakutat, and others. The Klukwans are Thlingits and so are the Hunas.

These people are semi-civilized, and nearly every tribe has its own church and school. And then there are the Haidas, numbering 500 or 600, and the Tsimseans, who were brought from Canada by Father Duncan. Both of the latter tribes live on the islands of southeastern Alaska.

On my way down the Yukon I saw many of the Athabascans. They have camps near the white settlements, and one sees their salmon wheels along the banks of the rivers, with the fish drying racks nearby.

Easy Way to Catch Fish.

The Indians use fish wheels to catch the winter supply of salmon for themselves and their dogs. The wheels are so made that they are turned by the current. They have great nets attached to them, into which the fish swim and are carried up into the air and dropped into a box, while the Indians sit on the bank and smoke at their leisure.

Every few hours the fish are taken out of the boxes. They are cleaned by the squaws and hung on the racks in the sun to dry. They are then taken home and laid away in the cache, or high shed upon poles that stands beside each Indian home.

This is to keep them away from the dogs and wild animals. The cache is reached by a ladder and the fish are brought down as needed.

I have been interested in the homes of the Athabascans. They live in substantial log cabins, and many of their houses have frame doors and glass windows. Some of these Indians are now planting gardens, and not a few use cook stoves and other furniture like that of the whites.

The most of them have become Christians, although they retain many of their old superstitions and customs. The government has established public schools in all of the large villages, and the younger generation is learning to speak English.

The Indians admire the whites and try to imitate them. They are now dressing much the same, except that they delight in bright colors.

Tribal Emblems Still Seen.

During my travels in southeastern Alaska I saw many of the Thlingits. These Indians are found on the coast and in the islands of the panhandle, and their settlements extend as far north as Prince William sound.

They are the Indians most known to the tourists, and their totem poles or tribal emblems and coats of arms are still to be seen in many of the villages, although they are gradually disappearing with the march of civilization.

The Thlingit villages are always built near the shore. Nine-tenths of their support comes from fishing, and they like to live right on the beach. Nearly every family has its boats, and some own gasoline launches. The houses are usually scattered throughout the town without regard to any fixed plan. It is only lately that any of them have had gardens about them.

The government is doing all it can to improve the sanitary conditions among the Indians. The teachers are cleaning up the towns and the doctors and nurses of the bureau of education go from village to village and give directions for the care of the sick and how to keep the well healthy.

U. S. Improving Sanitation.

It is estimated that 30 per cent of the natives have more or less consumption and that 8 per cent of the deaths are due to tuberculosis. Sanitary camps should be provided and means of preventing the spread of the disease inaugurated. The doctors have recommended a tuberculosis camp in the panhandle. They want one established in the Chilkat valley between Haines and Klukwan.

Of late the Indians have taken up the fad of feeding their infants from the bottle. Many of them are doing that now. The squaws know nothing about the preparation of artificial food, and many of the children come out of the nursing stage feeble and scrawny. The school children are being examined for trachoma, adenoids, and other diseases.

BUDS DASH FROM ONE COMING-OUT TO THE NEXT ONE

Miss Elizabeth Buckingham and Miss Eleanor Holden Among Debutantes.

Society was especially interested yesterday in meeting formally Miss Elizabeth Otis Buckingham, who was introduced at the Blackstone from 4 until 7 o'clock by her aunt, Mrs. John E. Jenkins. Miss Buckingham is a Westover graduate and while she has known many Chicago society folk both at her eastern school and in Pasadena, where she has lived with her father, Henry W. Buckingham, it is only this season that she has come to Chicago to make her home. Mr. Buckingham and his daughter live at 3150 Sheridan road.

The young debutante wore a gown of white tulle and net, embroidered in threads of silver. Assisting her were Miss Elizabeth Adsit, Miss Harriet Buckingham, Miss Ermina Carry, Miss Elizabeth Hoyt, Miss Elizabeth Grey, Miss Janet Pauling, Miss Florence Taft, Miss Virginia Marshall, Miss Helen Hoyne, Miss Lolita Armour, Miss Isabel Baker, Miss Dorothy Derby, Miss Mona Getchell, Miss Anna Holland, Miss Clara Hollis, Miss Sylvia Shaw, Miss Marion Strobel, and Miss Margaret Clinch. Mrs. Jenkins and Miss Buckingham will receive Tuesdays in January.

Miss Eleanor Holden.

Miss Eleanor Holden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hale Holden of 1316 Astor street, was introduced yesterday at the family residence, where her parents gave a tea from 4 until 7 o'clock in her honor. The young women assisting her were Miss Helen Farwell, Miss Ermine Mathews, Miss Elizabeth Hoyt, Miss Ermina Carry, Miss Elizabeth Grey, Miss Elizabeth Folds, Miss Jean Hopkins, Miss Isabel Baker, Miss Margaret Clinch, Miss Elizabeth Adsit, Miss Elizabeth Farwell, Miss Isabelle Gilmore, Miss Janet Pauling, Miss Helen Hoyne, Miss Elizabeth Kulchar, Miss Ruth Hopkins, Miss Frances Miller, Miss Harriet Buckingham, and Miss Madeline McIlvaine.

Miss Barbara Blatchford.

At the debutante reception of Miss Barbara Blatchford, who was presented yesterday by her grandmother, Mrs. E. W. Blatchford of 1111 North La Salle avenue, the young women assisting were Miss Elizabeth Adsit, Miss Carter Williams, Miss Elizabeth Folds, Miss Violette Selfridge, Miss Janet Pauling, Miss Marion Dummer, Miss Katherine Carpenter, Miss Helen Shortall, Miss Frances Miller, Miss Elizabeth Grey, Miss Katherine Pierce, Miss Virginia Marshall, Miss Edith Besley, Miss Evelyn Lawson, Miss Helen Whitman, and Miss Mary Bentley.

Miss Blatchford wore a gown of white tulle and silver lace. She will receive with her mother, Mrs. Paul Blatchford of 104 Bellevue place, on the second and third Mondays in January

Miss Dorothy Packard.

Still another debutante, Miss Dorothy Packard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Packard of 436 Barry avenue, made her debut yesterday at a tea given from 4 until 7 o'clock at the family residence.

Mrs. Packard wore a gown of empire green satin and tulle and her daughter wore pale green tulle.

The young assistants at the Packard reception were Miss Elizabeth Folds, Miss Helen Pauling, Miss Frances Miller, Miss Barbara Preble, Miss Elizabeth Kulchar, Miss Helen Whitman, Miss Julia Harvey, Miss Elizabeth Grey, Miss Carter Williams, Miss Lucy Jewett, Miss Sarah Rozet Smith, Miss Edith Besley, Miss Henrietta Wurts and Miss Mary Welman Brown. After the reception the young people were among the guests at the dinner-dance that was given by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Blatchford for their daughter.

Abortion Case Suspected.

Possibility that Mrs. Clara Daugherty of 1021 South Claremont avenue may have died as the result of an illegal operation prompted Coroner's Physician Burmeister to ask that inquiry into her death be postponed for a month so as to allow both the police and the coroner to investigate.

OLDER BOYS CONFERENCE OF WISCONSIN CAPTURE BELOIT.

Nearly Thousand Delegates Attend Session—Embargo on Arms to Europe Is Urged.

Beloit, Wis., Dec. 2.—Nearly 1,000 delegates were in attendance today at the annual Wisconsin Older Boys conference. Especially big representations were here from Appleton, Milwaukee, Eau Claire, and Madison. Tonight a banquet was served to 500 at the Beloit college gymnasium.

At noon 1,200 members of the conference paraded through the streets, headed by three bands, Mayor Adams, and members of the Nakomis club.

A resolution calling on seventeen other Older Boys' conferences now in session in other states to importune President Wilson to work for an embargo against arms and munitions exports to Europe was introduced this afternoon by W. C. Clock of Loyal. The resolution was referred to the resolutions committee for consideration.

Among the speakers today were A. N. Cotton, New York; Paul Meyers, Capt. Barron, Iowa, Northwestern college football team; W. H. Jones, Milwaukee, and "Demon" Albright, Wisconsin university.

SLANDER UNNERVED WOMAN: THAT'S WHY SHE MURDERED

Thompson Falls, Mont., Dec. 2.—Edith Colby today told the jury in her alleged murder trial why she shot and killed A. C. Thomas, Republican county chairman, last September.

"He called me a 'red light woman,'" she half sobbed, "a thing of the underworld."

Miss Colby was the last witness in her own defense. Her lawyers, seeking to prove insanity, questioned her about childhood days in New England, where she is said to have manifested the first symptoms of an unsound mind.

Defense Counsel Mulligan then questioned the girl about her blighted love affair with a prominent physician. This is said to have been a severe shock and to have still further affected her mental state.

DEFENSE WITNESS FIRM IN AX MURDER SLANDER CASE.

J. W. Noell Sticks to Story of Night Meeting in Red Oak, Ia., Where Wilkerson Was Subject.

Red Oak, Ia., Dec. 2.—J. W. Noell was unshaken through a fierce cross examination at today's session of the Jones-Wilkerson slander suit from testimony that he saw F. F. Jones, Albert Jones, and W. B. McCaull in a night meeting at the Jones warehouse last May, discussing Wilkerson's activity implicating them in the Villisca ax murders.

Dr. J. C. Cooper, to whom Noell said he told the story of the secret meeting, was not permitted to confirm Noell's statement. Cooper, a witness, was asked such a question, but the objection from attorneys for F. F. Jones was upheld by the judge.

Noell admitted on the stand having been in conference with Wilkerson and his attorney Friday night.

A SENTIMENTAL APPEAL—

Attached to Articles of Sentimental Value Taken from G. A. R. Woman.

Mrs. E. L. Cunningham of 1001 North Richmond street, an officer of the Col. James A. Sexton circle of the G. A. R., has asked THE TRIBUNE to appeal to the person who removed her handbag at the meeting of the circle last Friday to restore at least the articles of sentimental attachment. These consist of a G. A. R. badge, a ring from which the diamond set is lost, and a number of letters and cards of identification.

HE SOLD MORTGAGED AUTO.

Frank Boyles was arrested yesterday by Pinkerton detectives on the charge of selling mortgaged property. Boyles is alleged to have bought a motorcycle while living in Sioux City, Ia., and mortgaged it to the Sioux City bank. He left the city suddenly and disposed of the machine for $200. He was located by the Pinkertons and his arrest followed. He admits selling the machine

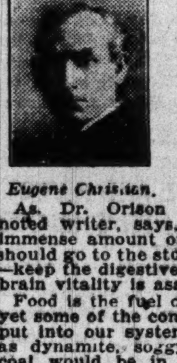
The Crimes We Commit Against Our Stomachs

By Arthur True Buswell, M. D.



Eugene Christian.

A MAN'S success in life depends more on the co-operation of his stomach than on any other factor. Just as an "army moves on its stomach," so does the individual. Scientists tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is traceable to the digestive tract.

As Dr. Orison Swett Marden, the noted writer, says, "the brain gets an immense amount of credit which really should go to the stomach." And it's true—keep the digestive system in shape and brain vitality is assured.

Food is the fuel of the human system, yet some of the combinations of food we put into our systems are as dangerous as dynamite, soggy wood and a little coal would be in a furnace—and just about as effective. Is it any wonder that the average life of man today is but 39 years—and that diseases of the stomach, liver and kidneys have increased 103 per cent during the past few years?

And yet, just as wrong food selections, and combinations will destroy our health and efficiency, so will the right foods create and maintain bodily vigor and mental energy. And by right foods we do not mean freak foods—just good, every-day foods properly combined. In fact, to follow Corrective Eating it isn't even necessary to upset your table.

Not long ago I had a talk with Eugene Christian, the noted food scientist, who is said to have successfully treated over 23,000 people without drugs or medicines of any kind, and he told me some of his experiences in the treatment of disease through food:

One case that interested me greatly was that of a young business man whose efficiency had been practically wrecked through stomach acidity, fermentation and constipation, resulting in physical sluggishness which was naturally reflected in his ability to use his mind. He was twenty pounds under weight when he first went to see Christian and was so nervous he couldn't sleep. Stomach and intestinal gases were so severe that they caused irregular heart action and often fits of great mental depression. As Christian describes it, he was not 50 per cent efficient either mentally or physically. Yet in a few days, by following Christian's suggestions as to food, his constipation had completely gone, although he had formerly been in the habit of taking large daily doses of a strong cathartic. In five weeks every abnormal symptom had disappeared—his weight having increased 6 lbs. In addition to this, he acquired a store of physical and mental energy so great in comparison with his former self as to almost belie the fact that it was the same man.

Another instance of what proper food combination can do was that of a man one hundred pounds overweight, whose only other discomfort was rheumatism. This man's greatest pleasure in life was eating. Though convinced of the necessity, he hesitated for months to go under treatment, believing he would be deprived of the pleasures of the table. He finally, however, decided to try it out. Not only did he begin losing weight at once, quickly regaining his normal figure, all signs of rheumatism disappearing, but he found the new diet far more delicious to the taste and afforded a much keener quality of enjoyment than his old method of eating, and he wrote Christian a letter to that effect.

But perhaps the most interesting case that Christian told me was that of a multi-millionaire—a man 70 years old, who had been traveling with his doctor for several years in search for health. He was extremely emaciated, had chronic constipation, lumbago and rheumatism. For over twenty years he had suffered with stomach and intestinal trouble, which in reality was superaciduous secretions in the stomach. The first menus given him were designed to remove the causes of acidity, which was accomplished in about thirty days. And after this was done he seemed to undergo a complete rejuvenation. His eyesight, hearing, taste and all of his mental faculties became keener and more alert. He had had no organic trouble—but he was starving to death from malnutrition and decomposition, all caused by the wrong selection and combination of foods. After six months treatment this man was as well and strong as he had ever been in his life.

These instances of the efficacy of right eating I have simply chosen at random from perhaps a dozen Eugene Christian told me of, every one of which was fully as interesting, and they applied to as many different ailments. Surely this man Christian is doing a great work.

There have been so many inquiries from all parts of the United States from people seeking the benefit of Eugene Christian's advice and whose cases he is unable to handle personally that he has written a little course of lessons which tells you exactly what to eat for health, strength and efficiency.

These lessons, there are 24 of them, contain actual menus for breakfast, luncheon and dinner, curative as well as corrective, covering every condition of health and sickness from infancy to old age, and for all occupations, climates and seasons.

With these lessons at hand it is just as though you were in personal contact with the great food specialist, because every possible point is so thoroughly covered and clearly explained that you can scarcely think of a question which isn't answered. You can start eating the very things that will produce the increased physical and mental energy you are seeking the day you receive the lessons and you will find that you secure results with the first meal.

If you would like to examine these 24 Little Lessons in Corrective Eating simply write the Corrective Eating Society, Dept. 9612, 460 Fourth Ave., New York City. It is not necessary to enclose any money with your request. Merely ask them to send the lessons on five days' trial, with the understanding that you will either return them within that time or remit $3.00, the small fee asked.

Please clip out and mail the following form instead of writing a letter, as this is a copy of the Society's official blank and will be honored at once.

CORRECTIVE EATING SOCIETY, Dept. 9612, 460 Fourth Ave., N. Y. City.

You may send me prepaid a copy of Corrective Eating in 24 Lessons. I will either remail them to you within five days after receipt or send you $3.

Price Par ($100) Per Share

This is an opportunity to invest your money in a Chicago company that has always been on a paying basis—a company that is now about to enter its period of big production and big earnings which should naturally result in big increases in the stock value of the company. This business in on a firmly established basis and upon the completion of the present financing the company will have net assets of more than 133% securing the outstanding preferred stock.

The Sandow Motor Truck Company has a strong board of directors, whose names are given below, and has substantial credit at large loop banks. It is occupying its new factory, which is reproduced above, and is equipped to produce its products economically on a large, money-making scale.

The net earnings of this Company for 1917 season should exceed $241,000, which is more than 10 times the interest requirements of the outstanding Preferred Stock.

After the payment of the preferred dividends for 1917 season it is conservatively estimated that the $350,000 of Common Stock should earn more than 60% on its par value.

Based on the above earnings the Preferred Stock, which earns 7%, with the earnings on the 20% bonus of Common Stock, your investment would net over $100 per year on every $500 invested in the SANDOW MOTOR TRUCK COMPANY, or approximately 20%.

This industry is based upon an economic condition which makes motor trucks a positive necessity. The industry is in its infancy, as is shown by the industrial records of this country, which establish the fact that only 4% of possible users of motor trucks in the United States have been supplied, leaving 96% still to be sold. THE SANDOW MOTOR TRUCK COMPANY occupies a splendid position in the trade. It has confined its first operations almost exclusively to Chicago.

There Are Hundreds of Sandow Motor Trucks Actually in Operation in Chicago Alone

The Company's plans for the 1917 season call for the manufacture of over 1,000 trucks, and the earnings on this production are conservatively estimated to be in excess of $240,000. We are now occupying our new factory shown above which is located on Grand Avenue, and are equipped to produce on a larger scale.
